Uncut Books.

"Uncuts," said the book dealer, "are books with uncut edges. They originated in Scotland. In Scotland, in the past, a man would enter your shop today, read a chapter of some book or other and saunter out without buying anything. Tomorrow he would read another chapter gratis, and by the end of the month he would have finished the volume and be well into another.

"Hence the Scottish publishers and booksellers hit on the uncut, which you can't read without buying."—Buffalo Express.

J. F. BROWN

A DUPLEX PICTURE

By JOHN D. BILLINGS

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

My family, the Moffetts, during the Revolutionary war were divided on the issue, some of them being Tories, some ardent patriots. The first Moffett who came to this country was British to the core. He arrived when he was thirty years old and was sixty when independence was declared. One would think he had had ample time to become Americanized, but nothing can depatriate an Englishman.

Not long ago, becoming interested in the family genealogy, I got into correspondence with a cousin of mine who lives in the identical house built and occupied by Cuthbert Moffett, the old curmudgeon Tory. I was invited to visit my cousin and inspect the homestead and certain heirlooms it contained. I accepted the invitation and found him quite ready to give me all the information he possessed about the family history. He said that our progenitor had been so wrought upon by King George's failure to establish his authority that it killed him.

"There," said my cousin when he showed me to my room, pointing to a painting hanging on the wall, "is a portrait of the second Moffett, James, our grandfather. It was painted when he was sixty-eight years old, or about the age at which his father, Cuthbert Moffett, died."

The face was a model of kindliness, the reverse of what his father's must have been.

After dining and passing an agreeable evening with my cousin and his family I went upstairs to bed. He had been telling me legends of the family, and my mind was quite full of them. However, I had been traveling all day and was tired. Getting out of my clothes as soon as possible, I turned off the light and jumped into bed.

There are certain nights when there is a deadness in the air that prevents persons from sleeping. I had struck one of these nights. An hour after going to bed I awoke and after being awake another hour concluded to light the gas—it had been put in with much difficulty some years before—and read a novel I had brought with me. I read for some time and, becoming a bit sleepy or tired of my book, I laid it down on the bed beside me. Then I found myself looking straight at the picture of James Moffett. The gas jet shone full upon it.

Impressed as I had been with the stories my cousin had told me about the disagreeable makeup of Cuthbert and the genial disposition of James Moffett, the moment my eyes fell on the portrait it struck me that the natures of these two men were struggling with each other in it. If ever there was a mingling of a diabolical with a noble expression it was there. There seemed to be two pictures in one—two men of the same age, the one a devil, the other a saint. Their features were so much alike that they could scarcely be told apart.

I moved aside, when, behold, I saw only the benevolent features of James Moffett. I moved as far to the opposite side, and there on the same canvas was the devilish face of Cuthbert. I resumed my original position and there saw again the strange mingling of the two.

Now, I am not a superstitious man, but one must admit that after listening to the stories I had heard of these two men, my own progenitors, looking upon such a sight was not conducive to quiet nerves. I don't say that I was impressed with the probability of there being anything supernatural about the portrait, but I didn't know. A man is much more liable to give way to superstition at 2 o'clock in the morning, alone, than in the light of day with other persons about him. I wondered if the father and son had not quarreled in life and the son had unwillingly been implicated in the father's death. And was not this quarrel supernaturally perpetuated in the picture?

Nonsense! I would turn out the light and go to sleep.

I did the first at once; the second I could not do till daylight came and the picture lost its duplex condition.

At breakfast I did not propose to give away my midnight trepidation to my cousin.

"Sleep well?" he asked.

I didn't like to lie about it, so I admitted that I was wakeful.

"See anything unusual in the room?"

"I know what you're driving at. There's something strange about that portrait of our grandfather."

He smiled. "I wondered if you would be looking at it when your gaslight struck it. I hope it didn't disturb you."

"I'll forgive you if you'll explain the matter."

"Done. Not long before James Moffett's death—that was during the early part of this century—a wandering painter came to the house and asked to be permitted to paint his portrait. There was no canvas available, but in the garret was an old picture of Cuthbert Moffett, so disagreeable looking that the family would not have it on the wall. A daughter of James, who detested the old portrait, gave it to the painter, asking him to use it if he could and in any event 'paint out the horrid old man.' The artist used the canvas for the new picture. Whether it is in some transparent paint he put on or whatever it is, in certain lights one sees Cuthbert, in other lights James, and in certain other lights sees a mingling of both."

Tired Trees.

The condition of life in a tropical forest is sunlight, and to get to the top, where alone there is sunlight, is the constant aim of every tree. They have no winter's rest in the tropics, and they are so hard at work all day long that at night the trees seem quite tired out. From dawn to sunset the trees are hard at work. You can almost see some of them growing, and, as may naturally be supposed, they must have a little rest at night. The tree is thoroughly exhausted, its branches lose their stiffness, while the leaves droop and fold themselves together. Unlike those of temperate climates, the trees of the tropics all, more or less, show these signs of exhaustion toward sunset.

IRVING GALUSHA, Proprietor

Hoke Smith In a Dilemma

"WHO is the junior senator from Georgia?" a question which for a time agitated the state almost to a point of political bitterness, has given way to the now equally hard problem, "When is the junior senator from Georgia?"

Joseph M. Terrell, having taken the position that his term as United States senator from Georgia expired with the election of his successor, Governor Hoke Smith, settled it by tendering his resignation direct to the United States senate, where it was accepted and his name expunged from the senate roll, and now there remains the question when Governor Smith proposes to leave the executive office to represent the state at Washington.

His political enemies are spreading stories of the danger of the loss of important popular measures now pending in the United States senate through the absence of one Democratic vote; his political friends declare that it is his foremost duty to remain governor until he secures the enactment by the general assembly of the reform measures for which he contended in his campaign.

Governor Smith's ambition has always been to go to the United States senate. When Senator A. S. Clay died last fall Smith had already been elected governor, although he had not yet been inaugurated. Governor Brown appointed his political adviser, Joseph M. Terrell, to serve until the next general assembly.

As the time for the meeting of the general assembly drew on the name of HOKE SMITH.

Smith came prominently upon the screen, and he was elected on the first ballot. There immediately arose the question as to what Governor Smith would do. This he as promptly settled by a statement that he would remain governor until December, pushing through the present legislative session the remainder of the reform measures which he had advocated. In the meantime, he said, Senator Terrell could continue to serve the state, as his commission would hold until his successor should go to Washington and present his credentials. He had calculated that Senator Terrell would be glad to continue his term of service until December and would not want to take the responsibility of leaving the state unrepresented by a junior senator at this time.

But there his political calculations failed. Terrell resigned. Smith still refused to go to Washington.

Meantime Georgia is represented by one United States senator, A. O. Bacon.

A STRIKING SATIRE

Satire ,a new serio-comic weekly patterned after London Punch, and of which Walter Pulitzer is editor-in-chief, has as the principal cartoon of the first issue of September 20th a drawing by Hartley, representing one of the follies of the day, entitled "Butchered to Make a Roman Holiday." It shows a dead aviator lying on a cloud among the ruins of his biplane, with Death hanging over him with his scythe. The people below stand in a circle with thumbs down in the approved style of the old Romans, watching a gladiatorial contest. At the head is a clipping telling of the death of John J. Frisbie, the Curtiss flyer, who, taunted by the jeers of a crowd at the Norton, Kas., fair met his death through attempting to fly in a crippled machine.

CANAL CLOSED ON SCHEDULE

The Oswego canal closed according to schedule last night and this morning the old familiar sound of blasting was again heard in the prism. Work will be commenced in earnest tomorrow as the contractors had to wait a day to permit the water to drain off and the bottom become dry enough to permit work. Most of the pulpwood for Battle Island went up before the closing.—Palladium.

What is a cold in the head? Nothing to worry about if you treat it with Ely's Cream Balm. A "Fathers' and Mothers' Day" is in preparation at the First Methodist church to be observed next Sunday morning with a special program in honor of all those who are older in years as guests. A carriage and auto service has been provided for transfer to and from the church. A special message will be given by the pastor on "How to Renew the Youth." A Church Membership service will be held in the evening, October 1, for baptism and reception of members. The sermon topic will be "Are We All Going to Heaven?"

Dr. T. J. Green of Mexico is the patriarch in the medical profession in this section of the State. In speaking of him the Mexico Independent of last week says in part: We congratulate our good neighbor, Dr. T. J. Green, on having passed his ninety-third birthday, not only in good health, but with his mental powers in full activity. He is certainly a most unusual specimen of "green old age." Erect, clearheaded, well read, and up to the times in his profession, which he still practices occasionally for the benefit of his friends, he is a marvel.

When calling the firemen in case of fire, the person should give explicit directions as to the location of the fire, the street, number and whether north or south, east or west. Often the party calling is too frightened to give any directions and the firemen are put to needless loss of time and effort to locate the scene of the conflagration. Last week, owing to this carelessness the firemen drove hastily to North Second street and then had to hasten over to the west side before finally locating the blaze.

The marriage banns of Miss Alice V. Murphy and Mr. Arthur T. O'Leary of New York city were called last Sunday in the Church of the Immaculate Conception. The marriage will be celebrated in the church, October 11, at 5:30 p. m. The bridesmaids will be Miss Ethel Bonner of this city and Miss Helen Brown of Albany. Miss Laura Sennett of New York will be maid of honor. A reception at the home of the bride's parents on Erie street will follow the ceremony and elaborate refreshments will be served. The young couple will make their future home in New York where Mr. O'Leary is a practicing attorney. Miss Murphy is well known in this city of her nativeity and numbers a host of friends, all of whom join in best wishes for her future prosperity and happiness. Mr. O'Leary was at one time a member of the corp of barge canal engineers in this city and it was here that he met his bride-elect.

On this 27th of September, while the Times is going through the press, the Rev. Austin M. Roe of 510 Academy street is observing in a quiet way his eighty-eighth birthday. Among his callers are his grand daughter, three children, with Mr. Harding and Mrs. Norman C. Harding and her others. Since the death of his wife, three years since, Mr. Roe has had the good fortune to have his home cared for by a niece, Mrs. Clara (Overton) Finch of Rose, Wayne County. Born of Revolutionary stock on Long Island, in a house which bore indelible traces of Tory hate, at the age of ten years, Mr. Roe with his father's family removed by way of the Sound, Hudson River and the Erie Canal to Rose, where relatives still reside. Becoming a Methodist preacher at an early age, he was and is a member of the Conference which for more than seventy years has included a large portion of the Lake Ontario and Canada borders of the Empire State and is now, the Northern New York, orginally the Black River, and today only one man stands between his and the head of the conference list of living members. In military parlance he is very near the right of the line. For more than twenty-five years he has made his home in Fulton and his face and figure are well know among hundreds of people whose respect he has won by his industry and his regard for his fellow men. Though not so active as of yore, he still makes his pedestrian trips down town and cares for his house and garden, along with a goodly number of fruit trees. His only daughter, Adelaide, Mrs. Lawrence Johnson, of New York city, died eighteen years ago while his sons are widely separated, Alfred being in Worcester, Mass., Mortimer, in Long Beach, California and Charles in Johnstown, Penn. A large number of letters and postal-cards received this day from many friends and from remote regions, attest the regard in which he is held by all who are acquainted with him.

COL. GREEN WANTS WIFE.

Time Limit on Bachelorhood of Richest Woman's Son Has Expired.

Colonel Edward H. R. Green, president of the Westminster company, with assets of $125,000,000, owner of the Texas Midland railroad and son of Mrs. Hetty Green, is going to marry within a year. Who the bride to be is he doesn't know, but he said in all seriousness that his bachelorhood will end before he is a year older.

Here is the secret of why Colonel Green, forty-three years old, has so long lived the life of single blessedness. He promised his mother nineteen years ago, when she sent him down to Texas to "break him in" as a railroad section hand, that he would remain a bachelor for twenty years.

COLONEL E. H. R. GREEN.

He has kept his word, but when the time limit expires next year he is going to take unto himself a wife.

Three hundred proposals of marriage have reached Colonel Green since he went to New York a year ago to take charge of his mother's interests. Scores of the aspiring maids inclosed photographs, and letters have been received from half of the states of the Union, while some have come from Europe, Russia and even the Hawaiian Islands. He has answered none of the letters. The future Mrs. Edward H. R. Green must be a woman who is willing to accept the Texas colonel for himself and not for the millions which he will inherit from his mother.

"I'm within just one year of the age when a man should get married," Colonel Green said. "My time limit will expire within twelve months, and I'm going to make good."

He believes the problem of marriage is far more serious for the wealthy man than for the poor man. Colonel Green objects to divorce, and when he ceases to be a bachelor he wants to have the satisfaction of knowing that he is the loved head of the household and not the treasury vault.

Colonel Green's mother is now in her seventy-sixth year. Colonel Green's father, who died in New York in 1892, lived to be nearly ninety years old.

Mrs. Green's wealth is estimated at upward of $70,000,000. Colonel Green says that he intends to make this fortune a positive source of good for the whole country. He does not believe in endowing charities or bestowing millions upon various philanthropies. "Inherited wealth," says Colonel Green, "is put to its best use when it creates the greatest possible number of life jobs rather than when it satisfies the hunger of a day."

A Possibility.

He—If you don't intend to break your engagement with me why do you let Richmond make you such valuable presents? She—My father advised me to accept them. He—He did. Why? She—He said if I married you they might come in handy.

GRANBY REPUBLICAN CAUCUS.

The Republicans of Granby held their caucus on Saturday afternoon and placed in nomination the following excellent candidates for town officials: Supervisor, Harlow Sperbeck; town clerk, Bert Arnold; town superintendent of roads, Lee Summerville; overseer of the poor, John Stewart; collector, Claude Arnold; assessors, J. W. Merritt, Archie Dann.

Mr. Sperbeck, the nominee for supervisor, is one of the best known Republicans in this section of the county. He has been successful in the conduct of his own business and is of the type of men needed in the conduct of the county's financial matters. He is 52 years of age; was born in Lysander and has lived in South Granby for 44 years. He has been postmaster at that place for 27 years. For 10 years he was justice of the peace and he had held other offices of trust and responsibility. Mr. Sperbeck will undoubtedly be elected.

The remainder of the ticket is composed of men who stand as high in their community, but, who perhaps are not so well known throughout all sections of the county. The general opinion prevailing is that the ticket will prove a winner.

THE WEEK

Dry goods continue in better demand this applying alike to cottons, woolens and silks, and improvement is noted in the reports from leading cities in different sections of the country. There is a fair business doing in shoes. Hides are in active demand. Larger inquiries for belting leather are noted. Iron and steel is unsettled by questions of prices and wages, but production appears to be about three-fourths of producing capacity. The country's export trade continues one of the notable features of the situation, the Government's last statement showing the largest August exports on record. There has been heavy liquidation in cotton, which, with speculative selling, has depressed prices to the lowest point in two years. Looking at the situation as a whole, it is apparent that the volume of general business is still much below producing capacity and there is little speculative anticipation of possible future wants. What is not so clearly appreciated is that the everyday requirements of the American people, even on a more economical basis, are increasing, with the normal growth of population, and that slowly but surely the gap between capacity and consumption is being bridged. That capital is halted in entering upon large enterprises by the signs of world unrest, which appear now in one country and then in another, and which cause disturbance to the interpational markets, is plain enough, but business men are apparently learning to adjust their affairs gradually to these unsettled conditions and to do business while big problems are being solved.

Mill operations in iron and steel are well maintained since new business shows no marked shrinkage, and it is estimated that the leading interest is working at about 75 per cent. of capacity.

The improved call for dress goods and men's wear has been stimulated by the need for goods that were not ordered at the usual time and are now required for immediate use. Clothiers show more confidence and are increasing their orders and fully 90 per cent. of the looms in men's wear in New England are reported busy. The demand for woolens and worsteds in suitings for fall is steady. Agents can sell popular lines at advances, but staples are steady. Prospects for a continuance of the demand are considered bright, owing to the limited stocks abroad and at the mills.

New England manufacturers of footwear are quite busy on orders for prompt shipment. Staple lines are now receiving chief attention and this adds to the strength of the market. Jobbers in nearly all sections are busy for current needs. Trade in leather is only moderate, but prices are strong in sympathy with raw hides and light supplies.

Liabilities of commercial failures reported for September to date amount to $7,732,437, of which $2,207,502 were in manufacturing, $1,716,784 in trading and $3,358,251 in other commercial lines. Failures this week numbered 212 in the United States against 233 last year, and 27 in Canada compared with 18 a year ago.—Dun's Review, Sept. 23.

FORMER ASSEMBLYMAN DIES

At his apartments in the Altmar House, Altmar, on Wednesday evening, the Hon. William H. Steele, formerly a Republican Assemblyman from Oswego county, died suddenly with heart disease.

In 1879 he was elected member of Assembly on the Republican ticket and served in the Legislature for three years. He was vice president of the constitutional convention and served on the board of revision. He was a close advisor of H. H. Lyman, the first excise commissioner, and was practically the author of our excise law. He came to Altmar in 1897 and engaged in mercantile business, to which he has devoted his time ever since.

Mr. Steele was interested in Free Masonry and was prominently identified with the lodge at Schaghticoke, N. Y. He was the first to organize a chapter of the Order of Eastern Star outside of New York city.

In church life Mr. Steele was a Congregationalist, and retained his membership in Oswego, where he resided for ten years previous to taking up his residence in Altmar.

The funeral was held in Altmar and burial was made in Oswego, one daughter, Mrs. Ballou, of Syracuse, survives.

ESTABLISHED 1868 | FULTON, N. Y., WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1911 | VOL. 44 NO. 51

Our Fortieth Anniversary

The officers and directors of the Fulton Savings Bank, with pardonable pride point to the record of this institution which has just passed its fortieth anniversary.—Founded September 25, 1871, deposits have grown year by year until today the total has passed the Million and Three-quarter Dollar mark.

Our safe and conservative policy, coupled with courteous treatment at all times, has, in a great measure, been responsible for our remarkable growth.

We take this method of thanking our friends and customers for their co-operation.

DEATHS

The 4-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Tobin of the west side died on Monday.

Ernest, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Davis, died on Monday. The funeral was held on Tuesday.

Suddenly in Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 25, 1911, Rev. Dr. George R. Pierce of Belvidere, Ill., passed to rest. The funeral services were held at the residence of W. H. Craft, 64 Robie Avenue, Buffalo, on Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Interment at Fulton, N. Y., The deceased was a former pastor of the Baptist church in this city and is well known to many of our residents.

The many friends of Richard C. Carr, aged 54, were shocked on Friday to learn that he had passed away suddenly at his home during noon time. He suffered an attack of heart failure in July while engaged as bookkeeper in the Smith hardware store, and he never fully regained health although he was greatly improved. Chronic heart trouble caused his demise. The funeral services which were largely attended, were held from Zion Episcopal church on Monday. A quartet from the Nicotine Club rendered the music. The bearers were also members of the club: L. C. Foster, John Foster, H. P. Allen, N. H. Gilbert, Dr. H. P. Marsh and G. G. Chauncey. During his residence in Fulton, Mr. Carr had held many positions of trust and responsibility. He numbered his friends by scores. At one time he edited the Fulton Times. He was one of the original thirteen members of the Nicotine club and was the first of the membership to pass away. Genial, witty, a splendid comrade, he was fitted to occupy any position to which he was called. In his sudden taking away sympathy goes out to the widow and the children. The immediate survivors are the widow, four sons, Robert of Bagotville, Canada; William of this city, Richard of Spokane, Wash., and Mills of Pratt Institute, and two daughters, the Misses Ruth and Hannah Carr of this city.

ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Sleeper Ranch Company will be held in the office of the Hunter Arms Company, October 18th, 1911, at 2 p. m., for the election of officers and the transaction of such other business as may come regularly before this meeting.

John Hunter, Secretary.

REOPENING OF STATE STREET CHURCH

State Street Methodist Episcopal church of this city, which has been undergoing extensive repairs during the past two months will be reopened with special services, Sunday, October 15. Both church and parsonage have been repainted, the interior of the church frescoed, new carpets laid, and many other improvements made, the entire expense of which was provided for before the work was commenced. The Rev. Arthur Copeland, D. D., chaplain of Auburn prison, and a well known pulpit orator, has been secured for the reopening services. He will preach both morning and evening. On Monday evening, October 16, Dr. Copeland will give his famous lecture on "John Ericsson, the Hero of the Little Monitor." The Grand Army of the Republic has been invited to be the guests of the church on that evening. Other special features are being arranged.

SPECIAL MISSIONARY SERVICE IN ZION CHURCH

There will be a special missionary service in Zion church, Sunday evening, October 8th, at 7:30 o'clock. The Rev. John R. Harding, D. D., Secretary of the Second Missionary Department of the American Episcopal church, which comprises the Dioceses in New York, New Jersey, and the Missionary Jurisdiction of New Jersey, will be the speaker of the evening. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to be present. Dr. Harding will be remembered as having delivered an illustrated lecture on "Germany" a couple of winters ago for the benefit of Zion church. At that time he was Rector of Trinity church, Utica. Dr. Harding is a preacher of unusual ability.

ONONDAGA AND CORTLAND COMBINED

In the Congressional reapportionment Onondaga and Cortland are linked for a Congressional district, and Madison has been added to the Oswego-Jefferson-Lewis district.

By this arrangement the Democrats get about 500 votes the better of the change, figured on the basis of the gubernatorial vote last year.

The total vote cast in Onondaga county last year was 41,767, and in Madison county, 9,541, and in Cortland, 6,717.

ATTEMPTED MURDER IN OSWEGO

Thursday evening about 6 o'clock an Italian named Muscoline was shot by a fellow countryman and left unconscious by the roadside, minus $21. After an hour the man rallied and dragged himself to where he could secure assistance. He was weak from loss of blood, the bullets having ploughed deeply into his shoulder. His assailants were found soon after by the police in a nearby saloon.

HUBBS AND EMERSON NOMINATED

Judicial Convention Held in Syracuse Tuesday—Hon. I. G. Hubbs of Oswego County and Judge Emerson of Jefferson County Nominated—Are Receiving the Congratulations of Their Friends—Mr. Hubbs Showered with Messages of Cheer.

The Republicans of the Fifth Judicial District convention Tuesday afternoon nominated the above candidates for justice of the Supreme Court.

Onondaga, as usual, did the trick by casting its 14 votes for both these Republican candidates. Oneida and Herkimer stood by Emerson M. Willis of Utica, giving him 16 of the 50 votes of the convention.

After the convention had been organized at noon at the Court House, a communication was read by Alexander H. Cowie, district chairman, from the committee appointed by the Democratic convention for the purpose of laying the matter of indorsing Justice Henry Purcell before the Republican convention. Then was read the resolution adopted at the Watertown convention in which the indorsement of a Republican candidate was pledged in return for the indorsement of Justice Purcell, the Democratic nominee.

Former Attorney General John C. Davies of Camden moved that a committee of one from each of the six counties in the judicial district be appointed to give the Democratic communication "respectful consideration."

The committee named by Chairman Cheney consisted of S. B. Meade of Oswego, A. P. Fowler of Onondaga, I. L. Hunt of Jefferson, Milton Carter of Lewis and William E. Lewis of Oneida.

Recess was taken until 2 o'clock to give the committee time to confer.

Elon R. Brown of Watertown placed Judge Emerson in nomination. He said that in the event Jefferson County was not provided for at the coming election it would find itself without a resident judge and suffering in important interests. In speaking of Mr. Emerson he said that his practice of law has been extensive and varied. Mr. Emerson was elected four times as county judge and he is now serving his twentieth year in that office.

Irving G. Hubbs was nominated by N. B. Smith of Pulaski.

Bradley Fuller placed Emerson M. Willis in nomination.

The vote for Emerson and Hubbs stood: Onondaga, 14; Jefferson, 8; Oswego, 8; Lewis, 4; total, 34.

For Mr. Willis the vote was: Oneida, 11; Herkimer, 5; total, 16.

The Oneida delegation, like the Jefferson and Oswego men, arrived Monday night. Among the Oneida delegation were former Attorney General John C. Davies, District Attorney Bradley Fuller, W. K. Harvey, William E. Lewis, James DeP. Lynch, George Davis and Harry Devendorf.

At the head of the Oswego delegation was Representative Mott, accompanied by his secretary, Patrick Meagher. David D. Long, whom the Republicans will probably nominate for mayor. Besides these there was P. W. Cullinan, D. P. Morehouse, E. J. Mizen, Sheriff Taft, W. W. Spencer, M. P. Neal, F. D. Culkin, John S. Parsons, A. H. Mowry, Fred Bishop, E. A. Howard, Judge Stowell and J. B. Alexander.

The Jefferson and Oswego men were a happy lot as the hour drew toward noon, but not until the Onondaga delegation had finished their conference did their conference really bubble over. Then they knew that all was well and that Onondaga would give their candidates its vote.

PROMINENT POLITICIAN DIES IN BROOKLYN

The body of Former Assemblyman Thomas K. Farrell of Brooklyn, was brought to this city on Monday for interment in St. Mary's. The deceased was well known in this section. Mrs. Margaret Cullen of this city being his sister-in-law. For many years the deceased was a boatman and later owned steamboats in New York harbor. The interment services in St. Mary's were attended by a large concourse of friends, the members of St. Joseph's Council, K. of C., attending in a body. The widow and son accompanied the remains to Fulton. The pallbearers were Messrs. J. C. O'Brien, W. J. McNamara, Maurice Conley, Charles Mangeot, George Johnston and William Lalonde.

KICKED BY A MAD HORSE

Samuel Birch, of Beetown, Wis., had a most narrow escape from losing his leg, as no doctor could heal the frightful sore that developed, but at last Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured it completely. Its the greatest healer of ulcers, burns, boils, eczema, scalds, cuts, corns, cold-sores, bruises and piles on earth. Try it 25c. at the Red Cross Pharmacy.

NOTED HERO DEAD

New York, Oct. 2.—Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley, the hero of Santiago Bay, now retired from active service, dropped dead on Forty-fourth street near Fifth avenue here this afternoon. The Admiral has long been a sufferer from heart disease.

LIQUOR TAX CERTIFICATES

About 200 excise licenses were issued by County Treasurer Kandt up to Monday. A number of changes are noted.

MARRIED

The Baldwinsville Gazette of Thursday says: A pretty home wedding occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Flaherty, No. 44 West Genesee street, Tuesday morning, September 26, 1911, when their only daughter, Lillian Iona, was united in marriage with Mr. Victor T. Bennett of Fulton. The ceremony was performed at eleven o'clock by the Rev. Frederick W. Fuess, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this village. The bride and bridegroom were unattended. To the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Lottie Bennett, a sister of the bridegroom, they took their places in the parlor before an improvised altar banked with ferns and pink and white asters, above which was a large floral horseshoe of asters suspended by pink and white streamers. The decorations in the library were salvias and red asters. In the dining room the mantel was banked with ferns and pink and white asters, the bride's table being adorned with a centerpiece of asters and candelabra bearing white candles. The bride wore a traveling gown of blue broadcloth. After a wedding breakfast, which was served by Miss Alma Becker and Miss Ruth Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett left for a wedding trip to Buffalo and Niagara Falls. They will reside in Fulton. The out-of-town guests present at the wedding were Mrs. N. J. Bennett, Miss Lottie Bennett and Mr. Charles Bennett of Fulton, and Miss Louise Wattles of Whitney Point.

FULTON READING CIRCLE

The first meeting of the Fulton Reading Circle since vacation will be held on Friday afternoon, October 6, at the home of Mrs. George C. Andrews. The programme will be in charge of Mrs. B. C. Brown. The ladies have taken up the study of United States history. The club enjoys a large and representative membership and each year they tender their friends an intellectual treat in the line of a lecture on some subject by a speaker of wide reputation.

The officers of the club are President, Mrs. John Hunter; Vice President, Mrs. L. L. Dilts; Secretary, Miss Georgia Lovejoy; Chairman Reading Committee, Mrs. E. R. Redhead; Treasurer, Mrs. T. H. Webb; Librarian, Miss Ellen Emerick; Critic, Mrs. E. H. French.

NEW PRIEST SUCEEDS FATHER DWYER

At a meeting of the Sodality of St. John's church Oswego, Friday night, Father W. F. McCormick announced the appointment of the Rev. John F. McLoghlin, of St. John's church, Binghamton, as rector of St. John's church, to succeed the late Father W. E. Dwyer.

SCRIBA FARMER DISAPPEARS

George Fagan, a well known young farmer of Scriba, disappeared from his home in that village on Sept. 26, and he has not been heard from nor seen since.

The wife has asked the assistance of the Oswego police in locating the man as she fears foul play.

RESOLUTIONS OF MINISTER'S ASSOCIATION

By vote of the Ministers' Association of Fulton, N. Y., the following expression was unanimously adopted:

Fulton, N. Y., September 25, 1911

Whereas, Our neighbor and friend, Rev. John G. York, pastor of the First Baptist church of this city, is about to leave our community and association to engage in labor in a distant state.

Resolved, That we, his comrades in the Ministers' Association of Fulton and vicinity present to him and place upon our records some expression of him throughout the period of our mutual fellowship, our full appreciation of him as a faithful, unselfish and conscientious laborer in behalf of our common cause, our high estimate of his ability as a servant of our common Master, and our confidence in his character as expressed in his pure and unblemished life among us.

Resolved, That while the period of his service here may not be considered as of unusual length, it nevertheless outranks that of the other pastors in our body, and leads us to a greater sense of loss in his proposed departure.

Resolved, That we pledge to him and to his family and friends, our continued interest in his future plans and efforts, that we assure him of our desire for his highest welfare and prosperity, and covenant to follow him with our affection and our prayers.

Signed,
Charles L. Peck, President.
W. G. Bassett, Secretary.

MAYOR FITZGIBBONS RE-NOMINATED

Oswego, Oct. 2.—Mayor John Fitzgibbons was unanimously re-nominated by the Democrats in their city convention here to-night. Thomas F. Gleason of the Fifth ward was nominated for fire and police commissioner, defeating John J. Malone of the Third ward. The convention was perhaps the largest held by the Democrats in years.

Mayor Fitzgibbons when brought into the convention said:

"After two years of energetic opposition to my administration as mayor it is needless to say that I am pleased beyond mention at the honor you have conferred upon me tonight. It is indeed gratifying to receive this magnificient vindication. All I have to say is that it is deeply felt, and if elected I shall endeavor to give you an administration worthy of your absolute approval."

Agent N. H. Gilbert of the American Express company has received the following notification from his company: You are permitted to accept and bill free on account of charity, any shipments offered for the benefit of the flood sufferers at or near Austin, Pa.

WELL KNOWN DOCTOR DEAD

Dr. C.C. Reid, one of the best known physicians in Central New York, died at his home in Rome Saturday evening. Dr. Reid had been a large contributor to charities and had presented Rome with the public playgrounds and also with the nurses' home for the hospital.

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL COMMITTEE TO MEET

New York, Oct. 2.—After a meeting here today between ex-Governor John F. Hill of Augusta, Me., acting chairman, and William Hayward of New York city, secretary of the Republican National Committe, a call was issued for a meeting of the committee in Washington on December 12 at the New Willard Hotel.

At this meeting the claims of the various cities for the convention will be heard and the place and time will be decided upon. Among others Buffalo, St. Louis and Chicago will be applicants.

It is necessary for this call to be issued in time to notify the members in Hawaii, the Philippine Islands, Alaska and Porto Rico. The call reads:

New York, Oct. 2, 1911.

The members of the Republican National Committee are hereby called to meet at the New Willard Hotel in the city of Washington, D. C., at 11 o'clock, a. m., Tuesday, December 12, 1911.

This meeting is called for the purpose of fixing the time and place of holding the next Republican national convention and to transact any other business which may properly be presented, and the session will continue until such business is completed.

John F. Hill, Acting Chairman.
William Hayward, Secretary.

AGED RESIDENT KILLED BY FALL

Yesterday morning as James H. Stewart, aged 70, was picking apples at his home on the west side, he fell from the tree, breaking his back just below the base of the brain, causing instant death.

Mrs. Stewart was away from home on an errand for a short time, and when she returned she found her husband's body under the tree. Mrs. Stewart called for assistance and when it was ascertained that Mr. Stewart was dead, Coroner Marsh was called. He decided that death was instantaneous.

The deceased was born in South Granby but removed to this city several years ago. He was highly respected by all who knew him. Beside the widow he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Ida French of Chicago, Ill., and three sons Charles E., of this city; Herbert of Dunkirk and William of Erie, Pa. The funeral arrangements are not completed.

BOARD OF CLAIMS

Albany, Sept. 29.—Governor Dix submitted to the Senate today the following nominations for commissioners of the Board of Claims established by a law of this year:

THE WEEK

There is nothing in the industrial and mercantile situation to correspond with the commotion recently prevailing in the financial markets in this and other countries. While the promotion of large enterprises is checked, and conservatism is the rule in all branches of trade and industry, supplies in nearly every line are so narrow, and immediate requirements of a constantly increasing number of consumers are so large, that the volumne of business is very well harvested, there appears in most sections a noticeable, even if moderate, increase in activity, while mercantile and credit conditions are sound. There are present signs of returning composure in the securities markets. Further price reductions in iron and steel benefit trade, and greater confidence is shown as to the future. Unfilled orders are large, and the foreign and domestic inquiry for rails is one of the recent encouraging features. This trade, on the whole, displays less sensitiveness to financial conditions than has been customary in the past.

Buying of iron and steel products is still confined to pressing needs, yet consumption is not much below the maximum of the year.

The continued demand for cotton goods for export and the effect of the curtailment of production, which is still in evidence, are the important factors in the market for cotton goods and account for the steady demand for goods for prompt shipment. Retailers and jobbers carry light stocks, which they are frequently forced to replenish. Fall River sold 185,000 pieces of print cloths last week, more than half of which was for immediate delivery. The movement of prints is slightly above production. Spring orders for percales are in more satisfactory amount and certain lines of ginghams are freely taken. Heavy colored cottons are in somewhat greater demand and cooler weather has stimulated the movement of napped fabrics and other seasonable merchandise. In woolens somewhat more liberal buying is noted. Yarns are in better request, the market showing some broadening.

Trade slowly improves in footwear. Orders placed by jobbers continue for small quantities, but they are quite numerous and in the aggregate fairly satisfactory. Buying of spring goods is not very active as yet. Better conditions prevail in leather, sales being more liberal than for several months past and many buyers entered the market and made liberal purchases.

With a return to more normal conditions, wheat values tended downward. Lessening of the cash demand was an influence, while foreign developments also had a depressing effect. World's visible stocks, however, are about 6,000,000 bushels smaller than in 1910, although domestic supplies show an increase of some 19,000,000 bushels. Western receipts this week of 6,701,969 bushels compared with 7,116,842 a year ago, and exports from all ports of the United States, flour included, were 1,980,373 bushels, against 843,921 last year. In sympathy with wheat and a limited foreign demand, corn showed ad eclining tendency, although the recession was not great. Rains have interfered with harvesting, but the crop is believed to be safe from frost. Arrivals at primary markets this week were 3,201,604 bushels, against 3,598,923 in 1910, and Atlantic coast shipments of 910,848 bushels compared with 223,367 a year ago.

Liabilities of commercial failures reported for September to date amount to $10,808,637, of which $3,462,110 were in manufacturing, $3,521,916 in trading and $3,824,611 in other commercial lines. Failures this week numbered 268 in the United States against 219 last year, and 31 in Canada compared with 28 a year ago.

The U. S. Government in its "Pure Food Law" does not "indorse" or "guarantee" any preparation, as some manufacturers in their advertisements would make it appear. In the case of medicines the law provides that certain drugs shall be mentioned on the labels, if they are ingredients of the preparations. Ely's Cream Balm, the well known family remedy for cold in the head, hay fever and nasal catarrh, doesn't contain a single injurious drug, so, the makers have simply to print the fact that it complies fully with all the requirements of the law.

A Washington woman has had her husband arrested because he immagines he is a ball player. There ner others still at large.

Is Princeton University holding its presidency open for the return of a certain governor in case he is not called to the presidency?

At any rate Canada did not make it as close as Maine did.

COMMON COUNCIL

Fulton, N. Y., Sept. 28, 1911.

Special meeting of the Common Council.

Present—Mayor Conners and Aldermen Palmer, Smith, Johnson, Wolcott and Malone.

Minutes of last meeting read and approved.

The following petition was presented to the Council:

To the Common Council of the City of Fulton, N. Y.,

The petition of the Fred Pierce Sand Company respectfully shows that it is a domestic corporation, having its principal office at Fulton, N. Y.

That on the assessment roll of the East Tax District of the City of Fulton for the year 1911, at page 96, the Fred Pierce Sand Company is assessed under the designation of "Pierce Sand Company" for lots 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12 on block 519, 7 houses, barn and sand bed, $3,500, and lots 4, 5, 9, 10 and 11 on block 505, house and sand bed, $1600, making a total assessment of $5,000.

That the Fred Pierce Sand Company is not and never has been the record owner of such real estate; that the title to the property first above described, consisting of lots 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12 on block 519, assessed at $3,500, is in Fred N. Pierce, of the town of Volney, Oswego County, N. Y., and that the title to the second parcel above described, consisting of lots 4, 5, 9, 10 and 11 on block 505 is in Birney Clark, of Fulton, N. Y., and that the Fred Pierce Sand Company is simply in possession of said properties under contracts of sale.

Wherefore your petitioner asks that the said assessment be corrected, so far as the error in the description of the owner is concerned, by striking off from the roll said assessments to the "Pierce Sand Company" and by substituting in place thereof an assessment against Fred N. Pierce to the property first above described and an assessment against Birney Clark for the property second above described, without making any change in the valuation of said property made by the assessors, and that you direct the City Clerk to make such corrections accordingly.

Dated September 28, 1911.

Fred Pierce Sand Company,
By Claude E. Guile,
Treasurer.

The following communication was received from the Board of Education:

To the Mayor and Common Council of the City of Fulton,

Gentlemen: At a special meeting of the Board of Education held in the superintendent's office at the Fourth street school building, on Tuesday evening, July 20, 1911, at which there were present President Hunter and Messrs. Achilli, Foster and Freeman, the following resolutions were offered by Mr. Foster:

Resolved, That it is necessary to purchase a site for a high school building and athletic purposes; that the ward within which said site is to be purchased is the Fourth Ward of the City of Fulton and said site is known as the Failey Seminary property; that the particular sum required for the same is sixteen thousand ($16,000) dollars.

Resolved, That it is necessary to erect a new school building to take the place of the present structure, known as the Oak street school building; that the ward within which said building is to be built is the Second Ward of the City of Fulton at about the center of the site owned by the City of Fulton and now used for school purposes; that the particular sum required for the same is eighteen thousand ($18,000) dollars.

Resolved, That the Clerk of this Board be and is hereby authorized and directed to deliver a certified copy of the foregoing resolutions to the Common Council of the City of Fulton.

The following voted aye on the resolutions: Mr. Achilli, Mr. Foster, Mr. Freeman.

State of New York,
County of Oswego,
City of Fulton,

I, J. R. Fairgrieve, Clerk of the Board of Education, do hereby certify that I have compared the foregoing resolutions with the original resolutions on file in my office and that the same are correct transcripts therefrom and of the whole of such originals.

J. R. Fairgrieve,
Clerk. Board of Education.

Alderman Smith introduced the following and moved its adoption:

Resolved, That the claim of John Mahaney for injury to his horse on July 10, 1911 be and same is hereby allowed in the sum of $125.00 said amount to be in full payment of all damages, the same to be paid upon the said Mahaney executing and filing with the City Clerk a release to be approved by the City Attorney.

Aye—Aldermen Palmer, Smith, Malone.

No—Alderman Wolcott, Johnson.

—Carried.

Alderman Smith introduced the following and moved its adoption:

Resolved, That the Mayor be, and he is hereby authorized to execute and deliver to Samuel Waldhorn, a certificate of indebtedness of the City of Fulton, in the sum of $39.18 and interest from Sept. 18, 1911, payable on or before the first day of September, 1912, in payment of the amount agreed upon by said Waldhorn and the Board of Public Works of the City of Fulton, to be paid in settlement according to the terms of a certain agreement made and executed by said Waldhorn provided said Waldhorn shall first execute and file with the City Clerk the release provided for by said agreement, such release to be approved by the City Attorney.

Aye—Alderman Palmer, Wolcott, Smith, Malone, Johnson.

—Carried.

Alderman Johnson introduced the following and moved its adoption:

Resolved, That the Mayor be, and he is hereby authorized to execute and deliver to Gertrude E. Church, Leila A. Church and Grace Church, a certificate of indebtedness of the City of Fulton in the sum of $500.00 with interest from September 28, 1910, payable on or before the first day of September, 1912, in payment of the amount agreed upon by the said Gertrude E. Church, Leila A. RELIC OF CIVIL WAR

Elyria, O., Sept. 23.—While repairing a small mahogany cabinet secured from a junk dealer, Edward Chapman discovered the following information on the inside:

"Made at Ft. Jefferson, Fla., in 1864, by a union prisoner named Hubbard, of Watertown, N. Y., who constructed it for D. S. Helmer, drum major of the One Hundred and Tenth New York volunteers, who sent it to his daughter Ella."

Lee Oldfield's record of nine killed and fourteen wounded with one fell swoop of his runaway auto has yet no parallel.

The only draw back to that coast-to-coast aviation contest seems to be the inability of the flyers to keep their machines in the air.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY AND DISTRICT CONVENTIONS

Warring Factions Torn in Twain — Peace Failed to do the Brooding Angel Act—Prospects Excellent for Small Democratic Vote in County —Bulger Controls County; Fitzgibbons Controls Oswego.

The Democratic county and district conventions held in Pulaski last Thursday were sure enough conventions. Every brave had his war paint on and he never removed it for a moment during the day. There was no effort made toward reconciling the factional differences and the war of extermination will be carried relentlessly forward until the polls close in November. The leaders in the fight against "Boss" Bulger were Attorney O. M. Reilly, Mayor Fitzgibbons, Attorney John R. Pidgeon and W. W. Rounds, supervisor of Oswego Town. Attorney C. N. Bulger plead his own cause and he had a right merry time dodging the pointed missives handed him by the aspirants to political freedom.

The caucuses on Tuesday evening caused the first out break of temper on the part of the Democracy and the temper of the delegates was not good when they started for the convention in special cars provided by the organization, and anti-organization forces. During the brief season of "prayer" which prefaced the opening of the county convention, the rival batteries were masked, but they belched forth with fury when W. W. Rounds moved that an amendment to the party rules be adopted providing for the naming as leaders of the party the two men who should happen to be chairman of the county committee and chairman of the executive committee and that no other leader should be named or recognized.

It seemed like an innocent enough resolution in view of the fact that the party is trying, (not) to shake off the galling yoke of bondage. But the bomb of an anarchist exploded in Betts opera house could not have created more consternation than did Mr. Round's simple proposition. The most bitter arguments ever heard on a convention floor were poured forth by tongues made eloquent with indignation.

E-County Treasurer, Fred M. Moore, became chairman of the convention after a fight to place the veteran John O'Brien of Phoenix in the chair. During the roll call there was much more "merry making" on the part of the regulars and the antis. Mr. Moore's nomination finally was made unanimous. Judge Bulger held out the olive branch to the insurgents by placing Attorney O. M. Reilly on the committee on resolutions. Mr. Bulger became chairman of the committee and the remainder of the members were G. D. Wart of Sandy Creek, Edward Lyons of Orwell, C. N. Lewis of New Haven, J. A. Frost of Williamstown and Thomas McKay of Oswego. Mr. Reilly accepted the proffered honor but did not permit it to serve as a gag.

Just at this trying point nominations became the order of the day and our esteemed townsman, Orrin Bogardus, manager of the Farm Department for the real estate firm of Whitaker & Lovejoy, became the unanimous choice of the divided party for sheriff. Mr. J. A. Oliver of this city moved Mr. Bogardus's nomination. On Saturday Mr. Bogardus filed his letter of declination, thus robbing the ticket of much strength.

Mr. Joseph P. O'Connor of Oswego became the nominee for district attorney. Attorney Robert J. Pendergast, of Phoenl, junior member of the law firm of Piper, Rice & Pendergast, became the nominee for special county judge. Joel A. Turner of Scriba was selected as the Democratic candidate for county superintendent of the poor.

Canal Superintendent W. J. Hartnett moved that Messrs. C. N. Bulger and Fred M. Moore become a committee to fill vacancies. Carried. It is predicted that the committee will select a ticket in its entirety, several of the nominees for county office preferring not to buck the Republican ticket in the field this Fall with its backing of a united party.

Neither the delegates not the officers stopped in their mad career long enough to take dinner, and the session was so prolonged that even with but scant time given the district convention, the party did not return to their homes until the late trains. They all felt, however, that they had been to a real convention in which every man had enjoyed his say.

The district convention organized by electing T. L. McKay of Oswego as chairman and John Brannan of this city as secretary. Mr. Bulger moved the nomination of John C. Knight of Oswego for assemblyman.

Delegates to the Judicial convention were elected as follows:

C. N. Bulger, Giles S. Piper, T. L. McKay.

Alternates, F. T. Cahill, A. S. Barker, H. L. Betts.

Messrs. Bulger, Hartnett and Moore were named as a vacancy committee. Resolutions to be prepared and inserted in the minutes.

Mr. Pidgeon asked that the city administrations in Oswego and Fulton be endorsed, but the motion was declared out of order by Judge Bulger.

The Oswego Times in speaking of the conventions, says in part:

Judge Bulger had as field generals Thomas L. McKay, Fred T. Cahill, Canal Superintendent W. J. Hartnett of Fulton and a newcomer from Fulton, J. A. Oliver. This Oliver person will bear watching. Well groomed and bearing the unmistakable air of a New Yorker, Mr. Oliver knew what to do and when. Trained in the ranks of Tammany Hall with his uncle, the late "Paradise Jimmy" Oliver, as mentor, he has a grasp on party procedure that makes him a strong man for the organization. It was his motion to lay on the table that did the business for the Bulgerites yesterday. He can make a speech too, as shown when he named Bogardus for Sheriff. Mr. Oliver moved to Fulton recently and says he expects to make that city his future home.

BIG CLAIM FILED

Albany, Sept. 26.—A claim of $3,243,430 against the State for land and water appropriated for the barge canal construction at Fulton was filed with the Board of Claims at Albany today by D. Raymond Cobb, of Syracuse, on behalf of the heirs of the late John W. Pratt of Fulton. The land involved in the suit includes the property of the old Battle Island mill, and the water is the riparian rights that the Pratt estate heirs claim have been held in the family for many years.

Three appropriations were made by the State, two on May 3d and the third one on August 4th. One appropriation was made up of 28.843 acres, the second one was .534 acres and the third one took over to the State work 5.611 acres. Besides the land taken, the appropriation deprived the owners of water rights even more valuable than the land.

The heirs making the claim are George L. Pratt, Sarah A. Pratt, James Guy Pratt, all of Buffalo; Olive Pratt Post, of New York; Alice F. Pratt and her husband, Albert J. Loomis, both of Barnett, B. C., and George L. Pratt as surviving executor under the will of John W. Pratt.

DEMOCRATS HOLD FIRST COLUMN ON BALLOT

Owing to the large number of Republicans who bolted the ticket last Fall the Democratic party ballot is in the first column on the left. This change is in accordance with the law which rules that the party polling the heaviest vote for governor at the previous election shall have this position in the first column.

Registration days are Friday and Saturday, October 13 and 14, and Friday and Saturday, October 20 and 21. These are the only days on which voters may register and no one who has not registered may vote at the election. It has been the experience during the last three years that disagreeable weather has been the rule during the last few days of registration, therefore every voter is urged to register as early as possible.

REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS

For Supreme Court Justices
HON. IRVING G. HUBBS
HON. EDGAR C. EMERSON

For Assemblyman
T. C. SWEET

For Sheriff
MYRON A. STRANAHAN

For District Attorney
FRANCIS D. CULKIN

For County Superintendent of Poor
C. ADELBERT STONE

For Special County Judge
GEORGE M. FANNING

Hon. Irving G. Hubbs

The delegates to the Republican Fifth Judicial District Convention, held in Syracuse yesterday, conferred the honor of the nomination for Supreme Court judge on Irving G. Hubbs, Esq., of this county and on Judge Emerson of Jefferson county. The selection of Mr. Hubbs is a matter of extreme gratification to all who personally know him and have earnestly desired a Supreme Court magistrate in this county who possessed the necessary ability to simplify judicial procedure, eliminate technicalities and place the business of the court on a sensible basis. The characteristics, temperament and legal knowledge of Mr. Hubbs cannot fail to commend him to the electors, as he is endowed with the ability to skilfully apply the principles of his profession on matters presented for adjudication. He is a man of unimpeachable integrity and of high moral character and is deserving of an overwhelming majority. Judge Emerson is also deserving of the loyal support of a united party.

SUPREME COURT

An action to foreclose a mechanics lien of $400 on the bowling alley conducted by Michael Mulcahey in Fulton was partly tried out in court last week. Frederick W. Woodcock was the plaintiff and he claimed that he was hired by John M. and Earl Foster owners of the building to lay a cement floor in the alleys. The Fosters as a defense claimed that it was to have been a water-tight floor, and that it leaked. Woodcock in reply stated that there was no provision regarding a water tight floor. The parties got together later and the matter will be settled.

Gertrude W. Ives of Volney was granted an absolute divorce from her husband, George M. Ives. A number of witnesses were sworn for the people. There was no defense.

LEWIS COUNTY ENDORSES CONGRESSMAN

The Republicans of Lewis County held their county convention in Lowville last week and strong resolutions were adopted endorsing Congressman Luther W. Mott and declaring that he was entitled to the hearty support of the Republicans of Lewis County.

The following resolution was adopted:

"We heartily approve and endorse the action of our representative in Congress, Hon. Luther W. Mott, and believe that his work during his brief incumbency of the office has been such as to entitle him to the hearty and unqualified support of the Republicans of our county."

SURROGATE'S COURT

Letters were issued Saturday on the estate of Julia A. Burns, Richland, who left $1,000 real and $75 personal, all to Helen C. Hunn, a neice, of Albion.

Letter were also issued on the estate of Emily C. Williams, Sandy Creek, who left $300 real and $600 personal to members of her family. Miss Williams taught in Oswego County for 50 years.

Letters on the estate of Bessie Weddel, who died in Fulton, were applied for by E. P. Cole, a creditor. She left $140 personal property.

The appraisal of the estate of Margaret L. Morse, Volney, filed on Friday shows personal property worth $2,039.46 and real property worth $5,000.

DECLINES PROFFERED HONOR

Believing himself to be ineligible for the office of mayor of Fulton, owing to his not being on the tax roll of the city, Assessor Birney Clark has declined to become a candidate for the office which was proffered him at a conference of Republicans held last week.

Mr. Clarke's declination leaves the party in an embarrassing position, the caucuses to be held this evening and the convention tomorrow, and no available candidate in sight. It is proposed to select a committee to find a candidate.

In Democratic circles Messrs. Orrin Bogardus and John Bolland are being frequently mentioned as available mayoralty timber.

YOU! "Mister" Business Man

Are you playing safe in the matter of insurance? Could you pay, dollar for dollar, all you owe in case of the destruction of your property by fire?

In the event of a conflagration sweeping your busines out of existence, and with it perhaps the savings of a lifetime, are you protected by enough good, sound insurance to put you "on your feet again?"

These are serious questions and the issue is one you cannot avoid. You cannot afford to take chances. Property losses in this country are mounting steadily upward.

Keep fully insured and charge the item into the selling price of your goods, the same as rent, interest or taxes.

We solicit your insurance business.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE AT MINETTO

Minetto, Sept. 27.—This village was treated to a spectacular early morning fire today when the Lackawana freight house was entirely destroyed with its contents about 3 o'clock this morning. The loss is estimated at $1,200, about $700 of which is the contents. It is believed that the building was ignited by a spark from the locomotive drawing the freight train that passes through Minetto at 2:40 in the morning. The fire was discovered shortly after the train pulled out.

Much of the freight was in grocery supplies for local merchants. As a result several dealers had to send in hurry orders to Oswego and Syracuse wholesalers to replenish their stocks.

The building was owned by the Minetto-Meriden C ompany having been erected by the old Minetto Shade Cloth Company several years ago. It was leased by the Lackawanna company, it is said. The building was soon to have been moved and a new passenger station erected on the site.

"Tea and Toast"

There's something quaint about the mere suggestion; there are traditions behind it that hark back to a less strenuous age; to an age when the dear old ladies met at the weekly sewing circle to coin nice ripe gossip, and sip tea—and eat Toast.

As a universal institution the sewing circle is now a memory, but "Tea and Toast" is more popular than ever.

This popularity is largely due to the invention of the General Electric Radiant Toaster. This attractive little device makes Toast scientifically, for its radiant heat forces the absolutely necessary chemical change in the bread. This means Perfect Toast in any degree that suits your individual taste. And it will surprise you to know that the net cost is one-tenth of a cent a slice. Also that it makes Toast faster than the average family can eat it.

Entirely aside from these vital features—utility speed and economy—there is a genuine charm in operating the General Electric Radiant Toaster. The soothing glow of the coils on a neat porcelain base creates a snug and cheerful atmosphere.

The General Electric Radiant Toaster is a unique ornament wherever it is used—on the finest polished table, or on the finest damask table cloth.

THE HUNTING SEASON

The open season for squirrels, rabbits, grouse and woodcock opened Saturday. The season, according to the game law, starts October 1st, but this date falling on Sunday it has been held that hunting may legally start the day before. The season for pheasants is in November instead of October this year. They may be taken Thursdays and Saturdays during November, but the limit is three male pheasants in a season.

Finny Conners says he has quit politics for good, meaning no doubt, New York's good.

A Handsome Woman

Every woman may not be handsome, but every woman should keep with care the good points nature has given her. No woman need have sallow skin, dull eye, blotchy complexion, who pays proper attention to her health. Where constipation, liver derangements, blood impurities and other irregularities exist, good complexion, bright eyes and sprightly movements cannot exist. Internal derangements reveal themselves sooner or later on the surface. Headache, dizzings around the eyes, sallow skin, a constant tired feeling—mean that the liver and digestive organs are needing help and correction. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets give this necessary help. They work in nature's own way. They do not merely flush the bowels but tone up the liver and stomach to fulfill their proper functions. So pleasant and gentle do they act that one hardly realizes that they have taken medicine. Chamberlain's Tablets can be relied upon to relieve biliousness, indigestion, constipation and dizziness. Sold everywhere.

"TIS THE LAST ROSE OF SUMMER"

Thomas Moore (born in Dublin, 1779; died, 1852), the son of an Irish grocer, was, of course, one of the best known poets of his generation. He traveled in America in 1803 and 1804. "'Tis the Last Rose of Summer," was included in his "Irish Melodies," published from 1807 to 1834, from which he received five hundred pounds a year. The music is said to have been altered from an old tune called "The Groves of Blarney."

'Tis the last rose of summer,
All her lovely companions
Are faded and gone;
No flower of her kindred,
No rosebud, is nigh
To reflect back her blushes,
Or give sigh for sigh?

I'll not leave thee, thou lone one!
To pine on the stem;
Since the lovely are sleeping,
Go, sleep thou with them;
Thus kindly I scatter
Thy leaves o'er the bed
Where thy mates of the garden
Lie scentless and dead.

So soon may I follow,
When friendships decay,
And from love's shining circle
The gems drop away!
When true hearts lie withered,
And fond ones are flown,
O, who would inhabit
The bleak world alone?

"MY HUSBAND'S FAVORITE DISH"

You bid me tell my husband's choicest dish,
But, oh dear me!—that is an awful task.
He likes so very, very many things,
He'd hardly know himself, were I to ask.

First in the line comes vegetable soup;
"To see him eat it fairly 'beats the Dutch;"
But then it is so very good, you see,
And that's the reason why he eats so much.

Rice pudding he would eat three times a day,—
Made with rich milk and cream it is the best;
Baked in the oven to a perfect cream,
Then pass it on to Ed—he'll do the rest.

Then lemon pie! He never tires of that,
A corn-starch filling, iced two inches high,
A crust of fairy crispness underneath,—
He'll always say "I do love lemon pie."

And last, not least, comes good old Johnny-cake,
Baked to a golden brown and piping hot,
And spread with sweetness from the syrup-jug,—
It's just the thing to hit the hungry spot.

He likes his coffee strong, his beefsteak rare
And served with chili sauce—but I'll confess,
I'd rather cook the things than make them rhyme.
So I'll break off and sign myself
Ed's Bess.

HOW IT HAPPENED

The Republican party of New York was so cut to pieces a year ago that it seemed as if its healing must be a matter of years. Dr. Murphy and his assistant, Dr. Dix, however, have done wonders in getting the patient first out of bed and then upon the road to recovery.

Our grateful acknowledgments to these two practitioners, and if they will continue their successful attention to this important case the State of New York will be prepared to give a good account of itself to the Republicans of the United States in the national election of next year, whatever the rest of the country may do.—New York Press.

THE TURN OF THE TUNE

J. H. Stewart of Utica street is what the farmers institutes term a "tired" farmer, having sold his farm on the West River road, and purchasing a garden spot of two acres with a good set of buildings in the Eastern suburbs of the city. He was connected with the Oswego County Fire Relief Association, I think, some fifteen years and is noted for his good nature and great love of fun in the Grange and Post Schenck.

Saturday evening at the Grange he related to me the following circumstances: When Senator Stranahan was a mere youth his father took him to Oswego one Fourth of July to hear Senator Roscoe Conkling. (I listened to the same address.) And as Comrade Stewart, expressed it. He said, the next day, "that little fellow perched himself upon the school house fence and spun off that address to the rising generation. My wife and I were on very friendly terms with his father and mother, exchanging visits and whenever I asked the Senator's father's opinion on any subject he was very candid and honorable in giving it. He was one of the thorough farmers of Granby. After his son had finished his education and went to Fulton to study law the late Mr. Merriam and I stood one day watering our teams near the Waldhorn block, engaged in conversation when Nevada N. Stranahan crossed the street near us with an acquaintance. He had on a fine suit of clothes and a silk hat. Mr. Merriam watched him for a moment, and says to me, "I wonder what Smith is going to do with his boy down here?" Soon after that he ascertained When Nevada waited upon his daughter, finally marrying her. The "turn of the tune" occurred soon after. One Fall when the two fathers accompanied Nevada N. down to Albany he being talked of for Attorney General. At that time Smith Stranahan and Mr. Merriam were introduced to Chauncey M. Depew when he says, "Mr. Stranahan, smart boy of yours, will be Governor of York State some day."

MIDNIGHT INN THE OZARKS

And yet sleepless Hiram Scranton, of Clay City, Ill., coughed and coughed. He was in the mountains on the advice of five doctors, who said he had consumption, but found no help in the climate and started home. Hearing of Dr. King's New Discovery, he began to use it. "I believe it saved my life," he writes "for it made a new man of me, so that I can now do work again." For all lung diseases, coughs, colds, la-grippe, asthma, croup, whooping cough, hay fever, hemorrhages, hoarseness or quinsy, its the best known remedy. Price 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by the Red Cross Pharmacy.

AUTUMN MILLINERY FOR MEN

Mere man cannot aspire to discuss woman's new headgear. It is her own even when she is his. The vocabulary of feminine millinery is not for him to master or employ; still, without laying himself open to the charge of staring, he can affirm that women's hats are worn "more away from the face" this fall, the expression itself being a perfect example of the sex's hieratic fashion lingo. One new model, however, is comprehensible to man. His mind can analyze it and grasp its meaning. It is a reproduction, in soft and rich materials, of the steel morion of seventeenth century warriors. An English model, one assumes, sprung no doubt from the very militant brains which it is meant to cover, protect and adorn.

It is of man's autumn millinery that we would speak, of the soft hat of the season in its many varieties. To trace its evolution would carry us too far; we can only remember, in passing, its predecessors, the "slouch" hat and the "Alpine." Memories of Southern statesmen and cowboys cluster around them, of the romantic drama, Italian opera and the cloak-and-dagger tale. The Tyrolese hat and the unhappy self-consciousness of its few wearers we pass by. It was only an incident. We are discussing the soft hat of the autumn of 1911.

It looks like a comfortable hat, but it is a mere pretender. Its negligé picturesqueness is not what it appears to be—spontaneous, accidental, unpremeditated. Worn rakishly a little to the left, debonairly a little to the right with sinister effect low on the brow, genially pushed back, it is always a poseur. It looks as if it were just slapped on to the head anyhow, the acme of comfort; in reality its every effect is studied and calculated to a nicety. It is put on carefully with both hands, one fore, one aft, before a mirror. Watch young hopeful preparing to sally forth to "give the ladies a treat," in the words of the Rialto, and learn to know a sham beside which the donning and wearing of a derby, and even of a silk hat are simple and unaffected as the play of children. Of the insidious influence it may exert upon what is character of the rising generation we dare not think. Sufficient unto this day is the thought of the baneful influence it may exert upon what is left of their manners. Will our young men have the moral courage to disturb the effect so laboriously attained by acknowledging the gracious bows of the supreior sex in the courtly, old-fashioned way? Or will the sham tempt them to a sort of military salute instead, a shuffling half-measure of deference hastening still more the already rapid decadence of courtesy? Let us pray that those who cling to the derby and the silk hat will not be tempted in their turn to follow the example set.—New York Tribune.

NEW BANK AT PARISH

Parish, Sept. 29.—The First National bank building of this village will be erected at once. The lot on which it will stand was purchased of George Dixon, on the North side of the Dixon House, and is 24x60 feet. The building will be 20x30 feet of re-pressed brick, with plate glass front. Work on the foundation was commenced Monday. The building committee consists of George A. Courbat, Dr. W. H. Conterman, William Church. The building will be an ornament to the village and the banking business will be a great benefit to this and neighboring towns.

FATHER DWYER'S ESTATE

The estate of the late Father W. F. Dwyer, of Oswego, was offered in Surrogate's Court on Monday, and as he died intestate, a petition for letters of administration will be presented. The estate is practically all personal property in the form of life insurance policies and it is expected that it will amount to about $15,000.

It is stated that several of these policies are drawn in favor of Father Dwyer's niece, Miss Catherine Dwyer of Truxton. It is understood that there is about $12,000 in life insurance not naming any beneficiary and this will go into the estate to be divided among the heirs.

PRESIDENT TAFT

Calls a Halt Against Appeals to Spirit of Hostility to Prosperity—Urges Unanimity in Movement to Promote Business Success of Country.

We have reached a point where we can call a halt, not in the progressive movement to keep business free from abuses, but where we can call a halt against appeals to a spirit of pure hostility to prosperity on the theory that no one can be prosperous without being dishonest or a violator of law in securing the profits of his business.

Let us put our shoulders together in a movement to promote the business prosperity of the country by frowning down those attacks that are engendered not by a real desire to eliminate abuses, but by a wish to arouse in the people an unjust prejudice.

We must have investments from which to secure a large wages fund, which is needed to support the wage earners. We must inspire in the business men who control these investments the confidence that they will not be driven out of business.

Let us do team work in the community. Let us have legislation that helps, or an absence of legislation if it be unnecessary. And let us approve and praise the great business enterprise and genius that honestly and by proper methods accumulates property and puts it into productive industries, supports the thousands of workmen and furnishes profit to those whose savings have gone into the shares and bonds of the enterprise.

This is the hope I have for the future. Business is halting now. There is doubt and distrust among investors, due to a fear of blind enmity toward successful enterprise. What is the remedy? It is the restoration of confidence between the classes of people who have been opposing each other in times past, who now, after the reforms are initiated and are in process of being effected, ought to come together in amity and make the best use of the enormous resources we have in this country for the promotion of general prosperity and the securing and encouragement of individual happiness.

SAVED HIS MOTHER'S LIFE

"Four doctors had given me up," writes Mrs. Laura Gaines, of Avoca, La., "and my children and all my friends were looking for me to die when my son insisted that I use Electric Bitters. I did so, and they have done me a world of good. I will always praise them." Electric Bitters is a priceless blessing to women troubled with fainting and dizzy spells, backache, headache, weakness, debility, constipation or kidney disorders. Use them and gain new health, strength and vigor. They're guaranteed to satisfy or money refunded. Only 50c at the Red Cross Pharmacy.

WHEN INDIAN COURAGE FAILED

Quanah Parker, chief of the Comanche Indians, who died some weeks ago, enjoyed the reputation of being the wittiest man of his race. He was likewise a man of affairs and something of a lobbyist. He had appeared beffore the Committee on Indian Affairs regularly for years, and the members of that committee had become intimately acquainted with him.

Two or three years ago Uncle Sam issued a mandate to the effect that the Indians in the future should take unto themselves but one wife. Quanah, appearing before the committee, told its members that many of the men of his tribe had more than one wife. He was admonished to go home and tell them that this condition of affairs could no longer exist and that the surplus wives must be sent home to their parents.

Last session Parker again appeared before the committee, and the following conversation took place between him and a committeeman.

"Did you tell your bucks that they must have but one wife, Parker?"

"Yes, me tell 'um," responded the Indian.

"Did you get rid of the extra wives?"

"Yes, all gone," answered the chief.

"But," urged the committeeman, "I am told that you yourself have six wives."

"Yes, me got six," said Parker.

"Now, this will not do, Parker. You have to get rid of those extra wives. You go home and tell them to leave. Send them back to their parents. Tell them to go home."

"You tell 'um," responded the Indian.—October Lippincott's.

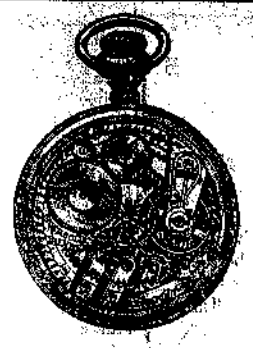
GIVE WASHINGTON TABLET

Daughters of American Revolution Unveil Memorial at Falls Church, Va., Oct. 6

Washington, Sept. 24.—In the picturesque village of Falls Church, Va., on the historic Leesburg pike, nine miles from this city, a marble tablet upon the outer wall of the Colonial Falls Church edifice in honor of George Washington will be unveiled October 6, by the town chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.



Christ church in Alexandria was Gen. Washington's regular place of worship but he served twenty-two years as warden and vestryman at Falls Church.

The church was built with brick brought from England in 1734. Many illustrious names appeared on the church records.

Editor Times: The above clipping reminded me of the little village of Falls Church in which the left wing of the 24th Infantry performed picket duty November 5 and 6, 1861. Our Company E was on reserve and I believe most of them were in a school house. Orderly Sergeant Robert E. Corrie and Charles A. Phillips were going through the manuel of arms when accidently a bullet from Corrie's musket passed through Phillips right arm and tore it fearfully. He was taken to camp quickly, a few miles back and received surgical help and next day, Novembre 7th, he was sent to Washington hospital and on January 12, 1862, he was discharged from the army. His arm improved so that he could use it and the brave boy of twenty-two again enlisted and served as captain in the 110th New York Infantry. Charley was a nephew of old Uncle Asa Phillips of Phillipsville (now Fulton) and our sympathy for him was intense. He has joined the great majority and we love him as one of our patriotic brothers.

STERLING RANGE

It does away with the blacking nuisance,—a thankless job that nobody welcomes. All Model "R" tops are ground and polished. This gives a beautiful surface that gradually turns blue from the heat, never needs blacking, and always looks better than a top that has been blacked.

The ash problem is solved too. You can have an ash-chute, if you wish, and conduct all dirt to the cellar. Or if you prefer the ash-pan, the Sterling has a big one with ash slides that positively carry all the dust into the pan.

There are other features, but that ought to be enough to decide you,—no more dust, no more blacking!

But don't forget that the Sterling alone of all ranges, is made on the Unit System. We can combine the "units" in any way you wish, give you any type of range, with any equipment, any capacity for cooking, baking, broiling, roasting, water-heating, etc. A made-to-order range!

Don't fail to see it.

EMPIRE THEATRE, SYRACUSE

Miss Billie Burke

It is extremely doubtful if there is a single player in this country, either man or woman, who has a larger personal following than Miss Billie Burke who is now in her fourth season as a star under the management of Charles Frohman. Mr. Frohman saw Miss Burke and instantly recognized the fact that she was made of the timber successful stars were made from. One year as John Drew's leading woman and Miss Burke was graduated to stardom. And her following is not restricted to any one class. She is a society favorite but she is also just as strongly entrenched in the hearts of the "gods" as she is in those who sit in the orchestra seats. This year, Mr. Frohman presents Miss Burke in a new comedy and in a stronger role than any she has yet played. The comedy is said to be especially interesting and human,—it is an adaptation from the French of Pierre Veber made by Michael Morton,—and the role of the heorine is said to fit Miss Burke to prefection. Charles Frohman presents Miss Billie Burke in her new comedy which is called "The Runaway" at the Empire on Friday and Saturday, matinee and evening, Oct., 6 and 7.

"The Three Romeo's"

No such term as "Operetta," play with music, "song play," "musical farce," or any by which the producer tries to beguile the public into the belief that something novel is being attempted, will be used in qualifying "The Three Romeos" which Fellnes and Dreyfus will present at the Empire October 9, 10 and 11, with Wednesday matinee. It is called an American musical comedy. Just plain musical comedy, nothing else. This insistance on the term American seems to indicate that these two managers have come to the conclusion that it is better to offer American products of their own sort for amusement consumption. The book and lyrics of the new comedy are by R. H. Burnside who has retired from the New York Hippodrome with a distinguished record of stagecraft. "The Three Romeos" is staged entirely under his direction. The music is by Raymond Hubbell. In the excellent cast of players that has been assembled are Georgia Caine, Elita Proctor Otis, William Danforth, Ethel Cadman, Fred Lennox, Vivian Rushmore, Fred Walton, Shirley Kellogg, Mabella Baker, John G. Sparks, Alfred Kappeler, Sidney Harraclough and Minnie Olton.

The chorus has been picked and trained by Mr. Burnside. It is ascribed as the "New thought" chorus of loveliness.

The musical play by DeKoven and Herbert entitled "The Beauty Spot" which comes to the Empire for a limited engagement for over night, Thursday, October 12th, is said to be a production above the average, its music being of a higher order bordering closely on the comic opera style. The cast is headed by that sterling actor and comedian, Frank Deshon, whose strength lies not altogether in the material furnished him by the authors but what he interjects into the piece from his own personality. His role of the siddy old Russian General is characteristic, his makeup being highly ludicrous and mirth provoking.

Mr. Deshon is ably supported by a company of well known people. The two scenes are said to be handsome, unique in idea and beautiful to the eye.

Manager Wolff of the Empire enthusiastically announces that he has received contracts from Henry W. Savage for the Rupert Hughes farce "Excuse Me" which will be given in this city during the next few weeks. "Excuse Me" is described as a Pullman Car Carnival. All the scenes are laid in the interior of the vestibule train, and the action throughout its three scenes describes a trans-continental journey with stop-overs at Omaha, Ogden and Reno, Neveda. Its characters embrace eloping couples, divorcing couples, drummers, ministers, crooks, highwaymen, and the various other types that are familiar to everybody who has ever made a journey in a sleeping car. A love story is unfolded during the progress of the journey and the action throughout the scenes is of the "fast and furious" order. The play was staged by that mastercraft, George Marion, and the company to be seen here will embrace a number of names well known to theatergoers throughout the country.

Biliousness is due to a disordered condition of the stomach. Chamberlain's Tablets are essentially a stomach medicine, intended especially to act on that organ; to cleanse it, strengthen it, tone and invigorate it, to regulate the liver and to banish biliousness positively and effectually. BUYING MEXICAN STOCK

Gen. Luis Terrazas of Monterey, Mexico, recently completed the sale of 20,000 head of cattle in one block to American buyers. Most of these cattle will be shipped to Texas ranches. Several thousand head of the fat stock will go to the Kansas City market. Gen. Terrazas is rapidly closing out all of his property holdings in Mexico. An American syndicate, headed by William R. Hearst, is negotiating for the purchase of 8,000,000 acres of his ranch lands. The area of the proposed purchase is eight times that of the state of Rhode Island.

THE 147th N. Y.

Editor National Tribune: Please give a short history of the 147th N. Y.—George Jones, Long Beach, Cal.

The 147th N. Y., one of the fighting regiments, was organized at Oswego in September, 1862, and mustered out June 7, 1865, with the recruits transferred to the 91st N. Y. It was commanded by Cols. Andrew S. Warner, John G. Butler and Francis C. Miller successively. Cutler's Brigade, of which the 147th formed a part, was the first infantry to reach the field at Gettysburg, and had the honor of opening that famous battle. When Cutler's troops were forced back the order to retire failed to reach the 147th, who held on pluckily, tho Col. Miller fell wounded. Of the 380 who entered the fight 76 were killed or mortally wounded, 148 wounded and 79 missing. It was actively engaged in all the battles of Grant's campaign of 1864-65, belonged to Wadsworth's Division, First Corps, and lost 163 killed and 177 from disease, etc. Its total of killed and wounded was 315, and 62 of its members died in Confederate prisons.—Editor National Tribune.

REPUBLICAN CITY CONVENTION

The Republican City Convention met last Thursday afternoon in the City Hall, and although the delegates devoted considerable time to selecting a nominee for chief executive, there was perfect unanimity and the best of feeling prevailed.

The officers of the convention were Messrs. F. J. Switzer, chairman; George C. Webb and F. L. Sears, secretaries, and H. P. Allen and George Simons, tellers—and then the machinery was set in motion.

As a prelude to the important business of selecting a nominee to rally the Republican colherts in the November city election, a recess was ordered and the members reassembled in the Citizens Club parlors to discuss the availability of some whose names were presented for consideration.

A plan was evolved whereby each ward was to name a candidate, after which a vote would be taken and a final selection made from those standing the highest on the list.

Mr. J. A. Foster, who was the first Mayor of the "baby city" and a delegate from the Fourth ward, received most favorable consideration. When the delegates reassembled in convention, Mr. Foster was tendered the nomination, which he gracefully declined.

Attorney Herbert J. Wilson next received the unanimous vote of the convention, but he, too, declined the proferred honor, positively refusing to seriously consider the proposition when presented by a committee sent to inform him of the action of the convention.

An informal ballot was taken and the names of several prospective candidates presented, when a winnowing process was indulged in. The first result being the selection of Mr. Watson A. Butts as candidate by a vote of 21 to 6. Mr. William Church making the usual motion for a unanimous choice, which prevailed.

On motion of Secretary H. Putnam Allen, a committee composed of the members of the City Committee and one from each ward delegation, should be authorized to fill any vacancy occurring on the ticket. The selections were Messrs. C. R. Bennett, F. J. Switzer, Charles M. Allen, William E. Hughes and William Church. Members of the City Committee are L. E. Taggart, Otto Malone, A. M. Hurd, George C. Webb, F. M. Cornell and H. Putnam Allen.

At this juncture a motion to adjourn prevailed.

Immediately following adjournment the City Committee meet and organized for the ensuing term as follows: Chairman and secretary, H. Putnam Allen; treasurer, A. M. Hurd.

The Attorney General assures the trusts that they will be dissolved very gently.

DEMOCRAT NOMINEE FOR MAYOR

John E. Boland Becomes Unanimous Choice of Convention After Formal Presentation by A. J. Oliver—Will File Acceptance in a Few Days

The Democratic City Convention was held last evening in the City Hall, and was called to order by Mr. John Brannan, City Committeeman. Mr. J. Harroun Howe was unanimously selected as chairman and Messrs. J. R. Sullivan and George E. Pomphret became secretaries, while Messrs. Myron Foster and B. J. Doyle were elected tellers.

Mr. A. J. Oliver captured the convention by his oratory, his remarks in placing Mr. John E. Boland's name as the choice of the delegates assembled to head the city ticket were greeted with vigorous applause.

Mr. Boland was unanimously selected as the nominee of the party for Mayor, and after a formal presentation to the convention, made a brief speak of acceptance, stating that he would file his letter of acceptance in a few days.

With the selection of a mayoralty candidate the convention adjourned postponing the organization of the City Committee for the ensuing term until a future date.

BAPTIST LECTURE COURSE

The Baraca Class of the Baptist church has arranged for an entertainment course to be given during the Winter months which will prove of as high merit as the courses given during the past three years. Among the attractions secured are The Spaffords in an evening of pathos and humor. The entertainment consists of cartoon and landscape drawing, music on foreign and ancient instruments, fire pictures, sculpture and clay modeling, humor and pathos, with an undercurrent of solid thought which combine to make an entertainment that is entirely unlike any other ever presented to the entertainment going public. This entertainment is scheduled for November 3.

On November 21, The Metropolitan Ladies Orchestra will be heard in the church. This quartette is accompanied by Miss Ione Lemoce Hart in reading and pianologues.

January 19, Miss Gertrude E. MacWhirk, the talented interpretative reader, impersonator and story teller will give the third in the series of entertainments.

Col. G. A. Gearhart of Buffalo will appear on the platform on February 16, in one of his inimitable lectures. The Col. is too well known to the average reader to need word of introduction at this time.

The Star Male Quartette with Miss Marie Robinson as reader, will be heard as the concluding number in the course on March 15.

The program in its entirety is deserving the attention of Fultonians.

JURY COULD NOT AGREE

After nearly twelve hours of continuous debate over the question of the liability of the defendant, the jury in the case of Stanley Wudarzck vs. the Oswego County Fair association, at 11 o'clock Friday night, agreed to disagree. Justice Andrews called the jury before him Saturday morning, and when they announced that no agreement had been reached and that there was no hope of getting together, he reluctantly discharged them.

The jurymen said after their discharge that there was an equal division on the question of liability, six holding that the fair association was not liable and the other six holding just as dogedly to the belif ethat the association was responsible for the accident and should have provided safeguards for the spectators. This disputed point seemed to be as to the steps taken to keep the crowd back from the balloon. The amount of damages was only informally discussed as the men could not garee on the major point of liability.

REPUBLICAN ALDERMEN RESIGN

The Republican aldermen nominated last week have in three instances declined to become candidates: Mr. Harry Wilcox in the Sixth Ward, Mr. F. P. Keeler in the Fourth Ward and Mr. F. E. VanAmburg in the Second ward, refuse to permit their names to come before the electors. In the Fourth Ward Dr. H. S. Orchard is prominently mentioned to fill the vacancy on the ticket. The other wards have not yet been definitely heard from.

Business reasons are given by the resigning nominees as the excuse for declining.

BAPTIST MISSIONARY RALLY

The semi-annual Baptist missionary rally will be held in the Mexico Baptist church, Friday, October 20, 1911. The following is the programme:

Bring lunch for picnic dinner.

DEMOCRATS NOMINATE SUPERVISORS

The Democrats of the several wards in the city nominated their candidates for supervisors from the three districts on Friday evening. In the First and Sixth Wards Mr. George E. Pomphret was nominated. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Pomphret; conducts a fruit, confectionery and cigar store in Cayuga street and is very popular with a large circle of friends.

The Second and Third Wards nominated W. F. Halloran to oppose Supervisor Wade E. Gayer. Mr. Halloran has served as supervisor.

Merchant James L. Jones became the choice of the Fourth and Fifth Ward Democracy for the nomination. He is well known throughout the district and will oppose Supervisor G. H. Fuller in the campaign.

Station Agent Frank W. Richardson was nominated for Alderman in the Fifth Ward.

MR. BUTTS DECLINES

Shoe Dealer Watson A. Butts, who became the Republican nominee for mayor in their convention held last week, carefully considered the matter, believing it to be the duty of a good citizen to accept responsibility when it comes to him. On Monday he gave his decision to the notification committee. Mr. Butts was forced for business reasons, to decline the proferred honor. His many friends throughout the city learned with regret of his declination, knowing him to be competent, square and popular.

Mr. Adolph Hunter of this city and Miss Sophie Hertzenberger of New York city were united in marriage in Syracuse on Wednesday. They will reside in Fulton.

Oneida, Oct. 5,—The marriage of Miss Edith G. VanAuken of Oneida to Clarence H. Whitmore of Fulton, took place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. George DeLand, No. 940 Cumberland avenue, Tuesday evening. The bride was attended by her sister and George DeLand acted as best man. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Howard B. Morey of the Rockfeller Memorial M. E. church. The house was very prettily decorated and a dainty luncheon was served. After a wedding journey in the North. Mr. and Mrs. Whitmore will be at their home in Petersboro street.

BRILLIANT EVENT

This evening at 5 o'clock the marriage of Miss Alice Murphy to Mr. Arthur O'Leary of New York city will be solemnized in the Catholic church by the Rev. J. L. Lindsman. A large and brilliant reception will follow the ceremony at the home of the brides' parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Murphy. Miss Laura Sennett will be maid of honor and Mr. David O'Leary will be groomsman. The bridesmaids will be the Messes Ethel Bonner of this city and Helen Brown of Albany. Miss Alice Grant of Chicago will be flower girl. The ushers will be William Murphy, brother of the bride, Edward Foley and Edmund Dollard of Syracuse, and John McCormick of Albany. The bride is a graduate of Fulton High school and the Oswego Normal school. Mr. O'Leary is a New York city attorney. Both have a host of friends who are extending congratulations. They will make their home in New York city.

FORMAL FALL OPENING

Fashion's Best Fabrics and the Smartest Weaves and Garments Culled From Metropolitan Markets for Fulton Folks—Openings Great Success.

O. Henderson & Company

This store held its first formal opening last week and attracted a large and admiring crowd during the three days. The Brotherhood orchestra, with Ross Wolever at the piano, furnished music. The stocks displayed were never so rich and varied as this season. The dress trimmings, novelties, suits, coats, furs and house decoration materials especially eliciting much admiring attention. When it becomes known that Saturday's was the biggest day's business ever done by the firm, the truth of the above statements will be substantiated. The ladies looked on Thursday, returned on Friday with friends and on Saturday they and their friends purchased from the well filled and carefully selected stocks. New goods are still arriving daily at this store.

J. C. O'Brien

This palatial store was never better ready for the patronage of the public than this Fall. The goods are therein, and the stocks have been temptingly arranged, the appearance of the different departments on the different floors being most attractive. The proprietor has purchased a more varied and larger line than usual and the clerks are enthusiastic over the reception accorded the display by the visitors who thronged the store each day. The millinery, and ready-to-wear departments seemed to be of very especial interest and received most liberal patronage.

SECTIONS OF LEVY LAW KNOCKED OUT

Court of Appeals Holds Them to Be Unconstitutional—Court Was Unanimous.

Albany, Oct. 10.—The section of the Levy election law requiring personal registration in the rural districts was declared unconstitutional by the Court of Appeals this afternoon.

The Court also declared unconstitutional the section of the Levy election law which prohibits the appearance of a candidate's name in more than one place on the official ballot.

The Court was unanimous in deciding the election cases. The judges who passed on the cases were Chief Judge Cullen, Judges Haight, Vann, Werner, Willard, Bartlett, Hiscock and Chase.

Fulton, N. Y., Oct. 4, 1911.

Meter bills are now due and payable at the office of the Water Department, 206 Oneida street. A penalty of 10 per cent. will be added to all bills remaining unpaid after October 20.

Bills are not delivered. The water will be turned off where the bill remains unpaid after that date.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

Measures Presented for the Consideration of Taxpayers—Adoption of Proposition Relative to Purchase of Talley Seminary Building Urged.

The demands for the present and future housing of the school children of our city require the earnest thought of everyone interested in our public school system. The number of pupils in attendance has increased every year for the past seven years, as is shown by the following:

Registration on opening day,
September 3, 1905 1,543
Registration on opening day,
September 4, 1906 1,589
Registration on opening day,
September, 5, 1907 1,638
Registration on opening day,
September 6, 1908 1,658
Registration on opening day,
September 7, 1909 1,730
Registration on opening day,
September 6, 1910 1,736
Registration on opening day,
September 5, 1911 1,790

The registration generally increases about 100 from that of the opening day. On September 12, 1911, it was 1,868.

This constantly increasing need of more school rooms and the effort to relieve the very badly congested condition, have from year to year received the careful consideration of your Board of Education. These conditions have been met thus far by the renting of five rooms in the Talley Seminary building; by the addition of four rooms to the State street building, and by the fitting up of the vacant rooms in the Phillips street and Oak street buildings. Now all available rooms in buildings belonging to the city are in use with the exception of one room in the Walradt street school.

The time has come to provide for the future.

The Oak Street Building

The Oak street building is very old; improperly located on the lot—being close to the intersection of Oak and Third streets, and unsanitary—having outside closets.

It is a six room building but should be an eight room building to accommodate, in a very short time, the school children south of Broadway, as this section of the city is steadily increasing in population.

The present building has been examined by Architect Gordon Wright of Syracuse, and he estimates that it would cost at least two-thirds of what a new modern eight room building would cost to properly remodel it.

It seems to us poor policy to spend this amount of money on a building which could never be made satisfactory, when one-third more would construct a modern, eight room, brick building, properly located on the same school plot.

The Phillips Street Building

The Phillips street building is a modern structure in every way, but is only a little over half the size the original plans called for—the west side of the building being a temporary brick wall.

To some it would seem the right policy to complete this building before constructing a new school house at Oak street. If this were done, the necessity of installing a system of toilets, heating and ventilating and making extensive repairs on the Oak street building would remain. The younger pupils south of Broadway should not be forced to attend the Phillips street school. The distance is too great. As the Phillips street building is modern, as far as completed, it seems right that the Oak street property should first be taken care of.

How the Demand for More Room on the East Side has Been Met

In addition to the increase in population, the High school has been an important factor in making a demand for additional school room. The number of High school pupils has more than doubled in the past five years.

As the number of High school pupils increased, grade pupils in the rooms in the Fourth street building were taken to other quarters to make room for High school work, until now both of the upper floors and one room on the first floor are used exclusively for High school purposes.

This demand for grade rooms was first met in 1904 by renting and fitting up two rooms in the Talley Seminary building. As necessity required, additional rooms were rented and equipped, until now five rooms are used in this building.

In 1909, four rooms were added to the State street building, and the boundary lines for those who should attend this school changed from the south side of Highland street to the south side of Academy street.

Why Not Use Phillips Street Building for the High School ?

The question has been asked, "Why not complete the Phillips street building and use it for the High school?"

If the Phillips street building were completed according to the original plans, it would scarcely be more suitable for our city High school than the present building which is used for that purpose. The arrangements for High schools must be entirely different than those for the grades. The present building used for High school purposes was planned to accommodate about 125 High school pupils. The Phillips street building was, originally, probably planned to accommodate about 150 High school pupils. There are over 300 High school pupils in attendance today, and when promotions occur in January next, there will be over 350.

Again, the Phillips street building is needed for a grammar school—that for which it is used at the present time. If this section of the city continues to grow, the completed building will in a few years be needed for the same purpose.

Why it Is Advisable to Purchase the Talley Seminary Property

We feel that the Talley Seminary property is very desirable property for the city to possess for school purposes.

It furnishes a very desirable site on which the city can at some time construct—either by building a new structure or by remodeling the present building—a High school building suitable to the needs of our city. It can furnish four or five more rooms which can be used for school purposes until the city is prepared to provide a High school building.

It is hardly to be expected that the price will ever be lower than at present asked for it, $16,000.

It is quite probable—if not purchased by the city— to pass into other hands in a few years and no longer be available for school purposes.

It is a good financial investment. The city is now paying an annual rental of $1,000 for the five rooms used for the grades, and an additional rental of $360 is paid by other tenants of the building.

The Board of Education,
Fulton, N. Y.,

Gentlemen: Mr. John Hunter made a contract with the heirs of the late Mrs. Gilmour for the purchase of the Talley Seminary property with a view to securing the property for the city for a High school and athletic ground which he feels he cannot carry out because of an adverse vote given last fall.

Inasmuch as the city desired to continue in occupation of the rooms your Board was using, and the heirs were willing, annual arrangement was made that, if Mr. Hunter concurred, notwithstanding his contract, the rent to January 1, 1911, of the school and of Prof. Fairgrieve (with which latter, however, the city is not concerned) amounting to $95.70 should be sent me and that from January 1, last, the school rent would be $200 per year per room for the present rooms with the privilege of additional rooms at the same rate, the expense of repairs and alterations for additional rooms to be borne by your Board, Prof. Fairgrieve's accommodations to remain as they are at the same rent, as well as the rooms occupied by Wm. Everts, who lives in the rear. The above arrangement was to continue two years and six months from January 1, 1911, with the further privilege that if your honorable body, or the city, desired to purchase the whole property for school purposes, it had the option to do so during the said term at the price of $16,000, the rent to cease on the payment of said purchase price, the pro rata balance of rent from Prof. Fairgrieve to belong to the city, and your Board to adjust with him his further tenancy.

No formal ratification of the above arrangement has been communicated to me by yourB oard, though I understand that it has been approved by you.

If, however, you will send me a resolution ratifying the above arrangement and send me the rent so far due accordingly, and procure Mr. John Hunter's surrender of his contract so that the heirs may not be under twoc ontracts with respect to this property, you will be in position to proceed to exercise the option to purchase, if your city so desires.

Respectfully yours,
Robert J. Landon.

As Attorney for the heirs of Mary J. Gilmour.

Resolutions of Board for Renting Rooms in the Talley Seminary Building

At a meeting fo the Boerd of Education, held May 22, 1911, the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That the option given by John Hunter to purchase the contract between him and the heirs of Mary J. Gilmour, bearing date the 21st day of June, 1909, relating to the sale and purchase of the Talley Seminary property, be, and the same is hereby surrendered and cancelled.

Resolved, That the said John Hunter be and he is hereby authorized to cancel the contract above described.

Resolved, That the City of Fulton rent from the heirs of Mary J. Gilmour, four rooms in the Talley Seminary, from the firstd ay of January, 1911, until the 30th day of June, 1913, for Two Hundred Dollars ($200) per year per room, payable in equal monthly installments, with the privileges of additional rooms at the same rate; the expneses of repairs and alterations for additional rooms to be borne by the city; that the president be and he is hereby authorized to execute a lease accordingly, provided said lease contains an option to purchase the whole of the Talley Seminary property upon block number forty-six (46) of the former Village of Fulton, at any time during said term, for school and athletic purposes, at the price of Sixteen Thousand Dollars, ($16,000), the rent of said rooms to cease on payment of said purchase price; the pro rata balance of rent due from Prof. Fairgrieve to belong to the city, and the Board of adjust with him his further tenancy.

Resolutions of the Board to Purchase Talley Seminary Property and Build at Oak Street

At a meeting of the Board of Education, held July 20, 1911, the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That it is necessary to purchase a site for a High school building and athletic purposes; that the ward within which said site is to be purchased is the Fourth Ward of the City of Fulton, and said site is known as the Talley Seminary property; that the particular sum required for the same is sixteen thousand ($16,000) dollars.

Resolved, That it is necessary to erect a new school building to take the place of the present structure, known as the Oak street school building; that the ward within which said building is to be built is the Second ward of the city of Fulton, at about the center of the site owned by the City of Fulton and now used for school purposes; that the particular sum required for the same is eighteen thousand ($18,000) dollars.

We earnestly ask your favorable vote on the above resolutions, which will be submitted to you at the general election on November 7th.

Respectfully submitted,
John Hunter, Member at Large,
John Brannen, Member 1st Ward,
J. R. Sullivan, Member 2nd Ward.
Italo Achilli, Member 3rd Ward,
L. C. Foster, Member 4th Ward.
G. P. Wells, Member 5th Ward.
M. C. Freeman, Member 6th Ward.

DEACON JONES'S CASE BULLETINED

The editor of a rural newspaper was in Philadelphia during the week following the shooting of President McKinley, and noted with surprise the promptness of the newspapers there to bulletin-board the hourly reports of the President's condition. He determined to adopt the idea on all important events when he should return home. Soon afterwards he was told one morning by one of the local physicians that Deacon Jones was seriously ill. The Deacon was a man of some distinction in the community, so the editor published a series of bulletines as follows:

10 a. m.—Deacon Jones no better.

11 a. m.—Deacon Jones has a relapse.

12:30 p. m.—Deacon Jones weaker. Pulse failing.

1 p. m.—Deacon Jones has slightly rallied.

2:15 p. m.—Deacon Jones family have been summoned.

3:10 p. m.—Deacon Jones has died and gone to Heaven.

Later in the afternoon a traveling salesman happened by, stooped to read the bulletines, and going to the bulletine-board, made another report concerning the deceased. It was:

4:10 p. m.—Great consternation in Heaven. Deacon Jones has not yet arrived.—Scrap Book.

SAVED HIS MOTHER'S LIFE

"Four doctors had given me up," writes Mrs. Laura Gaines, of Avoca, La., "and my children and all my friends were looking for me to die when my son insisted that I use Electric Bitters. I did so, and they have done me a world of good. I will always praise them." Electric Bitters is a priceless blessing to women troubled with fainting and dizzy spells, backache, headache, weakness, debility, constipation or kidney disorders. Use them and gain new health, strength and vigor. They're guaranteed to satisfy or money refunded. Only 50c at the Red Cross Pharmacy.

VOLNEY

Farmers are busy with their apples and potatoes this week.

Mrs. Hodges entertained several ladies at her home Friday afternoon.

The first and second degree will be given to new members of the Volney Grange next Saturday evening. The Grange is a very interesting and very busy order, a good programme is given every Saturday evening.

The Girls' Sewing circle met at the home of Miss Laura GreenS aturday afternoon.

The Ladies Aid will meet at the home of Mrs. Carrie Conklin Wednesday. Quilts are to be tied and preparations for the annual church fair which will be held in the near future.

Thursday evening, October 12, the young people will hold a "pink tea" at the Town Hall. Supper will be served from 5 to 8. Following supper a good program will be given—all for fifteen cents. Everybody come and encourage the young people.

Rev. George Ward and wife will spend a week with friends in New York. There will be no preaching, but Sunday school at Bristol Hill next Sunday.

MIDNIGHT INN THE OZARKS

And yet sleepless Hiram Scranton, of Clay City, Ill., coughed and coughed. He was in the mountains on the advice of five doctors, who said he had consumption, but found no help in the climate and started home. Hearing of Dr. King's New Discovery, he began to use it, "I believe it saved my life," he writes "for it made a new man ofme, so that I can now do work again." For all lung diseases, coughs, colds, lagrippe, asthma, croup, whooping cough, hay fever, hemorrhages, hoarseness or quinsy, its the best known remedy. Price 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free. A Handsome Woman

Every woman may not be handsome, but every woman should keep with care the good points nature has given her. No woman need have sallow skin, dull eye, blotchy complexion, who pays proper attention to her health. Where constipation, liver derangements, blood impurities and other irregularities exist, good complexion, bright eyes and sprightly movements cannot exist. Internal derangements reveal themselves, sooner or later on the surface. Headache, darkings around the eyes, sallow skin, a constant tired feeling—mean that the liver and digestive organs are needing help and correction. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets give this necessary help. They work in nature's own way. They do not only move the bowels but tone up the liver and stomach and fulfill their proper functions. So mild and gentle they act that one hardly realizes they have taken medicine. Chamberlain's Tablets should be used upon to relieve biliousness, indigestion and dizziness. Sold ev-

HUBBS AND EMERSON FOR JUDICIARY

Convention at Syracuse Gives Excellent Reasons for Nominating Party Ticket—Purcell Chosen by Governor Dix, Not By the People—Oswego County Will Roll Up Tremendous Majority for Hubbs and Emerson.

Calmly and dispassionately the Republican judicial convention held in Syracuse last Tuesday surveyed the judicial situation in all counties comprising this district, and when they decided they did so intelligently and well. So well and so fairly that it is confidently believed that the Hoporables I. G. Hubbs and E. C. Emerson will be elected by tremendous majorities.

It was suggested by Democrats that this convention endorse Justice Purcell, the Democrat appointed by Gov. Dix to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Watson M. Rogers, and then nominate one Republican, leaving the other place on the ticket vacant, thus ensuring the election and without contest, of Messrs Purcell and whomever the Republican convention might decide upon. At first the plan did not appear such an unreasonable one but the more it was contemplated the more undesirable it appeared. It forced Mr. Purcell, upon a public never having had the opportunity of deciding whether or not it approved him. The committee appointed by the convention to take action upon the suggestion of the Democracy, after due deliberation, presented the following resolutions which were unanimously adopted by the convention:

Whereas, This convention has received a request from a committee appointed by the judicial convention of the Democratic party that this convention endorse the Democratic Candidate for justice of the Supreme Court in this district, and

Whereas, Prior to the holding of said Democratic convention the Republican primaries had been held throughout the district and conventions of delegates chosen at such primaries had selected delegates to convention, many of whom are pledge to the choice of certain candidates for the office of justice of the Supreme Court, which pledges they cannot violate, and

Whereas, The present Democratic Governor has disregarded the precedents of his Republican predecessors as to non-partison judicial appointments by appointing four Democrats to succeed Republican judges and has violated all precedents by sanctioning the abolition of the Court of Claims, composed entirely of Republicans, for the purpose of appointing Democratic successors, which ill accords with the pretense that this indorsement is sought in the interest of a non-partisan judiciary, it is hereby

Resolved, That the reguset to endorse the Democratic nominee for justice of the Supreme Court is respectfully declined.

The committee was composed of a delegate from each of the counties in the judicial district, Attorney S. B. Mead representing Oswego county.

Upon Hon. N. B. Smith of Pulaski devolved the pleasing task of placing the Hon. I. G. Hubbs, his fellow townsman and the choice of Oswego county for the exalted office, in nomination. We herewith reproduce Mr. Smith's speech in full:

Mr. Chairman and Delegates: The County of Oswego, though last on the calendar, has a candidate. After an earnest and thorough canvess, but a canvass that left no bittreness or acrimony, a candidate was unanimously selected at our Republican District Convention, and in obedience to instructions from that Convention and from the Republican electorate of the County, together with many electors of opposite political faith, I now present the name of that candidate, Mr. Irving G. Hubbs.

I shall not detain the members of this Convention with a detailed biographic sketch of our candidate,and I shall not attempt by flights of oratory to exploit his accomplishments and achievements.

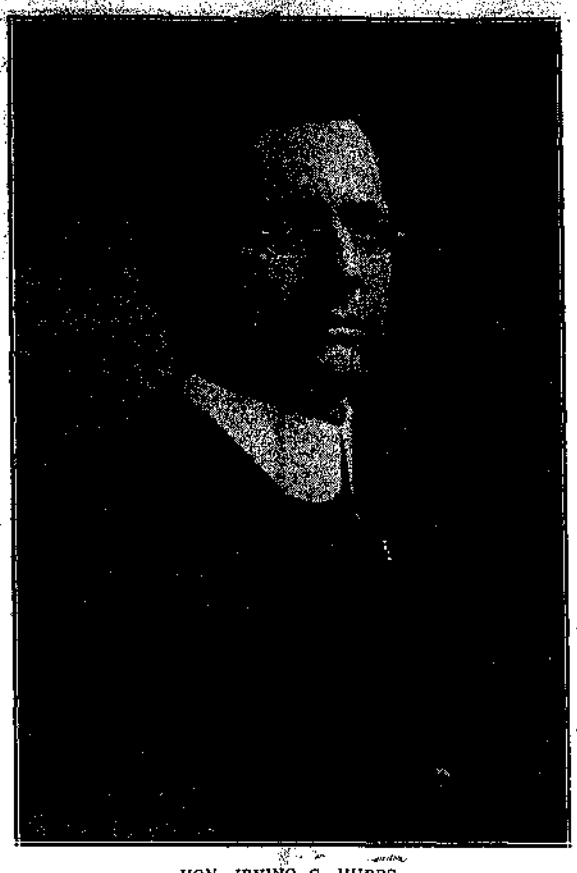
It is sufficient to say, and the facts warrant me in making the assertion, that he is a gentlemen forty-one years of age, in the enjoyment of robust health, a lawyer of excellent standing and repute and a citizen of unblemished character.

Graduating at one of the best High schools in our county, at the age of seventeen years, he entered Cornell University and subsequently the Law Department of the University, and though the youngest member of a large class, he, in the law school, was recognized at the time of his graduation as one of its most promising students. On account of the minimum age limit prescribed by the constitution, he was not admitted to practice until several months after his graduation, but when the privilege was given him, he entered the legal arena with hope and a fixed determination to succeed, in the village of Parish. Recognizing the dictum of Bacon "that every man is a debtor to his profession," by his assiduity, urbanity and exemplary habits, he acquired a large and lucrative practice in a rural community. Removing after the expiration of two years to the village of Pulaski, where he has since resided, his practice steadily and rapidly grew until he is well known as a successful and popular member of the Bar of this district

Without desparaging the attainments of other lawyers in the District, Mr. Hubbs, with the exception of two or three members of this Convention, has tried probably more cases in the Trial Terms of Courts in this County, Oswego and Jefferson, and other counties which I might mention than any of the lawyers of this Convention. He has also argued many cases in the Appellate Division and in the Court of Appeals.

"Actions speak louder than words," accomplishments more than promises, and therefore with hope and confidence I present his name for the consideration of this Convention.

In passing, it may be proper to say, that Mr. Hubbs is not presented as the candidate of Oswego County because he is affiliated with the Republican party. While it is true that he is a loyal member of our party and his father is a veteran of the Union War, yet members of the Democratic party who know Mr. Hubbs well, will not accuse him of offensive partisanship. He is not a politican and never sought or held any office except that of Special County Judge one term in his youthful days. We may hear some high sounding phrases as to the beauties of a non-partisan judiciary and many idealistic pictures of that condition may be presented to the electorate to secure votes for Mr. Justice Purcell, who by the favor of a Democratic Governor is serving as judge for a few months, owing to the untimely death of Mr. Justice Rogers. While we have no words of disparagement or criticism upon the official character or the judicial qualities of Judge Purcell, we are justified in asking the question: 'Has the Democratic party or Tammany Hall ever nominated a Republican or endorsed the nomination of a Republican lawyer in the First Judicial District for Justice of the Supreme Court?"



While it is true that locality or the residence of a candidate is not and should not be the controlling factor in making judicial nominations, yet there is not a high minded and honorable delegate in this Convention, and they are all honorable men, but will admit that the County of Oswego, in the interests of fair play and justice, is entitled to a resident supreme court justice. The County of Oswego, with its large area and population, with its bar of over one hundred members, with its varied and growing interests, with a port of entry which is one of the most important within the jurisdiction of the Federal Government, it will be admitted by every fair minded lawyer as well as business man, no matter where he may reside or what may be his partisan affiliations, is entitled to this nomination.

Admissions are considered, when made in open court as the highest type of evidence.

There is not a delegate present but if he should be called before the chairman of this Convention and the question should be propounded to him, 'Is not the County of Oswego entitled to a resident judge?' would at once answer in the affirmative.

Even the gentleman from Oneida County who has so eloquently presented the name of the candidate from that county, conscientious and honorable gentleman that he is, if called upon to answer the question, would, without hesitation, answer, "yes." While we do not disparage the qualifications of the proposed candidate from Oneida county, or criticise the conduct of the delegate from that county, in asking for the nomination of another resident justice in the city of Utica, while Justice DeAngelis, an able and well equipped judge, who is fully competent to attend promptly to all the emergency legal business which may arise in that county, resides also at Utica, may we not with propriety quote the words of the English poet, "Insatiate archer, could not one suffice?"

Shall the lawyers, as well as the people of Oswego county, irrespective of party affiliation, be compelled to endure longer the injustice and the inconvenience which they have been subjected to for the last six years, when there is now an opportunity to prevent its continuance? The question carries with it per se a negative answer. The undisputed fact, as well as the logic of the situation, appeal with irresistable force to the conscience and sense of fair play in the heart of every delegate present.

HON. IRVING G. HUBBS

Endorsing the sentiment of Burke, that the judge best fulfills the requirements of that honorable and responsible office who while "he has a disposition to conserve, yet has the ability to improve," and believing that Mr. Hubbs, with his sterling qualities of mind and heart, will discharge the duties of Supreme Court Justice with efficiency and a full appreciation of its responsibilities, and that, if nominated by this convention and elected, as we expect he will be, he will prove to the bench and the bar and the people to be an able, popular and upright judge, I commend his candidacy with confidence to your favorable consideration.

Herkimer and Oneida entered into a combination to bring the name of Judge Willis before the convention. The result was so discouraging that Mr. Willis withdrew from the contest and the two counties joined the others in making unanimous the nomination of Hubbs and Purcell.

A large number of enthusiastic friends of Mr. Hubbs attended the convention and when his name was presented it was greeted with cheers in which Onondaga and Lewis counties joined. At the conclusion of Mr. Smith's address and the balloting, Mr. Hubbs was brought before the convention and he gracefully acknowledged the honor conferred upon him. He said in part:

I thoroughly understand that one of the important reasons why this nomination has been given to me is because of the overwhelming equities of Oswego County, and as a matter of common right and justice to that County. Occupying the position that it does in the district, being fourth in population, and in the importance of its business interests, every fair-minded man must concede that it is only just that it have a resident justice. Not only is it fair, but it is of great importance from a business standpoint.

It will be of great convenience to members of the bar, it will lessen the expense of litigation and enable the justices of the district to perform their duties more satisfactorily to themselves and the people of the district.

In thanking you, therefore, for this nomination I want not only to try to convey to you my own deep personal sense of appreciation, but also the thanks of Oswego County.

Judge Emerson was given an ovation when he appeared before the convention and the over whelming sentiment throughout the district, as gleaned from the earnest men in attendance at the convention, was that a majority of 5,000 to 6,000 might confidently be expected for the able and popular nominees on the Republican judicial ticket.

The real work has commenced and from now until the polls close on November 7, the ground will be stubbornly debated. Every argument is in favor of Oswego county's candidate. The exigencies of the case would warrant every elector in every county voting for Mr. Hubbs. He is fit and qualified. Oswego county has been deprived for six years of a resident justice and this will be her last opportunity in ten years to secure one. Could stronger arguments be offered as a plea for her candidate?

Following are a few of the press comments in adjacent counties on Mr. Hubbs nomination:

Jefferson County Journal—Irving G. Hubbs, the second nominee, is a young man in the prime of his manhood. He is a graduate of Cornell, and in the twenty odd years since he came to the bar has built up an extended practice in Oswego county. He is a man of high character and extended professional experience. His practice has been such as to take him into many other counties from his home county, and he has thus become well and favorably known. He is courteous and dignified in the trial of cases; has always rested his cases upon their merits rather than upon any technical questions that might arise. He is a self-made man; one of the kind whom people will delight to honor. He has exactly the judicial temperament and character. He is honest and high-minded and will come to the bench at a time in life which will give a long judicial career. The ticket is certainly a ticket which every Republican can take delight in endorsing at the poles.

Syracuse Post-Standard: — Judge Hubbs came into the convention with the loyal and undivided support of his county. For the first time in years there were no whispers of factional discord among the Oswego delegates. They stood loyally for Oswego's candidate. They asked for his nomination upon his merit as a man and lawyer, and upon the needs of Oswego county for a resident justice. That the equities of the situation favored Oswego could not be questioned. In character, and in fitness, in his reputation as a citizen and his record as lawyer he measures up to the high standard that has been set for Supreme Court Justices in this district.

The Watertown Times, which is supporting Justice Purcell, in an editorial speaking of the Oswego County candidate says: Irving G. Hubbs is a clean cut, able man, whose integrity as a man and ability as a lawyer has not been questioned.

The Watertown Standard in a leading editorial says of the Oswego County candidate: Irving G. Hubbs is one of the leaders of the young men of the bar of the district. He enjoys a large practice and has been very successful. His temperament is judicial and his ability is unquestioned. Oswego County was entitled to a nomination,and the convention ratified the action of the voters of the county who selected Mr. Hubbs.

Syracuse Herald: Oswego is now the only one of the six counties of the Fifth Judicial district which has no Supreme Court Justice. It has had no Justice for nearly six years, or since the close of 1905. Yet it has a population of 71,664, and it includes two cities, Oswego and Fulton. Herkimer county, with a population of only 56,355, and with the single city of Little Falls, only a little larger than Oswego's smaller city, has a Justice of the Supreme Court; and so has Lewis county, with a population of only 24,849, and with no city at all. Jefferson county with a population exceeding Oswego's by less than nine thousand has now two Justices, one of them in the Appellate Division; and if Purcell and Emerson should both be elected, it would have two trial Justices, as against only one for Onondaga, by far the largest county in the district, with a population of more than 200,000, and containing the fourth city of the state, and against Oswego's none. Moreover, the urban population of Oswego county, comprehending the cities of Oswego and Fulton, exceeds that of Jefferson County by about 7,000. We mention this fact, because it is well known that litigation or the business of the courts, increases in the cities in more than arithmetical ratio over that of the country towns.

Now while the Herald has never argued, and does not now argue, that this question of the territorial apportionment of Supreme Court Justices throughout the district should be a controlling influence in judicial nominations or elections, we do say most earnestly that, everything else being equal, the voters of the district should take into account the disadvantage under which Oswego county labors, and repair that disadvantage in the interests of equity and fair play. The citizens of a county of more than 70,000 inhabitants, nearly half of whom are embraced in two cities most surely suffer a serious inconvenience from the lack of a resident Justice of the Supreme Court. It would be unjust for the people of the district to permit that condition to continue when it can be so easily remedied

For Supreme Court Justices
HON. IRVING G. HUBBS
HON. EDGAR C. EMERSON.

For Assemblyman
T. C. SWEET

For Sheriff
MYRON A. STRANAHAN

For District Attorney
FRANCIS D. CULKIN

For County Superintendent of Poor
C. ADELBERT STONE

For Special County Judge
GEORGE M. FANNING

The Republican Outlook

From all sources of information throughout the county comes the tidings of enthusiastic and earnest work for the ticket this Fall, and a majority unprecedented in recent years is confidently expected for every candidate. M. A. Stranahan for sheriff will receive every Republican vote and he is daily receiving assurances of substantial Democratic support. C. A. Stone for superintendent of the poor cannot be defeated as his record in the office to which he is renominated has been such as to warrant the electors in believing that he is the right man for the position and that he should hold it another term. F. D. Culkin for district attorney will run well up with the remainder of the ticket, if not ahead of his ticket. G. M. Fanning for special county judge will receive the Republican votes and many complimentary votes from the opposing party. He will receive a strong vote in every ward in Fulton as a starter. Assemblyman T. C. Sweet is a prime favorite with his constituents and his majority of preceeding election days will be duplicated in November. The Hon. Irving G. Hubbs at the head of the ticket will bring forth a vote that will astound the other counties in the district. His neighbors in both parties will give him a majority that will be most flattering to him. As there is but one nominee on the Democratic ticket for justice, Oswego county Democrats can and will vote for Justice Purcell and for Mr. Hubbs. Local pride and the exigencies of the county's case will plead successfully that this be done. Without in the least disparaging the ability and popularity of the Democratic nominees the Times prophesies that the Republican ticket will sweep to victory in November because every candidate on it is best calculated to satisfactorially fill the demand upon him, and because his party is harmonious, undivided, and loyally at his back.

It has been suggested that the bill providing for additional Justices of the Supreme Court in New York County should meet the fate of a similar one and be vetoed by Governor Dix. It is alleged that the bill is not to relieve an overworked court, but for the purpose of providing positions for some members of Tammany Hall who have aspirations for judicial honors. The opponents of the measure in the Metropolis suggest that with many judges there is intolerably slow justice, breeding leisurely habits, lack of industry and all the evils attending such a condition of affairs. The Tribune states that if the Legislature is so certain that the work of this department is falling behind that it must needs pass over again a bill rejected by Governor Dix, let it address itself to simplifying judicial procedure, eliminating technicalities and reducing the number of appeals. With the business of the courts put on a sensible basis we should need not more but fewer judges.

The Turco-Italian conflict indicates that no treaties of arbitration will make the signatory powers keep the peace if they are determined to fight. It is noted that Andrew Carnegie's great "Palace of Peace" at the Hague is still in course of construction, and notwithstanding the millions expended, hte "dogs of war" have again been unleashed and savage brutality reigns supreme. The treaties of peace between Great Britain and France, Germany, the Netherlands and Japan, have reached preliminary stages and it is sincerely hoped a successful termination will follow. Secretary Knox and Ambassador Brice, representing the two most powerful nations on the earth, have signed articles of comity which bind the nations entering into the compact and makes them susceptible to the application of the principles of law and equity.

REPUBLICAN ALDERMEN NAMED

The Republican caucuses were held in this city on Wednesday evening and able representatives were selected from the different wards to transact city business and serve as an advisory board to the mayor. There was no contest in any of the wards, the nominations being made unanimous.

Alderman Fred Wolcott was given the honor of renomination by the Fifth Ward Republicans, his record on the Board being absolutely satisfactory.

Mr. C. R. Dines, of the Granby Paper company, was nominated alderman from the First Ward; Mr. F. E. VanAmburg, a west side merchant, became the nominee of the Second Ward; Mr. E. E. Taylor, of the meat firm of Taylor & Coleman, became the choice of the Third Ward; Mr. F P. Keeler was nominated by the Fourth Ward; Mr. Wolcott by the Fifth Ward and Mr. Harry Wilcox by the Sixth Ward.

The new city committe is composed of: First Ward, L. E. Taggart; Second Ward, Otto Malone; Third Ward, A. M. Hurd; Fourth Ward, George C. Webb; Fifth Ward, F. M. Cornell; Sixth Ward, H. Putnam Allen.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

The Times is indebted to Contractor Drury for one of the finest specimens of Northern Spy apples one would care to see. Beautifully colored, weighing a pound and an ounce and measuring 17-inches in circumference, it will make many a mouthful.

Messrs. G. B. Palmer and Joshua Rigley are sending thousands of barrels of apples per day to the eastern market.

A half page advertisement from Deys, Syracuse, reached this office too late for publication this week. Watch for their announcement in the Times next Wednesday.

Do you use an atomizer in treating Nasal Catarrh? If so you will appreciate Ely's Liquid Cream Balm, the quickest and surest remedy for this disease. There is relief in the first dash of spray upon the heated sensitive, air-passages. All druggists, 75c., by Ely Bros., 56 Warren street, New York.

REPUBLICAN SUPERVISOR NOMINEES

On Thursday evening the Republican Supervisors' Caucuses were held, which resulted as follows: Charles Stewart was the unanimous choice of the electors present of the First and Sixth wards. George Fuller was the unanimous choice of the caucus in the City Hall to again lead the Fourth and Fifth wards' supervisors' fight, while Wade E. Gayer received the unanimous vote of the Second and Third wards' caucus, Mr. Gayers being a renomination.

TO THE TAXPAYERS

Mr. Taxpayer: I have received your several communications, all of which I would have been only too glad to have answered, had you signed you name, or what would have been still better, had you come to my office or my home. I can assure you that any taxpayer or any resident of Fulton is not only entitled to any information the Board of Education has, but we are willing and anxious to show you all there is to the entire matter of the building of the new school at Oak street, and the purchase of Falley Seminary property. Oak street must have a new school building. We have had in view the possibility of rebuilding the old one, but after going ovre the matter fully with a reliable architect, we concluded the only practical and economical way to do was to build an entire new building on the beautiful lot at Oak street.

Now, as to the Falley Seminary purchase, won't you note and tell your friends that we are now paying $1,000.00 per year rent for five rooms in the Seminary building that we use now and will have to have at least one, if not two more rooms next Fall, making the rent $1,200 or $1,400? In other words, we will soon have spent the $16,000.00 asked for the property by the Gilmour heirs and will have nothing to show for it. Why not buy a building we must have and pay for it on the instalment plan and have the finest school property in Fulton to show for the money spent? Don't it look reasonable to you. Come down and we will talk it over.

John Hunter,
President Board of Education.

LEGAL NOTICE

STATE OF NEW YORK, Supreme Court, County of Oswego. Fulton Paper Company vs. Lucy A. Nelson, et al.

Sirs: TAKE NOTICE, That upon the petition of Charles M. Allen of Fulton, N. Y., duly verified on the 9th day of October, 1911, one of the owners of water rights adjudicated in and by the decree hereinafter mentioned and upon the decree hereinafter mentioned, a motion will be made at the Special Term of this Court, appointed to be held at the Court House in the City of Oswego, N. Y., in and for the County of Oswego, on the 28th day of October, 1911, at the opening of the Court on that day, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard for a rule or order in this action, directing that Louis W. Emerick, of Fulton, N. Y., named as a commissioner in a decree in the above entitled action, duly granted on the 30th day of June, 1906, and duly entered in Oswego County Clerk's Office, July 2, 1906, be removed as such commissioner on the ground that said commissioner has ceased to have the necessary qualifications provided for in said decree, and upon the further ground that the situation of such commissioner makes such removal advisable, and that said order shall provide and name a successor to such commissioner, and for such other or further order of relief in the premises as shall be just.

Dated the 9th day of October, 1911.

Yours etc.,

Fresh Schoolday Luncheons

When class room work has left us tired, a dainty luncheon is required; and things that we enjoy the most are the things we spread on delicious toast—made on a General Electric Radiant Toaster. One of these Radiant Toasters will make scientific Toast faster than the average gathering of school girls can eat it. It is scientific Toast because the Radiant Heat forces the absolutely necessary chemical change in the bread—thereby making Toast as digestible as it is wholesome and delicious.

The General Electric Radiant Toaster weighs less than two pounds. It can be attached to any ordinary lighting socket, and it makes Perfect Toast at the insignificant cost of one-tenth of a cent a slice. This Radiant Toaster is also uniquely ornamental—the cheerful glow of the coils reflected on a neat porcelain base lends a distinctive charm.

Resolved, That it is necessary to purchase a site for a High school building and athletic purposes; that the ward within which said site is to be purchased is the Fourth Ward of the City of Fulton, and said site is known as the Falley Seminary property; that the particular sum required for same is sixteen thousand ($16,000) dollars.

Resolved, That it is necessary to erect a new school building to take the place of the present structure, known as the Oak street school building; that the ward within which said building is to be built is the Second Ward of the City of Fulton at about the centero f the site owned by the City of Fulton and now used for school purposes; that the particular sum required for the same is eighteen thousand ($18,000) dollars.

Resolved, That the Clerk of this Board be and is hereby authorized and directed to deliver a certified copy of the foregoing resolutions to the Common Council of the City of Fulton.

On motion of Mr. Freeman, seconded by Mr. Achilli, the resolutions were unanimously adopted. The following voted aye: Mr. Hunter, Mr. Achilli, Mr. Brannan, Mr. Freeman, Mr. Sullivan, Mr. Wells.

State of New York,
County of Oswego,
City of Fulton,

I, J. R. Fairgrieve, Clerk of the Board of Education, do hereby certify that I have compared the foregoing resolutions with the original resolutions on file in my office and that the same are correct transcripts therefrom and of the whole of such originals.

J. R. Fairgrieve,
Clerk, Board of Education.

Alderman Palmer introduced the following and moved its adoption:

Resolved, That the petition of the Board of Education be laid on the table until next meeting of the Common Council.

Aye—Aldermen Palmer, Malone, Smith and Johnson.

Absent — Aldermen Wolcott and Newton. —Carried.

Alderman Johnson introduced the following and moved its adoption:

Resolved, That the petition of the Pierce Sand Company for transfer of assessment be laid on the table indefinitely.

Aye—Aldermen Palmer, Malone, Smith and Johnson. —Carried.

Alderman Johnson introduced the following and moved its adoption:

Resolved, That the City Attorney be instructed to defend the action of Lillian I. Foster vs. City of Fulton now on the calendar of the Supreme Court for trial.

Aye—Aldermen Palmer, Malone, Smith and Johnson. —Carried.

Alderman Johnson introduced the following and moved its adoption:

Whereas, The Common Council did on the 14th day of December, 1910, resolve by an affirmative vote of two-thirds of its members that an extraordinary expenditure ought, for the benefit of the city, to be made for the city's share of the cost of the erection of a bridge across the Oswego river in the City of Fulton, N. Y., connecting East and West Broadway in said city, and

Whereas, Said Common Council did on the 14th day of February, 1911, estimate the sum necessary therefor to be the sum of Eighty thousand dollars ($80,000), and published such resolution and estimate, for at least three times, once in each week, in the official newspaper, togteher with the notice that on the 2nd day of March, 1911, at the different polling places in the different wards of the said city, a special election of the taxpayers of the city would be held to decide whether the amount of such expenditure should be raised by tax, and

Whereas, Such election was so held on the 2nd day of March, 1911, and immediately after the closing of the polls the inspectors canvassed the votes and made a certificate, signed by them or two of them, stating the whole number of baliots voted at such election, the whole number cast for such special tax, and the whole number cast against such special tax, and forthwith delivered the same to the City Clerk, and

Whereas, Said City Clerk delivered the same to the Common Council at its next meeting, held on the 7th day of March, 1911, and the said Common Council caused the result of such election thus certified, to be entered in its minutes, and the sum of money thus voted will, with the other annual city taxes as provided for in Section 44 of the City Charter, be in excess of one and one-half per centum of the assessed valuation of the real and personal property of this city; therefore be it

Resolved, By the Common Council of the City of Fulton, N. Y., that registered bonds of the City of Fulton in the amount of Eighty thousand dollars ($80,000) in payment of the citys estimated share of the cost of erection of a bridge over the Oswego River in the City of Fulton, connecting East and West Broadway, to be issued and sold pursuant to the provisions of the City Charter; said bonds to be of the denomination of One thousand dollars ($1,000) each, bearing date of the 5th day of annual installments, two on the 5th November, 1911, payable as follows: t day of November, 1912, and two each November 5, thereafter, until Forty thousand dollars ($40,000) has been paid, and thereafter ofur annually on the 5th day of November of each year until fully paid; to bg registered in form and bearing interest at the rate of not more than four and one-half per cent per annum, payable semi-annually on the 5th day of May and November of each year; said bonds and interest thereon to be made payable at United States Mortgage and Trust Company of New York city, and that said bonds shall be signed by the Mayor and City Chamberlain, and countersigned by the City Clerk under the seal of said city; be it further.

Resolved, That for the purpose of paying the interest on said bonds and principal as the same becomes du and payable, a tax be levied annually upon the taxable property of the city in the manner provided by the City Charter, which tax shall be a sufficient amount for said purpose, and shall be applied to the payment of said interest and principal, and to no other purpose whatever; be it further

Resolved, That the City Chamberlain be and he is hereby authorized and directed to cause a notice, inviting sealed proposals for the whole or any part of said bonds to be published in the official newspaper of this city, and such other publications as he may see fit, for at least one insertion, and that said notice require that all bids for said bonds shal be accompanied by a certified check of an Incorporated State or National Bank of this State, payable to the order of the City Chamberlain in the amount of Fifteen hundred dollars, and such check to be returned to the unsuccessful bidders, and the check of the person or corporation whose bid is accepted to be retained by the city, and applied on the account of the purchase price or to be retained by said city as and for liquidated damages in case the purchaser fails to take and pay for said bonds on or before the day specified for the delivery of said bonds; be it further,

Resolved, That the said proposals be received up to the 17th day of October, 1911, at eight o'clock in the evening of said day, and that this Common Council meet on said day at the said time for the purpose of considering said proposals, and said bonds to bed elivered to the successful bidder at the United States Mortgage and Trust Company, 55 Cedar street, New York city, on the 5th day of November, 1911, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon.

Aye—Aldermen Palmer, Malone, Smith and Johnson.

Absent — Aldermen Wolcott and Newton. —Carried.

Alderman Malone introduced the following and moved its adoption:

Resolved, That the Clerk be and he is hereby authorized to draw an order on the General Fund in favor of the Lee Memorial hospital for the sum of $375.00, said sum being the appropriation for the months of July, August and September, 1911.

Aye—Aldermen Palmer, Malone, Smith and Johnson.

APPLES SHIPPED TO OMAHA

J. W. Rigley sold a carload of Greening apples last week to be shipped to Omaha, the purchaser having been here and examined the fruit on the trees on the Allen Osborn farm in Volney. He stated that the apples were to be exhibited at an exposition at Omaha. Mr. Rigley gives it as his opinion that the apple crop in this vicinity is the best produced in many years. Many of the growers of fruit have resorted to the method of spraying and this has conduced to produce almost perfect fruit. Mr. Rigley is taking in all the fruit he can handle and almost daily shipments are being made.—Observer.

BOY SCOUTS

Saturday afternoon at 3, Scout Nicholas Wallace, Assistant Patrol Leader of the Second Patrol of the First Methodist Boy Scouts, left headquarters to carry a message to the commandant of the Fort at Volney Center. His orders were to carry the message to one of a certain three houses, secure the signature of one of the residents of the same and return to headquarters with the message by 5:30 o'clock. A band of 17 scouts in command of Scout Fenten B. Smith were stationed at various points intervening to intercept the Scout Messenger and take from him the message. The plucky messenger succeeded in eluding the hostiles on the out-going trip, secured the signature of the Fort Commandant, Leigh Simpson, and had started on the return when he was espied by several of the hostile scouts. Seeing that escape was impossible he hid the message where he could easily find it again and secreted himself under a barn. Here he was soon captured, Lawrence Casey being the first scout to lay hold on him. The scouts who participated in the engagement in command of Captain Smith were Leland Root, Thornton Hildebrandt, Ray Weaver, George Petrie, Lawrence Casey, Albert Sanford, Brooks Parks, Hadwin Fitch, Willis Stiles, Harold Parmley, Leland Carner, Ralph Foster, Ira Palmer, Herman Church, Roy Kitts. The game was under the direction of the Scout Master, Rev. C. L. Peck, and the decision was that it was a draw between the messenger and the hostiles, inasmuch as the message was not returned to the camp, neither was it secured by the hostile force.

SUPERVISOR TERRY WINS

Pulaski, Oct. 5.—Supervisor Manor J. Terry won out today at the largest caucus held here in years, with the total vote 685. Dr. Terry received 359 votes, while John W. Parkhurst received 326.

It may be that not every country has spoken, but so far as heard from, Canada is the only place where the increased cost of living is popular.

Streeter and the Battle Island Pulp and Paper Company will be heated by the new plant.

RE-OPENING OF STATE STREET CHURCH

State Street Methodist Episcopal church of this city, which for the past two months has been in the hands of the painters and decorators, will be re-opened Sunday, October 15, with special services. The day will also be observed as Rally Day in the Sunday School and Epworth League.

State street church was dedicated ten years ago in May. In recognition of the tenth anniversary the membership made a generous offering for the thorough repair of the property. The work has included the painting of the entire property, both church and parsonage, and the addition of a re-enforced cement porch at the State street entrance to the chapel. The interior has been beautifully decorated in tones of green under the skilful direction of Mr. Charles R. Rudd of this city. A new two-toned green carpet has been laid in the auditorium. New lights have been installed and the entire plant put in perfect order.

The church has been fortunate in securing for its speaker on Sunday the Rev. Arthur Copeland, D. D., chaplain of Auburn Prison, a poet and pulpit orator well known in this State. He will preach at both the morning and evening services. Special music will be rendered by the Male Quartet of the church.

On Monday evening, October 16, Dr. Copeland will deliver his famous lecture, "John Ericsson, the Hero of the Little Monitor." The Grand Army of the Republic has been invited to attend the lecture in a body as the guests of the church.

Thursday evening, October 19, will be recognized as Charter Members Night, in honor of those who have been connected with the church from the beginning. Addresses will be delivered by the Rev. T. B. Shepherd of Oswego, who as presiding elder of Oswego District, enrolled the first membership of the church, and by Mr. E. R. Rehead of this city. A cordial invitation is extende to the public to attend all these services.

MORE THAN ENOUGH IS TOO MUCH

To maintain health, a mature man or woman needs just enough food to repair the waste and supply energy and body heat. The habitual consumption of more food than is necessary for these purposes is the prime cause of stomach troubles, rheumatism and disorders of the kidneys. If troubled with indigestion, revise your diet, let reason and not appetite control and take a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and you will soon be all right again. For sale by all druggists.

DEATH OF U. S. MARSHAL WEAVER

Utica, October 5.—Van R. Weaver, U. S. marshal for the Northern district of New York, died here today following a long illness.

"There's no life of Cromwell in the New York Public Library," exclaims Mayor Gaynor. But he needn't be surprised; there are no Cromwells in New York either.

The department of Agriculture estimates that $620,000,000 worth of eggs were produced last year. We fear those figures must have been prepared when eggs were selling at midwinter prices.

THE WEEK

In spite of war, industrial disputes and other influences tending to impair confidence and retard enterprise, the movement of trade continue, large, although still below producing capacity and the recent gradual improvement is maintained. The records of increased bank clearings and of reduced business failures are clearly indicative of this. Bank clearings, which during September gained 10.5 per cent. over a year ago, showed during this week a gain of 1.7 per cent. outside New York and 8.6 in New York over 1910, although 3.1 and 17.2 per cent. respectively, below 1909. Railroad earnings during three weeks of September gained 1.1 per cent. over last year. The best feature of the business situation continues to be the export trade. This is shown not only in the statistics of foreign commerce, but appears also in the reports of specific trades.

The situation in iron and steel is still marked by considerable irregularity, and there has undoubtedly been a sharp falling off in the volume of business since August. Orders now being placed, however, are expending, especially in iron pipe, while the railroads are buying rails more freely.

Cotton goods mills are working into a better position in consequence of the lower cost of the staple and values of finished goods tend downward, although this is more noticeable in the primary gray goods markets than in jobbing or retail departments. Staple prints are being sold steadily and miscellaneous export trade promises to be broader. Colored cottons are generally steady, but bleached and brown domestics are being bought from hand to mouth. There is a small gain in the volume of operations in the woolen and worsted mills and the volume of September business as a whole was good. Jobbers are doing a moderate seasonable trade and retailers are repeating their orders steadily, showing better buying conditions at the counters. Spring business is opening slowly in silks.

Slight improvement still marks conditions in footwear. Manufacturers usually take inventories at this season before commencing to cut spring goods, but the movement continues quite satisfactory, both at wholesale and retail. The leather market continues to maintain a better tone and prices are firmly held. Receipts of all varieties are small and buyers are more anxious concerning the regularity of deliveries than they were a few weeks ago.

The recession in the price of cotton brought spot quotations close to 10c. The trifling deterioration shown by the last Government condition report, the percentage being considerably above recent years, the excellent weather at the South which facilitates final growth and picking and the ginning report which showed 3,363,000 bales ginned to September 25, far in excess of any preceding year and 67 per cent. more than a year ago, all tended to depress quotations.

Liabilities of commercial failures reported for September amount to $11,900,568, of which $4,145,110 were in manufacturing, $3,816,927 in trading and $3,938,531 in other commercial lines. Failures this week numbered 212 in the United States against 207 last year, and 20 in Canada compared with 21 a year ago.

It does away with the blacking nuisance,—a thankless job that nobody welcomes. All Model "R" tops are ground and polished. This gives a beautiful surface that gradually turns blue from the heat, never needs blacking, and always looks better than a top that has been blacked.

The ash problem is solved too. You can have an ash-chute, if you wish, and conduct all dirt to the cellar. Or if you prefer the ash-pan, the Sterling has a big one with ash slides that positively carry all the dust into the pan.

There are other features, but that ought to be enough to decide you,—no more dust, no more blacking!

But don't forget that the Sterling alone of all ranges, is made on the Unit System. We can combine the "units" in any way you wish, give you any type of range, with any equipment, any capacity for cooking, baking, broiling, roasting, water-heating, etc. A made-to-order range!

Don't fail to see it.

TREASURER LONG FOR MAYOR

Treasurer D. D. Long, of the Oswego County Republican Committee, at the Republican city caucuses held in Oswego last week, became the unanimous choice of the city for mayor. Mr. Long appeals to all classes of electors, regardless of party, and he will poll a record vote in that Democratic stronghold.

In Mr. Long's candidacy the warring factions came together and all breaches were healed, his nomination being as enthusiastically advocated by Judge Stowell as by Congressman Mott. In fact it is impossible to find a dissenting voice regarding Mr. Long among Republicans, and it is a safe bet that the Bulger Democrats of the starch city will give him their support on November 7.

Mr. Long is a self made man; a conservative business man and the soul of honor and responsibility. In persuading him to run the Republicans have taken a far step toward party betterment and factional consolidation.

Truly Shattuck and Bernard Daley in "Alma, Where Do You Live?" soon to play at Empire Theatre, Syracuse.

EMPIRE THEATRE, SYRACUSE

Henry W. Savage will offer "A Million" to the patrons of the Empire Theatre Friday and Saturday matinee and evening, October 13 and 14, an offer which will doubtless arouse much interest in this city, where the name of the famous impressario is highly esteemed by amusement lovers. "A Million" is a French farce, brand new from the Gallic capital, and said to be teeming with laughter-evoking lines and situations. "A Million" has been won in a lottery by a young sculptor in the Latin Quarter of New York, but when the ticket is sought, the blouse, in which it had been kept, has disappeared, carried away by a thief who uses it as a disguise to escape the police. There is a general consternation in the studio at this discovery, and a hunt is organized for the blouse. The chase leads the hunters through thieves' dens, second hand clothing shops, the house of an Italian tenor who has bought it to wear in "La Boheme," and finally it is traced to a road house in the Bronx where it is recovered by the sweetheart of the sculptor with the aid of the thief whom she helped to elude the police. The fun is fast and furious; one laughable situation following another with great rapidity, until the final curtain is reached. The characters are extremely well drawn and are in the hands of a cast of players whose names guarantee the excellence of the performance. Among the names of the players are Eugene O'Brien, Taylor Holmes, John A. Butler, Paul Ker, William Burris, Robert Webb Lawrence, Irene Fenwick, Eulalia Jansen, Jennie Weathersby and Kenyon Bishop.

SOUTH GRANBY

We are having nice weather now but had a hard frost Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Dingle of Fulton visited their cousin, Mrs. Lottie Cook, Sunday.

Mrs. Carrie Lampman entertained the soap club Friday and it being her birthday as well as Mrs. Hannah Stewart's they both celebrated while there were a number invited that did not belong to the club and they had a very enjoyable time.

Auntie McCaslin spent week before last in Fulton and shortly after her return was taken very ill but is much better now.

Mrs. Lottie Austin, who has been caring for her mother, Mrs. Carrie Hannum, who has been very ill, is at home once more. Her mother having recovered.

Mr. Neal Andrews and Mr. James Howard of Syracuse were over-night guests at Fred Andrews Saturday.

Mrs. Hannah Stewart, who has reached her four-score years, the 6th of this month, was happily surprised on Sunday when her children, six sons and their families came to see her. Even to one great grand child. There was thirty present and all her family excepting Mrs. Sophia Garrett of Baldwinsville ,who was not well enough to come, were there. Besides her children was one brother-in-law, Mr. Wilson Stewart, and one sister-in-law, Mrs. Frank Wilcox, and a neice, Miss Essie Wilcox. They had a grand dinner and she was the recipient of many nice presents. She also had a birthday post card shower and received seventy-five cards and more are coming. Charley Allen came with his camera and photographed Mrs. Stewart and her six sons and then took the whole group. Mrs. Stewart enjoyed the gathering very much and we hope she may live to see her family together many more times.

Mr. Charles Terpenning and son, Howard, of Ira have been thrashing in this neighborhood.

Mrs. Beula Pingree, who has been visiting her parents in Roxbury, has returned home.

Mr. Betts of Syracuse was a guest at Elmer Fisher's Saturday.

Milo Austin, wife and son Glenn made a short visit to his sister's, Mrs. Fred Andrews, Sunday in his auto and his father and mother accompanied them to Syracuse returning home Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Rumsey of Wolcott were visitors in this place last week.

Mr. James Kelley and wife and Mr. Dan Kelley were guests at Will Wybrons on Sunday.

Mr. L. Chapman visited his sister, Mrs. Dickenson, a few days.

Miss Mary Stege spent last week in Fulton.

Miss Viola Covill visited her mother on Saturday.

Mrs. Harry Covill has gone to Fulton to visit her mother.

COMMON COUNCIL TAKES ACTION

Will Present to Electors Proposition of Board of Education to Bond City for Improvement of School Buildings and Purchase of Site.

Fulton, N. Y., Oct. 17, 1911.

Special meeting of Common Council.

Present—Mayor Conners, Aldermen Malone, Smith, Palmer, Johnson.

Absent—Aldermen Newton, Wolcott.

Resolved, That it is necessary to purchase a site for high school building and athletic purposes; that the ward within which said site is to be purchased is the Fourth Ward of the City of Fulton and said site is known as the Talley Seminary property; that the particular sum required for the same is sixteen thousand (16,000) dollars.

Resolved, That it is necessary to erect a new school building to take the place of the present structure, known as the Oak street school building; that the ward within which said building is to be built is the second ward of the City of Fulton and now used for school purposes; that the particular sum required for the same is eighteen thousand (18,000) dollars.

Resolved, That the clerk of this board be and is hereby authorized an directed to deliver a certified copy of the foregoing resolution to the Common Council of the City of Fulton.

State of New York,
County of Oswego,
City of Fulton.

I, J. R. Fairgrieve, clerk of the Board of Education, do hereby certify that I have compared the foregoing resolutions with the original resolutions on file in my office, and that they are correct transcripts therefrom and of the whole of such originals.

J. R. Fairgrieve,
Clerk, Board of Education.

Board Takes Official Action

Alderman Smith introduced the following and moved its adoption.

Whereas, The Board of Education of the City of Fulton has resolved by an affirmative vote of two thirds of its members that it is necessary to purchase a site for school and athletic purposes; that the ward within which said site is to be purchased is the Fourth Ward of the City of Fulton and said site is known as the Talley Seminary property; that the particular sum required for the same is sixteen thousand (16,000) dollars, and

Whereas, The Board of Education has resolved by an affirmative vote of two thirds of its members that it is necessary to erect a new school building to take the place of the present structure known as the Oak street school building; that the ward within which said building is to be built is the scond ward of the City of Fulton and now used for school purposes; that the particular sum required for the same is eighteen thousand (18,000) dollars.

Whereas, The Board of Education has delivered a certified copy of such resolutions to the Common Council, therefore, be it

Resolved, That a special election of the qualified electors of said City to vote for or against such appropriations as the proposed expenditures will impose, be and the same is hereby called to be held on the 7th day of November, 1911 in connection with, and at the same places in said City as the general election to be held on that day.

That the following proposition be submitted at such special election:

Shall the sum of sixteen thousand (16,000) dollars be appropriated and raised by taxation in sixteen annual installments with interest, and the Common Council authorized to issue bonds of the city, therefore, for the purpose of paying for this site for school and athletic purposes?

That the ward within which said site is to be purchased is the Fourth Ward of the City of Fulton and said site is known as the Talley Seminary property.

That the following proposition be submitted at such special election:

Shall the sum of eighteen thousand (18,000) dollars be appropriated and raised by taxation in eighteen annual installments with interest, and the Common Council authorized to issue bonds of the City therefor, for the purpose of erecting a new school building to take the place of the present structure known as the Oak street school building?

That the ward within which said building is to be built is the second ward of the City of Fulton at about the center of the site owned by the City of Fulton and now used for school purposes.

That the clerk give notice to said special election as required by law.

Aye—Aldermen Palmer, Malone, Smith and Johnson.

Absent—Aldermen Wolcott, Newton.

CITY OF FULTON, ss:

I hereby certify that the above resolutions were duly adopted at a meeting of the Common Council of the City of Fulton, held at the City Hall on the 17th day of Oct., 1911.

J. C. Harrington, City Clerk.

Approved this 17th day of October, 1911. Joseph H. Conners, Mayor.

EXCISE MONEY

County Treasurer Kandt has received a check for Oswego county's share of the State excise money. The money is divided, the State taking one half and the other half going to the towns and cities where the licenses are issued. 30 FIRST STREET, FULTON

NON-PARTIZAN MAYOR FOR FULTON

John E. Boland Becomes Nominee of Democrats and Is Endorsed by Republicans—Republican Candidate Could Not Be Secured to Become Party's Standard Bearer—Committee of Republicans Agree Upon Endorsement.

Last Wednesday evening the Republican City Committee composed of Messrs. L. E. Taggart, Otto Malone, A. M. Hurd, George C. Webb, F. M. Cornell and H. Putnam Allen and the special committee selected by the City Convention, Messrs. C. R. Bennett, F. J Switzer, Charles M. Allen, William E. Hughes and William Church, (Mr. Hughes was unable to be present and asked Mr. William Hunter to accept his proxy), met to decide upon a nominee for the Republican mayoralty contest. Every man on the committee sincerely believed that it was better for all parties that each civic ticket should have a head, but when, after ten days of strenuous effort to secure a responsible elector to head the ticket, the committee met to decide the question, and not a candidate was available. Confronted with the fact that Messrs. Birney Clark, J. A. Foster, H. J. Wilson, W. A. Butts, E. J. Penfield, William Church, W. H. Merriam, J. H. Hollingsworth, J. W. Stevenson, G. B. Fairman, F. J. Switzer, G. C. Webb, F. B. Dilts, J. W. Rigley, H. M. Morin, N. L. Whitaker, Edward Quirk, Drs. N. H. Haviland, E. J. Cusack and many other Republicans had absolutely refused to harken to the subject of a nomination for mayor the committee was in a quandary as to the best and most satisfactory solution of the problem. It was admitted that Mr. Boland's popularity had been a factor in deterring Republicans from opposing him, and from that fact was evolved the thought that an endorsement of the Democratic nominee would produce the non-partizan administration which many electors had bespoken.

The twelve men deliberated and debated the question from all viewpoints and finally decided, with the exception, of Mr. William Church, that Mr. Boland should be endorsed by the Republican organization of the city of Fulton for Mayor.

Considerable agitation has resulted from the decision of the committee which was entrusted with the selection of a candidate by the delegates and electors of the Republican party.

No one doubts Mr. Boland's honesty or believes that he will not serve the best of his ability, but many of the old line Republicans feel that they are left without the privilege of choice in their vote. It is believed, however, that in view of the fact that within six years Messrs. J. M. Foster, E. Quirk and Mayor Connors have been elected on the Democratic ticket by Republicans, that this argument will not carry weight with the majority in the city. The remainder of the ticket will be to their notion. A Republican majority in the Council will give the party prestige, and from the apparent confusion at present it is hoped a large Republican vote will be the result.

FIRST METHODIST RALLY WEEK

Rev. Eugene H. Joy, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Oswego, will give an address Thursday evening at 7:30 at the opening Rally Service of the First Methodist church.

Next Sunday, October 22, an All-day Rally will be observed, opening at 9:30 a. m., with a Class Meeting Ralley led by Thomas Coles.

A special illustrated sermon to boys and girls will be given by the pastor at 10:30 a. m. using as his topic, "On the Fence." The boys and girls will meet the Deaconess at 11 o'clock in the Primary Room and attend in a body.

The Sunday School Rally Day exercises will occur in the auditorium at noon, all the departments uniting. The program will include music by the Boy Scout Orchestra.

At 3:30 p. m. the Junior Endeavors will present a program suitable to the spirit of the day.

The Young People's Rally will occupy the evening, the first service opening at 6:30 with a program in charge of the Executive Committee. It will include special music and short talks on the topic, "New Work Our Society Might Do."

The public service at 7:30 will be devoted to the Young People's work, and Mr. S. B. Groner, eGneral Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association of Syracuse, will deliver the address. All are welcome.

NEW BUSINESS CONCERN

Pulaski, Oct. 12.—The Rex Paper Company, recently incorporated and capitalized at $10,000, will, it is expected, begin operations in a few days in the remodeled factory building. The new industry will turn out toilet paper. Directors for the first year are Harry A. Moody, Brooklyn, and C. Frank Woods and Earl H. Benson, both of this village. Stewart M. Crowell, for a number of years a telegraph operator for the New York Central Railroad Company, will act as superintendent of the new plant.

ELIGIBLE FOR A RESIDENCY

Albany, Oct. 11.—George C. Andrews, of 307 Cayuga street, Fulton, has passed the recent competitive Civil Service examination for the position of Resident Engineer in the State Engineer's Department, at a salary of from $2,400 to $3,000 a year.

JOHN E. BOLAND ACCEPTS NOMINATION AND ENDORSEMENT

Popular Cigar Maker Becomes Choice of Two Great Parties for Mayor of Fulton—Was Born and Always Lived in Fulton—Pledges Himself to Faithfully Serve Whole City, Not Factions or Individuals—Letters of Acceptance.

To the Chairman and Delegates of the Democratic City Convention of the City of Fulton:

Gentlemen: On the 10th instant your convention convened and after due deliberation tendered to me by the unanimous choice thereof the nomination for the Mayoralty of the city of Fulton.

In accepting this nomination and the responsibilities entailed I must first express to you and the party which you represent my sincere appreciation of the honor conferred upon me.

Through my intimate association with so many of our citizens I believe that I have become familiar with all the wishes that they hold in regard to the civic progress of our city, and should I be fortunate enough to be chosen the next mayor of Fulton, I promise that I will devote my time and all my energy to carrying out and putting into force not alone the wishes of the constituency that may be instrumental in my election, but also the wishes and interests of all those who have the welfare of this city at heart. My endeavors will be unceasing, should I be elected in doing for the city of Fulton what I think should be done for it, and I will try, if elected to be mayor for the city of Fulton and not for any faction or party who may be instrumental in making me the chief executive.

I thank you most sincerely again for this distinguished honor and truly state to you as well as to all of the citizens of the city of Fulton that with God's help I will serve the city faithfully.

Very respectfully yours,
John E. Boland.

To the Chairman and Delegates of the Republican City Convention of the City of Fulton, assembled at the City Hall in the City of Fulton, N. Y., on the 5th day of October, 1911.

Gentlemen: On the 12th inst. a committee duly appointed by your convention waited on me and tendered to me the endorsement of the Republican city convention for the office of mayor of the city of Fulton.

Needless to say I do so, at this honor and expression of confidence in me, and I must state here that my nomination by the Democratic convention as well as this endorsement was wholly unsolicited by me; and it indeed makes me feel proud because the two great parties have seen fit to place trust in me so far as to make me their choice for the candidacy of mayor of the city of Fulton.

Gentlemen, I accept your endorsement and express my deep appreciation of the honor it conveys to me and I promise if elected to so conduct myself as to please the whole citizenship of Fulton, in whose interest I am so much interested and of whose welfare I am so much a part. Again thanking you for this expression of confidence, I am,

Sincerely yours,
JOHN E. BOLAND.

DR. H. S. ORCHARD

Dr. H. S. Orchard, the Republican nominee for alderman from the Fourth ward was born at Oyster Bay, Long Island, on March 18, 1878. He received his education in the Ossining High school and the Mount Pleasant Military Academy, graduating from both. In 1904 Dr. Orchard received the degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery from the University of Pennsylvania. He removed to this city in 1906, where he opened large and successful practice. Dr. Orchard has been an interested student of civic affairs since he became a resident of Fulton; is a taxpayer and will make a valuable addition to the city council.

Dr. Orchard is very popular with a wide circle of acquaintances throughout the city and very especially in his home ward where he has resided for over five years. He is a member of the Masonic orders and also of the Elks lodge, being both active and popular with the entire membership. That he will be elected is certain.

SUB-DISTRICT RALLY

An afternoon and evening meeting will be held in the Mount Pleasant Methodist church Friday, October 20, in the interests of Sunday School, Evangelistic, Missionary and Young People's work. Addresses will be given by Rev's. F. C. Schorge of Constantia, F. A. Miller and C. L. Peck of Fulton, and C. R. Vickery of Phoenix. In the evening a lecture on "India's Need" will be given by Mr. Vickery who recently returned from that country where he was Missionary Pastor in Bombay and Poona, and later in Singapore. He was also chaplain to the English soldiers. A general invitation is extended.

OSWEGO TOWN CAUCUS

The Republican caucus was held Wednesday in Oswego Town and several interesting contests resulted. There was no trouble on the head of the ticket, John A. Pease being named for supervisor without any opposition.

KNIGHTS OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY

Banquet Held in Artistically Decorated Rooms—Attorney Francis D. Culkin Guest of Honor and Made Main Adress—Delightful Musical Program Rendered—Seven Course Dinner Served.

Thursday evening the Knights of Columbus rooms in the O'Brien block were brilliantly decorated and illuminated in celebration of Columbus Day. Over 200 Knights and their wives and lady friends were present, many of the guests being from out-of-town.

The lodge room was patriotic and beautiful in its decoration of flags of all sizes. The cornice was flag draped the ceiling was flag festooned and one could not look upon the scene without feeling inspirited.

The music and games rooms had been newly decorated for the Fall club season and the new hangings, etc., made a very pleasing impression upon the guests.

Covers were laid for 200 at the first tabel and a second table was laid later in the evening. Attorney F. D. Culkin of Oswego, the Republican nominee for district attorney, was induced to [illegible] by Toastmaster Conley's affable manner. Mr. Culkin responded to the toast, "Christopher Columbus." He was succeeded by Rev. D. J. Dooling who toasted, "Knights of Columbus." Musical selections were rendered by Messrs. Lawrence Ranger, A. E. Kraus and Miss Reta Johnston and a recitation by Edward Rugg was enjoyed.

DEMOCRATS NOMINATE A SHERIFF

It has been thought for some time that the Democrats proposed to leave the vacancy created on their ticket by the declination of Mr. Orrin Bogardus for sheriff, unfilled, or that the endorsement of Mr. Stranahan, the Republican nominee, would result, but on Tuesday the Democratic committee, to fill the vacancy secured the consent of Mr. W. G. Betts of Granby, to become their standard bearer. Mr. Betts is a prominent Democrat and farmer of Granby, which is also Mr. Stranahan's home town, and from now on the fight will be waged vigorously, especially in Granby. The Democrats feel that they have selected a strong man but Mr. Stranahan's friends in this city have no fear as to the outcome.

STERLING RANGE

DO YOU like a range with a hearth or without? Do you prefer a leg base range, or one with a low closet base? Do you want to conduct the ashes to the cellar, or do you prefer the ash pan? What sort of a shelf or warming oven? Reservoir for heating water, or a water front? Do you do a lot of baking and require a big powerful oven, or will a smaller one do?

No matter!

Whatever you want, you can get it in the Model "R" Sterling, for it is made on the Unit System, and we can combine these "units" so as to give you any type or style or size of range you need!

Why not have a range built to your order?

It's the only way, but you can get it only in the Model "R" Sterling. Don't forget that.

The Polished Top that needs no blacking; also the Lift Top; and Patent Broiler. Many other features you wouldn't miss for a hundred dollars.

Do Not Fail to See the New Art Embroidery Department

AT EMPIRE THEATRE

Mrs. Fiske and the Manhattan Company will appear at the Empire Theatre for three evenings beginning on Thursday, October 19, with the customary matinee on Saturday, in a brilliant comedy of American life entitled "The New Marriage." Great interest attaches to the first performance here, since it will mark the premiere of the play, and a premiere by Mrs. Fiske is a most important occasion in the world of the theatre.

"The New Marriage" is from the pen of Langdon Mitchell, who has hitherto in two instances been successful in furnishing Mrs. Fiske with congenial and popular roles. The first of these plays, "Betty Sharp," has enjoyed a long term of prosperity, and the second, "The New York Idea," was hailed as the wittiest and the most scintillant comedy that had come from the pen of an American dramatist. The theme of "The New York Idea" was divorce. The theme of "The New Marriage," as its title indicates, is matrimony.

Harrison Grey Fiske has this year assembled for Mrs. Fiske's supporting organization, the Manhattan Company, a group of players well worthy to carry forward the fame of that notable company. Included in the personnel are Joseph Kilgour, Chelley Hull, Douglas Patterson, Edward Donnelly, J. T. Challie, T. Tamamoto, Gladys Hanson, Elizabeth, Fagan, Hattie Russell, Anne Bradley, Edwalyn O'Connell, Gilda Varesi and Helena Van Brugh.

As is his custom, Mr. Fiske has given the closest personal attention to the production in all its details, and the mounting is up to the high standing that the public has come to expect from Mr. and Mrs. Fiske.

"The Pink Lady"

Messrs. Klaw and Erlanger will present "The Pink Lady," the greatly talked about musical play which Syracusans have been looking foward to with marked interest, at the Empire Theatre Monday. This, of course, ranks as one of the notable events in the entire theatrical season. "The Pink Lady" has taken its position as the best musical comedy produced in years. With a rattling good story, full of honest fun, with music that is a delight, an excellent cast, including lots of pretty girls, it is not to be wondered that its success has been so conspicuous.

"The Pink Lady" is best described as a happy medium between the better class of musical comedy and opera bouffe, with the fun evolved from the humorous complications of the story. The plot deals with the adventures of a young Parisian who is shortly to be married, but who plans one more luncheon of her own. Separately the couple arrive at the restaurant and incidentally find that the pretty girls [illegible] Rose Brummel, whose young people meet. The girl is suspicious until the young man's erst. while sweetheart, who has turned up, pretends that she is the wife of Dondidier. With alarm the young man learns that there really is a Dondidier, a respectable antique dealer in Paris, and thither lead the paths of all concerned in the story in the second act. Upon the promise of a rare snuffbox Dondidier agrees to act the satyr and get the young man out of his scrape. The complications that follow are immensely funny, as are the novel situations in the final act, a rarely beautiful scene showing the ball of the Nymphs and Satyrs. "The Pink Lady" was originally a farce by George Bery and Marcel Guillemand, and it was played for two years in Paris. The English version was made by C. M. S. McLellan and "The Belle of New York," with music by Ivan Caryll, the composer of a score of successful musical plays including "The Spring Chicken," "The Toreador" and "The Runaway Girl."

It is hardly necessary to add that Messrs. Klaw & Erglanger, following their custom, have furnished a beautiful production for "The Pink Lady." The engagement is for one week with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

HAVE MADE NO MISTAKE

Oswego Times: It is twenty years since a Republican judicial convention has nominated a member of the Oswego County bar to this high office. Not that there has been a lack of able men for the place, but rather because the able men of other counties have outnumbered and outgeneraled us, giving us good material, it is true, but, after all, no one having the coveted Oswego County brand in his forehead.

Now that the equities of the situation have been restored, all heartburnings will cease and Oswego county will jubiliate over coming into her own again after a long deprivation. Mr. Hubbs is just in the early prime of an exceptionally vigorous manhood and equal to any amount of hard work that can be piled upon his sturdy shoulders.

Mr. Hubbs is forty-two years of age and a graduate of the Law Department of Cornell University, an invaluable preparation for a career at the bar. In his twenty years membership of the Oswego county bar, Mr. Hubbs has permitted nothing to divert him from the consistent pursuit of his chosen profession. Today he is accredited with one of the largest, most lucrative and desirable clienteles of the county.

The success early won at the bar by Oswego County's candidate, his unswerving devotion to his profession and his unremitting industry are some of the features making it certain that when elevated to the bench, as he is going to be, the like satisfactory results will surely follow and prove beyond a peradventure that in the selection of Irving G. Hubbs for this high place, the representatives of the Fifth Judicial District have made no mistake.

WE HAVE ONE NOW

The following is from the Syracuse Post-Standard: "To the Oswego Palladium must be given the palm for ingenuity in campaign argument. It says, quite seriously, that the Republican candidate should not be elected because he has so many business interests that he wouldn't be able to look after his city duties.

"'A business (says the Pall) 'such as is conducted by Mr. Long is a good thing for any city, and nothing should be allowed to happen which will in any way injure it.'

"By the same token the people of Oswego should select for mayor some one who is out of a job."—Times.

COLLEGE GIRLS MARRY WISELY

Statistics Show That Only One Divorce Occurs in 57 Marriages

Boston, Mass., Oct. 15.—The alumnae of Smith College have discovered that out of 57 marriages of college girl graduates there is only one divorce.

In striking contrast to this percentage is that disclosed by the investigators who have found that there was one divorce out of every 10 or 12 marriages of non-college women.

LEGAL NOTICES

SUPREME COURT, Oswego County.

Patrick H. Ward, Plaintiff, vs. John Harding, Helen Petengail, Carrie Green and Ellen E. Ward, Defendants.

In pursuance of a judgment in the above entitled action of partition, entered in the office of the clerk of the County of Oswego on the 4th day of October, 1911, I, the undersigned referee in and by said judgment for that purpose appointed, will sell at Public Auction at the Law Offices of William S. Hillick, at number 59 South First street on the East side in the City of Fulton, County of Oswego, New York, on the sixteenth day of November, 1911, at two o'clock in the afternoon, the lands and premises directed to be sold therein and described as follows:

ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Town of Palermo, County of Oswego and State of New York, and known as part of lot number 108 of the 15th Township of Scriba's Patent and bounded as follows: Beginning at the Northwest corner, thence Easterly along the North line of land owned by Samuel Baldwin; thence Southerly along said Baldwin's line ten chains and ten links; thence Westerly, parallel to the north line, to the west line of said lot; thence Northerly along said line to the place of beginning. Excepting a triangular piece taken from the Northwest corner and known as the Phelps piece and supposed to contain about three-fourths of an acre. Being about forty acres.

Also, ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Town of Palermo, County of Oswego and State of New York, and being part of lot number one hundred eight (108) of the 15th Township of Scriba's Patent, is bounded as follows: Being all that portion of said lot lying North of the highway leading from Morse's Corners to Mexico and containing three-fourths of an acre of land more or less.

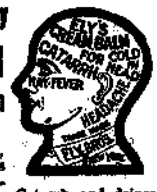
Electric Bitters

Succeed when everything else fails. In nervous prostration and female weaknesses they are the supreme remedy, as thousands have testified.

FOR KIDNEY, LIVER AND STOMACH TROUBLE



it is the best medicine ever sold over a druggist's counter.

A Handsome Woman

Every woman may not be handsome, but every woman should keep with care the good points nature has given her. No woman need have sallow skin, dull eye, blotchy complexion, who pays proper attention to her health. Where constipation, liver derangements, blood impurities and other irregularities exist, good complexion, bright eyes and sprightly movements cannot exist. Internal derangements reveal themselves sooner or later on the surface. Headache, dark rings around the eyes, sallow skin, a constant tired feeling—mean that the liver and digestive organs are needing help and correction. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets give this necessary help. They work in nature's own way. They do not merely flush the bowels but tone up the liver and stomach to fulfill their proper functions. So mild and gentle do they act that one hardly realizes that they have taken medicine. Chamberlain's Tablets can be relied upon to relieve biliousness, indigestion, constipation and dizziness. Sold everywhere. Price, 25 cts.

HIGH CHARACTER AND EXTENDED EXPERIENCE

(Jefferson County Journal)

Irving G. Hubbs is a young man in the prime of his manhood. He is a graduate of Cornell and in the twenty odd years since he came to the bar has built up an extended practice in Oswego County. He is a man of high character and extended professional experience. His practice has been such as to take him into many other counties from his home county, and he has thus become well and favorably known. He is courteous and dignified in the trial of cases; has always rested his cases upon their merits rather than upon any technical questions that might arise. He is a self-made man; one of the kind whom people will delight to honor. He is honest and high-minded and will come to the bench at a time in life which will give him a judicial career. The ticket is certainly a ticket which every Republican can take delight in endorsing at the polls.

OSWEGO COUNTY AND THE JUSTICESHIP

(Oswego Times)

It is pleasing to not the strong sentiment developing throughout this judicial district favorable to the election of Irving G. Hubbs to the office of justice of the Supreme Court. In Onondaga County the press there, whether Republican or Independent, is strong and unswerving in his advocacy; to be specific, the Post-Standard, the Herald and the Journal.

In Jefferson County, the engaging qualities of Mr. Hubbs his well-known fairness and absolute judicial poise are well understood and fast making him friends there. Also the claims of Oswego County, which alone of all the counties in the district is without a representative on the bench of the Supreme Court, are being fully acknowledged.

EXTEND LICENSE

Oswego, Oct. 12.—Treasurer Edwin B. Pitts of the County Prohibition Committee has just filed petitions in the towns of Albion, Constantia, Hastings, Oswego, Parish, Richland and Volney, signed by 10 per cent. of the voters, calling for a vote on the no-license question this fall. A campaign will be made by the Prohibitionists for "no license and Prohibition officials to enforce it." Richland and Mexico Prohibitionsts have also nominated tickets and filed proper excise petitions.

INSPECTORS MUST HIRE CLERK

The decision of the Court of Appeals against the Levy Election law, and various other complication, which have arisen within the past week, will probably make necessary the hiring of an additional clerk by Commissioners of Election Howard F. Baker and D. O. Whitney, Thursday the Commissioners received orders from the State Superintendent of Election which necessitated the sending of a letter to every inspector in the county, ordering them to send statement relative to registration cards to the assistant's office in Watertown instead of to Albany and New York city as was first arranged, and printers worked all night preparing the letter.

Now that several provisions of the law have been adversely decided upon by the courts, corrected instructions will have to be sent to every election officer in the county, all of which will necessitate a great deal of work which was not contemplated when the appointments were made. The Commissioners, although busy sending out circulars and the blanks which must be filled in, say if a clerk is hired his services will only be required before election, when there is need for promptness in getting records, etc., into the hands of election officers without delay. The Board of Supervisors, when the appointment was made, believed that the clerks in the county offices could do the work in addition to their regular duties, but the business is so rapidly increasing in volume that other provisions will probably become necessary. Oswego county is the only county which hires no clerk to do the work of writing letters and addressing envelopes of which many must be sent out every week.

Lame back is one of the most common forms of muscular rheumatism. A few applications of Chamberlain's Liniment will give relief. For sale by all druggists.

MORE THAN ENOUGH IS TOO MUCH

To maintain health, a mature man or woman needs just enough food to repair the waste and supply energy and body heat. The habitual consumption of more food than is necessary for these purposes is the prime cause of stomach troubles, rheumatism and disorders of the kidneys. If troubled with indigestion, revise your diet, let reason and not appetite control and take a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and you will soon be all right again. For sale by all druggists.

FULTONIANS INTERESTED IN FORWARD MOVEMENT

A large gathering of the clergy and laymen of Oswego county was held in Oswego last week, at which it was decided to enter enthusiastically into the "Men and religion forward movement." A rousing campaign will be conducted along the lines mapped out by the leaders in the movement.

During the meeting a committee of fifteen was appointed who in turn are to appoint a committee of one hundred, who will have charge of the promotion of the work. The committee appointed was as follows: Rev. S. W. Steele chairman; John Tagg, secretary; Rev. E. H. Joy, Rev. Dr. Savage, Rev. D. L. Dutcher, Rev. R. G. U. Keseler, Rev. R. H. Gesner, Rev. W. F. Kettle, Oswego; Rev. G. F. Shepherd, Mexico; Arvin Rice, C. W. Streeter, Rev. Mr. Sitzer, Rev. C. L. Peck, Rev. C. C. Wadsworth, Rev. Charles Olmstead, Fulton.

You are not experimenting on yourself when you take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a cold as that preparation has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of colds, and can always be depended upon. It is equally valuable for adults and children and may be given to young children with implicit confidence as it contains no harmful drug. Sold by all druggists.

Woman Suffrage in California

Recent reports from the Pacific Coast convey the information that "Woman Suffrage has triumphed in California—the majority being placed at about 2,500. The vote in favor of the initiative, referendum and recall, including the judiciary was overwhelming." It is claimed that everywhere, throughout the State, in the populous centres, suffrage was beaten, but the returns from the rural districts cut down the majorities given by the cities, carrying the proposition even after its friends had practically given up the fight. The granges and kindred associations of farmers gave the suffrage movement hearty support.

There were twenty-three amendments to the State Constitution submitted, which required rare discrimination in marking of the ballots, and all were carried—the referendum and recall proving the most popular. This was done in spite of the fact that President Taft denounced the recall of the judges as vicious. The vote in favor of this amendment, including all elected officers will reach nearly 100,00, out of a total of about 250,00.

Now follows some interesting legal problems caused by the passage of the suffrage amendment, as the Attorney General has held that women cannot be compelled to pay poll-tax under the present laws, as the statute plainly stipulates that only male citizens should pay that tax, and the liability to jury duty will be another legal nut to crack.

Quitters and Stayers

The action of the Republican City Committee in endorsing Mr. John E. Boland, the nominee of the Democratic party for Mayor, has aroused considerable adverse criticism, especially from those who were not familiar with the campaign that had been waged by the special committee appointed by the city convention to secure a candidate. It is stated that one member of the committee had asked twenty-six representative citizens to take the nomination, but his overtures were received with emphatic refusals. This action furnishes conclusive proof that the political atmosphere this Fall is not especially suited to the raising of spiritual orchids. The quality best loved in a politician is that which makes a burdock the best hated weed on earth, the quality of sticking through thick and thin. Hitherto the ups and downs between the political parties in a municipal campaign have proved most strenuous; indeed, to use a homely phrase, the old fashioned dockburr was a sort of floral emblem when the campaigners lined up for a struggle.

The information is now heralded that fault is found with the committee and the question of the ethics of quitting has absorbed the ingenuity of the most loquacious.

The nominees for Aldermen on the Republican ticket in the Second, Third, Fourth and Sixth wards, have filed their declinations, evidently because of a grouch over the present situation. It would seem that in the present crisis Republicans should have been stayers instead of quitters. Civic pride ought to inspire a man, whose party has sought to honor him, to stand up and fight for the cause espoused and not to run at the first trumpet-blast of the enemy. Defection, under the circumstances, is to be deplored.

It is to be hoped that Republicans in the affected wards will overcome their disturbed functions, stick to the principles of their party and roll up a majority for the ticket thus displaying to the County and State that they are not quitters, but stayers.

A HEARTY ENDORSEMENT

26 Robbins Place, Yonkers, N. Y.,
October 13, 1911.

Editor Times: It is with deep gratification that I have learned of the nomination by the Republicans of Fulton of Attorney Herbert J. Wilson to fill the office of Mayor. I ask space in your columns to express hereby my congratulations to the party upon its choice of a standard-bearer.

Born and brought up in Franklin County of which Mr. Wilson likewise is a native, I have known him intimately from boyhood. If culture, scholarship, humanity, business sagacity, legal acumen, honesty and sound common sense qualify a candidate to fill the position of chief executive of a municipality Herbert J. Wilson is the man to elect Mayor of Fulton.

But considering the record Mr. Wilson made on the bench in the City Court it is hardly necessary to tell Fultonites that, as Mayor he would be a fearless champion of the public weal and an honor to the city.

Very sincerely,
George Aubrey Hastings.

(The Times heartily concurs in all that Mr. Hastings has said and regretfully informs him that Mr. Wilson declined the proferred honor.)

JUSTICE WRIGHT DEAD

Justice Maurice L. Wright of Oswego has been in a precarious physical condition for several months, but his friends were wholly unprepared for the suddenness of his death which occurred at Clifton Springs sanitarium on Friday, where he had been for two weeks in the vain hope that he might be benefitted by the change. Hardening of the arteries was the cause for his demise.

The deceased was one of the best known jurists in the State. He had served his county in many positions, having been county judge for two terms and supreme justice for 14-years, being defeated for renomination when he became a candidate for the third time. He was a most companionable man and numbered his friends by scores.

The body was taken to the former home in Oswego on Saturday and the funeral services were held from the late home on Tuesday, the Masonic orders of that city and a large delegation from the County Bar Association attending the last rites. The widow and one son, Attorney Avery Wright, survive.

NO CRITICISM OF MR. HUBBS

(Syracuse Journal)

At the present writing there appear to be three candidates for justice of the Supreme Court from this district to be elected at the coming election. Mr. Hubbs has a superior claim for the reason that Oswego County alone has had no representative on the bench of the Supreme Court of this district for the last six years. Herkimer, Lewis, Jefferson, Oneida and Onondaga each has a judge doing active duty and Oswego has been left out in the cold.

There has been no criticism of Mr. Hubbs' qualifications, both as to his legal knowledge and his personal character.

Jefferson County has two candidates, Messrs. Purcell and Emerson. The Journal has no disposition to dictate to its readers as to which of these three gentlemen is to be supported by the voters of this country; but considers it only fair to state that there is no argument against the support of Mr. Hubbs, and it seems to be the fair and proper thing to elect this gentleman to the office for which he has been nominated.

THE DEMOCRATS FOR HUBBS

(Oswego Palladium)

"This county is justly entitled to a resident Justice of the Supreme Court, and the people of this county should do everything in their power to see that one is secured."

FAIRNESS TO OSWEGO COUNTY

(Camden Advance Journal)

Mr. Irving G. Hubbs of our neighboring village of Pulaski, who has been nominated by the Republican party for the office of Justice of the Supreme Court, is well-known to many of our readers. By his learning, ability, industry, high moral character and faithful devotion to the interests of his clients, he has won for himself a very high place at the bar, and in the estimation of all who know him. Some former residents of Oswego County who now live in Camden have been his clients, and all speak very highly of him.

Aside from his personal fitness for the office, which all concede, there is a question of fairness to Oswego County. Both the other candidates reside in Jefferson County. Oswego County has been without a supreme court justice for several years, while Jefferson County has had two. This state of things is unfair and unjust to our neighboring county and should not be continued.

QUALIFICATIONS CANNOT BE QUESTIONED

(Carthage Republican)

"Judge Hubbs was nominated on his merits as a capable man for the supreme court bench.

Mr. Hubbs has the necessary qualifications and his candidacy met with the united support of the convention.

Judge Purcell is a native of Wilna (the Town in which Carthage is situated) and his ability is recognized everywhere, but it cannot be denied considering the matter from every fair minded standpoint the republican were justified in nominating Mr. Hubbs.

The same principal that existed in Oswego County was evident in the up-state districts. The qualifications of Mr. Hubbs cannot be questioned.

"FIGURES NEVER LIE," NOT EVEN PIDGEON'S

Oswego, Oct. 12. — The politician are enjoying a laugh at the expense of City Attorney Pidgeon, whom they say is a better lawyer than mathematician or political prognosticator. According to the story there was a social gathering a couple of nights ago and the talk naturally drifted to politics. Mr. Pidgeon, pad and pencil in hand, began to figure to majority he hopes Mayor Fitzgibbons will have by wards. On adding up the totals he had Mr. Long elected by five. Visions of the city attorneyship floating away from him flashed before Mr. Pidgeon's mind, so he hastily added 25 votes in the Fourth to the Fitzgibbons figures and there by elected him by 20 majority.

AVIATION MEET AT ROCHESTER

On Saturday, October 21st, will be held a grand Aviation Meet under the management of Glenn H. Curtiss for the benefit of the family of the late John J. Frisbie, who was killed in Norton, Kansas, on Sept. 1.

Lincoln Beachey, Rene Simon and Rene Barrier and many other aviators of world wide reputation will give exhibitions.

Miss Blanche Stuart Scott, the Rochester girl who is among the first woman pilots in American, also has been invited to participate, and there is every probability that she will take a part in the programme.

The benefit also includes a vaudeville entertainment at the Shubert Theatre on the evening of Saturday, October 21st.

The worthy object of this fund, which is to be given to the widow and family of Rochester's first aviator, needs no comment. The death of "Captain Jack" Frisbie as the was popularly called by his legion of friends, left those dependent on him, a wife and four children, in circumstances which should appeal to the heart and sympathies of all. In their behalf the Relief Fund has been started. It is under the direction of a representative committee of prominent Rochester citizens, thus the integrity of the movement is assured.

Each ticket entitles the holder to two admissions to the aviation meet and two one dollar reserved seats at the Shubert Theatre and costs $2.50.

Tickets and reserved seats for both aviation meet and theatre performance may be obtained from H. Putnam Allen, 112 Oneida street, Fulton, N. Y.

BENEFIT ATHLETIC ASSOCIATON

George Williams to Present Charles Dickens' "Martin Chuzzlewit"

Mr. Williams, head of the Williams School of Expression, Ithaca, has been engaged by the Athletic Association of the High School to give an interpretive reading Friday evening, October 27th. His subject will be Charles Dickens' "Martin Chuzzlewit." Those who heard Mr. Williams last year in Harold Belle Wright's "The Shepherd of the Hills," know that a treat is in store. The seating capacity of the Universalist church was entirely inadequate to accommodate those who wanted to hear him last winter; and so through the courtesy of the trustees of the Presbyterian church, the entertainment will be held in the auditorium of the church.

The world-wide observance of the centenary of the birth of the great novelist, Dickens, which will occur next February, makes this choice of subject for entertainment a timely one. The lovers of Dickens in America are numerous, and already the most active have decided upon a great effort to extend the scope of the Dickens Fellowship, an organization for the encouragement of, and aid in, the study of Dickens' works.

THE WEEK

Measured by every important test the voumne of business is larger than at the corresponding period last year, and it is gradually expanding, the reports from the leading trade centers during the week being especially cheerful. There is apparently no decisive change in basic conditions, and the increased activity recently shown is due to the fact that shelves are practically empty, and the immediate needs of a growing population, even on a more economical basis, are pressing for supply. Thus, with little or no speculative anticipation of the future, a volume of business is being transacted, which, although below full productive capacity, is nevertheless large. This appearance of increased activity is particularly shown in the dry goods trades, in most of the branches of which, and particularly in cottons, a brisker movement is reported, and more mills are resuming production. Woolens are also in fair demand and the clothing, millinery and other kindred branches appear to be doing well. An increasing activity is also reported in shoes and the sales of leather make up a respectable total. In iron and steel the business, judging from the latest report of unfilled orders by the principal producer, while showing a slight reduction from last month, is nevertheless well ahead of last year, and greater resistance appears to concessions in prices. There is no better railroad demand for rolling stock and the structural demand is also improved. During the past fortnight there has been a notable reduction in the number of idle cars, a sure indication of increased traffic.

While the tendency in some directions in iron and steel is still downward, the stubborn resistance to further declines augers well for future business. The decrease of 84,600 tons during September in unfilled tonnage of the leading interest was less than anticipated; this is the first decrease since May. Railroads are purchasing more liberally, there being notable increases in orders for cars and locomotives.

The resumption of operations by some large cotton mills indicates a more encouraging mill position. Prices on cotton goods and other merchandise are close. ACA ticks, 8-oz, have been reduced 1 cent per yard; southern denims, 9-oz, 1-2 cent, and eastern 9 oz. denims are held at 16 1-2 cents. At the lower prices there is more disposition shown by retailers to operate. Some fair-sized orders have been placed for hose and belting duck and staple prints are being ordered freely by western jobbers. There is a steady business in napped cottons and retailers display more disposition to order wash goods and cotton dress fabrics for spring delivery. Export trade is slightly less active, but continues well ahead of last year, and as the market for raw material declines, a tendency to expand production is noted. The demand for double-faced fabrics in dress goods and men's wear continues a noteworthy feature in woolen goods, and activity is shown in the demand for staple serges.

Eastern footwear manufacturers are not all busy, but there is constantly increasing activity, with many duplicate orders for fall and winter and future orders larger and more numerous. Jobbing trade improves slowly.

The grain markets are steady; the slight improvement indicated in the condition of wheat by the final Government report was anticipated, and while the yield is estimated as slightly below last year's, in both winter and spring wheat, supplies will be ample. Stocks are constantly increasing. Western reciepts this week are 6,479,784 bushels against 6,999,076 a year ago, and exports from all ports of the United States, flour included, are 2,094,892 bushels compared with 2,024,848 in 1910. Corn conditions also improved last month, but the yield will be somewhat less than in 1910.

Liabilities of commercial failures thus far reported for October amount to $5,889,984, of which $2,343,994 were in manufacturing, $3,259,909 in trading and $286,081 in other commercial lines. Failures this week numbered 241 in the United States against 257 last year, and 26 in Canada compared to 31 a year ago.

JUDGE EDGAR C. EMERSON, WATERTOWN

EDGAR C. EMERSON'S RECORD

Has Superb Record in Home County —Is Jurist of Ability—Decisions Uniformly Upheld by Higher Courts

The electors of the Fifth Judicial District will be called upon at the coming election to choose two justices of the Supreme Court, in the place of Judge Williams, whose term of office will expire December 31st, and Judge Rogers, whose untimely death caused a vacancy. These are highly important offices and the people will act with care and judgment. There are two Republican candidates, Irving G. Hubbs of Pulaski, and Judge Edgar C. Emerson of Watertown. The people of Oswego County are familiar with the record of their fellow citizen, Mr. Hubbs. He possesses every qualification for a good judge. The purpose of this article is to acquaint the people of Oswego County, and of the Judicial District with the record and personality of Judge Emerson.

He was born in Jefferson County in 1850 and is therefore in the prime of life. He was educated in the public schools and very early manifested a taste for the law. Industrious and studious, he followed his inclination faithfully. He studied law with that well known and honorable jurist, Judge Dennis O'Brien, and after his admission to the bar he became Judge O'Brien's partner until the latter was elected to the Court of Appeals. His schooling as a student with Judge O'Brien was of a high character. In 1878 he was appointed city attorney of Watertown, serving one term with a perfect record of service well done. In 1880 he was elected District Attorney of Jefferson County, serving faithfully in this important office for six years. During his service very many criminal cases of great importance were carried through successfully. He made an excellent record as a public officer, his ability was acknowledged by his associates at the bar and by the people of the County and in 1892 he was elected County Judge. So well did he please the people by his service that he was re-elected in 1898, again in 1904, and in 1910. At the convention last year he was unanimously renominated for his fourth term and unanimously endorsed by the Democratic convention. This was a deserved tribute to his efficiency and a perfect demonstration of his popularity.

During his service as County Judge the business of the office has increased to that extent, that for some years the duties have been practically those of Justice of Supreme Court and the amount of business transacted in the County Court has been practically equivalent to that of the Supreme Court.

Upon the death of Judge Rogers the sentiment in Jefferson county was universal that Judge Emerson should be his successor. His judicial temperament was recognized and his equipment for the office was regarded as perfect. At the primaries in Jefferson County this year the action of the people was unanimous in selecting xdelegates favorable to Judge Emerson, and the convention asked him to name the Judicial delegates and instructed them to act as a unit. No other name has been suggested by the Republicans of the County.

He is recognized as a fair nad impartial judge, with a deep knowledge of the law, is always courteous as well as just, has the ability to make clear analyses of the law, and to mak a correct application of legal principles. This is shown by the fact that his decisions have uniformly been up held by the upper Courts.

Judge Emerson is held in high esteem by his neighbors at home. He is a public spirited citizen, always awake to public duty, interested in the welfare of his city and county an ready at all times to act his part. His integrity is unquestioned. He has been a member of the Watertown Fire Department since 1874 and has served as treasurer of the department since 1878. For the past six years he has been a trustee of the Firemen's Home at Hudson and is always found in attendance at the conventions of the State Firemen's Association.

For the exalted and honorable office of Justice of the Supreme Court in this District Judge Emerson seems to possess unusual qualifications. His faithful service in the important offices he has filled so acceptably is ample evidence that he will serve the people of the Fifth Judicial District honestly, ably, and conscientiously. He deserves the support of every honorable voter in this district and will do credit to himself, his county, and his district.

The Judge's friends in Jefferson County recognize in Mr. Hubbs an able lawyer and will give him generous support at the polls. They appreciate the fact that there are two Republican candidates, both deserving of party support, and they will give them their votes without question.

There is every reason why every Republican in this Judicial District with two acceptable candidates presented should vote the regular Republican ticket.

DISGRACFUL CONDUCT OF PAPER

The Oswego Palladium of recent date says: "The indications are that a determined fight is to be made against the election of Irving G. Hubbs, the Oswego county candidate for Justice of the Supreme Court. The people of this Judicial district are most jealous of the men who occupy the Supreme Court bench."

The fact that the Palladium is deliberately working against a resident supreme court justice for Oswego county, and the imputation contained in the above article that Irving G. Hubbs is not qualified nor fit for the office, causes fair minded Oswego county residents, regardless of party, to allege that the paper is being conducted in a disgraceful manner. The one paragraph has already lost Justice Purcell votes.

COMMISSIONERS REPORT ON OSWEGO JAIL

Albany, Oct. 9.—The State Prison Commission has received the following report of the inspection of the Oswego County jail, situated at Oswego, made by its secretary, George McLaughlin:

"Inspected September 15, 1911; C. W. Taft, sheriff; J. J. Burlingham, jailer and keeper.

"The number of inmates on the day of inspection was, men, 57; women, 4; classified as follows: court prisoners, 22, all men; serving sentence, men, 34, women, 4. The highest number at any one time since January 1st last was 66; the average, about 50.

"This is a new jail and was occupied for the first on January 1, 1910; located about two miles from the City of Oswego on a farm."

There is a farm of 92 acres, a part of the jail property, which contains a fine apple orchard and a considerable quantity of other kinds of fruit. There is also a farm dwelling house occupied by the superintendent, and other farm buildings.

This farm is cultivated by the prisoners under the guidance of the superintendent and one guard. The sheriff has given personal supervision to a good deal of the work of improving this farm, especially in grading and road making in the immediate vicinity of the jail; and has made large improvements along these lines during the past year. There is a stone shed in the prison yard where the prisoners break stone when they cannot work on the farm.

The secretary was informed that the entire cost of the outfit including the farm, sheriff's residence and the jail, was approximately $97,000.

The jail was found in a cleanly condition, the prisoners quiet and orderly, evidently under good discipline. The grand jury meets the first Monday in May and October in this county, and the only other session during the year is the first Monday in January. The long interval between the May and October sessions keeps many prisoners in jail for several months before their cases can be investigated by the grand jury. This has a tendency to convert these prisoners into jail habitues and add them to the permanent criminal classes. It would seem in a county having as large a prison population as Oswego that there should be at least four sessions of the grand jury. This would also reduce very considerably the expense of maintaining these prisoners in jail for such a long time. The rights of the prisoners in the premises are also entitled to consideration, for in this country every man charged with a crime is entitled under the constitution to a speedy trial. While there would be some additional expense in holding another session of the grand jury, it would not be a very serious matter, as it would not need to remain in session so long each time and the county would be reimbursed by a reduction in jail expenses.

DEATHS

Jane Baker, aged 56, died at the home of Mr. John Green in Granby on Wednesday. The funeral services were held from the late home on Friday and burial was made at Lewis's Corners.

On Saturday at the sanitarium in Ogdensburg occurred the death of John Spencer, aged 54. The remains were brought to this city and the funeral services were held from the home of his brother, F. G. Spencer, on Tuesday morning. Interment was made in Mt. Adnah.

SUSTAINED FALL FROM LADDER

Saturday afternoon Chauncey Stewart, aged 75, a brother of the late James H. Stewart who was killed by a fall from a tree two weeks ago, fell from a ladder at his home on the west side, he fell fifteen feet striking on his back and remained unconscious for fully two hours before he was discovered by children in their play. A telephone call from the home of Mr. John Frawley brought Dr. W. M. Wells to the side of the injured man and he was removed to the home of his son, William, where he is resting comfortably although internal injuries are feared. It seems a miracle that the aged man was not killed outright as was his brother.

REGISTRATION HEAVY LAST WEEK

The time never was when Fulton failed to be excited as election day approached, even though the parties all consolidated on one candidate something would stir up the electors and cause registration to be as heavy as in the years when State and National candidates were to be selected. This year Fulton has three candidates in whom she is especially interested—Hon. I. G. Hubbs, Hon. G. M. Fanning and Mr. Myron Stranahan, and the desire of the electors to roll up a majority in this city to make the balance of the county sit up and take notice, is causing the first two registration days to be unusually heavy. Party lines have been torn down in these instances and both parties are getting out the full vote.

Personal Registration on Friday or Saturday of this week is necessary or you cannot vote in November.

NEVER OUT OF WORK

POLITICAL CALENDAR

The days for registration for both city and country are Friday and Saturday, October 20 and 21, the registry polls being open from 7 a. m. to 10 p. m. in both city and county. The other dates on the political calendar are:

October 18—Last day for filing declinations of party nomination with commissioners of elections.

October 20—Last day for filing declinations of independent nominations with commissioners of elections.

October 23—Vacancies in nominations caused by declinations or disqualifications must be filled by filing a certificate with commissoners of election on or before this date.

November 1—Commissioners of elections to prepare and publish list of nominations

November 4—Town clerks and aldermen to post list of nominations on or before this date.

November 7—Election day. Polls open at 6 o'clock a. m. Polls close, 5 o'clock p. m.

Dey Brothers & Co.'s New Dry Goods Store in Syracuse As It Will Appear When Completed.

A New Era of Progress

THE trolley line that now links Fulton and Syracuse together, and the eventual completion of the great work connected with the Barge Canal, will open up new possibilities for both cities.

These notable innovations are destined to open up a wide field for activity and enterprise, thereby giving new life to industry and increased inspiration for the development of business relations They will prove beneficial to Oswego and to Syracuse alike.

These are the signs that announce the beginning of a new era of progress.

The progress of time has made it necessary for the Dey store to greatly increase its capacity for serving the people. With the construction of a new eight story building, and the reconstruction of our present quarters, the new Dey store will be able to better serve the people. This will be a modern dry goods institution, conducted along the broad and safe principles that were born with the business.

The new and greater Dey store will contain many new features that will be announced later. In the meantime it will be to your interest to watch the announcements of Central New York's Great Dry Goods Store.

FULTON SAVINGS BANK

JOHN E. BOLAND

The endorsement of Mr. Boland for mayor by the Republicans of Fulton was far from satisfactory to many electors in this city both in Mr. Boland's party and in the Republican party, and mutterings of rebellion were heard throughout the several wards. The Times is a Republican paper and none regret more than it that a Republican was not nominated so that the electors might have the privilege of choice. It is highly probable that Mr. Boland would have been elected just the same and he should not have rebellious feeling visited upon him at the polls because he came to his city's assistance when she was in a sorry predicament. Mr. Boland is honest. He is square and competent to do his own deciding on all questions. Because he had sufficient civic pride to undertake the thankless task of being mayor of Fulton, and permitted the Republican endorsement, he is deserving of cordial support in his campaign and a large vote on election day. Fulton is to be congratulated that so really satisfactory a resident would accept the office, and that in the extremity confronting this municipality one less worthy the suffrage of men was not selected. Mr. Boland has resided in Fulton all his life. He has applied himself strictly to the conduct of his business and he bears a stainless reputation among his associates and friends. In the face of stubborn competition in the cigar manufacturing business he has succeeded in building up a prosperous business The discipline of the struggle for a firm foothold in the commercial world has rounded out his character and ability so that he will not trifle with the responsibility to be placed upon his shoulders. That his administration will be conservative and satisfactory, if he is elected, is believed and unhesitatingly vouched for by his friends in both parties.

VALUABLE GIFT TO LIBRARY

Through American Express Agent N. H. Gilbert, the Hon. Watson C. Squire of Washington has presented to the Fulton public library five handsomely bound volumes entitled, "The Rise and Progress of an American State." Volume 5, of the gift contains a history of the marvelous attainments of Mr. Squire, who was born in Jefferson County, N. Y., and who was educated in Falley Seminary, this city. He was a school friend and army comrade of Mr. Gilbert and neither miles nor years have interrupted the splendid friendship" existing between the two men. Mr. Squire's gift through Mr. Gilbert shows his regard for the institution of education in the city once his home, and where his career is a matter of pride and interest. The history of his life is as interesting as fiction. Times readers will indeed be desirous of reading it.

REGISTRATION ABOVE THAT OF LAST YEAR

Saturday was the last registration day for 1911, and the party leaders were busy all day getting out the electors to register. The total would indicate that there would be something doing on election day and that a heavy vote for the Republican nominees would be cast. Of course there is a feeling of apathy on the part of Fulton Republicans and Democrats alike when they look over the ticket and see the number of endorsements, one party with the other, and there are many mutterings about the campaign of next Fall, but the probability is that straight party votes will be cast with the exception of for Messrs. Stranahan and Fanning. They will, it is believed, run far ahead of the city ticket.

	1911	1910	1909	1908
First Ward	368	314	383	389
Second Ward ..	460	442	492	499

INSTALLATION CEREMONIES

Rev. G. W. Wellburn Received by the Presbyterian Church Officials as Pastor —Interesting Program—Reception and Delightful Social Time Follow in Church Parlors.

The installation of the Rev. G. W. Wellburn, as pastor of the Presbyterian church of this city, took place last evening in the sacred edifice. The ceremony was most instructive and impressive, marking a new epoch in the history of the church. Although Mr. Wellburn has been acting pastor for the brief period of twelve months, he has won a lasting place in the affectionate regard and esteem of not only the membership and congregation, but those of other denominations as well; indeed, whenever any good work or word is required in the interest of public enterprise for the upbuilding of a worthy cause in this city, Mr. Wellburn's co-operation is sure to be obtained.

The following program of the services was carried out:

Rev. H. A. Porter, Fayetteville, Moderator of the Presbytery, presided

Rev. F. W. Palmer, D. D., of Auburn preached the sermon.

Rev. W. L. Sawtelle of Elmira gave the charge to the people.

Rev. J. H. Odell, D. D., of Scranton gave the charge to the pastor.

Rev. S. W. Steele, D. D., of Oswego offered the prayer of installation.

The installation was by commission of the Presbytery, those in attendance were the Rev. H. A. Porter, Moderator; the Rev. L. W. Steele, D. D., Oswego; the Rev. D. L. Roberts, Mexico; the Rev. A. C. Fulton, Syracuse; Elder R. H. Gere of Syracuse and Rev. F. W. Fuess of Baldwinsville.

An excellent and instructive sermon was delivered by the Rev. F. W. Palmer of Auburn, On the "Personality of Jesus."

The Rev. W. L. Sawtelle of Elmira, who still retains a warm place in the hearts of his former parishioners, delivered the charge to the people, and the Rev. J. H. Odell, D. D., of Scranton, was heard to excellent advantage in the charge to the pastor in which he emphasized the necessity of the modern pastor making the scriptures vital to his congregation.

In passing it might be noted that the Fulton church has been most fortunate in its previous pastors; Dr. Riggs of Auburn Seminary is pleasantly recalled by some of the older members, while the Revs. Odell and Sawtelle are affectionately remembered by the younger members, who appreciate that they are now conducting successful work in a larger field of usefulness.

Vocal selections by a quartett were interpersed throughout the services. Mrs. L. Fowler Joy, Miss Mabel Hodges, Messrs. H. A. MacFarland and N. H. Gilbert, composed the vocalists, while a male quartett composed of Messrs. MacFarland, Gilbert, C. M. Allen and B. W. Bennett rendered appropriate music.

Miss Blanche Hall presided at the organ.

At the close of the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, of which Mrs. Frank Porter is president, to Mr. and Mrs. Wellburn. Refreshments were served and a delightful social time followed.

MARRIED

Thursday evening at the home of the groom's brother, Mr. J. J. Morrill, Mr. Jesse Morrill, the senior brother in the firm of Morrill Brothers, was united in marriage with Mrs. Lucy M. Rogers of Syracuse. The Rev. C. L. Peck, pastor of the First Methodist church, was the officiating clergyman and the ceremony was solemnized in the presence of the immediate relatives of the bride and groom. At the conclusion of the ceremony and congratulations a luncheon was served and Mr. and Mrs. Morrill departed for an extended bridal trip. They will be "at home" to their friends at the homestead in South Third street after Dec. 1. Mr. Morrill is a well known and popular business man of Fulton where he has lived all of his life. Mrs. Morrill is a charming young woman and very popular with a wide circle of acquaintances. Congratulations have been showered upon the happy couple.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HOLD SESSION

Matters of Local Interest Discussed Municipal Government in England Compared With That in This Country—Proposition for Railroads to Carry Freight Around and Not Through City.

The first regular meeting since vacation of the Chamber of Commerce was held in the rooms on Friday evening. There was a goodly attendance and a most entertaining and instructive program was presented. Meetings will be held the third Friday evening in each month, when matters of pleasure and profit will be presented by interested members.

On Friday evening the Rev. G. W. Wellburn spoke on municipal government in England, and he gave his audience a clear, lucid description of the laws and regulations prevailing in the country of his nativity. In England, Mr. Wellburn, stated, the various nominees for office must accept, or they are fined for failure to do so.

Mr. John Hunter spoke on the subject nearest his heart, the permission of the electors to purchase the Falley seminary property for High school purposes, and the proposed new school building for Oak street. The unanimous endorsement of the project by the members of the Chamber present, resulted from Mr. Hunter's plea.

Mr. George J. Emeny broached the subject of eliminating the carrying of freight by steam cars through the heart of our city, and the placing of freight yards in the best residential section of the city and adjacent to the Lee Memorial hospital. Mr. Emeny's plan was to compel the railroads to carry their freight around rather than through the city.

The Chamber starts out with a full paid membership of 182, and hope to increase this number to at least 225 by January next.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAORERS MEET

Oswego, Oct 19.—With many delegates from all sections of the county in attendance, the annual convention of the Oswego County Christian Endeavor Union opened in the Congregational Church in this city this afternoon State Secretary Dr Bernard Clausen of Binghamton, delivered addresses at both the afternoon and evening sessions.

The meeting opened with an address of welcome by the president, G. D. Foot, of the local city union, which was followed with a response by B. G. Seamans of Pulaski. Rev. Charles Olmstead of Fulton discussed the topic "Efficiency and Co-efficiency." After the reports of the various officers were read supper was served by the city union in the chapel.

Rev. Dr. C. S. Savage of the West Baptist church led the devotional service this evening, which was largely attended. After the election of officers the convention closed with an address on the topic, "Where Do I Come In." by Dr. Clausen.

The following officers were elected: President, W. H. Barrett, Fulton; vice presidents, Dudley Foot of Oswego, Rev. J. E. Rawson of Central Square, Carl Howland of Lycoming; recording secretary, Bertha Kessler of Mexico; treasurer, Carl Bassett of Oswego.

DOUGLAS ROBINSON NOMINATED

Little Falls, N. Y., Oct. 23.—The Republican county convention for Herkimer county reconvened today according to the order of Judge Merrill. The court directed the Robinson men seated in the convention in place of the men substituted on the temporary roll call by Vice President Sherman's organization.

This gave Theodore Douglas Robinson, nephew of former President Roosevelt, the control of the convention and he was nominated for member of assembly.

The organization Republicans refused to participate.

MR. MEAD'S LECTURE

The Oswego Palladium in speaking of the lecture, "The Beginning," given in the First M. E. church in that city on Sunday evening by the Hon. S. B. Mead of this city, said in part:

A masterly and scholarly lecture was that delivered at the First M. E. church last evening by the Hon. S. B. Mead of Fulton, former Surrogate of Oswego county. He spoke to an audience who gave his words rapt attention from start to conclusion. The attendance was not confined to members of the church alone, but there were many of Mr. Mead's friends present who had previously heard him in court in the practice of his profession, and went to hear him on a new subject. He spoke last evening on "The Beginning" and while in no sense a religious sermon or lecture his treatment of the creation and after-effects was such that it did please those religiously inclined who heard him. Mr. Mead's subject was one of which much is written and spoken, but it was a new view of the first of the world that his hearers gleaned. His talk was based on scientific discoveries and beliefs, and while scientific, was not too abstruse for laymen to understand, and more than one left the building feeling that the speaker could have gone on for another hour without exhausting his subject or his audience.

NEW ELECTRIC PLANT COMPLETED

Fulton Light, Heat & Power Company Erect Immense Plant and Install Modern Equipment Sufficient to Take Care of Demands for Many Generations to Come—To be Commended for Installing Automatic Stokers and Eliminating Smoke Nuisance.

The modern plant of the Fulton Light, Heat & Power company has been completed and Manager L. W. Emerick invites the residents of this city and vicinity to inspect the same. Mr. Emerick's pride in the plant may well be understood when it is known that he has personally overseen every portion of the work and has counselled and advised every purchase, until today Fulton boasts the most modern and complete electric lighting and power plant to be found in this section of the State. The building really contains duplicate plants so that in the event of any accident befalling the one, the other will be ready for immediate service and the public will thus be protected from annoyance or loss. A 150-foot tapering concrete smoke stack surmounts the structure and is an object of interest and admiration.

The patient and long suffering public in this smoke ridden community appreciate too, the effort put forth by the electric light company in providing their plant with automatic stokers so that the smoke is all consumed instead of pouring into the faces and homes of the residents. The plant operates two steam turbine engines capable of generating 1000-H. P. each.

Many of our residents have visited the plant and have been deeply impressed with the completeness of the equipment and that fact that there will be no necessity for many years to come, of outside provision for power and lights.

SUB-DISTRICT CONVENTION

Thursday afternoon, Oct. 26, a convention of Christian Workers will be held in the Stste Street Methodist church beginning at 3 p. m. Among the speakers will be Rev. R. Surog Jones of Mount Pleasant, Rev. Frederick C. Schorge of Constantia, and Rev. Charles R.Vickery,recently returned from pastoral work in Bombay and Singapore, India. World-wide evangelism, young people's work, etc. will be the general topics of addresses and discussions. At 8 o'clock p. m., Rev. F. L. Knapp of Oswego will deliver a lecture illustrated by stereopticon views, on "The Hermit's Awakening." A general invitation to the public is extended.

THE WEEK

Immediate requirements to replenish depleted stocks, coupled with lower prices, are mainly responsible for a continued increase in trade activity. The improvement is conservative, but it is steady, and it is noticeable in nearly every large trade center. The large crop and early maturity of cotton, making for lower prices, is working a readjustment in the cotton goods trade on the basis of increased activity. The result is a resumption of operations in mills that were idle and an increased production in mills that were working part-time. Large sales are also reported in the wool market, and in the dry goods trade generally there is a quickened movement, which, although it may not have any far-reaching significance, is at least, for the time being, very cheering. The leather trade also displays a spirit among buyers of willingness to operate. Hides are active and strong. Further concessions in prices are reported in tin plates, and the lower prices of steel products seem attractive to many buyers and new business is reported, while projected great public and corporation work gives promise of large future demand for structural steel materials. There is no change in the fundamental conditions of business other than the apparent disposition to provide for the large immediate consumptive demands freely, leaving larger considerations growing out of pending economic and international problems for the future.

That the dry goods trade is expanding steadily is shown by the increased operations of mills and manufacturers of different dry goods specialties. Jobbers are beginning to look further ahead for early spring needs, and lower prices for tickings, denims and other heavy colored cottons have resulted in more active ordering. Brown cottons and print cloth are easier. Bleached cottons are quiet, but staple prints and percales are well under order and several lines of ginghams are sold up for spring.

Liabilities of commercial failures thus far reported for October amount to $8,918,113, of which $3,796,088 were in manufacturing, $4,420,008 in trading and $702,017 in other commercial lines. Failures this week numbered 256 in the United States against 205 last year, and 24 in Canada compared with 33 a year ago.

PURE FOOD SHOW TO BE HELD

"We'll all go to the Fair,
The ladies will be there,
By the light of the moon
The old baboon
Will be combing his auburn hair."

This was warbled by an enthusiastic resident of Madison County as he learned of the great preparation made by Central City Council No. 221, United Commercial Travelers, for the great Industrial Exposition and Pure Food Show, to be held in the State Armory, Syracuse, from October 23 to 28 inclusive

This last week of October, 1911, in the confines of Syracuse but with its tentacles ramifying toward every section of the State, there is to be presented a wonderful story of enlightment.

This great Exposition is held in the interest of every citizen in Central New York. The moving spirit in it is the United Commercial Travelers, but the manufacturers and merchants, not only in Syracuse, but of adjacent counties, have caught the spirit, and in the hundred of booths being erected many will be occupied by the live wired merchants or manufacturers in this town.

The State Armory is being transformed into a veritable bower of beauty. Some idea of this can be acquired when it is known that in the decorating effect 20,000 feet of fireproof bunting; 5,000 carnations; between 1,000 and 1,200 square feet of trellis work; ten boxes of natural Southern smilax; 3,000 to 4,000 eight candle power electric lights; one immense eagel and American flag set piece with 500 lights, 24 by 12 feet in dimension, with two large columns with canopy of lights topped with set piece, and a large electric sign at the front will be used. There will be a Court of Honor leading from the Armory to the leading street of the city likewise.

Every industry in the modern mart will be placed on exhibition; as for pure food exhibit, the good housewife, if she so purposes, can carry home in the way of souvenirs more than her wildest dreams can suggest; her good man will see practical demonstration of the most sanitary methods in the way of progress, and as for machinery and the mill supply and all other etceteras and good things to eat and drink, well, tell him to come along.

The will of the late J. A. Gaylord, of Granby, was admitted to probate and his widow, Emma Gaylord, was made executor. The real estate is valued at $5,000 and the personal property at $1,250.

The account of Clarence W. Streeter in the estate of Alzara Streeter was filed, showing the value of the estate to have been $2,685.87. The total debts were $344.71.

PHONE USERS IN MEXICO

Advance of Rates Arouses An Antagonistic Spirit Among Patrons—usiness Men's Association Takes Action.

The 'phone users of Mexico are in the midst of a rate war owing to the fact that the New York Telephone company has advanced their rental rate $5 per year.

The Mexico Business Men's Association, in an effort to find out whether the increase was justified or necessary in order that the company might have a fair return on their investment at that place, began negotiations with the telephone company to secure this information.

The corporation failed to furnish this information, and while the association was awaiting their answer, th company had its agents canvassing to secure new contracts at the advanced rate.

Failing, largely, in securing these renewals they then tried to secure renewals for one month. Several signed these. Many others refused to continue the service at the advanced rate and ordered their 'phones removed.

In the face of this situation several members of the association, who had refused to sign any contracts, were sent bills for the month of October at the old rate, while those who had signed contracts were billed at the increased rate. At a representative meeting of the Business Men's Association, believing the advanced rate to be exorbitant and unjust, it was decided that after ten days' notice, and not later than November 1, 1911, the members of the association, and as many others as might desire to join with them, shall discontinue their telephone service.

The Mexico Exchange had about four hundred subscribers before the increased rates went into effect.

Plans were also discussed with reference to presenting the situation before the Public Service Commission.

EYE STRAIN.

It Has Many Symptoms and May Affect the Whole System.

Chief among the symptoms of eye strain are watering of the eye, a gluing together of the eyelids on awakening in the morning, headache, the position and character of which vary with each individual. It may be neuralgic or it may be deeply seated, as was the case with Wagner, the musician, who was complaining constantly of "the nerves of his eyes."

The headache is often replaced by an inflammation of the eyelids, especially in young and healthy persons, who also have a little conjunctivitis, with a feeling of tension or fullness in the eyes which may become real pain of a dull aching character, the eyeballs being very tender on pressure.

Sometimes there are vertigo and sickness, with dyspepsia, palpitation and even difficulty in breathing. Sleeplessness is a very frequent symptom, due in part to the excessive flow of blood to the brain and in part to the low tone of the whole nervous system.

The symptoms of eye strain appear sooner in those who lead a confined and sedentary life, who follow occupations which need a constant use of the eyes in bad or unsuitable light and in those who are debilitated from any cause. The symptoms appear later in those of coarser fiber, who pass much of their time in the open air or who follow occupations which do not need a prolonged use of the eyes for close work.—London Lancet.

Odd Bargain of Dumas.

The library of Carpentras possesses among its treasures a curious collection of autographs. One is the signature of Alexandre Dumas pere to an old bargain which he proposed and which was accepted. This strange contract was that the author should present to the library of Cavaillon copies of all his works, those already published and others which he might write in return for a supply of melons to be sent to him as long as he lived.—Westminster Gazette.

Anecdotes.

What is an anecdote?

An anecdote is a story of extremely uncertain age that is founded on fiction and embellished by fancy.

After lying dormant for years it is dug up and credited to an entirely innocent and unsuspecting United States senator.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

TROLLEY SCHEDULE

Changing the Leaving Time of the 11:10 p. m. Car from Syracuse to Fulton Considered Impracticable by Assistant Traffic Manager A. J. Littlejohn.

Since the establishment of the present trolley schedule, which has proven annoying to local patrons of the Syracuse Theatres, many of them having to miss the last act of each play, The Times took the matter up with Assistant Traffic Manager A. J. Littlejohn, in an effort to adjust the running time of the last car more in accordance with the wishes of local theatre patrons. Mr. Littlejohn's reply follows:

Editor Fulton Times: After a considerable investigation as to the feasability of changing the leaving time of the 11:10 p. m., car for Fulton, Minetto and Oswego to accommodate patrons residing north of Phoenix who may be unable to get this car when attending the Empire theatre, we have found that such change is not practicable.

This car has fixed meets with an opposing train, and to alter its time in any way would require material changes in the late evening schedule, which operating conditions will not admit of.

In addition, we find that the departure of this train at 11:10 p. m., conveniences a very large number of patrons who object to its being set back. We also find that there are very few patrons of the Syracuse theatres who reside north of Phoenix, and we also find that the average performance at the Empire, as well as other Syracuse theatres, are finished in time to allow from 15 to 25 minutes to catch this train. As the Empire is but 3-8th of a mile from the station this ought to be easy.

When the Lake Shore road shall have been double tracked for its entire length, it will be a simple proposition to adjust trains to suit almost all conditions, but you will readily appreciate that single track enforces fixed meeting points which must be the first consideration in determining the operation of all trains.

I regret that the conditions at present are such that we cannot alter the 11:10 p. m.

Very truly,
A. J. Littlejohn,
Assistant Traffic Manager.

The Right of Speech.

No right was deemed by the fathers of the government more sacred than the right of speech. It was in their eyes, as in the eyes of all thoughtful men, the great moral renovator of society and government. Daniel Webster called it a home bred right, a fireside privilege. Liberty is meaningless where the right to utter one's thought and opinions has ceased to exist. That of all rights is the dread of tyrants. It is the right which they first of all strike down. They know its power. Thrones, dominions, principalities and powers founded in injustice and wrong are sure to tremble if men are allowed to reason for righteousness, temperance and of a judgment to come in their presence.—Frederick Douglass.

LEGAL NOTICE

STATE OF NEW YORK, Supreme Court, County of Oswego. Fulton Paper Company vs. Lucy A. Nelson, et al.

Sirs: TAKE NOTICE, That upon the petition of Charles M. Allen of Fulton, N. Y., duly verified on the 9th day of October, 1911, one of the owners of water rights adjudicated in and by the decree hereinafter mentioned and upon the decree hereinafter mentioned, a motion will be made at the Special Term of this Court, appointed to be held at the Court House in the City of Oswego, N. Y., in and for the County of Oswego, on the 28th day of October, 1911, at the opening of the Court on that day, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard for a rule or order in this action, directing that Louis W. Emerick, of Fulton, N. Y., named as a commissioner in a decree in the above entitled action, duly granted on the 30th day of June, 1906, and duly entered in Oswego County Clerk's Office, July 2, 1906, be removed as such commissioner, on the ground that said commissioner has ceased to have the necessary qualifications provided for in said decree, and upon the further ground that the situation of such commissioner makes such removal advisable, and that said order shall provide and name a successor to such commissioner, and for such other or further order of relief in the premises as shall be just.

Dated the 9th day of October, 1911.

Wanted His Money's Worth.

Customer—I say, Mr. Barber, I don't hear your scissors at work on my hair. Barber (apologetically)—There is very little hair on your head, sir. Customer—That makes no difference. I pay my money and I want you to rattle the scissors on the bald place just the same as if I had hair on it.

Just a Little Bluff.

First Matron—I am told that you allow your husband to carry a latchkey. Second Matron—Yes, but it does not fit the door. I just let him carry it to humor him. He likes to show it to his friends and make them think that he is independent.

Captain Jack and Captain Ben

By MARGARET FOSTER

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Margaret Swift was born and brought up on the New Hampshire coast among seafaring people.

When Maggie grew old enough to have a lover there were two candidates for her favor. Both were assistants on fishing smacks. Jack Cady was a wild youngster who promised no good, and no good ever came out of him. Ben Wharton was a steady young fellow, whose parents never had any occasion to worry about him. Maggie at first preferred Jack, but as soon as she came to an age to see the difference between the two young men she found Ben the more acceptable of the two.

Both Jack and Ben went to sea, and both became masters of vessels when they were still very young. Both were much in love with Maggie, and each strove to accumulate the means whereby he might be enabled to claim her, though this is rather true of Ben than Jack, for while the former progressed steadily the latter did so by fits and starts, now and again getting into positions where any money he had saved was needed to help him out.

Maggie's father was interested in her marrying a man who could give her a home and comforts. He believed she would wed with one or the other of these two young captains and used to say to them:

"The man that gets my daughter with my consent must be able to take care of her."

This at once caused a rivalry between the two men for something more mercenary than love. Ben in a few years owned a part of the vessel he commanded, but Jack, owing to his unsteadiness, was in about the same condition as at his starting. Maggie really began to love Ben, and Jack, thinking that his rival was favored because he had more means than he, became very much disgruntled.

Toward the end of one of Ben's voyages he was approaching the coast of New England when what seemed to be a derelict appeared ahead. Nearing her, she was found to be a vessel lumbering in the waves half full of water, part of her cargo soaked and ruined, but the rest in good condition. The name on the stern was so blurred that it could not be made out, and it was supposed that it had needed freshening when the vessel had been abandoned, and since, the waves beating upon it, had rendered it still more faint. One man who examined it closely said that it had been scraped.

The ship not being greatly damaged and half the cargo in good condition, Captain Ben saw a chance for prize money for himself and his crew. He attached a hawser to her with a view of towing her into the nearest port, about 500 miles distant. After a good deal of trouble, the cable parting several times, he succeeded in getting her into Boston.

It was not long before the prize was identified and not much longer before it became evident that there had been fraud in her abandonment. The water was pumped out of her and a hole was found in her bottom, indicating that she had been scuttled. She was overinsured and, the two taken together, indicated that it was a case of attempted fraud on the insurance companies. When Captain Ben was told the name of the vessel he was thunderstruck. It had been for several years commanded by his rival.

The next news Captain Ben learned was that Captain Cady had arrived at home, reporting that after a frightful storm, finding his ship in a sinking condition, he had considered it necessary to take to the boats. All the crew were saved. Proofs of loss had been made to the insurance companies and payment was daily expected.

It was evident to Ben that in order to overreach him in the wherewithal to marry Maggie his rival had been tempted to commit a fraud which would land him in state prison. Leaving his first mate to sail his ship into her destined port, Ben went home by land. As soon as he arrived he sought out his rival and told him of the finding of his ship, the towing her into port and the discoveries that had followed.

"I don't wish to see you punished for your crime," said Ben, "and have come to enable you to get away."

It was evident from the culprit's demeanor that he was already severely punished in the loss of the girl he had hoped to win by fraud. But whether there was thankfulness in his heart to the man who had given him an opportunity to escape a prison, Ben did not feel assured. Certain it is that Jack Cady was never again seen in New England after that interview.

When Captain Ben met Maggie Swift he found her much disturbed. His rival had shown that he was about to receive considerable money for his last voyage and had made application to her father for her hand. She did not wish to marry Jack, but she idolized her father. Ben told her of his finding a ship and that considerable prize money was due him, which he would receive in time. But he said never a word of Jack's attempt to defraud. However, it was not long before the whole matter came out and Maggie—and her father too—learned that if it had not been for Ben's find, had her father prevailed, she would have married a swindler.

And so it was that a dishonest man's rascality was turned to his honest rival's advantage.

MYSTERIOUS MEKRAN.

A Desolate Land, Dedicated by Nature and Shunned by Man.

"A mysterious veil has always hung over the land of Mekran," says the London Times. "Mekran is the name given to the long coastal region stretching almost from the Indus to the entrance to the Persian gulf. Sailors have coasted along its white shores from time immemorial, but few in modern days have ever penetrated the ranges of hills which lie beyond. The greater part of Mekran is desolate and forsaken, a land desiccated by nature and shunned by man. The few tribes which linger there are the jetsam of history, stray wreckage which has drifted into this obscure corner of the world in the backwash of great events. It is even believed that the Dravidians passed through Mekran on their way to southern India and left stragglers, whose descendants have dwelt there ever since. There are patches of Mongols from the days of Jenghiz Khan; colonels of half breed Arabs from the time when an Arab dynasty held Sind; unmistakable Rajputs, who were there before Alexander; African negroes, the offshoots of medieval slavery, and traces of still older peoples whose origins are lost in the mists of time.

"Yet Mekran cannot always have been either so dry or so deserted. Many of its hills are closely covered with little stone houses, mostly square at the base, narrowing upward like truncated pyramids, and with dome shaped interiors. They are tombs, and among the rubbish found within them are fragments of light green pottery of fine quality, which no one seems able to identify. Then there are vast masonry dams, obviously built to catch the water in the hills, just as engineers are making dams in the Indian ghauts to-day.

"Sometimes the hills are terraced for cultivation, after the fashion of hills in southern Japan and elsewhere, only in Mekran the terraces are dry and bare, and not even a blade of grass remains. The crumbling ruins of whole cities, the very names of which are forgotten, lie concealed between the serrated ridges."

FEATHERED POLICE.

Birds Do a Wonderful Amount of Work For the Farmer.

Birds work more in conjunction with man to help him than does any other form of outdoor life, according to an article in Success Magazine. They police the earth and air, and without their services the farmer would be helpless. Larks, wrens and thrushes search the ground for grubs and insects. The food of the meadow lark consists of 75 per cent of injurious insects and 12 per cent of weed seed, showing it to be a bird of great economic value. Sparrows, finches and quail eat a large amount of weed seed.

Practically all the food of the tree sparrow consists of seed. Examinations by Professor F. E. L. Beal of the biological survey of the department of agriculture show that a single tree sparrow will eat a quarter of an ounce of weed seed daily. In a state the size of Iowa tree sparrows alone will consume more than 800 tons of weed seed annually. This, with the work of other seed eating birds, saves the farmer an immense amount of work.

Nuthatches and chickadees scan every part of the trunks and limbs of trees for insect eggs. In a day's time a chickadee has been known to eat hundreds of insect eggs and worms that are very harmful to our trees and vegetables. Warblers and vireos hunt the leaves and buds for moths and millers. Flycatchers, swallows and night hawks are busy day and night catching flies that bother man and beast. Hawks and owls are working silently in daylight and darkness to catch moles, mice, gophers and squirrels.

Insulted.

A traveler relates a story illustrative of life in Spain. Alighting at the door of an inn, a man extended his hand, and, naturally supposing him to be a porter, the traveler offered him his valise.

The man stepped back, tossed his head and frowned scornfully.

"Do you take me for a porter?" he demanded. "I would have you understand that I am no porter."

"Indeed?" said the traveler apologetically. "Then may I ask, senor, what you are?"

"I am a beggar, sir, and asked you for alms!"

Making Sure.

An electric wire had fallen under its heavy weight of snow. The linemen found a crowd around the grounded copper and an inquisitive Irishman lifting one end from the ground.

"Man, alive, don't you know what a risk you're taking? That might be a live wire!" he ejaculated.

"Sure an' Oi thought of that meself, an' Oi hit of the wire good before Oi picked it up at all."—Everybody's.

Making Him Happy.

Marks—I know your wife didn't like it because you took me home unexpectedly to dinner last night. Parks—Nonsense! Why, you hadn't been gone two minutes before she remarked that she was glad it was no one else but you.—Boston Transcript.

A Gifted Barber.

"The barber told me a very interesting story as he shaved me."

"Indeed?"

"Yes, and also illustrated it with cuts."—Washington Herald.

The usual fortune of complaint is to excite contempt more than pity.—Johnson.

THE DEACON'S DOG

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.

Deacon Goodhue had lived in the village of Derbyville for thirty years, and no one had ever seen him out of temper. One day when his character was under discussion a tin peddler said of the deacon:

"That man is too serene. He will break loose some day and astonish you all."

The deacon had got to be fifty years old. He was a widower and was looking out for a second wife. There was an old maid over at Grafton, seven miles away, who filled his eye, and one day he harnessed his horse to the rattling old buggy and drove over there to ask her to be his.

"Waal, Martha, I've been thinking this thing all over, and I've concluded that I want you for a wife."

"But you are just a day too late, deacon," was the answer.

"Has somebody got you?"

"Yes. I gave my promise yesterday."

"Can't you bust it?"

"No, I can't. I'm sorry to put you to the trouble of driving over here, but I can't break my word."

"Oh, waal, I'll just have to look a little further."

"And I hope you will find some one to suit. Have a cup of tea, deacon?"

"No, I guess not."

"But it's a dusty drive, deacon, and I don't want you to go back entirely empty handed. Have you got a dog?"

"Never had one."

"There's one here that came along two weeks ago. He's a lost dog, and I don't want him. Why not take him home with you?"

"Why, I might. I've heard that a dog gets to love you like everything after awhile. He's also purty good company for a lone man."

The deacon was taken out into the back yard to view the canine. It was a big one eyed dog with a stump tail. He was a blend of different colors, and he shambled when he walked. No other man in the state would have taken him, but he just hit the deacon's fancy, and he also felt the sentiment connected with the gift. He had come to ask a woman to marry him, but was a day too late. She seemed to regret it and wanted to show that there were no hard feelings by presenting him with a one eyed dog.

If the deacon had figured on taking a month to get a line on that canine's character he soon discovered his error. In driving the seven miles back home sixteen dogs belonging to sixteen different farmers came rushing out to interview the strange canine and make him wish he had never been born. Each and every one of the sixteen was duly and thoroughly chawed up and half killed.

"Rayther forward in his views—rayther forward," said the good man to himself after about the eighth conflict, "but mebbe it is better so."

For two days after reaching what was to be his home the dog, which was named Sambo by the deacon, stuck to the back yard and the solitude of an empty barrel. Then he went forth to see the town. As was natural, the village dogs approached him either to welcome or throw out a bluff. It made no difference which to Sambo. He treated all alike. His one eye burned like a live coal, his hair stood up like bristles, that stump tail ceased wagging, and with a roar like a lion he descended upon the canine before him and made things sad for him.

There are dog owners that will stand by and see their dogs rolled in the dust and more or less crippled and make no sign, but such men are few and far between. In one day the deacon had more men down on him than in all the years before. They even forgot what a good man he was and swore at him and threw stones at his dog. As it was on the first day, so it was on the second and third. Then every dog in the town had been licked, and none of them would pass beyond the gate. If there was a hero in Derbyville it was Sambo Goodhue. He was a detested hero, however. The deacon was told that if he didn't get rid of him the dog would be shot or poisoned off, and it was then seen that he had spunk back of his serenity. He took the side of the dog. He talked right back to those who talked to him, and once he spat on his hands and was about to take off his coat.

The deacon had broken loose at last, and the prophecy of the peddler was being realized. There were wonder and astonishment in Derbyville that night. Folks thought the climax had been reached, but it hadn't.

A crowd of fifty men came to kill Sambo. The deacon shed his coat and vest and sailed in. He whooped and he yelled. He struck and he kicked. He rolled up the enemy before him, and behind them was Sambo to do his full part. The full moon came up to look down on the broken and the bitten, and the deacon didn't stop yelling for an hour afterward.

Then Sambo was missing. He had come and seen and conquered. He had cleaned up the town and set out for other worlds to conquer. His master whistled and called, but in vain. It was a year later before they started to forgive the deacon and three years before his reputation for serenity and good nature was restored, but it came at last, and when death called him he had a funeral procession half a mile long and the horses on the walk at that.

STERLING RANGE

THE BOTHER of carrying ashes may be stopped for all time with the Model "R" Sterling. An ash chute will take all dirt to the cellar. Think of the work this saves.

But the saving in time in carrying ashes is not all there is to it. All Sterling Ranges are made in such a way that ashes are not scattered on the kitchen floor, even if you use an ashpan instead of the chute.

Don't forget the Polished Top that goes with every Model "R,"—the top that needs no blacking. And don't forget the great convenience of the Lift Key Plate and the Patent Sterling Broiler.

The Sterling is certainly a wonderful labor saver.

And the biggest thing of all is the fact that this new Model is made on the Unit System, and that we can make you a range to fit your kitchen requirements by combining the "units" in various ways.

I wouldn't put it off a day, but come into the store now and see this brand new idea in ranges.

A Word About the Rev. Mr. Wellburn

The installation of the Rev. G. W. Wellburn as pastor of the Presbyterian church in this city, is deserving of more than mere mention. While Mr. Wellburn's residence in Fulton has not exceeded twelve months, those with whom he has been brought in contact have learned to regard him with sincere affection. As a pastor he is endowed with Christian courtesy, possessing the happy condition of mind which transmutes the disagreeable things of life—so plentiful in ordinary experience—into golden and ruby colors like the dawn. We repeat that secular and religious circles in Fulton are to be congratulated in securing the services of a pulpit orator and leader in religious thought who seems never to miss an opportunity of conferring pleasure and gladness on those who need kind words and spiritual counsel.

President Taft, during his western trip, has expressed his determination to enforce the Sherman Anti-trust act even if the offending combinations do cry for mercy. He states that the prosecution of these great combinations that have been trying to prevent competition must go on until either the law is repealed or the law is enforced, that no combinations shall exist which shall be able to prevent competition and establish a monopoly and that is the policy which the administration has adopted, and one it intends to carry through.

CLEAN-CUT, ABLE AND HONEST

From all the information we can obtain from various portions of the county, we have no doubt that Mr. Hubbs will have a good sized majority. Republicans know that Irving J. Hubbs, of Oswego county, is a clean-cut, able and honest man, that he resides in a large county that has no judge, that he was fairly nominated by the Republican judicial convention, and is entitled to the support of every true Republican in the county of Lewis. The equities of the case are clearly in his favor. Why should Republicans refuse to vote for so good a man and vote for a Democrat? We have no criticism to pass on Judge Purcell. He is an able man and would also make a good Judge. His neighbors and friends are enthusiastic over his nomination because they know all about him.

What has the Governor Dix administration done for Republican judges? He appointed four Democratic judges of the Supreme Court in Republican districts. He abolished the Republican Court of Claims. He signed the bill giving Tammany Hall two new judges, which the bar association said was entirely unnecessary. Rest assured, there is no land slide in Lewis county for Purcell. The Republicans this year are going to vote their ticket. If there was one serious objection to Mr. Hubbs there might be some question about his election, but no one can say aught against him. He is just as much entitled to the support of the Republicans as Judge Emerson, of Watertown. Is it right to give Watertown two Supreme Court judges and deny Oswego the right to a judge?—Lowville Journal and Republican.

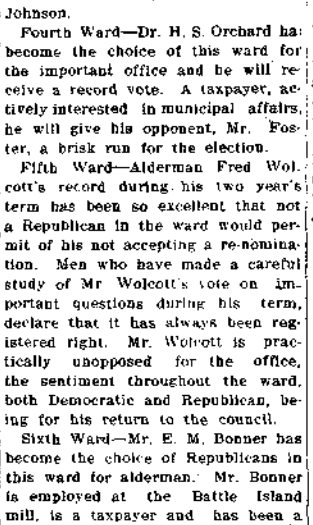
REPUBLICAN ALDERMEN NOMINATED

The situation throughout the city this Fall has been one of chaos so far as Republican candidates are concerned. Republican aldermen were nominated in the six wards and all but two declined the proffered honor. The vacancies were filled by the various committees and again declinations. Finally men have been found with sufficient public spirit to fill the vacancies and the ticket presented to the electors for their suffrage on Nov. 7, will be composed of:

First Ward—Mr. Calvin R. Dines, a life long resident of Fulton, having been born here. He is a member of the Granby Paper company, a member of the Masonic fraternity in good standing and was for several terms treasurer of the then village of Fulton. Mr. Dines was for several years employed as head bookkeeper in the First National bank, resigning his position to enter the Granby company. He is of staunch Republican principles and would make an efficient official. His opponent is the present alderman, Mr. George B. Palmer.

Second Ward — Blacksmith E. J. Bishop, who conducts a shop on East First street. Mr. Bishop has been a long time resident of this city but has never held elective office before. Mr. Bishop is well known in his home ward.

Third Ward—Meat Dealer Elmer E. Taylor declined the nomination for alderman and the Republicans, having acquired the endorsing habit, have endorsed Mr. Fred W. Youngs, the Prohibition nominee for alderman from that ward. Mr. Youngs is opposed for the office by the present efficient alderman, Mr. H. Freeman Johnson.



Fourth Ward—Dr. H. S. Orchard has become the choice of this ward for the important office and he will receive a record vote. A taxpayer, actively interested in municipal affairs, he will give his opponent, Mr. Foster, a brisk run for the election.

Fifth Ward—Alderman Fred Wolcott's record during his two year's term has been so excellent that not a Republican in the ward would permit of his not accepting a re-nomination. Men who have made a careful study of Mr Wolcott's vote on important questions during his term, declare that it has always been registered right. Mr. Wolcott is practically unopposed for the office, the sentiment throughout the ward, both Democratic and Republican, being for his return to the council.

Sixth Ward—Mr. E. M. Bonner has become the choice of Republicans in this ward for alderman. Mr. Bonner is employed at the Battle Island mill, is a taxpayer and has been a resident of Fulton for many years. His opponent is "Dad" Mead, the well known cartman, and the race is a merry one between them, although Mr. Bonner's friends protest that he leads by more than a neck.

PROHIBITIONISTS FOR MR. HUBBS

The Prohibitionistst in Oswego county poll about 1500 votes and they are for Mr. Hubbs, heart and vote. They left a vacancy on their ticket, nominating but one candidate for the judiviary, and their vote will substantially swell the tremendous vote certain to be cast for Oswego county's candidates on Nov. 7.

HON. T. C. SWEET

But little can be said to strengthen Mr. Sweet in the loyalty and confidence of the Republicans of Oswego county. His record as representative from this district has been excellent and he has been instrumental in securing boons for his constituency, especially in the line of public improvements — good roads and bridges—which all may enjoy, so that he should not and will not receive simply a party vote. He will also receive the complimentary vote of Democrats who have been pleased with his record at Albany. The vote for Mr. Sweet will be a popular vote.

C. A. STONE

Despite the fact that County Superintendent of the Poor C. A. Stone has been threatened with complete annihilation at the polls in November, he goes about his work of being one of the best officials Oswego county ever had, secure in his belief that a majority of the Republican electors of the county wanted him continued in office for another term or they would have found some one to oppose him in the caucuses last Summer. When Oswego county finds an official so capable and so interested in his work, discharging his duty so faithfully that even an unfriendly State administration can only say of the result that it is A1, Oswego county Republicans who care for their party, are interested in strengthening its State and National position—believe that the official should be returned and they return him with an unmistakable majority. Mr. Stone is meriting and will receive the loyal Republican vote of the county and that will be augmented by a large number of Democratic votes that have been driven out of the party of Jefferson by the intrigue and double dealing of some of the erstwhile leaders in the Democratic party. It is the duty and should be the pleasure and privilege of every Republican in Oswego county to register his vote for Mr. Stone on Nov. 7, that his conduct of the very exacting office he fills may be endorsed

MYRON A. STRANAHAN

Fulton's candidate for sheriff must have been born under a lucky star. The gods certainly have worked out his destiny in this Fall's election and he must perforce receive practically the unanimous vote of the county electorate for the office which he seeks, the Democrats really not having a nominee on their ticket. Mr. Stranahan's opponent on the Democratic ticket, Mr. William G. eBtts of Granby, several weeks ago disposed of his property interests in Granby and made arrangeemnts to transfer his residence to Oneida, where a portion of his family now resides, so that a vote cast for Mr Betts would practically be a vote thrown away. It is prophesied that Mr. Stranahan will receive the largest vote ever received by a candidate on any ticket in Oswego county. Mr. Stranahan has the ability and the inclination to maintain the same high order of service in the sheriff's office during his tenure that has been established and maintained by Sheriff Taft, and his friends are determined to look to it that his majority is so large as to impress upon him their expectation of this statement. Mr. Stranahan brings business ability to the office; a record of business success and that he is an organizer of no mean ability is proven by the conditions that exist in Fulton and throughout the county today. There won't be any Fulton votes for Oneida county's Mr. Betts. They will all be for Mr. Stranahan.

FOR FLETCHER'S
CASTORIA

The situation seems to boil down to this. The more gold there is the less we have.

WORTHY AND QUALIFIED

Oswego County is one of our neighboring counties, and the only county in the Judicial district with out a resident Judge of the Supreme Court. The other two candidates for that office are both from Watertown in Jefferson County. In fairness and justice to Oswego county in the Judicial district with ed, then each county in the district would have a resident Justice. It would not be fair, nor for the best interests of the district, to elect two Justices from Jefferson County, and leave our neighboring county of Oswego without a Justice. Mr. Hubbs is worthy and well qualfied to fill the position, and if elected will make an able, efficient and conscientious official.—Rome Tri-Weekly Republican.

ATTORNEY FRANCES D. CULKIN

Mr. Culkin, the Republican nominee for district attorney, makes a most favorable impression upon all the electors who have the pleasure of his acquaintance. Duty has always found Mr. Culkin with his toes straight to the line and in the important office to which he will be called by the county this Fall this characteristic is most desirable. Mr. Culkin is young, but he has a record of things achieved so that the result of his past labors for his country in the Spanish-American war, and his efforts for his county and city while attorney for Oswego, give a convincing impression that even better and greater things may be confidently expected of Mr. Culkin in the future. The endorsement of his candidacy for the office was almost unanimous on the part of Republicans throughout Oswego county last Summer at the county convention, and not any doubt is felt but that he will be as enthusiastically supported at the polls next month. Fulton will give him a very substantial majority to show her confidence in him.

HON. GEORGE M. FANNING

Attorney George M. Fanning was nominated by Republicans last Summer to succeed himself as special county judge, and Fulton will look well to it that he receives a substantial vote to augment the vote which he will receive throughout the county next month. Mr. Fanning is a native of Fulton, has resided here practically all of his life only spending a few years in New York city in the practice of his choosen profession. Immediately upon his return to the city of his nativity he was elected to the office to which he has just been renominated and Fulton again this year demanded the further recognition. Mr. Fanning is also city attorney for Fulton and has been assigned to important cases as referee. He has built up a large private practice in addition to other legal work and now enjoys a wide acquaintance throughout the county. That he will not run behind the high man on his ticket is anticipated.

DEMOCRATS IN FIRST COLUMN

One thing should be impressed upon the minds of the electors this Fall and that is that the Democrats occupy the first column on the ballot held so many years by the Republican party in the Empire State. The eagle has been shifted to the second column and will maintain the position until the Republican vote is larger than the Democratic.

COMMON COUNCIL

Parkinson & Burr's Bid Accepted on Bridge Bond—Case of Lillian I. Foster vs. City of Fulton Settled; Also That of Maurice Conley — Action on Proposed Purchase of School Site and Improvements — Estimates of Boards and Officials for Maintenance of Departments for Year 1912.

Fulton, N. Y., Oct. 17, 1911.

Adjourned meeting of the Common Council.

Present—Mayor Conners, Aldermen Malone, Smith, Palmer, Johnson.

Absent—Aldermen Newton, Wolcott.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Bids on the $80,000.00 Bridge Bonds were opened and were as follows:

Adams & Co., $80,163.00..4.35 per cent.

Ferris & White, $81,752.00..4.50 per cent.

Parkinson & Burr, $80,095.60..4.30 per cent.

Isaac W Sherrill, $80,700.00..4.50 per cent.

Kessell, Kinnicutt & Co., $82,008.-00..4.50 per cent

Rollins & Sons, $81,629.50 .. 4.50 per cent.

Alderman Johnson introduced the following and moved its adoption:

Resolved, That the bid of Parkinson & Burr of the $80,000 Fulton Bridge bond, be accepted and the same be awarded to them on their bid of $80,095.60 at 4.30 per cent per annum, and all other bids be rejected and the checks deposited with said bids be returned to the bidders.

Aye—Aldermen Malone, Smith, Palmer, Johnson.

Absent—Aldermen Newton, Wolcott. —Carried.

This agreement made and entered into the 17th day of October, 1911, by and between George M. Fanning, City Attorney of the City of Fulton, N. Y., and Lillian I. Foster of the City of Fulton, N. Y.

Whereas, On the 28th day of April, 1910, one Lillian I. Foster filed a claim with the City Clerk of the City of Fulton against said city for damages for personal injuries alleged to have been sustained by her by reason of the negligence of the City of Fulton, its officers and servants in allowing a certain side walk in front of the premises of one Mercy P. Locke, to become and remain in a dangerous condition, and claimed damages against the said city in the sum of Twenty-five hundred dollars ($2,500.00).

Whereas, On the 26th day of October, 1911, the said Lillian I. Foster commenced an action against said city of Fulton in the Supreme Court in this State, by a service of a summons to recover the damages specified in said claim, and

Whereas, The said George M. Fanning, City Attorney of the City of Fulton, considers that the best interests of the city will be subserved by compromising and settling said claim and action,

Now, Therefore, This agreement witnesseth: That the said George M. Fanning, as City Attorney of the City of Fulton, N. Y., hereby agrees, subject to the approval of the Common Council of the said city, that the said Lillian I. Foster shall receive, and the said City of Fulton shall pay the sum of Two hundred fifty dollars ($250.00) in full settlement of said claim in the action so brought as aforesaid, and the said Lillian I. Foster hereby agrees to receive said sum of Two hundred fifty dollars ($250.00) in full settlement of said claim and said cause of action, and to discontinue said action without cost against the City of Fulton, and that at or befors the time of receiving the amount herein specified, she will execute and deliver to the said City of Fulton a general release for all damages sustained by her by reason of the matters set forth in said claim and said cause of action. Said release in form to be approved by the City Attorney.

This agreement is made pursuant to Section 223 of Chapter 63 of the Laws of 1902, it being understood and agreed that the amount herein provided to be paid shall with interest thereon, with interest at six per cent., from this day to be included in the next City tax levy, and when raised to be paid to the claimant or her assigns.

Witness, The hands and seals of the parties hereto the day and year first above written.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL ELECTION

Notice is hereby given that a special election of the taxpayers of Fulton, N. Y., will be held in connection with the general election on November 7th, 1911, at which the following propositions will be submitted:

Shall the sum of sixteen thousand (16,000) dollars be appropriated and raised by taxation in sixteen annual installments, with interest, and the Common Council authorized to issue bonds of the City therefore, for the purpose of paying for a site for school and athletic purposes?

The ward in which said site is to be purchased is the Fourth Ward of the City of Fulton and the said site is known as the Falley Seminary property.

Shall the sum of eighteen thousand (18,000) dollars be appropriated and raised by taxation in eighteen annual installments with interest, and the Common Council authorized to issue bonds of the City therefore, for the purpose of erecting a new building by the City of Fulton at about the center of the site owned by said City of Fulton and used for school purposes?

The ward in which said building is to be erected is the second ward of the City of Fulton at about the center of the site owned by the City of Fulton and in place of the present structure known as the Oak street building.

Dated October 17, 1911.

J. C. Harrington, City Clerk.

PRESIDENT TAFT'S APPEAL TO WOMEN

In the November Woman's Home Companion President Taft writes an article called "The Dawn of World Peace," in which he makes a special appeal to women on behalf of the arbitration treaties, which, if passed by the Senate and signed, will go a long way toward abolishing war.

On the human side, the side that ought particularly to interest women, the President says:

"The evil of war, and what follows in its train, I need not dwell upon. In our Civil War the death-roll in the Union army alone reached the appalling aggregate of 359,000. But the suffering and perils of the men in the field, distressing as they are to contemplate, are slight in comparsion with the woes and anquish of the women who are left behind. The hope that husband, brother, father, son, may be spared the tragic end which all soldiers risk, when they respond to their country's call, buoys them up in their privations and heart-breaking loneliness. But their's is the deepest pain, for the most poignant suffering is mental rather than physical. No pension compensates for the loss of the husband, son or father. The glory of death in battle does not feed the mouhts of orphaned children, nod does the pomp and circumstances of war cloth them. The voice of the women of American should speak for peace."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

Christian Science services are held Sunday mornings at 10:45 o'clock and Wednesday evenings at 8 o'clock at the Universalist church, First and Rochester streets. The public is cordially invited to attend these services.

Sunday school at 12 o'clock, m., to which all under twenty years of age are invited.

A Natural Error

"How did that story pan out about the man up in the Bronx who found the big hailstone on his back stoop this morning?" asked the city editor.

"Nothing in it," replied the reporter. "He discovered it wasn't a hailstaone, after all. The iceman left it there."—November Woman's Home Companion.

The best plaster. A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Liniment and bound on over the affected parts is superior to a plaster and costs only one tenth as much. For sale by all druggists.

The Real Thing

Tom—"That fellow Randall is the most consistent Christian Scientist I ever saw."

Sam—"How so?"

Tom—"Why, he has a job as nightwatch on an ocean liner, just to give himself a chance to go around calling out, 'All's well!' "—November Woman's Home Companion.

Miss Rose Pease has gone to Fulton to work in Mrs. Jones' millinery store.

Mrs. Fred Collins has returned home after a recent visit with friends at Oswego.

MIDNIGHT INN THE OZARKS

And yet sleepless Hiram Scranton, of Clay City, Ill., coughed and coughed. He was in the mountains on the advice of five doctors, who said he had consumption, but found no help in the climate and started home. Hearing of Dr. King's New Discovery, he began to use it, "I believe it saved my life," he writes "for it made a new man ofme, so that I can now do work again." For all lung diseases, coughs, colds, lagrippe, asthma, croup, whooping cough, hay fever, hemorrhages, hoarseness or quinsy, its the best known remedy. Price 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by the Red Cross Pharmacy.

"CHOCKFUL OF FUN"

(From Scrap Book)

Appearances are sometimes very deceitful and to prove this trite proposition Chauncey M. Depew once related the following stirring anecdote: "A clerical friend of mine," said the Senator, "told me a capital story of a Yale man, who had been stroke oar for his crew, and the chief athlete on the foot ball field . He entered the ministry and spent several years in missionary labor in the far West. Walking along one day in a frontier town a cow boy stepped up to him and said, 'Parson, you don't have fun enough, take a drink.' The minister declined. 'Well', the cow boy said, 'You must have some fun. Here's a faro layout. Take a hand.' The minister declined, 'Parson,' said the cowboy, 'you'll die if you don't have some fun,' and he thereupon knocked the parsons hat off his head and gave him a whack on the ear. The old athletic spirit arose. The science which had been learned in the college gymnasium and forgotten for the fifth of a century was aroused and a blow landed on the jaw of the cow boy, that sent him sprawling in the street. The parson walked over him as if he had been a door rug, picked him up and dusted the side of the house with him, moped up the side walk ,and as the ambulance was carrying the cow boy off he said: 'Parson what did you fool me for ? You are chockful of fun.'

SAVED HIS MOTHER'S LIFE

"Four doctors had given me up," writes Mrs. Laura Gaines, of Avoca, La., "and my children and all my friends were looking for me to die when my son insisted that I use Electric Bitters. I did so, and they have done me a world of good. I will always praise them." Electric Bitters is a priceless blessing to women troubled with fainting and dizzy spells, backache, headache, weakness, debility, constipation or kidney disorders. Use them and gain new health, strength and vigor. They're guaranteed to satisfy or money refunded. Only. 50c at the Red Cross Pharmacy.

CIVIL WAR ECHOES

Two Prisoners

In the Fall of 1863 Co. F., 110th was doing duty along the Mississippi river, opposite Port Hudson at Francee Point. We had our picket guard stationed out on the main reads a mile or so from camp. One day, two men from our company, Thomas Lester and William Matteson, while off duty, went outside the picket a little too far, foraging. While in a planter's yard conversing with him, a squad of Rebels came out of the house, taking them prisoners. The "Reba" marched them quite hard, and the weather being extremely hot, William Matteson gave out and was taken sick and died. Tom Lester was short and stout, having an iron constitution overflowing with wit, fun and spirit, and naturally the Rebel Captain and men took a fancy to him and he received good treatment. After a time he was exchanged, being in the invalid corps for six months in New Orleans . In the meantime he was under oath not to take up arms against the Confederates. But he could hardly escape from doing light duty at intervals in the invalid corps. On one occasion going to New York to guard some deserters back to New Orleans. After being paroled six months he had the pleasure of standing guard in New Orleans over one of the Rebs that took him prisoner. Tom and I were good friends in the army. He and the boys called me "Judge" at Fort Jefferson, as I didn't care for cards and stag dancing—loving books and papers . Always having a quantity on hand to lend them. Shortly after the war Tom went to Alpena, Michigan, from Sterling, forty-two years ago. He went into the lumber business then, returning six years ago with a snug fortune, with just himself and wife, without chick or child . He says he is free from aches and pains and if they don't get around and spend some of their money some one will have an awful good time on it after they are gone. He spends considerable time running a large Ford touring car and intends to tour New York State. He is a cousin of Monroe Skeel of this city.The following note from Weedsport was published recently. "The sale of the Caywood place in Jackson street to T. C. Lester of Alphena, Michigan, was recorded this week. Lester will take possession on October 20."

MORE THAN ENOUGH IS TOO MUCH

To maintain health, a mature man or woman needs just enough food to repair the waste and supply energy and body heat. The habitual consumption of more food than is necessary for these purposes is the prime cause of stomach troubles, rheumatism and disorders of the kidneys. If troubled with indigestion, revise your diet, let reason and not appetite control and take a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and you will soon be all right again. For sale by all druggists.

JUDGMENT AFFIRMED

The Appellate Court at Rochester, October 18, has filed a decision in the case of William H. Collins, respt., Victoria Paper Mills company, appt., of this city ,the judgment and order was affirmed with costs , all concur except William J., who dissents upon the ground of errors in the charge among others the submission to the jury of the question of a safe place which was not raised by the pleadings.

Although the death rate in New York lowers steadily it is getting harder and harder to live there.

My Unobtrusive Typewriter

By EDWARD L. THORNTON

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

While I was in Russia trying to get a contract for steel rails, requiring a typewriter, I engaged one who spoke a little English. I kept him busy typing letters, contracts, specifications and other such documents.

Alexis Breutowski was his name, and he was born in Russian Poland, a quiet, unobtrusive fellow, very poor and out at the elbows. I took a fancy to him and told him that if he cared to go with me I would take him to the United States and secure a position for him in the steel works I represented. He accepted the offer.

That was at a time when nihilism was threatening every man prominent in the government, from the czar down to the superintendent of police. I tried to learn something about the nihilists from Alexis, but he appeared to take no interest in what they were doing, or, rather, said he did not approve of their methods. The only man he appeared enthusiastic over was Count Tolstoy, whose policy was nonresistance.

However, when I made a friend of a Russian and Alexis saw that I was with him a great deal he told me that it was dangerous to be seen with the man. When I asked him why he replied that he had heard through a relative who was connected with the police that the man was a suspect, which meant that he was being watched by the government for complicity with nihilism. Having no wish to become a suspect myself, I dropped the man like a hot coal.

I was successful in getting an order for rails and after the contract was signed applied for permission to depart. I understood from Alexis that he had also made application. I had hired a suit of rooms which I used both for living and office apartments, and that I might at all times have my typewriter handy I gave him one of them for a sleeping room.

When the time came for my departure Alexis had not yet received his passport. I told him that I had been dealing with representatives of the government and I thought that if I told them I wished to take my typewriter to America to give him a business position they might hurry the delivery of the document. But Alexis shook his head, saying that there was so much suspicion of persons entering and leaving Russia that my making such an application might deter rather than hasten the granting of the passport, but if I would wait a few days he was quite sure he would receive it. I told him that I must leave the next day, but since I intended to remain in London until the ship on which I had engaged passage sailed he could join me there. I offered to leave with him the price of the tickets, but he declined, saying that the money would be advanced by his relatives.

What was my surprise the next morning on arising from my bed to find the suit of clothes I had taken off the night before missing. I looked in Alexis' room; his bed had not been slept in. Had he stolen my clothes and decamped? My money was all right; he had not taken that. But my passport was gone.

I ran over the probabilities in my mind and remembered that he was about my age, height and build. I was a blond; so was he. The eyes of both were blue. Then it occurred to me that he who had worn a full beard had the day before cut it off, leaving only a mustache, as in my case. "Fearing," I said to myself, "that he would not get his passport in time to go with me, he has taken mine, made himself as much like me as possible in order to pass on it as his own and gone away with it.

Thinking that he had left me some written word, I looked about, but not a scrap did I find.

Taking another suit from my trunk, I put it on and went out to get some breakfast. In the restaurant I noticed several men talking in low tones. I heard one of them speak the word nitroglycerin. Somehow I suspected from their peculiar manner that some government magnate had been assassinated. I bought a newspaper, but there was no notice of anything of the kind. The man Alexis had warned me against came into the restaurant and looked about. Seeing me, he beckoned me to follow him and went out. He paid no attention to me till we reached a little street almost deserted; then he turned and said, "Go at once to the chief of police and report that your passport has been stolen."

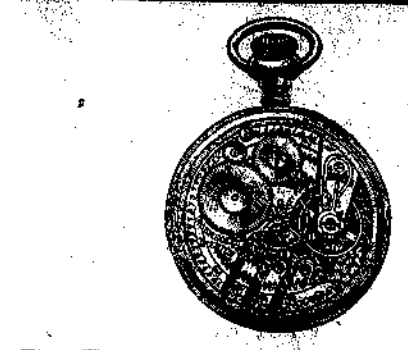
"How did you know? Who stole it? What's the matter?"

"Your typewriter is beyond the border. He wishes no harm to come to you. Go at once and do as I say."

"Has anything happened?"

"Yes," he whispered. "Last night the chief of police was killed by a bomb as he was entering his home."

I took the man's advice and escaped arrest for complicity in the assassination. I got out of Russia as soon as they would let me go.



On arriving in London I had not been at my hotel an hour before I received the card of Alexis Breutowski. I sent for him to come up to my room, where we had a long interview. I am not going to divulge what passed between us except that the principal burden on his mind seemed to be his stealing of my passport. I persuaded him to go to America, and he now occupies the position I intended for him.

NEW YORK CENTRAL LINES

THE BEST INVESTMENT FOR $1.75

There is no other way to spend $1.75 and get so much in lasting pleasure for every member of the family as for a year's subscription to The Youth's Companion.

For the boys there are the fine articles by experts in athletic sports on the best practise in football, the knack of pitching, new "kinks" in swimming and sprinting—everything that interests the active, high-minded boy. For the girls there is encouragement for all wholesome activities indoors and out, from dainty dishes to dainty dress. For the house hold there is good advice about gardening, handy contrivances, ways of stretching the nickels and dimes.

This reading is all in addition to the ordinary treasury of stories, articles by celebrated men and women, the unequaled miscellany, the invaluable doctor's article, the terse notes on what is going on in all fields of human endeavor.

It will cost you nothing to send for the beautiful announcement of The Companion for 1912, and we will send with it sample copies of the paper.

Do not forget that the new subscriber for 1912 receives a gift of The Companion's Calendar for 1912, lithographed in ten colors and gold, and all the issues for the remaining weeks of 1911 free from the time the subscription is received .

Only $1.75 now for the 52 weekly issues, but on January 1, 1912, the subscription price will be advanced to $2.00. The Youth's Companion, 144 Berkeley street, Boston, Mass. New subscriptions received at this office.

Annual Convention Held at Oswego —Address by President—Reports of Committees

The 34th annual convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Oswego County, N. Y., was held at the Presbyterian church of Hannibal on Thursday and Friday of last week, Oct. 19 and 20. A good delegation was present from the various local unions of the county. The first day was given to reports, address of president, bugle notes from South and West, election of officers, echoes from State convention, from delegates who were present, parliamentary drill and other interesting exercises.

Mrs. Ella A. Boole, Ph. D., President of New York state, gave the address of the evening. As usual, with her clear voice, forceful personality and charming manner she held the interest of her audience to the end. In part she said: "What is the Woman's Christian Temperance Union? What does the organization stand for? It is a body of Christian women, pledged to total abstinence, banded together for the protection of the home, for the promotion of purity, for the uplift of humanity, for the destruction of the liquor traffic and for the final triumph of the Golden rule of Christ in custom and in law. A body of Christian women. They are women of prayer. Every W. C. T. U meeting is opened with prayer. And noon day prayer, which encircles the world for it is noon time somewhere all the while. Christian women, carrying the gospel into prisons, to the poor, the neglected and down trodden of the earth.

"Pledged to total abstinence Science is coming to the front to prove that total abstinence is a necessity. Railroad officials now insist upon total abstinence in their employees. Physicians are falling into line, women who believe that there is danger lurking in any form or use of alcohol and should be treated like any other poison. Banded together, over 32,000 strong, in our Empire State for the protection of the home. To drive out that which causes a heavy burden of sorrow, poverty, distress and shame to fall upon the wife, mother and innocent children. For the promotion of purity, who hold the same standard for both men and women. For the destruction of the liquor traffic not merely by local option but State wide prohibition and not only State wide prohibition but prohibition for the whole nation and for the uplift of humanity and the final triumph of the Golden rule of Christ in custom and in law.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS

Steady and Healthy Financial Growth to the Fulton Institution — Daily Increasing in Popularity.

The Postal Savings banks, although still in the pangs of parturition as a public institution, bid fair to attain a vigorous growth in popularity, as increasing interest furnishes conclusive evidence of the permanency of the institution.

It might be interesting for our readers to learn that since Aug. 25 the date on which the local Postal Bank began business— deposits have reached the total sum of $742 —not a bad showing for less than one month's time in a city of this size.

No extra expense of clerk hire has been necessary in the local office, as this department is conducted by the Postmaster and Assistant Postmaster.

The Postal Savings banks have met with marvellous success, wherever started, throughout this broad land, the enterprise reflecting great credit on the mental acuteness and business sagacity of Postmaster-General Hitchcock and his able corps of assistants. Certainly the banks seem to have gained a permanent place in the confidence of the people.

HON. IRVING G. HUBBS

The personality and ability of the Hon. Irving G. Hubbs since he received the nomination for Supreme Court Justice, has plead for him as effectually as when he was asking the electors of Oswego county for their support for the nomination. Wherever he goes he leaves the impression of his sturdy common sense; his extreme fairness; his ability to judge according to the evidence presented; his keen insight into men and motives; his ability as a jurist, and his unflinching and unfaltering honesty of purpose and belief. There is not a lurking place in his entire life for narrowness or what is to be harbored. He is a self-made man, owing his success entirely to his determination to do well all that he undertook. He has always stood firmly on his own feet and has looked upon the world through his own eyes, to the end that he has seen and taken for his own the best that life presented. Even his enemies must say of him that he is just and fears not. Nor has the scene ever been so trying as to ruffle the repose and serenity of his disposition. Modest in his tastes and beautiful in his home-life, no candidate more fit for the highest office the people can bestow upon him was ever presented by a convention to a judicial district for approval and endorsement.

If Oswego county had not been handicapped for many years by the lack of a resident justice, the Times still believes that Mr. Hubbs' candidacy would appeal favorably to the majority of the electors in this district and that he would be elected. Winning his own county in the clean, decisive manner in which he did last Summer, the other counties could not consistently withhold their admiration and support.

A vote for Mr. Hubbs means a determination to keep very pure and non-partizan the judiciary in this county. The criminal and the honest man in Mr. Hubbs' court would be equally certain of their every right. This is as it should be and the voters of all parties will recognize it.

JUSTIFIABLE COMPLAINT

A Reader and Taxpayer Who Has the Best Interests of Fulton at Heart Complains of Conditions in the South Residential Section of the City and is Justified in Asking for a Change.

Editor Times: Through the generosity of Mrs. Albert Lindley Lee, Fulton owns a beautiful modern hospital.

This hospital is seriously threatened by the Ontario and Western R. R. company, to wit: The company has taken measures to secure the land west of the hospital on which to build extensive freight tracks, which means that the necessary quiet for suffering patients will be destroyed and puffing engines and jamming cars endanger the lives of critical cases, while soot from engines will interfere with the proper use of the operating room and deface the rooms facing the west.

Freight trains on the Ontario and Western railroad are a nuisance to all residents bordering two blocks either way on the road.

The steep grade on the north end of the city makes it necessary for heavy trains to get under fast headway, with the result that soot and cinders are thrown, sometimes, three blocks.

The noise a times is indescribable People have become dulled by growing accustomed to it.

The city will soon be 20,000, and in the not far distant future probably 50,000. It is unjust to the future city to permit these intolerable conditions to continue longer. Every citizen should revolt at the idea of disturbing the Lee Memorial hospital .

Freight trains should not be allowed to pass through this city.

The best grade and the only place for the tracks are on the East side of the city . Syracuse had to make a fight to get the Central freight moved outside the city, necessity drove them to it. The same will be true here.

The time for the railroad company to do this work is now, as it can never be done more cheaply than at present. Right of way for the needed change will increase in value yearly, and the cost of operating the present heavy grade increases with the increase of heavy loads hauled over it.

It is imbecile to allow public buildings and residences and peace and quiet to be destroyed by a corporation.

There is no law which permits, nor is it just to the residents of this city to permit, a large number of homes to be daily blackened with soot, and rest made almost impossible because of noise.

The people have the power to suppress these nuisances if the railroad company does not.

Every entertainment or lecture or service in the Opera House has to suspend proceedings when trains pass by. Every train that passes south through Second street creates a period of nerve strain and agony.

Is it not pure idiocy to endure longer? Now is the time to act. The change must and will come, but delay will make it cost this city ten times more to produce the change than if it were enforcerd now.

Dated Fulton, N. Y., Oct. 20, 1911.

JOHN E. BOLAND

Mr. Boland has since his nomination, been hunting in the North Woods. It hardly seemed necessary for him to devote much time or energy to his canvass as he is nominated on two tickets and will receive a large vote from both of the parties. Considerable of the hard feeling on the part of old timers in both parties has died out and the ticket next week will receive a larger vote than would have been the case two weeks ago. Mr. Boland's paltform is broad and liberal; he is willing to be advised relative to municipal questions but he reserves the right to finally determine his course for himself.

The coming two years will be among the most important, financially, that our city has ever known. It will indeed be well that a man so rugged in his convictions and so honest in his intentions has become the nominee of the electors.

NOMINEES FOR SUPERVISOR

The Republicans have nominated three candidates for supervisors in Fulton, Messrs. C. E. Stewart for the First and Sixth Wards; Wade E. Gayer for the Second and Third Wards and George H. Fuller for the Fourth and Fifth Wards. The Democratic opponents of these nominees are giving them a closely contested fight but the candidates express the belief that they will win out. Messrs. Gayer and Fuller have been nominated to succeed themselves and they believe that their record of one term warrants them in asking and expecting the support of Republicans at the polls next week. Mr. Stewart represented his ward once before on the Board and his record was excellent. Since his term expired the tax ratio for Fulton has been steadily advanced and Mr. Stewart, who is a taxpayer, believes that he might command influence enough on the Board, if elected, to secure a more equitable arrangement as concerns Fulton. At any rate he would make a stubborn fight for that end.

The contest for the supervisorship are spirited.

CARL MOREHOUSE INJURED

On Friday as Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Morehouse were having their piano removed to their home in Volney, their son, Carl, was assisting in the transferal of the instrument. In some unaccountable manner as they approached the home the piano was tipped from the wagon falling directly on the boy. Assistance was procured and the heavy weight was removed from the boy who was picked up for dead. Dr. H. P. Marsh was called and he found the unconscious child to have sustained a crushed ankle, a bad scalp wound and an injury to his back. He is now more comfortable although critically ill.

MARRIED

On Monday morning Miss Mattie Acker and Mr. Frank Crahan were united in marriage in the Catholic church by the Rev. J. L. Lindsman. Mr. and Mrs. Crahan left for an eastern trip and they will make their future home in this city.

At the Catholic church in Oswego on Monday afternoon, Miss Edith Gilbert of this city and Mr. Harry J. Horan of Oswego were united in marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Horan will reside in Oswego, where the groom is engaged in the livery business with his father.

At the home of Mrs. Ambrosio Reynolds, 816 Oneida street, Sunday afternoon, Oct. 29, George W. Williams of Adams, N. Y., and Miss Adelle Reynolds were united in marriage by Rev. C. L. Peck, in the presence of a few immediate relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Williams will reside in Adams, where he has a jewelry business.

W. Herbert Manly of Providence, R. I., and Miss Ida E. George of this city were united in marriage on Monday evening at the Presbyterian Manse, by the Rev. G. W. Wellburn. Mr. Manly met his bride in Utica last week when he was palying with the "The Town Marshall company," and the admiration was mutual. The couple met here on Monday evening and Mrs. Manly will now accompany her husband on the remainder of the circuit.

REPUBLICAN ALDERMANIC NOMINEES

Despite the fact that the campaign this Fall is being quietly conducted, it is intense. The Republican nominees for aldermen in the different wards only accepted the nomination to assist their party and their city and for that reason they are doing all possible to secure their election to the end that they may faithfully serve. Mr. C. R. Dines in the First ward, is a citizen of experience in civic affairs, he is conservative and with Mr. Ernest Bishop in the Second ward, will be anxious to help the next mayor and the cabinet in their zeal for the city's good. It is predicted and without expectation of dispute, that Mr. H. F. Johnson will succeed himself although Mr. F. W. Young is making a stirring canvass and on two tickets. Dr. H. S. Orchard in the Fourth ward will make a competent, intelligent official and reflect credit on his party and himself. Alderman F. E. Wolcott in the Fifth ward has an established record for efficient service during a term just drawing to a close. That he will be re-elected is believed beyond peradventure. Mr. E. M. Bonner in the Sixth ward is having to step lively as "Dad" Mead is popular and hustling every hour for supremacy. Mr. Bonner has a host of friends who are going to help him take a seat in the city municipal board.

VOTE FOR OSWEGO COUNTY

A vote for Irving G. Hubbs for Supreme Court Justice, will be a vote for Oswego county; for justice and for a pure and unbiased judiciary Oswego county will roll up a majority for him on Tuesday that will be in the nature of an ovation for the work he accomplished, alone save with the earnest effort of the plain voters of the county, last Summer. Throughout the entire canvass not one criticism relative to his conduct, his ability, his fitness, was heard through out any or all of the counties in this district, and it is confidently expected that he will receive a substantial majority in each county, Onondaga county has promised a flattering majority, Lewis county is solid for the aspirant, and that Oneida, and Jefferson counties will also be possessed of the spirit of fairness and rally to the support of Oswego County's candidate is confidently expected.

The endorsement of Mr. Hubbs by the Prohibitionists will give him many votes throughout the district, while the vacancy on the Democratic ticket will give him thousands of votes to supplement the immense majority to be given him by his own party .

Certain it is that no man of whichever party, will ever have cause to regret having honored Mr. Hubbs with his suffrage on Tuesday. A cleaner, brighter, more competent candidate could not have been found within the borders of the district.

THOSE FULTON CANDIDATES

Fulton is planing to give a rousing vote to her two candidates, Messrs. M. A. Stranahan and G. M. Fanning, the Republican nominees for sheriff and Special County Judge. In fact their opponents on the other tickets will feel lonely when they find how very few votes were cast for them on Tuesday next. Fulton proposes to show the entire county how completely party lines have been swept aside and what a majority can be rolled up when this city is united upon the candidates.

Mr. Stranahan made a thorough canvass of the county prior to his nomination and since, so that he feels very confident of the result at the polls. Mr. Fanning has not been so active, having been rather tied to his professional duties here during the campaign, but he has an insight into the conditions that exist, and he feels no less certain than does Mr. Stranahan of the magnitude of his majority in his home city and throughout the county.

Irving G. Hubbs will run well up with the two Fulton candidates in the favor of the electors on Tuesday.

WATER TAKEN FROM LIGHTING COMPANY

Acting under orders from the State, Canal Superintendent Hartnett, on Friday closed the gates through which the Fulton Light, Heat and Power company secured water for the operation of their old plant on the river. The electric lightning company received $290,000 from the State for the water supply last year but they have been using the water until now .

It is presumed that the power users lower on the level will reap the benefit of the closing of these gates, as it will increase their surplus water supply.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

REPUBLICANS OCCUPY THE SECOND COLUMN

This year the names of the Republican candidates which formerly had their place in the first column, will appear in the second on the ballot.

It therefore behooves Republicans to be careful not to let the force of habit, cause them to mark the circle in the wrong column. It is conceivable that such mistake might be made by some voters who have been accustomed during many years to place their mark at the head of the first column.

Be sure, therefore, to mark the cross in the circle at the head of the second column, on the official baloit, under the eagle emblem.

A mark inadvertently made in the circle at the head of the first column would give the Democratic ticket, a Republican vote, and make a difference of two in favor of the Democratic ticket.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

HOW MY BOY WENT DOWN

It was not on the field of battle,
It was not with a ship at sea,
But a fate far worse than either
That stole him away from me.
'Twas the death in the tempting wine cup
That the reason and senses drown
He drank the alluring poison,
And thus my boy went down.

Down from the heights of manhood,
To the depths of disgrace and sin;
Down to a worthless being,
From the hope of what might have been.
For the brand of a beast besotted,
He bartered his manhood's crown;
Through the gate of a sinful pleasure
My poor, weak boy went down.

'Tis only the same old story
That mothers so often tell,
With accents of infinite sadness,
Like the tones of a funeral bell,
But I never once thought when I heard it,
I should learn all its meaning myself;
I thought he'd be true to his mother,
I thought he'd be true to himself.

But alas! for all hopes, all delusion!
Alas for his youthful pride!
Alas, who are safe when danger
Is open on every side?
Can nothing destroy this great evil,
No bar in its pathway be thrown
To save from the terrible maelstrom
The thousands of boys going down.

CONGRESSMAN SELECTS WATERTOWN MAN

Congressman Luther W. Mott announces that he has appointed Richard B. Wilson, of Watertown, to fill the vacancy which will occur in the cadetship from this district at Annapolis to be caused by the graduation of Midshipman Greenman, of Watertown, next year. He has also appointed Willard A. Kitts, Third, of Oswego, as first alternate to Mr. Wilson. These young men will take the entrance examinations for the Naval Academy next April or June and the new Cadet will enter on his duties immediately.

This district now has a cadet at West Point from Lewis county and two at Annapolis, one each from Jefferson and Oswego counties. By the appointment of Mr. Wilson, Congressman Mott will keep up the representation of each county in the district at the two Government training schools.

PROHIBITIONIST TURNS REPUBLICAN

Utica, Oct. 28.—After a year of political leadership, Fred W. Barnaclo, county chairman of the Oneida County Prohibition party, has tendered to that political organization, his resignation as its chairman to take effect immediately. He will return to the Republican party and has asked the Prohibitionists not to vote for him as member of Assembly for the First Assembly District.

Mr. Barnaclo's career as a leader in the Prohibition ranks began about a year ago when he left the Republican party and was nominated for congressman on the Prohibition ticket. He made a good run, and later was elected county chairman. Then came his disputes with State Chairman Pitts of the Prohibitionists, with the resulting overthrow of Pitt's plan in Oneida county. It will be remembered that the bone of contention was the question whether the county affairs should be controlled by the county committee or the State committee. Barnaclo met Pitts in open convention on the matter and Pitts was defeated.

SAVED CHILD FROM DEATH

"After our child had suffered from severe bronchial trouble for a year," wrote G. T. Richardson, of Richardson's Mills, Ala., "we feared it had consumption. It had a bad cough all the time. We tried many remedies without avail, and doctor's medicine seemed as useless. Finally we tried Dr. King's New Discovery, and are pleased to say that one bottle effected a complete cure, and our child is again strong and healthy." For coughs, colds, hoarseness, la grippe, asthma, croup and sore lungs, its the most infallible remedy that's made. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by the Red Cross Pharmacy.

EDWARD PAYSON WESTON

Much interest is being taken in the coming visit to this city of Edward Payson Weston, the world famed pedestrian, who has been engaged to deliver his humorous lecture on "The Vicissitudes of a Walker," at the State Street Methodist Episcopal church, Tuesday evening, November 14. Mr. Weston is 73 years of age, but shows no symptoms of his advanced age. He is himself the best proof of the value of outdoor life which he advocates. His lecture deals with his experiences in many countries. It is filled with personalities of men and women famous in public life, and humorous stories of experiences on the road. It is expected that Mr. Weston will be given a hearty welcome by the multitude of his admirers in this city who have never had the privilege of seeing and hearing him.

FOSTER THEATRE

The Town Marshal, a novel pastoral play of New England life, was seen at the Foster Theatre Monday night. The play is of the order of David Harum and was a dramatic surprise to local theatregoers. The story was simple, rugged and very human, the characters real flesh and blood the scenes were laid in a typical New England village that offered many chances for character drawing.

The cast did splendid work. Louis Lytton as a younger sort of David Harum gave a delightful performance that will long be remembered.

The production was excellent in every way.

IRVING G. HUBS

Watertown Herald

Mr. Hubbs is described as an earnest and independent young man of forty-two, with a large and lucrative practice gained through years of hard and conscientious work. His practice has been unusually wide, and his Oswego friends are well satisfied that his capabilities will measure up to those of other justics in this district. Mr. Hubbs is not so well known throughout the district as either of the other candidates, and this will undoubtedly prove a handicap to him. Oswego's claim to a resident justice, and the unanimous support of his county organization, will be his strong arguments.

AT EMPIRE THEATRE

Lulu Glaser in "Miss Dudelsack" at Empire Theatre, Syracuse, Nov. 3 and 4.

At the Empire theatre, Syracuse, Friday and Saturday nights, November 3 and 4, and Saturday matinee, "Miss Dudelsack" a Viennese opera, which has been the success of all Europe, and which was seen in Vienna and Berlin for two years, will be the attraction. Lulu Glaser who has been called "The Queen of the Light Opera Stage," heads a company of twenty principals, a chorus of fifty, and an augmented orchestra of thirty. The increased orchestra is necessary owing to the delicate nature of the music of "Miss Dudelsack." The production which is in three acts will be found to be unusually unique and attractive. The sale of seats for this engagement opens at nine o'clock Thursday morning. Those ordering by mail will please bear in mind that owing to the increased orchestra, the first two rows of seats will not be on sale. Werba and "The Spring Maid," which was the sensation of New York all last season are the successful producers of "Miss Dudelsack."

The American musical stage has not been graced by a more captivating or popular artist than Lulu Glaser. At all times an irresistable comedienne as well as a brilliant prima donna, she dominates every role she has ever played. In "Miss Dudelsack" her managers have supplied her with a gorgeously tuneful work that ran a year in Berlin and Vienna and is now in demand in every stock opera house in Europe.

Its heroine is a saucy little orphan Scotch lassie, who dances in kilts and whose witty tongue and youthful beauty are the envy of all of the women of the McHumber Clan of Highlanders. Her doting old foster father, keeper of the McHumber estates, is a kindhearted German who gives her the pet name of "little Dudelsack," which is the German for "Scotch bagpipe." Her ancestry is clouded in mystery, but that does not curb her joyous nature nor mar the music of her laughing voice as she scampers through the corridors of the historic McHumber castles.

When she rides horseback with handsome Jack McHumber, the clan is shocked, but when he dances the seductive "Dudelsack" waltz with her there is consternation among the McHumber ladies. The growing romance in little Dudelsack's young life fills her heart to bursting, but she sends her devoted Jack back to his lady Kitty, and then the delicious plot of the opera is in full blast.

Betty Dudelsack is a Scotch enchantress and we can think of no one who could give the part as much grace and sparkle as Lulu Glaser. Her laughing comedy and thrilling high notes have full sweep for three riotous acts.

The presentation of "Miss Dudelsack", promises one of those rare musical treats that come only once during a season.

Children Cry
CASTORIA

THE SCHOOL PROPOSITIONS

The School Board has received a good many inquiries and suggestions, which seem to indicate that many of the taxpayers in Fulton are deeply interested in this school proposition, and as the whole agitation is to be one of education, it might be well for everyone in Fulton to note the following:

1st. The one object of the school Board is to give your children the very best education in the first place, and in the second place to do it as economically as is consistent with the present day standard of education.

2nd. The standard of our school from the educational standpoint is very high. We are constantly complimented by the Department, but always there is attached to every commendation of this character a most unqualified disapproval of our equipment in the way of buildings, and hence it has been the thought to bring the matter of the purchase of the Falley Seminary and the building of the new Oak street school before the people again at the coming election.

3rd. Remember this, that the last annual report of the Commissioner of Education showed that the schools in Fulton took your children through the school year cheaper than any other city in the State, and this is really remarkable when it is known that in several cities where they have Normal schools, they draw a number of their teaching forces from these schools. So the statement which has sometimes been made that the Board has been extravagant in the use of money is not only false but it is unjust, because they have done everything in their power to make the administration as economical as possible with the high standard of education which has always been admired in the Fulton schools.

4th. The Board feels the embarrassment of maintaining this position as to economy when they have to pay $1,000 per year for the use of Falley Seminary for school purposes, but there is no other way out of it. They say if they did not have this building they would have to go to private dwellings simply because it is utterly impossible to teach the children in any other way. Everyone knows, who has given the matter a thought, that to do this would be far more extravagant than the present method of carrying on the school in the Seminary property. What the school Board cannot understand, is why the taxpayers cannot see that they are really buying the Seminary property in renting it and then not having it. The income from the Seminary outside of the part that is used for school purposes would go a long way towards taking care of the interest on the entire proposition, so that the $1,000 per year which is paid for rent at the present time, could be applied on the actual purchase of the property and bye and bye Fulton would own it.

5th. There is no question as to the need of the Oak street school and it is the thought of the Board to build this just as soon as it is possible to arrange for the money. Oak street school is full to overflowing at the present time, and the school situation in that end of the city will have to find some relief very shortly. Com.

BEFORE COURT OF APPEALS

The case of Richard J. Cullen, of Fulton, against the Battle Island Pulp and Paper Company, was on for argument Friday in the Court of Appeals. The case has been tried three times and each time plaintiff received a verdict of $15,000, the full amount asked. The action was started in 1904, Mr. Cullen suing to recover $15,000 for making the plans and specifications of the company's mill.

There is little danger from a cold or from an attack of the grip except when followed by pneumonia, and this never happens when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. This remedy has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of colds and grip and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. For sale by all dealers.

Eugene Zimmerman paused to shed a tear for the poor millionaires one of whom he is unfortunate to be. The plaint of this sad Cincinnati railroad magnate and father-in-law to nobility is that the common people refuse to love millionaires. This is not to be wondered at when we think how little of his time the busy millionaire as a rule has devoted to loving the common people.

How the Mills Were Saved

By ELLEN F. MORSE

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Mine was a case of stepmother and one of the worst cases of the kind on record. Stepmothers are not all bad by any means, but when they are it's mighty hard on their stepchildren. Boys, when they become old enough, can go away and fight the world for themselves, but that's not so easy for girls. Nevertheless, I did that very thing.

After mother's death father took into the house to take care of me—he said—a woman about his own age. He saw the folly of this plan when it was too late. There was something about the woman, or perhaps some weak spot in father, that enabled her to dominate him. And as for me, she made my life one of misery.

When I was seventeen, having stood well in my classes at school, I was offered a position as governess in the Opdyke family. I accepted it to get away from my stepmother. I taught the younger children of the family. There was a son, Harry, a year or two older than I, who was a clerk for his father, a manufacturer of paper. The Opdykes fairly considered themselves very well off when I went to live with them. They were dreadfully afraid that Harry would fall in love with me. They had no objection to me except that they wished him to make a good match, which, being interpreted, means one with money.

I didn't know it at the time, but my father had considerable property. It was in securities in which he had invested what money he had after a panic. When I left home he still had these securities, but they were not available. He was keeping them for a time when the commercial depression had passed and the property they represented would resume the payment of dividends. Therefore either he was not in a position to give me any income, or if he was his wife prevented him from doing so.

I remained in the Opdyke family five years. Meanwhile Harry had become his father's right hand man at the mills. He had permitted himself to fall in love with me, but I knew that although the family thought a great deal of me they were looking higher for him; consequently I would not yield to his wishes for a betrothal.

Several matters of importance to us all came about at very near the same time. In the first place, Mr. Opdyke, who had been carrying a debt on his mills, found himself unable to provide for it any longer. In the second place, my father died and my stepmother produced a will leaving all his property to her. Harry told me confidentially of the condition of the family affairs and said that, now we were on the same financial basis, we had better join our fortunes. "What a pity," I said to him, "that my father didn't leave me some of his property; I might have helped your father and you through your difficulties."

I gave way to Harry's persuasive efforts and we became engaged, although we kept the engagement a secret. Under these conditions Harry took an interest in my personal affairs. I told him a great deal about my stepmother, and he suggested taking legal steps to break the will. But after talking the matter over we both agreed that there were no grounds for breaking it—at least none that we could prove. My father was probably of sound mind at the time he made it, and I could not prove that his wife had used undue influence to induce him to make it in her favor. The only objection I could bring up was that my father had told me shortly before his death that my stepmother had tried to force him into making a will in her favor, but he was firmly resolved to make no will.

I made up my mind to have a look at the document. I took Harry with me to the court where it had been filed, and it was shown to me. It was not in my father's handwriting, but I was familiar with his signature, and it seemed to me to be genuine. I noticed that the witnesses and and the notary were all of my stepmother's choosing. At least, there were none of father's friends among them. The document had not been executed on a regular form, but on a sheet of ordinary paper. After examining it thoroughly I handed it to Harry.

Persons in the paper business are apt to acquire a habit on taking up a sheet of paper of holding it up to the light and looking at the watermark on it. Harry did this, at the same time rubbing the surface with his thumb and finger. I saw by the expression on his face that he had made a discovery. Hurriedly looking at the date on which the will was made he turned to me and said:

"That will is a forgery."

"How do you know?" I exclaimed, catching my breath.

"The paper was made in our mills not a year ago, and the will was made three years ago. In other words, the will was made two years before the paper."

"Are you sure?"

"Yes, and we have the date in the mills to prove what I say."

Though I was delighted, I was mad and resolved to send my stepmother to state prison. But I afterward compromised by her signing off her widow's dower and my not prosecuting her for forgery. I saved the Opdyke paper mills, which my husband now owns.

PLANS TO INCORPORATE

Constantia, Oct. 25.—Residents of the village may decide to incorporate with a view to securing fire protection. A meeting was held in the Masonic Building Tuesday evening for the purpose of discussing the question and purchasing suitable fire apparatus.

A. A. Beardsley was elected chairman and Leonard Marcellus secretary.

William Gallagher of the village of Cleveland, incorporated, gave a talk on the advantages of incorporating and answered questions that arose.

The following committee was appointed to take up the proposed incorporating:

William Knaus, G.H. Avery, George Scriba, H. F. Talcott, W. M. Coble, L. E. Jones, M. J. Reed.

A majority of the taxpayers are of the opinion that to incorporate the village is a move in the right direction, not only for the protection but for the welfare of the village in other ways.

The next meeting will be held in a week, at which time the committee will report.

WON'T ACT AS SANTA CLAUS

Postoffice Department Says the Practice Has Been Abused

Washington, Oct. 24—The Postoffice Department will not act as Santa Claus this year. It was announced today that letters addressed "to Santa Claus" and forwarded to the Dead Letter Office will not be distributed to charitable organizations, benevolent persons, poor children or others.

Four years ago postmasters were authorized to deliver such letters to charitable persons, but because of many abuses the order has never been renewed. Under the laws and regulations, letters to Santa Claus are classed as "fictitious" and returned to the writers or destroyed.

Demands Proper Consideration

The Times asserts, without fear of contradiction, that it has always lent its influence and support to every measure for the best interest of our city. Success has generally crowned its efforts, too. Whenever a good cause is to be espoused or victory achieved, it has become a matter of fact to enlist this paper's co-operation, and a hearty response has been the result.

Communications from "Taxpayers," "Old Subscribers," "Vox populi," etc., on matters pertaining to local affairs, are sent or handed in for publication. Public spirited citizens seek to correct abuses, political and otherwise, by arousing sentiment through the columns of their local journal. Consternation and vexation however, is caused when it is discovered that out-of-town papers have published the same communication at least two or three days previously This is discourteous in the extreme to the local journal and displays a most unfair disposition. This practice would not be so objectionable if the articles were printed simultaneously with the local press. There is a generous disposition on the part of many to send or communicate by telephone, pink teas, yellow teas, chicken pie suppers and entertainments where an admission fee is charged. These are expected to be published without cost in the local press, but in out-of-town papers the charge is about 15 cents a line, and the money must accompany the order.

It is time for the local press to stand together on all such matters. The publication of a newspaper is a business enterprise — sometimes an expensive luxury—but it costs money, with brains intermingled to make such an enterprise a success. Certainly the proprietor has as much right to live as any man.

Public-spirited citizens who desire to give out-of-town journals the preference over their home papers, should not expect the local publisher to extend any more courtesy than he receives whenever an effort is made to enlist his services.

Attention is called to the foregoing practice, which is prevalent in our community, in no unkindly or churlish spirit, but for the purpose of securing proper consideration for the local press.

Back to the Soil

Conflicting theories are propounded by economists. The cry of 'Back to the soil," has been heard from men of profound thought and years of experience. Against this theory is arrayed with equal vehemence those who are lamenting the "drift to the cities" from the farm by the young men of intelligence and physique. The result has been that manufacturing interests are steadily expanding at the expense of agriculture. But the lure to the city continues, and the infatuation is shared alike by natives and the immigrants who keep knocking at our gates. These, too, prefer the industry and allurements of city life to the tilling of the soil and the marketing of its products. The result has been the checking of agricultural development and the forcing of the prices of farm products to constantly higher levels. Statistics show that the cities have grown during the last decade at the expense of the rural districts, though fertile land can now be had at reasonable prices. It is conceded that the old economic and social order is being revolutionized and radical changes are taking place.

SOUNDS THE ALARM

President Taft Warns Republicans Against Danger Which Confronts the Party

An alarm was sounded on Tuesday by President Taft at Chicago, to which Republicans should give heed.

The occasion was at the dinner given in his honor by the Hamilton Club of Chicago. Among other statements, Mr. Taft said:

"Now we are at — some people think — a crisis in the Republican party with reference to its continuance in the guidance of the nation," the President said. "I am hopeful that the good people of the country, who know a good thing when they see it, have only chastened us a bit in an off year in order that we may be better and more careful hereafter, but with no intention of shifting from shoulders that are fitted to bear the burdens of the present problems and carry them to a successful solution, to those which are untried and which have new theories of action that we do not believe in, and that we don't believe the people believe in.

"However, if so be it that they desire to make a change, we shall loyally support the new government under any conditions, with the hope it will enure to the benefit of the country, but with the consolation that if, after one trial, the people think they ought to go back to the old party that has served them so well in the progressive days of the nation, they will do so. We can bear that experience, my friends; that is all."

Vote for G. H. Fuller for Supervisor, Fourth and Fifth Wards.

This year there are five Thursdays in November which has caused some consternation and doubt regarding the proper appointment of Thanksgiving Day. The custom of selecting the last Thursday in the month, makes the 30th the proper time, and President Taft has so decided, according to the latest Washington advices, the precedent having been established by President Johnson. The celebration has been held on the last Thursday of the month since Johnson's time.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

The Seven Proposed Amendments to the State Constitution Should Be Carefully Considered by the Electors Before They Are Presented at the Polls.

It is to be hoped that the seven proposed amendments to the state constitution and the proposition for a bond issue which will be submitted to the voters at the coming election will receive more than cursory attention. The voter ordinarily seems to think that he has done his duty when he has made his selections from among the candidates for office. Suggested changes in the state's fundamental law do not worry him much, and if they are approved, it is by a light vote. Yet the matters involved some of the amendments proposed this year are important enough and of interest enough to the general public to merit the careful attention of every voter.

The proposal to permit a municipality, when condemning private property for public use, to take additional adjoining or neighboring property is probably as important and far-reaching in its effect as any constitutional amendment submitted in recent years. It would mean, if adopted, that no city in future need tax its citizens to pay wholly for municipal improvements netting large financial returns to the fortunate owners of adjoining property appreciating in value from the improvements. The city itself would be able to take under condemnation proceedings such property as seemed likely to increase in value because of the new park, or new municipal building, or whatever betterment was under way, and in time sell it at the increased value, the profit helping to pay for the public improvement. The desirability that a municipality should obtain all possible profit from expenditure of its money under such circumstances rather than that a few individuals should reap unearned profits is obvious. Amendment No. 4 should be adopted.

A companion amendment, No. 7, also proposes a remedy for certain prevailing evils in that condemnation system. It would permit a justice of the Supreme Court, with or without a jury, to make awards in condemnation cases where the municipality was taking it. Frequently cases heard at great expense of time and money by condemnation commissioner have to be reviewed in the courts, so that it would have been better for the court to hear the case in the first place. Moreover, while all condemnation commissioners have not been voracious, the fees accumulated by some of them have been scandalous and a check could be put on such waste of public funds under the procedure suggested by this amendment. It ought to pass.

Proposed Amendment No. 1 would increase the pay of state Senators to $3,500 a year and of Assemblymen to $3,000. In addition, they would receive three cents a mile weekly for travel between their homes and Albany. The legislators of this state already receive larger salaries than those of any other state in the country. It is unlikely that increased compensation would raise the standard of men sent to make laws or the quality of the laws they produce. If a moderate increase of the fixed pay were under consideration by itself we should not be inclined to oppose it, but the weekly mileage feature should defeat the amendment.

On the other hand, proposed Amendment No. 5, increasing the salary of the Governor to $20,000 a year, should be adopted. The pecuniary demands on the Executive are heavy, and most of the Governors in recent years have spent, unavoidably, if the Executive is to maintain what the people of the state consider a suitable mode of living, more than the annual salary each year.

No good reason appears for the adoption of proposed Amendments No. 2. It would take from the justices of the Appellate Division in each department the power they now have to fix the times, and places for holding special terms of court, to assign the justices to sit at such terms and to make rules. The existing system has worked well. It may be natural enough for the justices of the Supreme Court to desire a return to the old system of rotation, with an opportunity for each judge in turn to dispense judicial patronage, sit in the judicially desirable equity parts and the like. It is hard to see how the interests of litigants or the public would benefit from the proposed change. It should not be made.

Proposed Amendment No. 6 renders canal lands inalienable, for canal purposes, until after a formal decision of the Canal Board and the passage of an abandonment act by the Legislature. It should be adopted, as should the proposition to issue bonds in the sum of $19,600,000 for canal terminals, docks and harbors along the route of the barge canal. The state has been committed, by a referendum vote, to the building of the barge canal. The work on harbors and terminals must be begun soon if they are to be ready when the rest of the canal work is completed.—N. Y. Tribune.

FRANCES D. CULKIN

The candidacy of Francis D. Culkin for District Attorney commends itself to all citizens without regard to party, who desire an exact, vigorous enforcement of the laws of the State. Mr. Culkin has been tried in the public service and his work in public capacities has been highly commended by members of both parties. His first public service was in thhe Spanish-American War, where he served as a private in the volunteers. He was one of the first from Oswego city to volunteer for service to drive Spain out of Cuba. His efficient service in the military is known to all citiens of the county. He was promoted to Corporal Sergeant, First Lieutenant and Captain of his old company. He was instrumental in securing for Oswego County the beautiful new Armory.

During his four years service as City Attorney of the City of Oswego he successfully handled more than one hundred important litigations, involving over half a million dollars and never called in assistance, except in one case, where he was disqualified by relationship. He successfully resisted the payment of unjust claims from the City treasury and stood firm against the influence of those seeking to loot the treasury of the City of Oswego through that medium.

Mr. Culkin, while City Attorney, compelled corporations to live up to the law and made the Syracuse, Lakeshore & Northern Railway Company pay $18,000 for a strip of franchise only four blocks long. Ten thousand dollars of this went toward the new bridge at the City of Oswego, one-third of which is a county charge. He is a strong believer in government by commission and takes the stand that this plan will eliminate petty-politics from municipal affairs. He has had a large experience in criminal practice and can be relied on to enforce the law so that peace and order within the county will be guaranteed. He pledges an administration of the office of District Attorney free from political or other influences. Captain Culkin's election by the old time majority is assured.

Letters on the estate of Jane Baker, Granby, were asked for by Emma D. Greene, Granby, who gets all the property.

The appraisal of the estate of Thomas Davis, Hannibal, shows its gross value to be $4,004.48 and its net value $3,607.56.

The will of Justice Maurice L. Wright was offered for probate. The estate is valued at $6,000 real and $6,000 personal and is left to his widow. The will was made on October 17, 1885, and was witnessed by William A. Wright of Scriba and Mrs. Mary Burnham of Mexico.

The Lawyers of this judicial district speak highly of the judicial temper of the three candidates. Each of the contestants is spoken of as a man of mental equipoise. The judge who is hysterical in temper and loses his equilibrium, soon loses the confidence of the members of the bar. Mr. Hubbs will receive the enthusiastic support of the voters of Oswego county, who regard him as an ideal candidate. He will receive a strong support from Onondaga County. The indications are that he will not be the third man in the race.—Syracuse Journal.

DEATHS

Patrick Casey, a well known farmer residing near Hannibal, was mortally injured last week when he was thrown from his wagon by the sudden starting of his horses and the heavily ladden wagon passed over his body. Drs. H. P. Marsh and E. J. Cusack were called to relieve the sufferer but he died soon after the accident.

Mary Tyrrel, aged 56, died at the home of her brother, Mr. James Tyrrel, in Seneca street on Thursday. The funeral services were hld on Saturday from the Catholic church and burial was made in St. Marys. The immediate survivors are the brother and two sisters, Mrs. William Rich and Mrs. McGrath of Syracuse.

Allen Harwood, aged 31, son of Mr. Frank Harwood of this city, was stricken with spinal meningitis at Syracuse on Wednesday. He immediately lapsed into unconsciousness and was brought to the Lee Memorial hospital in this city where he passed away on Thursday without rallying. The young man was to have been married in a few weeks which makes his untimely demise very sad. The funeral services which were held on Sunday afternoon were under the auspices of the Odd Fellows. Beside the father, the young man is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Ida Osborne, Mrs. Ada Parker and Mrs. Allie Williams of this city.

The death of Francis David occurred at his home in Phoenix on Thursday and his funeral services were held on Monday from his home in that village. Mr. David was the nestor of the Oswego County bar. He held the position of Surrogate for eight years, the term beginning in 1884, and had been a resident of Phoenix for over sixty years. Early in the practice of his profession Mr. David was associated with Judge McCoon in the practice of law. The home life of the deceased was ideal; and in the village of Phoenix he held the respect and esteem of a large number of friends and the public generally. His widow and a brother are the only surviving relatives.

Monday evening at 10 o'clock in the Albert Lindley Lee Memorial hospital occurred the death of Peter Klein, aged 65, after a long sickness with heart disease, Gangrene in one foot and leg was the immediate cause for his last illness of six weeks, when he hung between life and the shadow land. Medical skill, careful nursing and the devoted attention of his children were unable to stay the approach of the dread messenger and he peacefully sank into his long sleep. The funeral services will be held from State street church on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, the Rev. F. A. Miller officiating. The services will be under the auspices of Post Schenck, G. A. R., of which order the deceased was a member. The immediate survivors are two daughters, Mrs. Horace Baggs and Miss Edna Klein of this city, and two sons, Messrs. W. H. Klein of this city and Jesse Klein of Kingston, N. Y.

A Gilded Gown.

During the reign of King George I. Lord Hervey, a cultured man, gave this description of the fine dress of a distinguished woman:

"The Duchess of Queensberry's clothes pleased me most. They were white satin embroidered, the bottom of the petticoat brown hills, covered with all sorts of weeds, and every breadth had an old stump of a tree that ran up almost to the top of the petticoat, broken and ragged and worked with brown chenille, round which twined nasturtiums, ivy, honeysuckles, periwinkles, convolvuluses and all sorts of twining vines, which spread and covered the petticoat. Many of the leaves were finished in gold, and part of the stumps of the trees looked like the gilding of the sun."

HAPPINESS.

A lady was once talking to Queen Elizabeth of Roumania and advanced the theory that sorrow in childhood cast a shadow over the whole life, rendering happiness in later years impossible. "Do not believe it," replied the queen. "Happiness is like an ocean. It bears you away from the past and all its many sorrows, provided only that you do not permit in looking backward."

A Scotch Answer.

A good story of an old crofter who appeared before the commission to apply for reduction of rent was recently told at a meeting in Glasgow. The number of cattle on the farm led Sheriff Brand to observe that surely the croft could not be in such a bad way as its owner would seek to show. "Och," replied the old fellow, "you should see the bit beasties." "What are they like?" queried the sheriff. "They're as lean, sir, as Pharoah's kine." "How lean was that?" asked the sheriff, doubtless thinking that he had cornered the applicant, but had he? Not a bit. Like a flash came back the answer. "So lean, sir, that they could only be eaten in a vision."

OSWEGO COUNTY HOME, MEXICO, N. Y.

COMMITTEE ENDORSES C. A. STONE

President R. A. Downey of the Second National Bank, Oswego, a Member of the State Charities Association, and Mr. F. O. Clarke, After Inspecting County Home at Mexico, Give Following Splendid Endorsement of the Work of County Superintendent Stone.

The people of Oswego County will be interested in the report of the Visiting Committee of the New York State Charities Aid Association relative to the administration of the affairs of the Oswego County Home at Mexico. The committee which recently made the inspection in behalf of the State Association consisted of Frederick O. Clarke, President of the local association and R. Arthur Downey, President of the Second National Bank and they state that C. Adelbert Stone, County Superintendent of the Poor, has during the past three years brought the institution to a condition of which the people of the County may well be proud.

When seen Messrs. Clarke and Downey gave the following interview relative to the administration and work of Superintendent Stone:

"The New York State Charities Aid Association is represented in Oswego County by the following committee: Frederick O. Clarke, President; John B. Alexander, S. Mortimer Coon, R. Arthur Downey, Mrs. S. M. Coon, John T. Mott, Oren F. Gaylord, Thomas P. Kingsford, Gilbert Mollison, Sr., Amelia B. Oliphant, Judge Louis C. Rowe, Rev. C. S. Savage and Rev. David L. Roberts of Mexico.

One of the duties of this committee is to keep in touch and make formal reports of the administration and work of our county and city homes.

Representatives of this committee have been particularly gratified and pleased with the work accomplished by Mr. C. Adelbert Stone at the Mexico county home during his three years administration, and we believe that the people of Oswego County should be made acquainted with what has been done in the short time that Mr. Stone has held the office of Superintendent of the Poor of Oswego County.

Three years ago when representatives of the New York State Charities Aid Association visited the home, the building was dark and gloomy, the plaster was falling from the walls and ceilings, the floors were unlevel, the stairways dark and inadequate in case of fire and dangerous for old people to use, the east wing was hardly more than a barracks without curtains, heat or light, and there was a general air of dilapidation and the committee felt discouraged with the condition of affairs. In referring to conditions at that time we do not desire to cast any reflections on the then County Superintendent of Poor nor do we desire to reflect one the Board of Supervisors of our County because at the time similar conditions existed in many other Counties of the State, and the proper attention was not being given to such institutions in the way of appropriations to better conditions.

Mr. Stone, upon taking office, immediately threw his heart and soul into the work of bringing the home to a condition of which the people of the county should be proud and it is remarkable what he has accomplished in so short a time with comparatively small expenditures.

The buildings have been repainted inside and out, new floors, side walls and ceilings have been put in many of the rooms, new stairways have been placed at convenient and proper places, the old dilapidated east wing has been changed from neglect to a pleasant hospital and sanitary methods of treatment of the inmates have been installed At the present time there is less sickness at the home than has been known heretofore.

We are pleased to say that the representative of the State Board of Charities who inspected the home last year brought the administration up from third class to first class, and in his inspection this year he indicated that the property and equipment will be brought up from third class to second class. This is the highest class the equipment can be placed in, unless a new modern structure should replace the old one.

For protection in case of fire every precaution has been taken that is possible with a building of this nature, fire pails and extinguishers being placed at convenient places.

Among other things which Mr. Stone has done was to find suitable homes for twelve children, so that at the present time the county is paying for but four children in the Orphan Asiyums, thus reducing the expense to the county.

In his splendid work for the people of the county the County Superintendent has had the valuable assistance of his wife as matron and her presence at the Home at all time has a helpful influence over all the people around her.

As representatives of the New York State Charities Aid Association we cannot speak too highly in commending the splendid work of Mr. Stone."

The above expression of confidence and appreciation is certainly a handsome tribute to Mr. Stone, who is now a candidate for re-election as County Superintendent. If ever an official was entitled to re election on his public record it is Superintendent Stone, and it is predicted that he will be continued in office by one of the greatest majorities ever given a candidate on any ticket in Oswego County. He is entitled to the co-operation and loyal support of every voter in the County.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

THE WEEK

The record-breaking cotton crop, indicated by the extraordinary ginning report, means so much for this country in both its foreign and domestic trade and in its relation to the money market that it fairly ranks as the most favorable development of the year. The resulting reduction in prices is, in connection with low stocks carried by merchants, effecting a marked improvement in the dry goods trade. Further price reductions are reported in iron and steel, with the effect of stimulating business, and consumers are placing orders further ahead. Leather is active and firm. There is an increased demand for copper. Retail trade generally is benefitted by better weather. The banking situation is strengthened by the improvement in the leading foreign money markets. As concern over the European political situation becomes less acute, the rebellion in China attracts attention and is having some effect upon export trade, especially that in cottons, which is checked thereby.

Announcement concerning reduced ore freight rates at the Northwest is the feature of chief interest in iron and steel and is expected to be followed by lowering of ore prices for 1912. In other directions readjustment of quotations has not been checked; in wire products jobbers obtain wire nails at $1.60 and plain wire at $1.40. More orders are placed in some finished lines.

Limited stocks of cottom goods and woolens result in a prompt revival of consumptive demand and inducements are now offered for increased production. Favorable prices named on dress fabrics and men's wear are also stimulating factors. Immediate shipments are asked for and small orders are frequently repeated. Fall River sold 90,000 pieces of print cloths last week, of which 55,000 were for spot delivery. Heavy brown and colored domestics are being ordered to the end of the year. China trade in cotton goods is halted, but miscellaneous export trade in cotton goods holds up well. In woolens there is an active demand for heavy weight men's wear and some lines of fancy worsteds have sold so well tht aadvances have been obtained.

Trading in footwear has been checked to some extent by higher quotations, but eastern manufacturers are well employed on current orders. Leather continues firm and export trade is active, particularly to Great Britain, and especially in hemlock sole. Union and oak sole are in good demand from domestic buyers and belting butts are in better request. All kinds of upper leather are selling well, especially calfskin.

Liabilities of commercial failures thus far reported for October amount to $13,669,911, of which $7,123,686 were in manufacturing, $5,819,097 in trading and $727,128 in other commercial lines. Failures this week numbered 268 in the United States against 257 last year, and 24 in Canada compared with 33 a year ago.

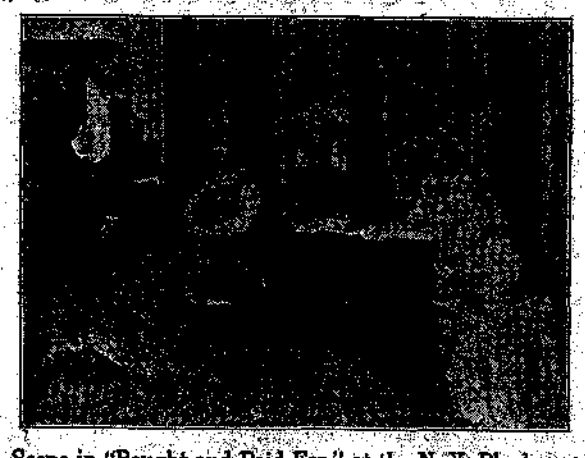
THE YOUTH'S COMPANION CALENDAR FOR 1912



The publishers of The Youth's Companion will, as always at this season present to every subscriber whose subscription ($1.75) is paid for 1912, a beautiful Calendar for the new year. The cover picture reproduces a water-color painting of a bit of New England coast, giving a glimpse of breeze-swept ocean, of smiling sky of warm, sunny rocks, which will come like a breath of salt 'air to those who have once lived near the sea and to those whose whole life has been passed inland. The picture being in eight colors, the tones of the original are faithfully reproduced.

MRS. CONDE'S WILL

Practically three-quarters of the estate of Apama I. Conde, widow of Switts Conde, who died in Oswego October 20th, goes to Harry L. and Leon Conde, sons. Switts Churchill Conde, the eldest son, gets the income of three-sixteenths of the estate and Conde Thorne, a grandchild, the income of one-sixteenth until reaching his majority when he gets it absolutely. The only other heir-at-law, Marie Conde Rogers, a granddaughter, is cut off from participation in the estate because her father is alleged to have harassed and annoyed Mrs. Conde.

The will of Mrs. Conde, with three codicils, was filed in Surrogate's Court Friday morning by Attorneys Charles Kalish, of New York, and J. H. Walrath, Syracuse. The will was made on January 27th, 1906; the first codicil March 18th, 1908; second, August 19th, 1910, and third, June 17th, 1921. The codicils make no material change.

Petition for the probate of the will was made by Harry L. and Leon Conde and John H. Walrath, lawyer, of Syracuse, who are named as executors. The value of the personal property is fixed at $100,000. No estimate is made of the value of the real estate.

After directing that her debts and funeral expenses be paid, the will goes on as follows.

First. To her sons, Harry L. and Leon Conde all her stock in the Switts Conde Wool Company. This has since been sold.

Second. To her two sisters, Jennie L. Barnes and Arabella Tucker, now deceased, the use and profits of a store in First street and a house at Rochester and Second streets, Fulton. Upon the death of the survivor the property goes to Mrs. Conde's children.

Third. To H. L. and Leon Conde all furniture, china and silverware in her residence.

Fourth. To Riverside cemetery in trust for the care of her lot, $500.

Fifth. To the Trust and Deposit Company, of Syracuse, $2,000 in trust for the care of her mausoleum.

Sixth. The residue in trust to the executors, to be divided into sixteen parts—six of these parts to H. L. Conde, three parts in trust for S. C. Conde, the income to go to him during his life; at his death one half of the principal to go to his children in equal shares, and the remaining one-half to his brothers. One part to be invested for the education of Conde Thorne and to go to him when he attains his majority. Six parts to Leon Conde upon his reaching twenty-one. He has now passed it.

The next clause of the will tells why she cuts off her granddaughter. "I have intentionally," the instrument says, "made no provision in this will in favor of my granddaughter, Marie Conde Rogers, for the reason, among others, that her father, L. Harding Rogers, my son-in-law, since the death of my daughter, Marie Conde Rogers, has done apparently everything in his power to injure and annoy me and, in numerous litigations, has caused me a great deal of trouble and expense; and he is amply able to care for his daugh-

In another clause Mrs. Conde explains why she gives her other two sons more than S. C. Conde. It is because, she states, "said S. C. Conde has had large sums of money and a great deal of assistance financially and otherwise from both my late husband, Switts Conde, and myself."

The testatrix provides that if any objections are filed by any of the legatees their shares shall be forfeited and go to the residuary legatees in their proportions. In the will H. L. Conde and J. H. Walrath are named as executors.

In the first codicil the bequest of $2,000 in trust to the Trust and Deposit Company is revoked and made payable to the Riverside Cemetery Association. The second codicil makes Leon Conde a co-executor and the third codicil gives all of her household goods wherever situated to H. L. and Leon Conde. Citations were issued and made returnable November 20th.

ORGANIZE NEST IN PULASKI

Pulaski, Oct. 26.—William Winnie of Cleveland, O., supreme organizer of the Order of Owls, established a nest of the order at Odd Fellows Hall this evening. The ritualistic work was conducted in full form by Mr. Winnie, who was assisted by J. L. Marsh of Olean, deputy organizer. The charter list contains the names of 100 candidates. George Doherty of Alleghany, Pa., a deputy organizer, and Mr. Adams of Lancaster, O., a supreme organizer, assisted in the insitution.

Officers were elected as follows; President, William E. Austin, past president, Claude J. Quick; vice-president, Arthur Colvin; conductor Martin Cook; warden, William Riggs; sentinel, Harold Davis; picket, G. C. Clark; lodge deputy, George G. Cooper; secretary, Frederick A. J. Dunwick.

Plans were discussed with reference to a club room, but the matter will be taken up at a later date. A "smoker" followed the business session.

Organizer Winnie stated that the Order of Owls was about seven years old, with nearly 2,000 nests and a total membership of more than 200,000 scattered throughout the United States, Canada, Alaska, Cuba, Mexico, Porto Rico, the Philippines, New Zealand, xSandwich Islands, Australia and South Africa.

Irving G. Hubbs, candidate for Supreme Court justice, will receive an enormous vote in Oswego county. It is universally conceded that the great county of Oswego should have at least one Justice of the Supreme Court, as that is the only county in the district without a representative on the bench. The equities of the case clearly are in favor of Oswego, especially when such an admirable candidate is placed in nomination. Every Republican should take pleasure in voting for Mr. Hubbs.—Lowville Journal and Republican.

COMING FRIDAY EVENING

The Spaffords, in an evening of humor and pathos, will be heard in the First Baptist church on Friday evening, Nov. 3. This is the first entertainment in the Baraca entertainment course of five numbers and will be a great treat for all who may attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Spafford give an entertainment that positively has no prototype in this or any other country. Mr. Spafford has had for years a wide reputation as an artist of the platform. Mrs. Spafford, well known in lyceum circles as "Miss Heine, the Original Lyceumite Girl" is also a versatile entertainer.

The entertainment consists of cartoon and landscape drawing, music on foreign and ancient instruments, fire pictures, sculpture and clay modeling humor and pathos, with an undercurrent of solid thought which combine to make an entertainment that is entirely unlike any other ever presented to the entertainment going public.

Single admissions 25c. Tickets may be secured at the door.

DREDGE GOES TO BOTTOM

The dredge Reeves, owned by the H. P. Burgard Company, and operated by them on barge canal Contract 37 in excavating the berm bank between the river and old canal just above the curved dam, after several days of drink, took to the bottom late yesterday afternoon and is now resting in ten feet of water. A section of the bottom is supposed to have dropped out, and as the only diver in this city is on the lake water work the contractors hurried one here from Buffalo and he is now working out a scheme to raise the sunken craft. The dredge is an old one and came here from Schenectady about a month ago.—Palladium.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

In case of a burn or scald what would you do to relieve the pain? Such injuries are liable to occur in any family and everyone should be prepared for them. THANKSGIVING DAY

President Taft has issued the following proclamation, naming Thursday, Nov. 30, as Thanksgiving Day:

The people of the land having by long sanction and practice set apart toward the close of each passing year a day on which to cease from their labors and assemble for the purpose of giving praise to Him who is the author of the blessings they have enjoyed, it is my duty as chief executive to designate at this time the day for the fulfillment of this devout purpose.

Our country has been signally favored in many ways. The round of the seasons has brought rich harvests. Our industries have thrived far beyond our domestic needs, the products of our labor are daily finding enlarged markets abroad.

We have been free from the curse of pestilence, of famine and of war. Our national councils have furnished the cause of peace in other lands and the spirit of benevolence has brought us into closer touch with other peoples, to the strengthening of the bonds of fellowship and good will that link us to our comrades in the universal brotherhood of nations.

Strong in the sense of our own right and inspired by as strong a sense of the rights of others, we live in peace and harmony with the world. Rich in the priceless possession and abundant resources, wherewith the unstinted bounty of God has endowed us, we are unselfishly glad when other peoples pass onward to prosperity and peace.

That the great privileges we enjoy continue and that each coming year may see our country more firmly established in the regard and esteem of our fellow nations, is the prayer that should arise in every thankful heart.

Wherefore I, William Howard Taft, President of the United States of America, designate Thursday, the 30th of November next, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, and earnestly call upon my countrymen and upon all that dwell under the flag of our beloved country, then to meet in their accustomed places of worship to join in offering praise to Almighty God and devout thanks for the loving mercies He has given to us.

In witness thereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Chicago, this 30th day of October, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and eleven, and of the Independence of the United States of America, the one hundred and thirty-sixth.

By the President.

Secretary of State.

THEATRE-GOERS DISAPPROVE OF THE SCHEDULE

All Fulton theatre goers to Syracuse must either miss the last act of every play or miss the last trolley home, since the new schedule was adopted by the company. Last Monday evening a number from Fulton attended the Empire theatre and those who left before the last act caught the car and waited fifteen minutes on the switch at Phoenix for the other car. Those who saw the last act had to remain in Syracuse for the night. The matter is frequently and unfavorably discussed.

SUDDEN DEATH OF A FULTONIAN

While returning with his wife from a visit with a relative on the west side on Sunday evening, Joel Mapes, aged 65, a well known resident of the Sixth ward, was suddenly stricken with death, acute heart trouble having been the cause, and he fell heavily to the sidewalk on Erie street. Mrs. Mapes called for assistance, and the dying man was taken to his home, where he passed away. The funeral services will be held at the late home this Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Rev. C. L. Peck officiating. Burial in Mt. Adnah.

MUST PAY FOR OVERCHARGING

The Syracuse, Lakeshore & Northern railroad will have return five cents apiece to Mrs. Arvilla King and Miss Esther Ingamells as an over charge for the fare between Fulton and Stop 26, about a mile and a half distant. Besides this the company will have to pay each of the women $50 as a penalty for the overcharge, accordingg to a decision by County Judge Louis C. Rowe.

The overcharge was made on November 17th, 1910, two days after the Public Service Commission had ordered the rates reduced. The defense of the company was that the conductors had not been informed of the reduction.

AT EMPIRE THEATRE

Robert Hilliard's Farewell in "A Fool There Was"

Robert Hilliard comes to the Empire Theatre for three nights and a mid-week matinee, commencing Monday, Nov. 6, in his last Syracuse presentation of the curiously fastinating play, "A Fool There Was." Mr. Hilliard is now making an ocean to ocean tour under the direction of Klaw & Erlanger. Upon his return to New York next spring he will produce a new American drama.

The almost phenominal success of "A Fool There Was," due largely toa the power and pathos of Mr. Hilliard's personation, is a matter of stage history. During the past two years he has given it no less than thirteen distinct revivals in various theatres in New York and Brooklyn; six in Philadelphia and three each in Washington, Pittsburg, Chicago, Boston and other cities.

"A Fool There Was" has been pronounced a graphic object lesson in clean living and domestic fidelity and a powerful temperance lesson of vivid import. In his portrait of the delirium crazed diplomat brought to ruin by the vampire woman, depicted in Kipling's grimly satirical poem, Mr Hilliard has shattered nearly one thousand mirrors and smashed twice as many more wine glasses and bandy bottles. He has fallen down ten thousand feet of stairway, a distance about equal to the highest recorded aviation flight. All this involves great nervous and physical strain.

In this very human drama is shown how a man of the highest mentality and social distinction may be brought to absolute ruin through infatuation for a hypnotic woman. The man impersonated by Mr. Hilliard is a distinguished diplomat going abroad upon a government mission. Upon the deck of a big ocean steamer about to sail he meets the Vampire woman, a seductive creature, all physical allurement, for whom a distracted lad has killed himself five minutes before. Instantly he falls under her spell. His mission is neglected, his friends abandon him and in dull self-reproach he becomes a drunkard. Then follows the supreme struggle between opposing forces of good and evil. It is in this tense and gripping portrayal that Mr. Hilliard has been acclaimed an actor who gives the best example of tragic art since Mr. Mansfield was seen in "The Parisian Romance" and "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

The play has symbolism and vivid contrast, with moments of comedy and sentiment, and is rich in pictorial stage effects. The episode of the ocean steamship's departure is fine stage realism. At the Wednesday matinee the price for the best seats will be $1.

Mrs. Mabel Fisher came home on Thursday from Binghamton. She has been away over two weeks.

Mr. Kipple fetched out a carryall load of young people from Fulton Thursday evening, to a Hallowe'en party given by Miss Wilda Fisher.

Mr. Washington Whipple is no better and there is not much hope for his recovery.

There was quite a delegation at Syracuse from this station Saturday, with ducks and chickens, among the number were: Mrs. Ed. Ware, Mrs. Fred Paine, Mrs. Dora Rowlee, Miss Maud Rowlee, and Messrs. Kenneth Qaude, Alonzo Hannum, Aaron Degroff. The morning train broke down in Fulton and so the up train did not go until the 8:29 had gone down; the party had quite a wait at the depot.

Auntie McCaslin's three granddaughters, Mrs. Tracey Kellogg, Mrs. Lydia Hawley and Miss Hazel McCaslin visited her on Sunday.

Mrs. Ellen Clough is spending a few days with Mrs. Mabel Fisher.

Elmer Fisher was home over Sunday, after a three weeks absence in Springfield, Mass., and vicinity.

Among the Sunday guests were Warren Fisher and Miss Whitney, Oswego at Elmer Fisher's; Vernor Shattuck at Oliver Paine's; John aGrrett and the Misses Harriett and Cassie Wilcox at Wilson Stewart; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Rumsey at Mrs. E. Barnes; Herman Austin and Miss Gertrude Joynt at L. T. Austin's.

Mr. and Mrs. Wait Andrews of Syracuse, who are visiting their son, Fred, went to Hannibal Sunday to visit Mrs. Andrews' brother, Mr. Cort Gifford.

Mrs. Pingree is entertaing her sister and husband from Roxbury.

Mr. William Betts was in Oneida a few days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Wybron are visiting friends in Marcellus and Jordon.

Mr. William Betts, Mrs. Hannah Stewart and Mr. V. Lewis have sold their farms to Orleans county men and two or three South Hannibal people have sold to men from that place.

BURNED TO DEATH ALONE

Early on Saturday morning smoke was seen issuing from the shack occupied by John McCann, aged 80, who lived alone on Second street near Broadway. The fire department was called and when the flames were extinguished the badly burned body of the aged man fully dressed, was found on his bed. A pipe in the bed told the story of his having fallen asleep as he held the lighted pipe in his mouth and of the bedding becoming ignited. The deceased was one of the characters of the city owing to his eccentricities. The funeral was held on Monday.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET ELECTED

Irving G. Hubbs

County Returns Very Slow But Indicate the Election of Stranahan, Fanning, Culkin, Sweet and Stone by Big Pluralities

HUBBS AND EMERSON

Hubbs Carried Oswego County by About 3,000 and His Plurality Over Purcell in the District Will Be Several Thousand---Emerson's Will Be Higher

BOLAND MAYOR BY 263

Republicans Elect Three Aldermen and Two Supervisors---Stranahan's Plurality in This City 1028 ---Falley Seminary Proposition Lost by 349 and Oak Street by 37.

The most interesting city election held in many years closed last evening and the result to a keen student of conditions furnishes much food for reflection. John A. Boland, running on the Democratic and Republican tickets for Mayor received a plurality of 263. He was vigorously opposed by Edward C. Rogers, socialist, who polled a phenominal vote and pulled down Mr. Boland's majority to a point where the outcome was in doubt until the vote was counted. The administration for the coming two years will indeed be Mayor Boland's, as his Common Council will be evenly divided, three Republicans and three Democrats. The mayor will cast the deciding vote on all propositions.

Mayor-elect Boland received 631 votes on the Democratic ticket and 524 on the Republican ticket.

The Council as elected yesterday will consist of C. R. Dines, Republican; William J. Sullivan, Democrat; F. W. Youngs, Republican-Prohibitionist; Myron Foster, Democrat; F. W. Wolcott, Republican, and Ernest Mead, Democrat.

The supervisorship fight was a bitter one and resulted in Supervisors Wade E. Gayer and George H. Fuller, Republicans, and George Pomphret, Democrat, being victorious. Messrs. Gayer and Fuller were re-elected.

The city vote on the district and county tickets was most satisfactory from a Republican standpoint. M. A. Stranahan, for sheriff, received the largest plurality ever accorded a Fulton candidate, 1028. Messrs. Sweet, Stone, Fanning and Culkin ran splendidly. The vote on the judicial question was not so satisfactory. Irving G. Hubbs won over Purcell by 324; Purcell over Emerson by 47. T. C. Sweet received a plurality of 392; Culkin, 490; Stone, 310; and Fanning, 377.

Oswego city gave the Republican candidate for Mayor, D. D. Long, a plurality of 768, and a Democrats common council was elected. The entire Republican judicial, district and county ticket was carried in Oswego by substantial majorities, Mr. Hubbs carrying Oswego by 156. The other Republican candidates ran ahead of his figures.

The Republican ticket in Onondaga county, including Syracuse, was victorious and in the State a Republican majority was elected to the Assembly.

Returns up to midnight from throughout the State on the Assembly election indicate that the complexion of that body will be as follows: Republicans, 100This would mean a net gain of t ; Democrats, 49; Socialist, 1hirty-seven seats for the Republicans and give them a majority of fifty.

Hubbs carried over Purcell the counties of Onondaga, Oswego, Oneida, Herkimer and Lewis; Purcell carried Jefferson county. Judge Emerson was high man in the judicial returns through out the district, carrying every county in the judicial district. Judge Purcell carried his own county over Hubbs by a plurality of approximately 1,500.

The vote on the school property propositions was a shock to many as it was believed that the campaign of education during the past two years had strengthened the proposition in a business sense, and that one or more of the propositions would meet with the favor of the taxpayers.

The proposiiton to purchase Falley seminary property was defeated by the decisive majority of 349; the Oak street proposition was defeated by 37. Whether or not the questions in this form will ever again be submitted to the voters is a matter of conjecture.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

THE WEEK

The volume of business is of fair amount and trade continues to exhibit a quickening spirit, in most lines it is still below producing capacity, generally consisting of the supplying of immediate necessities. The absence of large unsold stocks on the shelves and the presence of supplies of credit so great that this country is now able to finance the pressing needs of Europe to an extent that has rarely if ever been equalled in the past are elements of basic strength. These loans to Europe make a most imposing total, which, in connection with the big balance of trade in this country's favor, provides a great reserve to call upon whenever needed. The lower prices for cotton and cotton goods, with considerable sales of print cloths for future delivery, contribute to the quickened movement in the dry goods trade. There is a favorable demand for woolen goods and worsteds, and a largely attended auction sale of carpets attrated muct interest. Hides and skins are fairly active and firmer, but there is less doing in leather. The tone of the iron and steel trade is notably improved.

Orders for steel products booked by the leading interest during October are estimated to have been the largest, with one exception, in any month this year. The transporting companies also are making purchases of needed equipment, contracts for some 10,000 cars having been placed during the past week, while about half that number are under negotiation.

The movement of dry goods continues very steady. Sales of print cloths at Fall River aggregated 180,000 pieces, half of which were for future delivery, and trading at that center was maintained. Exports to the Far East are at a standstill, owing to the Chinese complications, but the miscellaneous trade is steady and shipments still show a substantial increase over a year ago. Woolens and worsted agencies report a steady demand for hearby requirements, with a slow expension of forward orders on which the mills are placing more looms at work. In men's wear novelties have been closely cleaned up and there is steadier application on staples, while the users of goods are placing orders further ahead and there is an increase in duplicating for spring. As prices work lower on cotton yarns business expands, while the call for worsted yarns is well maintained for nearby use. The initial operations at the carpet auction were active at prices above previous sales.

Footwear jobbers are holding off until assured that the late advances asked by manufacturers are to be maintained and are not disposed to place more than supplementary contracts for winter goods; business for spring delivery has not been in very large volume as yet. While business in leather is considerably better than a month ago, it has fallen off in volume this week, chiefly owing to higher asking prices.

Wheat fluctuated sharply in both directions, with the December option in this market falling close to the dollar mark.

Liabilities of commercial failures reported for October amount to $19,021,897, of which $9,297,593 are in manufacturing, $7,486,602 in trading and $2,237,692 in other commercial lines. Failures this week numbered 245 in the United States against 258 last year ,and 27 in Canadacompared with 16 a year ago

Yesterday workmen began tearing down the structure. Only a part of the roof of a small wing on the Lake street side, twelve feet high and six by eight feet in its other dimensions, remained standing. This afternoon a number of children were playing under the roof when it collapsed.

MADERO INAUGURATED PRESIDENT OF MEXICO

Hero of Revolution Promises to Restore Peace and the Glory of the Mexican Republic

Mexico City, Nov. 6.— Francisco I. Madero was today inaugurated president of the republic of Mexico amid the cheers of thousands who lined the streets to watch his carriage pass.

It is probable that never in the world has a president of a cobntry the size of Mexico, a ruler choosen by the people, ascended the seat of government in face of greater opposition.

The new president made the unqualified assertion that in three months Mexico will be entirely quiet.

"I can promise no more than this," declared Madero, "but you can rest assured that I will do all in mypower to promote the prosperity ofMexico, her glory among nations and give her that which she most needs — peace."

NATIONAL CONVENTION PLANS

Republican Delegates May Number 1,072 Instead of 980.

Washington, Nov. 6.—The call for the Republican National Convention, to be issued by the national committe when it meets in Washington on December 12, will provide for 1,064 delegates ,to be increased to 1,072 if Arizona and New Mexico become States before the convention is held. The increase from 980 delegates, which comprised the Chicago convention of 1908, is the result of the reapportionment by Congress, which increases the size of the House of Representatives from 391 to 433 members, or 435 with the two new States .

The basis of delegates for the Republican convention is:

Four at large in each State and two for each Congress district.The large gains in the State delegations will be: New York, 12; Pennsylvania, 8; Oklahoma and California, 6 each; Illinois, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Texas and Washington, 4 each. Other States either will gain 2 each or retain the apportionment of the 1908 Chicago convention.

Territories will get two delegates each. They are: Alaska, Arizona, District of Columbia, Hawaii, New Mexico, Phillippine Islands, Porto Rico. If Arizona and New Mexico are fully admitted as States when the convention is held they will have six delegates each instead of two.

The basis used by the national committee in distributing delegates to the national convention among the States was attacked in a statement by Senator Jonathan Bourne, Jr., president of the National Progressive Republican league. The Progressive organization demands that delegates be apportioned on the basis of Republican votes cast in the States , not on the basis of the number of Congress districts.

Such a plan would greatly reduce the number of delegates from southern States, where the Republican vote is small. Using the 7,677,479 votes cast for President Taft as a basis, and 1,059 as a number of delegates in the 1912 convention, the Progressive league estimates that there should be a delegate to the convention for each 8,865 Republican votes. That would reduce Alabama to 7 delegates, Mississippi to 5, South Carolina to 4 and other southern States proportionately, and would increase New York's delegation to 102, Pennsylvania's to 88, Illinois' to 75 and Ohio's to 69.

CRAZY KING LOUIS

His Part in the Pitiful Tragedy at Lake Stranberg.

SLEW HIS FRIEND AND DIED.

The Mad Bavarian Monarch Beat Faithful Dr. von Gudden to Death Before Heart Disease Stopped His Own Dash For Liberty.

For months preceding the tragedy on June 13, 1886, that ended his life King Louis II. of Bavaria had revealed many unmistakable signs of mental derangement. He heard mysterious voices in the air around him and believed that he was constantly pursued by dangerous enemies. He withdrew entirely from the world, his cabinet ministers were unable to obtain access to him, and his domestic servants were forbidden to look at his face, being compelled to approach him with averted eyes. The old valet Meier was obliged to don a mask to cover his features whenever he went near the king, and many other strange things happened at the magnificent palace which Louis had built for himself with reckless extravagance.

Wearing his crown and purple royal mantle, with the scepter of sovereignty in his hand, King Louis would wander through the rooms of his castles at night, conversing with imaginary guests, for the most part with the ghosts of King Louis XIV. of France and Queen Marie Antoinette. Frequently places were laid at his table for their disembodied spirits.

The king's debts brought matters to a crisis and necessitated the intervention of the Bavarian government. Most of the royal liabilities had been contracted through the construction and decoration of the famous three castles, and several creditors threatened to initiate proceedings to recover their money. King Louis requested the government to introduce a bill in the Bavarian legislature granting his property immunity from seizure for debts, and when his ministers refused this unreasonable demand he tried to borrow money from all sorts and conditions of people.

In April, 1886, the Bavarian chamber refused to sanction the payment of the king's debts from the public treasury, and a few days later the cabinet addressed a respectful petition to Louis to curtail his expenditures. King Louis responded by dismissing the whole cabinet and nominating a new ministry, at the head of which he placed his own barber.

This irresponsible act brought matters to a head. A commission of medical experts, under the presidency of Dr. von Gudden, pronounced the king to be incurably insane and incapable of ruling, and a deputation under Baron von Crailsheim was dispatched from Munich to the castle where Louis was in residence to inform his majesty of his dethronement. The king had Baron von Crailsheim and all the members of the deputation arrested.

Then Dr. von Gudden proceeded to Neuschwanstein castle, where to all outward appearances he succeeded in persuading the king to submit to his dethronement and to retire to Berg castle, near the shores of Lake Stanberg, where the final tragedy was enacted. The king was escorted to Berg castle by Dr. von Gudden, another medical man, Dr. Mueller, and several trained attendants, and he seemed to acquiesce in the arrangement that he should remain there for a year under close supervision.

Dr. von Gudden, misled by appearances, telegraphed to Munich that his royal patient was "as obedient as a child," and at dinner that evening he promised to take the king for a walk in the park. His assistant, Dr. Mueller, warned him that it would be dangerous to go alone with the king and urged him to allow an attendant to accompany them, or at least to follow them at a discreet distance, but Dr. von Gudden disregarded the younger man's advice and paid the penalty with his life. It was a Sunday evening, and a general feeling of uneasiness prevailed among those who had remained at the castle when the king and Dr. von Gudden failed to reappear after an hour had elapsed. Search parties were organized, and during the night one of the royal footmen found the king's hat, coat and overcoat close to the bank of the lake and Dr. von Gudden's umbrella close by on the ground. The bodies of the king and his physician were found not far from the shore of the lake, in shallow water, both heads projecting above the surface. Dr. von Gudden's face and head bore the marks of heavy blows which the king, a man of immensely powerful build, had showered upon him.

The position of the bodies and the articles of clothing found near them made it possible to surmise, with probable accuracy, the details of the tragedy. It is likely that the king intended to escape from his prison—for as such he regarded the castle in which he was kept as a madman—and that he divested himself of overcoat and coat to swim across the lake. Dr. von Gudden, it appears, closed with him at the water's edge and tried to prevent his flight, but the king killed him and died from heart disease at the moment when he was on the point of beginning his swim for liberty. The postmortem examination revealed that neither had died from drowning, but the king from heart failure and Dr. von Gudden from the injuries inflicted on him in the struggle.—Berlin Cor. St. James' Gazette.

THE MARINE BAND

History of Uncle Sam's Famous Musical Organization.

STARTED BY A KIDNAPING.

Tradition Says That the Original Band Was Spirited Away From Sunny Sicily by Captain McNeil of the American Frigate Boston.

One of the best known and most popular musical organizations in this country is the United States Marine band. It is always selected to furnish the music at important government functions, such as inaugural balls and receptions at the White House, and is always assigned the post of honor in notable parades. Indeed, it is the ablest and most famous military band in the country.

There is an interesting tradition that the original Marine band was kidnaped from the sunny slopes of Sicily. The story goes that one Captain McNeil of the American frigate Boston was cruising in the Mediterranean, when his soul yearned for the sound of real music, an art that had been little developed in this young republic. When ashore he heard a regimental band play so tunefully that the bluff old seadog became inspired. The inspiration was promptly put into execution. In his suavest manner he invited the Sicilians aboard his ship to play for "a ball." The invitation was accepted with alacrity, induced no doubt by the prospect of American gold.

A few nights afterward the entire organization was on board the frigate with its instruments when the captain suddenly found it expedient to return to the United States. So it was up anchor and away before the astonished Sicilians could protest. There is no authentic record of what became of this band of Italian musicians, as many of the marine corps archives were destroyed in 1814.

The official records do show, however, that shortly after the marine corps was organized, probably in 1801, Lieutenant Colonel Archibald Henderson brought from Naples a group of thirteen Italian musicians, which was the inception of the organization as an instrumental band.

An act to establish a marine corps was approved by President John Adams on July 11, 1798. This law provided for a drum and fife corps consisting of sixteen drummers and sixteen fifers, one of whom should act as fife major. This constituted the Marine band until the arrival of the Neapolitans, about three years later.

For several years the band had no special leader. First one member and then another acted as fife major. This practice continued until Aug. 14, 1815, when J. L. Clubb, of the sloop Lexington, was regularly appointed and served until 1824. He was succeeded by Eutine Friquet, who served until Oct. 29, 1830, when Francis Schenig was appointed, serving until Sept. 22, 1843. Schenig was relieved by Francis Scala, who served until 1848 and again from 1854 until Dec. 13, 1871.

It was under Scala's leadership that the band first became famous. He inaugurated the open air concerts at the White House and the capitol grounds, for which congress allowed extra compensation in 1856. These concerts grew in such favor that steps were undertaken to improve the organization, which was still officially known as a fife and drum corps. Legislation was obtained to reorganize it as a band, with a principal musician and thirty members. On July 25, 1861, President Lincoln affixed his signature to a law that recognized the first band as part of the military service of the United States.

Scala retired in 1871 after having served in the band nearly thirty years, twenty-two of which he was its leader. He was succeeded by Henry Fries, who served until Aug 22, 1873. Louis Schneider was appointed Sept. 2, 1873, serving until Oct. 29, 1880. On Oct. 30, 1880, John Philip Sousa was chosen leader. Sousa had formerly been a member of the band, as had his father. The elder Sousa enlisted in 1861 under the name of Suacca, but upon re-enlistment he gave the name of Sousa, which he continued to use thereafter.

Sousa left the service July 30, 1892, to organize a band of his own, and Francesco Fanciulli was appointed. He served until Oct. 3, 1897. When his term expired he was not reappointed, and the band was without a leader until the following March, when William H. Santelmann was appointed.

In 1898 the band was again reorganized. In order to bring it up to the standing to which it was entitled as the leading military band of this country a law was passed, which President McKinley signed March 2, 1898, increasing the band to seventy-three members, consisting of a leader with the pay and allowance of a first lieutenant of the marine corps, a second leader at $75 a month and allowances, thirty first class musicians at $60, thirty second class musicians at $50, ten privates and a drum major. The members are enlisted for four years.—John B. Cox in Washington Star.

EDWARD PAYSON WESTON

The coming of Edward Payson Weston to Fulton brings to mind some of the amazing feats of this man who has made good with his body. Mr. Weston was born in the city of Providence, R. I. in the year 1839. His appearance on the platform at the age of 72, vigorous, alert and as nimble as a kitten ,proves his theory of the value of walking. During the past 42 years he has walked in public a distance thrice the circumference of the globe. Perhaps his greatest feat was that of las tyear when he walked from ocean to ocean, a distance of 3,500 miles in 77 days. At least twice in his life he has walked 115 miles in less than 24 hours. His walks in this country and in Europe have brought him into touch with many famous men and women and given him an abundance of good stories of the road. Mr. Weston will give his famous lecture on the "Vicissitudes of a Walker" at the State Street church Tuesday evening, Nov. 14. Tickets may be secured of members of the Brotherhood or at Lusher's Book Store. The price of tickets has been fixed at 50 cents; students tickets, 25 cents.

"I am pleased to recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as the best thing I know of and safest remedy for coughs, colds and bronchial trouble," writes Mrs. L. B. Arnold of Denver, Colo. "We have used it repeatedly and it has never failed to give relief." For sale by all dealers.

SYRACUSE UNIVERSITY TO PRESENT PLAY

Syracuse University students will shine for the first time in the musical comedy field on November 13 and 14, at the Wieting Opera House, Syracuse. A year of preparation is usually needed to write and stage a musical comedy of the high class of "Morning Star." The music is from the pen of David K. Walsh, a senior student, and is original in its theme. There are sparkling choruses, lilting and dreamy waltzes and even a ragtime in march tempo. Harry Sheridan Lee, '99 class of Syracuse, has contributed the book and lyrics. The plot is consistent and is worked out in the most laughable manner. The lyrics of the songs are snappy and they were designed with the intention of being rendered by voices practically untrained in stage-work although well trained in singing. Each lyric tells a story and there is not one which will not charm an audience.

The first act occurs in 1686 at the campfire of the Onondagas. Chief Onondaga returns victorious from the conquest of the Hurons and has promised his daughter, Morning-star, in marriage to both Chuckabluff and Givemdope, two medicine men as a reward for their incantations in his favor. Morning-star loves Red Hawk and the two prepare to fly. Chief Onondaga begs his daughter not to desert him and he brings her to the two medicine men to choose between her. To revenge themselves on Onondaga they both give her a sleeping potion and she falls asleep to awake in the second act at the present day in the form of a cigar store Indian.

The two comedians in the last two acts, Montmorency Puddleworth and Scdrge Emery, are traveling agents for Indian Wizard Oil. They strike Butterfly Corners and by sending letters ahead have the whole town present to greet them. During their talk on the values of the oil, Puddleworth pours some on the cigar store Indian's head and Morningstar comes to life. Dick Puddleworth, the son of a millionaire, later falls in love with her and wins her as his bride after the comedians have played a trick on the young lover's father by selling him the cigar store Indian, which has in meanwhile been restored to life. The father is reconciled to having a real Indian princess for a daughter-in-law and all ends happily. There are numerous mirth provoking complications in the plot and they are well worked out .

The cast is composed entirely of men as well as the chorus. Henry J. Ormsbee, Karnival Director of the Ka-Noo-No Karnival, is drilling both cast and chorus. Thirty men have been retained from over one hundred for the chorus. The men are receiving special attention in portraying the girlish parts .

Morning-star will be produced in a lavish manner which could stand the test with any traveling musical comedy. Special scenery is being painted for the production . The costuming is a big expense and the rental of the beautiful costumes and gowns will exceed $350 .

The opening scene will be especially beautiful. The stage setting shows the camp at dawn. The squaws are asleep and with the sun rise they awake and perform a dance of adoration to the sun. The lighting effects for this scene are being specially built and the show will be a hit from the first curtain.

C. W .Wadsworth of this city is actively interested in this play.

The Republicans Are Victorious Everywhere

The Republicans throughout the State seem coming into their own again as the returns from the different election districts indicate Republican victories or a substantial lessening of Democratic strength in many heretofore strong holds. In Oswego county the result is most gratifying, the Judicial, District, County and City tickets winning out by very large majorities. The Board of Supervisors will be safely Republican too. A united Republican party has indeed achieved a signal victory and will take fresh courage in its planning for next Fall's campaign when a State and National ticket are to be elected. The election of Mr. Hubbs has been one of the greatest factors to make for peace in this county and satisfaction is expressed everywhere that his victory is unmistakable.

The city of Fulton contributed her share to the glorious result in this county and will hereafter be equipped with when favors are to be asked or bestowed.

Orang Utan.

The large anthropoids of Borneo and Sumatra are usually called orang outangs. This form, it seems, is not correct. Orang signifies man and outang, though debt, something owing; so orang outang would simply mean man in debt. The correct Malay for this is orang utan, or outan. This were the forest man in distinction from orang kampong, or village (civilized)

DEATHS

Inez, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Russell, died at the family home in Fremont street last week.

Elbert, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Clark, died at the family home in Seventh street on Saturday. The funeral was held on Monday.

Henry C. Hoey, aged 60, a life long resident of Oswego, died on November 5, after a long illness. The local survivors are his mother, Mrs. Catherine Hoey, and two sisters, Miss Catherine Hoey and Mrs. Charles Sweet, all of this city.

Cassie, wife of Mr. Jay B. Simmons, died on Thursday in the Lee Memorial hospital after a lingering illness. The funeral services were held from the home of Mr. Warren Locke on Sunday, the Rev. Charles Olmstead officiating. The husband, a commercial traveller, is the sole survivor.

The death of Mrs. Margaret Mooney widow of the late William S. Mooney, occurred at the Women's and Children's hospital in Syracuse on Saturday. The funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon and interment was made at Onondaga Hill. The deceased is survived by one son, Herbert Mooney, of Syracuse.

Martin Bryant Schenck, a former well known resident of this city, passed to rest at his home in Meriden, Conn., on Sunday after a lingering period of ill health. The deceased was born in Fulton, April 29, 1838. In August, 1862, he enlisted in the 147th Regiment, N. Y. V., and he served with distinction until the close of the war, after which he returned to Fulton where he became associated in the hardware business with his two cousins, Messrs. D. F. and S. C. Schenck; he later carried on the hardware business for himself. In 1886 Mr. Schenck moved to New Haven, Conn., to engage in the manufacture of castors and he later removed to Meriden, where he resided until his death. The deceased was twice married, his widow, one son, William A. Schenck, and one daughter, Mrs. L. H. Perkins, all of Meriden; two sisters, Miss Alice Schenck of this city and Mrs. Levi Brackett of South Hannibal, and one brother, Mr. Marcus P. Schenck of Springfield, Mass., survive, with a legion of friends to mourn his loss. The body was brought to this city and the funeral services will be held from the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Morrill in South Third street this Wednesday, the Rev. C. L. Peck officiating. Burial will be made in the family plot in Mount Adnah.

RESOLUTION OF RESPECT

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, to remove from our midst our friend and brother, Allen Harwood, by death, and

Whereas, We fully appreciate his loyalty to our great fraternity and his zeal in exemplifying the principals of our beloved order.

Therefore, be it resolved, That in the death of Brother Harwood, Neahtawanta Lodge, hereby expresses its deep sorrow at his loss and extends to his family our sympathy in their affliction.

Resolved, That our charter be draped in mourning for thirty days and that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes.

IT STARTLED THE WORLD

when the astounding claims were first made for Bucklen's Arnica Salve, but forty years of wonderful cures have proved them true, and everywhere it is now known as the best salve on earth for burns, boils, scalds, sores, cuts, bruises, sprains, swellings, eczema, chapped hands, fever sores and piles. Only 25c at the Red Cross Pharmacy.

SHOULD BE PROTECTED

The attention of Times readers is called to the popcorn, candy and cigar booth opposite the trolley station in First street, which is conducted by Mrs. Carr, who is blind and without anyone to aid her in her fight for a living, and who was recently deprived by death of her little daughter. The afflicted woman is ambitious to be self sustaining and only requires that rascals shall not steal her stock to insure herself freedom from hunger and suffering of other kinds.

Despite the struggle being made by Mrs. Carr, some people in this city are so thoroughly heartless and criminal as to have twice, within a brief period, robbed her of her goods and to have broken the glass which surrounds her booth and affords her only protection from the elements. It seems incredible that such a condition could exist but it is nevertheless true.

There is little danger from a cold or from an attack of the grip except when followed by pneumonia, and this never happens when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. This remedy has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of colds and grip and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. For sale by all dealers.

Crocodiles and Alligators.

The true crocodiles are distinct from the alligators. Among the points of distinction the following are the most noticeable: In the crocodiles the so called canine tooth, the fourth counting from the front, fits into a notch in the side of the upper jaw and is therefore visible when the mouth is closed, while in the alligator it is received in a pit in the upper jaw and is therefore invisible or nearly so. Again, in the crocodile the hind legs have a fringe of fattened scales which is wanting in the alligators, whose legs are round.—London Saturday Review.

MAKING FRIENDS.

Blessed are they who have the gift of making friends, for it is one of God's best gifts. It involves many things, but, above all, the power of going out of oneself and seeing and appreciating whatever is noble in another.
—Thoreau.

FATAL ACCIDENT

Wednesday noon as Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hart of Palermo were enroute to their home after transacting some business in this city, the whiffletree on their carriage broke and their spirited team became frightened and started to run. Mrs. Hart was thrown from the vehicle in front of Undertaker E.S. Brown's residence in Third street and the maddened horses continued their flight until opposite Mr. E. R. Redhead's residence in Buffalo street when the wagon pole broke and Mr. Hart lost all control of the animals. He was thrown violently from the carriage his head striking the curb and he was rendered unconscious by the concussion. Dr. L. F. Joy was called and willing hands did all that could be done to relieve his suffering until medical attendance could reach him. Dr. Joy conveyed the sufferer in his automobile to the Lee hospital hospital where an examination revealed a fractured skull and internal injuries. After intense suffering Mr. Hart passed to rest on Saturday and the body was removed to the late home in Palermo from where the funeral services were held on Tuesday. Interment was made in New Haven.

Mrs. Hart, who was not so seriously injured, was taken to her home soon after the accident, where she is still confined to the bed although her recovery is expected.

The sympathy of their many friends in this city goes out to the afflicted widow and her family.

CURRENT EVENTS CLUB

The first meeting for the season of 1911 and 1912 of the Current Events club was held on Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Redhead. Prof. Fairgrieve, the president of the club spoke of the work planned this year for the benefit of the Public Library and the City Hospital, and, in accord with his remarks, it was moved and carried that the Executive Committee, together with the officers of the club, be authorized to proceed with arrangements to procure lecturers and entertainments for the season.

A motion prevailed ratifying the action of the Executive Committee in the selection of Rev. and Mrs. G. C. Wadsworth and G. W. Benedict for membership to fill the three vacancies in the club.

The programme for the evening was in charge of Mr. H. L. Paddock and Rev. C. L. Peck. Mr. Paddock, spoke first, describing in some detail his trip to the British Isles during the past summer. During his talk, Mr. Paddock passed around among the members a large number of picture postal cards illustrating the principal points of interest visited by his party and including a number of photographs taken while he was a guest at the home of our late fellow townsman, Hon. N. N. Stranahan, in southern England.

Mr. Peck spoke briefly of the victories won by California women in politics and also of the recognition of women's rights in the city of New York by legislation making the salaries of lady teachers equal to those received by the men holding similiar positions. The remainer of his time Mr. Peck devoted to a discussion of the Turko-Italian War.

Amount on hand First National bank $137.60

We would notify the city as per statute, that Post Schenck intends to care for its poor and indigent soldiers for the coming year, and would recommend that the sum of $400.00 be raised for the care of the same.

While we do not expect to use the full amount asked for this year, the coming winter will be hard for a good many of the men are getting more feeble each year.

You will see by my report that we have drawn from the city for this year but $200, as our callsfor help have been very moderate.

Very respectfully submitted,

John W. Distin,

Commander Post D. F. Schenck.

Alderman Malone introduced the following and moved its adoption:

VOLNEY MAN'S SUDDEN DEATH

Shortly after 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon while going out through his orchard in the rear of his home on his farm just east of Seneca Hill, George M. Thompson, a well known and highly respected farmer in the town of Volney, was suddenly stricken with heart disease and died at once.

Mr. Thompson has been a lifelong resident of the town of Volney and the week previously celebrated his 77th birthday. He is survived by his wife, two sons, George N. and James W. Thompson, two daughters, Mrs. George Hamilton and Mrs. George Pitcher and one brother, Charles W. Thompson of East Syracuse. The funeral was held on Friday.

Good cheer makes the season of Thanksgiving, and good temper should be the accompaniment.

You may have both if you have provided for gas range comfort in the kitchen, and sensible gas lighting through the house.

AT EMPIRE THEATRE

"The First Lady in the Land"

A 'genuine' Dolly Madison cap is worn by Miss Elsie Ferguson in her portrayal of Dolly Todd in "The First Lady in the Land," her new comedy in which she will appear at the Empire Theatre, Syracuse, Nov. 9, 10 and 11, and Saturday matinee. The cap is the property of the descendents of the famous and historical Dolly Todd, the Philadelphia Quakeress beauty, pictured in the play and was loaned to Miss Ferguson as a tribute to her skill in giving an accurate stage picture of the young woman who turned the hearts of the country's earliest statesmen.

Miss Ferguson is careful in detail, and like all successful stars, seeks local color at any cost of time, money or trouble. To acquire an insight into the life of Dolly Todd, Miss Ferguson made a pilgrimage to Philadelphia, and by the aid of memoirs, histories and books, she located the sites of the stores where Dolly shopped, the streets she walked in, and the house she conducted as an exclusive boarding house for congressmen and men of affairs in the Quaker City when that was the capitol of the United States. It was during one of these pilgrimages that Miss Ferguson met the descendant of Dolly Todd who afterwards loaned her the Dolly Madison cap.

While there is only one mention of a street in the play, still Miss Ferguson familiarized herself with the streets of the period, and says when she plays Dolly Todd she has in her mind a picture of the city as it looked in those days when the Liberty Bell, was still rung on state occasions.

Then Miss Ferguson went to Washington and followed the old map of the city to trace out the wanderings of Dolly about the White House when it was new. She spent days in the National Museum, sketching and studying the costumes of the period on exhibition there, and from these sketches designed the beautiful gowns she wears in the production of "The First Lady in the Land."

New York's Greatest Musical Success Coming to Syracuse

A musical attraction of unusual worth will hold the boards of the Empire Theatre, Syracuse, during the week of Nov. 20. On that date Christie MacDonald, the most captivating of all the younger light opera prima donnas will appear with her original New York Company in the bubbling operetta, "The Spring Maid."

In sending this attraction to Syracuse, Messrs. Werba & Luescher, its producers, are proving an exception to the general rule inasmuch that they have not made a change in the original cast but will present it in Syracuse identically the same as it was during its run of 300 nights in the metropolis. As a general thing, when a big musical organization like "The Spring Maid" Company is sent on the road, many members of its original cast are replaced by less prominent actors for the smaller cities. Werba & Luescher believing that other cities were just as discriminating as New York have made an innovation by refusing to cheapen their company in any way.

Supporting Miss MacDonald will be Tom McNaughton, Elgie Bowen, Ben Hendricks, Thomas Conkey, Vincent Sullivan, Jessie Bradbury, Charles W. Myers, Otto A. Hoffman, Edward Metcalfe, Beth Stone, Arthur Thalasso, Isabella C. Francis and twenty other principals. There will also be the now famous "Spring Maid" chorus and ballet of fifty and an orchestra of thirty.

Not since "The Merry Widow" has there been a musical success in this country to equal that of the joyous "Spring Maid." All during its long run at the Liberty Theatre, New York nightly waxed enthusiastic over its seductive waltz number "Day Dreams," its romantic duet "Two Little Love Bees," "Fountain Fay," "How I Love a Pretty Face" and kindred musical hits of the score. Everywhere that good music is appreciated these charming songs form an important part of the program.

"The Spring Maid" boasts of not having a single objectionable line or situation in it. It depends on its simple and wholesome romance to win popularity and that it has succeeded is most eloquently attested by record breaking receptions accorded it everywhere.

Miss MacDonald flits through its two acts like a joyous sunbeam spreading light and happiness to all who see her. No wonder she has been enthusiastic[illegible] proclaimed "the [illegible]

SAVED CHILD FROM DEATH

"After our child had suffered from severe bronchial trouble for a year," wrote G. T. Richardson, of Richardson's Mills, Ala., "we feared it had consumption. It had a bad cough all the time. We tried many remedies without avail, and doctor's medicine seemed as useless. Finally we tried Dr. King's New Discovery, and are pleased to say that one bottle effected a complete cure, and our child is again strong and healthy." For coughs, colds, hoarseness, la grippe, asthma, croup and sore lungs, its the most infallible remedy that's made. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by the Red Cross Pharmacy.

REPUBLICANS WIN IN CITY OF UTICA.

Frank J. Baker Elected Mayor by a Majority of 354.

MAYOR OF ROME REPUBLICAN

Oneida County Swings Back into the Republican Column, Electing Every Man on the County Ticket — Osborne Defeated For Mayor of Auburn — Ithaca Elects a Democratic Ticket, While Rochester Goes Overwhelmingly Republican.

Utica, Nov. 8. — Oneida county, a rock-ribbed Republican stronghold, which one year ago gave a substantial majority for the Democratic ticket, swung back into the Republican column with a majority that will reach into the thousands.

The Republicans elected every man on their county ticket and in addition scored decisive victories in this city and in the city of Rome.

In Utica Frank J. Baker was elected mayor over James D. Smith (Dem.) by a majority of 354. The Republicans also elected a majority of the aldermen and all their candidates on the city ticket with the exception of city judge and city treasurer. Two years ago the Democrats gained control of the city administration by a majority of nearly 1,500.

City Judge James K. O'Connor, denied a renomination by the Democrats because of alleged treachery to the party, ran independently and was re-elected by the remarkable plurality of 2,307. Judge O'Connor's fight for re-election was most bitterly opposed by the Democratic organization and his victory in the face of overwhelming obstacles is perhaps the most interesting feature of the local campaign.

Rome Elects Republican Mayor.

In Rome, the only other city in Oneida county, the Republicans elected Stewart E. Townsend to the mayoralty by a substantial majority and most of the party's candidates for the balance of the offices.

The present city administration is Democratic. Regarding the outcome of the fight for the two supreme court justiceships in the Fifth judicial district, composed of Oneida, Onondaga, Oswego, Jefferson, Lewis and Herkimer counties, it is difficult to state with certainty whether Irving G. Hubbs of Oswego, one of the two Republican candidates, has been elected as against Justice Henry Purcell of Jefferson, the Democratic nominee.

There is no question regarding the election of Justice Edgar C. Emerson of Jefferson, who was Hubbs' running mate for the supreme court justiceship to fill two vacancies, while the Democrats concentrated their energy in support of Justice Purcell, who at present is serving out the unexpired term of the late Justice Watson M. Rogers by appointment of Governor Dix.

Justice Purcell had a plurality in Utica of 464 and reports from Syracuse, Watertown, Little Falls and other cities in the district indicate that he is running ahead of his party ticket and that he may squeeze in as against Hubbs by a small plurality.

The defeat of Assemblyman Manley (Dem.) in the First Oneida district, which is strongly Democratic, was one of the surprises of the election for the first time in many years Oneida county will be represented in the assembly by three Republicans—Entwistle, Allen and Cross. The two last named were re-elected.

Returns from Herkimer county indicate the election of Theodore Douglass Robinson, Republican candidate for member of assembly.

Mr. Robinson is a nephew of ex-President Roosevelt.

ASSEMBLY IS REPUBLICAN

Lower House of Lawmakers Will Contain 102 Republicans, 47 Democrats and 1 Socialist.

New York, Nov. 8.—The Republicans have elected 26 more than a majority of the members of the next state assembly. In the next assembly, of the 150 members, the Republicans will have 102 members, the Democrats 47 and the Socialists 1, representing Schenectady county.

This year the Democrats had 37 votes in the assembly and the Republicans 63. Last year the Republicans elected but 12 assemblymen in New York city, 7 in New York county and 5 in Kings. This year the Republicans elected 15 assemblymen in New York county 14 in Kings and 2 in Queens.

Last year the Republicans elected 51 assemblymen outside of New York city, and this year they make a gain of 19 in what are called the upstate districts.

ROCHESTER REPUBLICAN

Elect Their County, City and Legislative Tickets by Large Majorities.

Rochester, Nov. 8.—The Republicans made a clean sweep in the election, carrying their county, city and legislative tickets by large pluralities. Mayor Hiram H. Edgerton was re-elected for a third term by 6,678, the largest plurality ever given a mayoralty candidate in Rochester.

The Democratic candidate for mayor was Professor Edward T. Mosher of the University of Rochester faculty. He made the campaign on the issue of bossism, directing his attacks against State Committeeman George W. Aldridge, the Republican leader. He also attacked Tammany and declared that he was opposed to bosses in his own party as well as the Republican.

The outcome of the election is a complete victory for Aldridge and his candidates. The Democrats elected only 3 out of 22 members of the common council and only 8 out of 41 members of the board of supervisors.

MAYOR IRVING RE-ELECTED

Binghamton Re-Elects Its Democratic Chief Executive by an Increased Majority.

Binghamton, Nov. 8.—Following the bitterest local campaign ever seen in Binghamton, Mayor John J. Irving (Dem.) is re-elected by an increased majority. The Democratic candidates for the remaining city offices are also elected, defeating all the Republican incumbents who were nominated for re-election. The Democrats also win a majority in the common council, which has been Republican for two years. The Democratic ticket in both city and county had large support from anti-Hinman Republicans.

As a result of attacks made upon him by the Binghamton Press, Senator Harvey D. Hinman has instituted a suit for $50,000 damages against that newspaper, alleging libel.

In the county Dr. Wilson (Dem.) has defeated Dr. Hooks, a close friend of Senator Hinman, for coroner. On assembly, 24 districts of 79 in the county give Assemblymna Butler (Rep.) 208 majority over Rutland, the Democratic nominee. These are country districts which last year gave Butler 808 majority and the election of Rutland by a small majority is indicated.

OSBORNE IS DEFEATED

President of the Democratic League Is Beaten For Mayor of Auburn.

Auburn, Nov. 8.—The defeat of Thomas M. Osborne, president of the Democratic league, who was running for mayor of Auburn, was attributed to two causes by Charles F. Rattigan, Democratic state committeeman who was manager of the Osborne campaign. Mr. Rattigan laid it to the trebling of the socialist vote in Auburn and the open alliance of the Tammany wing of the Democratic party with the Republican organization.

The Socialists amazed both parties by their increase of strength and elected a member of the Auburn board of aldermen and a member to the Cayuga county board of supervisors.

ITHACA DEMOCRATS WIN

Elect the Mayor, Sheriff, City Judge and Member of Assembly.

Ithaca, Nov. 8.—Assemblyman McDaniels of Tompkins, insurgent Democrat, swept the county in the election and his plurality will reach about 850. McDaniels carried the city of Ithaca by 645.

The Democrats elected Arthur P. Miller sheriff by a little over 100.

In this city the Democrats made a clean sweep. They elected John Reamer mayor by a plurality of 361 over Dr. Douglass. Daniel Crowley (Dem.) was elected city judge by a plurality of 392.

Tammany Wins In New York.

New York, Nov. 8.—The defeat of the Republican deal with Hearst in this county was indicated an hour after the polls closed last night, but the margin was pretty narrow.

With the results in the other boroughs had it been a city election instead of a county election, Hearst might have given Murphy a harder run of it than he did in the McClellan year.

Tammany has elected its county ticket by pluralities running from 3,900 for Cohalan for the supreme court to 14,000 for Fowler for surrogate.

Barnes' Ticket Elected.

Albany, Nov. 8. — William Barnes, Jr., the local Republican leader and chairman of the Republican state committee, won a signal victory when his entire city and county ticket was elected.

The city ticket won by an average of 4,700 and the county ticket was successful by an average of 6,500.

Batavia Goes Wet.

Batavia, Nov. 8. — Genesee county elected Bryant assemblyman by a safe majority. The board of supervisors is strongly Republican, probably the same as at present 10 to 3.

Batavia's vote, the heaviest on record, was brought out by sharp contest on the excise question. The town went wet by a large majority.

Oswego Elects Republican Mayor.

Oswego N. Y., Nov. 8.—David D. Long (Rep.) was elected mayor over John Fitzgibbons (Dem.) by 778 majority, the largest ever given a majority candidate. The city council is evenly divided between the Democrats and Republicans.

Democrats Sweep Troy.

Troy, Nov. 8.—Democrats made a clean sweep of this city. Burns was chosen mayor by a majority of 2,000.

DEMOCRATS WIN IN CINCINNATI.

Henry T. Hunt Elected Mayor of President's Town.

COLUMBUS GOES DEMOCRATIC

Tom Johnson's Protege Is Elected Mayor of Cleveland, While Brand Whitlock Is Elected Chief Executive of Toledo For the Fourth Time. Governor Foss Is Re-Elected In Massachusetts — Democrats Carry Kentucky.

Cincinnati, Nov. 8.—Henry T. Hunt, the young Democratic prosecutor of this county, who vigorously and efficiently, but futilely prosecuted Boss George B. Cox on the charge of perjury, thus apparently causing the veteran Republican boss to announce his retirement from leadership, was elected Democratic mayor of Cincinnati by a plurality which seems very decisive, over his competitor, Dr. Louis Schwab, a Republican of life-long prominence in this city and Cox's organization candidate for re-election. The entire Democratic ticket also seems to have been elected.

These results were in spite of the vigorous, even almost frantic efforts of the old guard of the Boss Cox organization to retain control of the city and county offices; also in spite of the fact that President Taft a few days ago, in an open letter to former Mayor Julius Fleischmann, declared his intention of voting the entire Republican ticket, thus, in effect, repudiating his famous speech at Akron, denouncing the Cincinnati bosses. Apparently Hunt's plurality will exceed 4,000.

Julius Fleischmann, former Republican mayor, who induced President Taft to repudiate his 1905 speech, was rebuked in his own precinct. That precinct, D of the Thirteenth ward, gave Hunt 112 and Schwab 96. In Schwab's own ward Hunt also defeated the mayor.

President Taft refused to say anything about the election in his home town.

George J. Karb (Dem.) has defeated Mayor George S. Marshall, reform Republican, for re-election in Columbus by a plurality of 6,000 on a total vote of 43,000.

Marshall lost thousands of votes as a result of his attitude during the street car strike a year ago. The vote is coming in slowly and Marshall may be beaten for second place by Alva C. Eby, a Socialist.

Newton D Baker (Dem.), the protege of the late Tom Johnson, has been elected mayor of Cleveland over Frank Hogen (Rep.).

Brand Whitlock, independent and novelist, has been elected mayor of Toledo for a fourth time, as has also Mayor A. Turnbull (Dem.) at Canton. The latter was pressed closely by Charles Shilling, the Socialist candidate.

FOSS IS RE-ELECTED

Governor Carries State of Massachusetts by a Plurality of 7,700.

Boston, Nov. 8.—Strenuous efforts on the part of the Republicans of this state failed to bowl Eugene N. Foss out of the governor's chair. He was re-elected by a plurality of 7,700 over Louis A. Frothingham, who has been lieutenant governor for the past three years.

To add to the chagrin of the Republican leaders who believed from the early returns that the whole ticket had been elected, there is every indication that David I. Walsh, the Democratic nominee, has been elected lieutenant governor over Robert Bruce.

CLOSE IN PHILADELPHIA

Blankenberg's Election For Mayor Is Claimed by Small Majority.

Philadelphia, Nov. 8.—Returns at present indicate the election of Rudolh Blankenberg for mayor of Philadelphia by a small majority, but the vote is so close that no definite result can be determined until all the wards can be heard from.

The Republican city committee claims only 5,000 for Earle, while the independent committee claimed 15,000 for Blankenberg. Speaking privately, several organization ward leaders conceded Earle's defeat.

BUFFALO GOES REPUBLICAN

Elect All City and County Candidates and Make Gains in Board of Aldermen and Supervisors.

Buffalo, Nov. 8.—Erie elected to assembly: First district, Charles C. Page (Rep.); Second, Clinton T. Horton (Rep.); Third, Harry J. Kahl (Rep.); Fourth, Edward D. Jackson (Dem.); Fifth, Hearn (Dem.); Sixth, James M. Rozan (Dem.); Seventh, S. H. Wende (Dem.); Eighth, Clarence MacGregor (Rep.); Ninth, Frank B. Thorn (Rep.).

The Republicans swept the city, electing all city and county candidates and making marked gains in the board of aldermen and supervisors. The chief fight was between Francis C. Ward, the present commissioner of public works, and Henry F. Jerge.

Although Ward, because of Republican defections was the lowest man on his ticket, he defeated his opponent by more than 4,000.

Henry P. Emerson was elected superintendent of public instruction by a plurality of more than 11,000.

Frederick Becker was elected sheriff and District Attorney Dudley was re-elected in the city alone by a plurality of more than 12,000.

GOVERNOR FOSS

Re-Elected Chief Executive of the Massachusetts Commonwealth.

SOCIALIST LANDSLIDE

Mayor of Schenectady and the Entire Ticket of That Party Elected.

Schenectady, N. Y., Nov. 8.—A Socialist landslide hit Schenectady and the Democratic and Republican parties were virtually buried. Dr George R. Lunn, Socialist candidate for mayor, is elected by a plurality of 2,052 and the entire Socialist ticket, with the exception of City Judge Marvin Strong (Rep.). The Socialists also elected 8 of the 13 aldermen, the Democrats electing 3 and the Republicans 2.

Herbert M. Merrill, Socialist candidate for member of assembly, is elected by a plurality of 1,092 over his Republican opponent, James W. Vesder, who received 4,696 votes while Simon J. Schermerhorn (Dem.) got 4,067.

Dr. Lunn's vote is 6,535, as against 4,683 cast for the next highest candidate, a Democrat. At the last election the Socialist vote in Schenectady was 2,240. The enormous increase of more than 4,000 does not, however, indicate an absolutely gain in the Socialist vote, for among Dr. Lunn's supporters were thousands of disgruntled Democrats and Republicans, as well as hundreds of dissatisfied workingmen.

Republican Victory In Rhode Island.

Providence, Nov. 8. — Indications point to a complete Republican victory in Rhode Island by pluralities considerably largely than a year ago. For the position of governor, the most closely contested on the state ticket, Governor Pothier has made net gains of several hundred over Lewis A. Waterman, his Democratic opponent, as compared with the figures a year ago.

The rest of the Republican ticket will be elected by pluralities running into the thousands.

Garfield Probably Defeated.

Painesville, O., Nov. 8.—Incomplete returns from Lake county indicate that James R. Garfield (Rep.) has been defeated by Fletcher D. Mallin (Dem.) as a delegate to the coming state constitutional convention. Garfield refused to pledge to vote for the initiative and referendum as a fundamental part of the new constitution.

Republicans Carry Nebraska.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 8.—The indications are that the Republicans have carried the state by a small majority. The returns are meager and it may be that the Democrats will elect one member of the supreme court.

Foley Elected Mayor of Olean.

Olean, Nov. 8. — Returns indicate election of Foley (Dem.) over Franchot (Rep.) for mayor of Olean by about 30 and of Dowd (Dem.) over Hastings (Rep.) for judge of Cattaraugus county by a large plurality.

Elmira Re-Elects Mayor Sheehan.

Elmira, Nov. 8. — The Democrats swept Elmira by from 700 to 2,500 plurality. Democratic State Committeeman Daniel Sheehan was re-elected mayor for the fourth time.

McCreary Governor of Kentucky.

Louisville, Nov. 8.—Early returns show that Senator McCreary (Dem.) has been elected governor at an estimated majority of 25,000.

Returns Indicate Gorman's Defeat.

Baltimore, Nov. 8. — Returns are coming in slowly, but indicate the defeat of Gorman, Democratic candidate for governor.

ENGAGEMENT WAS BROKEN.

Richeson First Told Minister He Was to Marry Miss Linnell.

SHOWED PASTOR DIAMOND RING

New Bedford Pastor to Whom Richeson Confided His Troubles Firmly Believes His Engagement Was Broken Before He Met Miss Edmands—Accused Man Pleased Over Action of Church In Refusing to Accept His Resignation.

Boston, Nov. 8.—From a fellow minister of the Baptist church came the information that Clarence V. T. Richeson told of his engagement to Avis Linnell of Hyannis, for whose murder he now stands indicted.

The Rev. E. C. Miller, pastor of the North Baptist church of New Bedford says that Richeson told him of the engagement several months ago and in August told him of the engagement had been broken.

"It was in this house that Richeson told me that he was engaged to Avis Linnell," said Mr. Miller, at his parsonage. "I have no desire to be brought into this thing. I want to be out of it. But he did tell me that he was engaged.

"He never said much about the girl, it is true, but he spoke of her as a young man who is engaged should speak of a girl. He said they were to be married in the fall.

"It was about the last of June he told me he had broken the engagement. It was a chance meeting in Boston. He did not have much to say about it, but I firmly believe that his engagement had been broken before he met Miss Violet Edmands. He was that kind of a fellow.

"When we met he remarked casually, in the course of our short conversation that he had broken the engagement. I looked at him and he said, 'It's a fact.'

"I murmured something about being surprised and he pulled out the engagement ring and held it up to me. 'There's the ring,' he said. It was a diamond ring and a nice one.

"If Richeson ever committed that deed, he is insane," declared Mr. Miller. "It is not in Richeson to murder."

Pastor Richeson received the news of his church's refusal to accept his resignation early today. The letter, drawn up by the finance committee at its meeting, containing the decision of the members upon the pastor's letter of resignation, was handed to him by a fall official, and as he scanned the lines his face lit up with a smile of satisfaction.

MORE TROUBLE FOR HAYTI

Former Consul General at Jamaica Will Try to Overthrow the Present Government.

Kingston, Jamaica, Nov. 8.—Tribonien St. Juste, formerly Haytian consul general here, has issued a manifesto in the local press, in which he declares himself the leader of the Liberal party in Hayti and expresses his determination to return to that country and overthrow the government of President Le Conte, whom he brands as a scoundrel.

News received here from Hayti was to the effect that everything was quiet in that republic. Several pardoned exiles, including the son of late President Simon, left here for Hayti.

To Introduce Adult Suffrage Bill.

London, Nov. 8.—Prime Minister Asquith announced in the house of commons that a bill dealing with adult suffrage would be introduced at the next session of parliament.

ASSEMBLY ELECTIONS

Watkins.—Schuyler county elects John W. Gurnett to assembly.

Andover.—Allegany county elected Ransom Richardson to the assembly.

Cortland.—Cortland county elects Charles F. Brown for the assembly.

Geneseo.—John C. Winters, Jr., is elected to the assembly from Livingston county.

Medina.—Orleans county elects Republican assemblyman and the whole Republican county ticket.

Ithaca. — Minor McDaniels, insurgent Democrat, is re-elected assemblyman from Tompkins county.

Watertown.—First assembly district elects Machold (Rep.); Second, Jones (Rep.), and Lewis county, Humphreys F. Slocum (Rep.).

Oswego.—Thaddeus C. Sweet (Rep.) was chosen member of assembly for a third term over J. C. Knight (Dem.). Republicans carry all county offices.

Penn Yan.—Very light vote in Yates county. Gillett (Rep.) elected to assembly, defeating Collen (Dem.), present member, by about 300 plurality.

Bideton. — George H. Whitney (Rep.) defeated William Martin (Dem.) for member of assembly. The Republicans gained in all the towns they lost when Martin was elected a year ago. The Democrats made large gains in the supervisors and may have a majority in the next board.

AUTOMOBILES KILL 88

Motor Car Accidents In New York Also Injure 855 Declares National Highways Protective Ass'n.

New York, Nov. 8.—According to statistics compiled by Colonel Edward S. Cornell, secretary of the National Highway Protective association, 88 persons have been killed and 855 injured in automobile accidents in the streets of New York city since the first of the year.

"Joy riders and night hawk cabmen are the most dangerous factors to life and limb in this city," Colonel Cornell said. "In 13 cases during October drivers of motor cars causing serious accidents fled. I have written to District Attorney Whitman requesting him to make an example of such offenders."

According to figures of the National Highway Protective association less than one-half of 1 per cent of the accidents in New York are caused by taxicabs.

DR. LAMBERT RESIGNS

Clergyman Who Performed Astor-Force Marriage to Go into Business.

Providence, Nov. 8. — Rev. Joseph Lambert, pastor of the Elmwood Temple Congregational church, has resigned his pastorate because of protests against his action in performing the Astor-Force marriage ceremony. The protests came largely from the other clergymen of the city.

Mr. Lambert withdraws from the ministry entirely, intending to enter business in this city. He leaves the church on Dec. 1.

Although the church has not yet accepted his resignation Rev. Lambert says it will have to. His formal announcement, couched in very brief terms, was read by the clerk at the church services Sunday morning. His retirement will be considered by the church as a whole at a meeting to be held a week from tomorrow night.

Will Sternly Repress Arabs.

Milan, Nov. 8.—The repression of Arab rebels in Tripoli will be sternet, according to General Frugoni, who is nominally under General Caneva, but who will probably take the chief command in that country.

General Frugoni, who is renowned for his firmness, expressed his determination to treat them as rebels and to punish them without "excessive scruples." Italy, the general says, will press the war in other quarters and will demand that Turkey pay the cost of the conquest of Tripoli.

Frenchmen Fight a Duel.

Paris, Nov. 8.—Charles LeBargy of the Comedie Francaise, former husband of Mme. Simone who is now playing in the United States and M. Malherb, a journalist, fought a duel here. Malherbe was pricked three times while LeBargy was scratched on the hand.

Drunken Man Shot Mayor.

Panama, Nov. 8.—The shooting of Emilio Clare, the mayor of Colon, on Sunday night was the result of an attempt of that official to arrest a drunken man who was celebrating Independence day. Mr. Clare is reported to be out of danger.

King Visits the Wounded.

Palermo, Nov. 8.—King Victor Emanuel paid a visit to the wounded soldiers who have been sent back from Tripoli at the military hospital here. His majesty was enthusiastically cheered as he drove through the streets.

MARRIED

The marriage of Miss Annabel Parker, daugher of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Parker, to Mr. Roy Hinckley, occurred in Elmira last week and was a great surprise to their many friends Mr. and Mrs. Hinckley will reside in Elmira.

The marriage of Miss Caroline Elizabeth Merry, daughter of Hon. and Mrs. A. D. Merry of Phoenix to Robert Withington Canfield of Corning, took place Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock at the Danforth Congregational church in Syracuse, Rev. E. A. E. Thistleton, pastor of the church officiating. The bride was gowned in white satin with a train embroidered with silver beads and she wore a veil held by a wreath of rosebuds. Mr. and Mrs. Canfield will reside in Corning.

The marriage has just been announced of Miss Harriet Parmalee and Mr. George Barnes, the ceremony having been solemnized in Canada early in the Spring but kept from the knowledge of even the closest friends until this week. Mr. and Mrs. Barnes will make their future home in Syracuse. On Thursday evening Mrs. B. C. Mitchell and the scholars in her dress cutting school, will entertain Mrs. Barnes at supper at Zion Episcopal Fair and will present her with a gift for her new home.

HAMER ELECTED CHAIRMAN

Oswego, Nov. 14.—At the reorganization of the Board of Supervisors this afternoon, Thomas W. Hamer of Boylston, Rep., was unanimously elected chairman to succeed F. E. Sweetland of this city. Mr. Hamer has been on the board six years. The nomination was made by M. J. Terry of Richland, which was seconded by W. J. Hartnett of Fulton and A. S. Barker of Orwell. Clerk W. J. Mahaney, also of this city, was re-elected by an unanimous vote.

Following the appointments the board decided to send the Highway Committee to the National Good Road Congress which is to be held in Rochester. The committee is composed of Supervisors W. W. Rounds, Oswego, chairman; James Ouderkirk, Granby, Z. D. Stanton, Amboy; T. D. Niles, Parish, and A. S. Barker, Orwell.

The board decided to have headquarters this year at the Nacy Hotel The chairman and clerk were authorized to purchase supplies.

W. C. T. U. CONVENTION

Delegate Mrs. Crockett Gives Interesting Account of Sessions—When will Fulton Extend Invitation to Band of Earnest workers to Hold Convention Here?

The following report of the State W. C. T. U. convention at Olean was given by Mrs. E. B. Crockett, a delegate from the local Union to the convention. It is filled with spirit and will give Times readers an idea of the volume of work accomplished by this interested band of workers in a noble cause—that of saving weak people from themselves and for others:

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of the State of New York held its thirty-eighth annual convention at Olean, N. Y., Oct. 6 to 10. The convention was called to order by the State President, Mrs. Ella Boole. Mrs. Frances Graham led the convention in singing "How firm a foundation, ye saints of the Lord."

Mrs. Hutchinson, State Superintendent of Evangelistic work, led in prayer and gave an impressive talk, she said: "In trying to select a portion of scripture for the opening message to this convention God has given me only one verse." "Let us show forth the praise of Him who has called us out of darkness into light."

After a short consecration meeting the second part of the program was taken up. The Crusade Psalm (14) read and the Crusade hymn sung, "Give to the wind thy fears."

The State secretary called the roll and nearly all the State officers were present. The presidents answered to their names with an appropriate quotation. Mrs. Barker for Oswego county using an oft repeated quotation of Frances Willard, "You cannot take all things in temperance but you can take temperance into all things." Many of the responses brought forth applause, possibly the most telling one was from Otsego county, "Take hold, hang on and hustle." Mrs. Boole said, we are having an unusual number of appropriate responses, I am sure no one can say a roll call at a State W. C. T. U. convention is a dry thing, even though we desire to make the State dry.

The reports of the various departments was then heard. Mrs. Walker, Superintendent of Medal contests, announced the gold star given for largest number of contests held was awarded to Mrs. M. D. Sill of Malone, Franklin county, they having given 32 contests. Mrs. Sill came to the platform and stated how they had accomplished it and the gold star was pinned to her dress amid hearty applause.

Friday evening was truly "Welcome Time" for the members of the convention. Mr. Foley, Mayor of Olean, said in part, "This is the first opportunity that has been given me as Mayor of this city to extend a greeting of welcome to the representatives of an organization supporting the cause of temperance, no doubt, intemperance in the use of intoxicating drinks is the cause of three-fourths of the proverty and crime of the world. Our only deliverance from the curse of intemperence is trough obedience to the pledge of total abstinence. I assure you that our people are pleased to see the large number of delegates that are assembled at this convention. The active interest that women are taking in the cause of temperance is sure to bring about the desired results, in fact the women are always for the best." Then followed an address from Mr. Taylor of the Chamber of Commerce, who said: "We have long anticipated your coming and like one of ancient times, I might say, 'Mine ears have heard and now mine eyes behold.' Olean feels justly proud that such a representative body of Christian women with such lofty purposes and ideals as high as Heaven's throne and as inclusive as the World's domain should even for a brief season pitch their tents within the borders of what we Oleanders believe to be the finest city in the great Empire State."

Prof. Slauson, Superintendent of Schools, said: "I am proud that I have the honor to greet you in behalf of more than three thousand school children, who make a city beautiful and home more than a place."

Mr. Ruff of the Presbyterian church said: "We pledge our co-operation until victory in Christ's name shall crown your work and ours."

Rev. Mark Kelley, of the Methodist Episcopal church, where the convention was held gave a humorous but forceful talk, "I am used to facing audiences but a new sensation comes to me as I look over this audience. I am puzzled, but I conclude it is caused by the sight of women's faces. I am used to seeing waving plumes and to taking it for granted that underneath are real women, here I find the real thing. I am glad of it." After listening to those stirring addresses of welcome and enjoying the many things done by the people of Olean for the entertainment of the delegates I am sure that all felt that so far Olean deserved the "Gold Star" for hospitality. I must not forget to state that the citizens of Olean came one afternoon with their automobiles and gave the entire delegation an auto ride; another afternoon the trolley company gave them a trip of six miles to their wonderful show place, Rock city.

Great advance was reported upon all lines of work. There are now 900 Unions in the State, making a new battle cry necessary, which was prepared by Mrs. Frances Graham:

New York, New York, 1911.
Thirty-two thousand, six hundred and seven.
Dry, dry, nation dry.
This is New York's battle cry.

Three counties, Herkimer, Tompkins and Yates, made a gain of 150 members or more, and were presented with life membership certificates. Nine counties reported a gain of 100 or more, the Presidents of these counties were presented with gavels made from wood grown from a seed taken from Churchill, the birth place of Frances Willard, each gavel was tied with a white ribbon. All unions gaining as many as 50 were given red ribbons and will have a free lecture by the State President. All Unions gaining 25 received blue ribbons. I wish I had time to tell you of the "subscription shower", when 1753 subscriptions were obtained to the State paper and the demonstration at the Opera house where each department of the temperance work was demonstrated so fully that many more sweet, white ribboners, feeling they had learned much that was new to them.

The Memorial service was solemn and impressive. Mrs. Boole spoke feelingly and announced that four white ribboners had heard the Master's "Well done, good and faithful servant." Mrs. Frances Graham sang, "There is a green hill far away," at the conclusion of which she stepped to another part of the platform and sang, "He died that we might be forgiven." I would like to quote from one of the Olean daily papers who had a reporter in constant atendance: "It is safe to say that no body of women ever met in convention more thoroughly equipped to transact the business in hand than are the women of the W. C. T. U. of the State of New York. Not a moment of time goes to waste, to quote an old saying that may be here appropriately used, 'There is a place for everything and everything is found in its place.' When a call is made on county or individual that call finds a prompt response, everyone seems to be a worker or has something of importance to offer regarding the work of her particular department."

To hold down the time set in the official program is one of the hardest of tasks that falls to the presiding officer, but Mrs. Boole accomplishes this with remarkable tact and success. The wheels of the machinery run easily. A New York State W. C. T. U. convention would be an excellent school for many of the "sterner sex" who think themselves adepts in convention work to attend; they would gain many valuable points about the conduct of a public gathering."

The convention will meet in 1912 at Canton. Each day of the convention a telegram came to the convention from the Chamber of Commerce at Canton urging them to accept their invitation. We hope in the near future that Fulton will feel that this body of noble women will do her good and will open her heart and home and consider it a great privilege to entertain the State W. C. T. U.

INTERESTING FIGURES SUBMITTED

An interested reader of the Times has furnished the following comparative figures on the result of the recent vote in the different wards of Fulton on the school propositions. The figures furnish food for reflection on the part of the electors on either side of the river who have the educational interests of the city at heart:

The majority on the east side of the river against the Oak street imary proposition was 96, out of a total vote of 542, while the majority against the same proposition on the west side was 253 out of a total vtee of only 349.

The majority on the east side of thhe river against the Oak street school proposition was 27 out of a total vote of 531, while the majority in the First ward alone was 46 against the Oak street proposition, out of a total vote of 174. The majority in favor of the Oak street proposition in the Fourth ward was 31 out of a total vote of 91.

The Second ward gave a majority of 40 in favor of the Oak street proposition out of a total vote of 136.

The west side cast 11 more votes on the Oak street proposition than on the Farley Seminary proposition and the east side cast 55 more votes on the Oak street than on the Farley Seminary proposition.

After examining these figures carefully we leave it to the readers to draw what conclusions they may please from them.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY SOCIETY

The following officers were elected at the business meeting of the 24th session of the W. H. M. S. held in Oswego last week:

President, Mrs. I. L. Hunt, Adams, N. Y.; First Vice President, Mrs. W. R. Fitch, Lowville, N. Y.; Second Vice President, Mrs. E. H. Joy, Oswego; Third Vice President, Mrs. H. D. Ferguson, Utica, N. Y.; Fourth Vice President, Mrs. D. F. Pierce, New Hartford, N. Y.; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. L. M. Danforth, Watertown, N. Y.; Treasurer, Mrs. J. C. Rossman, Mohawk, N. Y.; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Herbert J. Wilson, Fulton, N. Y.

BOYS ARRESTED ON SERIOUS CHARGES

The police of Oswego are inclined to the belief that they have in the arrest of three Oswego boys in Ogdensburg last week for burglary, the boys who held up the Station Agent in the Broadway depot in the early Spring and secured a sum of money and some tickets.

Among the boys arrested was Henry, son of Prof. W. G. Rappelye of the Oswego Normal school, who is thought not to be really right in his mind, in that he has repeatedly dabbled in law breaking.

PAINFUL HUNTING ACCIDENT

Sunday afternoon as Vincent Otis, aged 18, William and Ernest Ross and George Steuber, all residents of the west side and inexperienced in the use of fire arms, were on a hunting expedition at Minetto, the shot gun carried by William Ross was accidentally discharged and the charge entered the right thigh of young Otis, shattering it in a horrible manner. The companions were stunned by the accident but soon gathered themselves and rendered all the aid they could to their suffering companion, carrying him over a mile through the woods to a farm house from where they telephoned to Oswego for medical assistance. Otis begged for his family physician, Dr. Schlappi, who accompanied the ambulance from this city and conveyed the young man to the Lee hospital, 7 miles away from the scene of the accident, the ride being borne with determination by the boy.

Dr. Schlappi gives it as his opinion that the young man will recover although he may be lame for life from the accident. All of the young men who accompanied Otis are grief stricken at the unfortunate termination of their days outing in the woods.

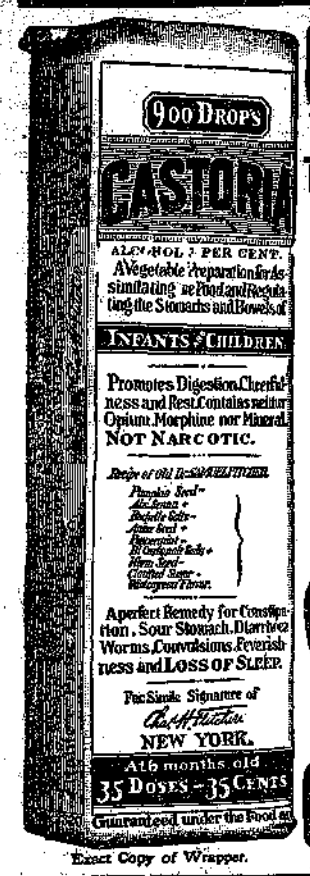
ELECTION EXPENSES FILED

Myron A. Stranahan, sheriff-elect, is the first of the county candidates to file his statement of election expenses with the county election commission. These show his expenditures to have been $150 paid to the Republican county committee. Mr. Stranahan spent $282.60 in his canvass for the nomination, making his total expenses $432.60.

J. E. Boland, mayor-elect, gives his expenses at $51.00 of which $50 was given to the campaign committees, $25 each to the Democrats and Republicans. Horse hire cost, $1.00.

H. E. Tyler, prohibition candidate for special county judge swears that he spent nothing.

The expenses of election of all candidates must be filde by Friday next, the county candidates with the election commission, city candidates with thhe city clerk and town candidates with the town clerks.



MEMORIAL TO ESTIMABLE WOMAN

Colonel John T. Mott and Mr. E. B. Mott of Oswego, and Mrs. Thomas Ward, of Rochester, last week presented the Auxiliary of Christ church, Oswego, with $2,000 as a memorial to their mother, Mrs. T. S. Mott, who was much interested and many years took an active part in thhe work of the Christ church branch. Rev. Mr. Gesner turned over to the ladies two $1,000 gold certificates and they will be placed in the bank. It is planned to leave the money in trust and use the interest, which will amount to about $80 a year, in their missionary work. Resolutions were adopted expressing the gratitude of the Auxiliary to the donors.

THE WEEK

Records of both bank clearings and railroad earnings reflect the recent conservative expansion in trade activity due to more spirited buying to replenish stocks that became depleted through long hesitancy. Bank exchanges this week increased 11.3 per cent. outside New York and 7.5 per cent. in New York ,and railroad earnings gained 3.0 per cent. during October.

In the dry goods trade, while there is little disposition to buy largely in the future, there is a continued satisfactory business in the supply of current requirements, and there is a notable increase of activity in print cloths. Larger sales occur in woolens and worsteds than last year, and advices from the leading cities indicate a generally improved textile situation. The seasonable weather and the approach of the holidays impart a brisker appearance to retail trade. Leather is less active, but there have been heavy sales of hides, with prices firm.

The situation both in Europe and in the United States only needs that strengthening of confidence which opens great stores of capital to big undertakings to bring about a notable advance movement. The timidity born of uncertainty has been the chief underlying cause of the retarded business enterprise. Every development that removes one of the causes of uncertainty therefore makes for increased activity.

Moderate orders for cotton goods are coming forward daily, but hesitancy is noted in the placing of any substantial advance business.

Exports of domestics are substantially ahead of a year ago for the corresponding period of the year. Jobbers are doing a moderate trade. A much better business is being offered in woolens and worsteds and advance orders exceed a year ago. Yarn orders are small and users are not anticipating more than a few weeks ahead.

Business in footwear is fairly satisfactory and improvement is noted as the season advances. A fair amount of business is still being done in leather, but trade continues less active than a few weeks ago. Some buyers previously covered their requirements ahead, and those who did not, continue to operate in a limited way. The pronounced strength of the market is the chief factor.

Liabilities of commercial failures thus far reported for November amount to $3,377,631, of which $738,162 are in manufacturing, $1,556,594 in trading and $1,082,875 in other commercial lines. Failures this week numbered 248 in the United States, against 207 last year, and 29 in Canada compared with 24 a year ago.

SECRET SOCIETIES

The Earliest Ones Had Strenuous Initiation Rites.

SEVERE TESTS OF COURAGE.

The Egyptians Subjected Candidates to a Threefold Trial by Fire, by Water and by Air—The Order of Assassins and Their Sham Paradise.

Among primitive communities in which might is right and the tyranny of superstition is absolute minorities have always been treated with scant consideration, and overt dissent from the opinions of the majority had a tendency to militate against the survival of the dissenter. Liberty of thought and action, qualified only by the rights of others, is a comparatively late growth. But thought dies hard and when denied open expression lives in secret imparted to a few chosen associates until the times are ripe for it to be divulged. Thus a few thinkers and their disciples would band themselves together into a secret society, and the instinct of self preservation would cause them to guard against their secret being revealed to the uninitiated.

The earliest secret societies were religious rather than political. In the mysteries of Persia, India and Egypt an inner ring of priests formed an exclusive association whose members gradually became the repositories of the bulk of the learning of the community. Severe tests of courage and nerve were imposed upon all aspirants for admission to the order. Among the Egyptians the neophyte was taken down a deep shaft in one of the pyramids and subjected to a threefold trial by fire, by water and by air.

He had to walk across a grating of redhot iron bars, with narrow interstices whereon he might tread in safety, to swim a wide and dark channel communicating with the Nile and to hang suspended by two iron rings over an abyss in the blast of two swiftly revolving wheels. Even then he had to undergo prolonged fasting and silence and to take an oath of secrecy ere his initiation was complete. A secret brotherhood of nobles, partly religious and partly political, which aimed at the concentration of knowledge and power in the hands of its members, was established by Pythagoras at Crotona, in the south of Italy. For a time it succeeded in gaining the supreme direction of affairs, but after the Sybarites had succumbed to the Spartan discipline of the order it was suppressed by a rising of the discontented.

During the middle ages the unsettled and lawless condition of many countries engendered by the weakness or the absence of their nominal rulers was especially favorable to the growth of secret societies. Toward the close of the eleventh century Hasan-ben-Sabah, a Mohammedan fanatic who had been a fellow student with Omar Khayyam at Naishapur, seized the castle of Alamut and founded the sect of the assassins. It is still a moot point whether the word which their evil deeds have given a permanent place in the languages of Europe as a synonym for murderers be derived from the founder's name or from the hemp opiate hashish wherewith they were wont to fuddle their brains to a pitch of sudden frenzy. The Venetian traveler Marco Polo tells of an ingenious plan adopted by their chieftain to insure the unquestioning devotion of his dupes. This was no less than the creation of a sham paradise with luxurious gardens, rivers of honey and wine and houris, all complete. Thither the man selected for any dangerous exploit was transported in a state of intoxication and on his return was told that he had been given a foretaste of his life after death.

The terror of their name soon spread through Europe. No potentate was safe from the vengeance of a sect which regarded death in the execution of their lord's decrees as the gate of paradise. King Philip Augustus of France, contemporary and foe of Richard Coeur de Lion, having incurred their enmity, was so afraid of them that he dared not stir abroad without his guards around him, and perhaps his fear appeased the ruthless sheik, for their plans rarely miscarried. The order was ultimately crushed in 1256 by an irruption of Mongols under Hulaku Khan.

In Germany the violence and anarchy that prevailed after the outlawry of Henry the Lion, when every petty baron tyrannized without let or hindrance over all whom his power could reach, led to the institution of a very different secret society, whose functions were purely judicial. The "vehmgericht" was an attempt to check the license of the feudal lords and to secure the due chastisement of crime. It was the proud boast of this court that it judged in secret and punished in secret. Every member was sworn to reveal all crimes that came to his notice, even if committed by those nearest and dearest to him; hence it became a maxim of the jurists of the time, "Non frater a fratre, non hospes ab hospite, tutus." The sentence of the court involved outlawry, degradation and death; the condemned was declared "vehmbar" and was relentlessly pursued by at least 100,000 daggers.—London Globe.

Soured.

"I'm just crazy to play golf," said the enthusiastic summer girl.

"Most people are," muttered the mere man who had no ambition even partly to fill the presidential chair.—Chicago News.

CIVIL WAR ECHOES

From Scrap Book.

The following young lady was loyal, but likewise honest enough to tell Lincoln the truth.—S. D. Gardner.

"During the war between the states Miss N., a high spirited Virginia young lady, whose father, a Confederate soldier, had been taken prisoner by the Union forces, was desirous of obtaining a pass which would enable her to visit him. F. P. Blair agreed to obtain an audience with the president, but warned his young and rather impulsive friend to be prudent and not betray her sympathy for the south. They were ushered into the presence of Mr. Lincoln, and the object for which they had come was stated. The tall, grave man bent down to the little maiden and, looking searchingly into her face, said:

"You are loyal, of course?"

Her bright eyes flashed. She hesitated a moment and then, with a face eloquent with emotion and honest as his own, she replied:

"Yes, loyal to the heart's core — to Virginia!"

Mr. Lincoln kept his intent gaze upon her for a moment longer and then went to his desk, wrote a line or two and handed her the paper. With a bow the interview terminated. When they had left the room Mr. Blair began to upbraid his young friend for her impetuosity.

"Now you have done it," he said. "Didn't I warn you to be very careful? you have only yourself to blame".

Miss N. made no reply, but opened the paper. It cantained these words:

Pass Miss N. She is an honest girl and can be trusted.—A. Lincoln."

MOTION PICTURES AID RED CROSS SEALS

Interesting Drama Tells Realistic Story of City Life—Ready December 5th.

Motion pictures will again be used in the Red Cross Seal Anti-Tuberculosis Campaign. A picture prepared by Thomas A. Edison, Inc., entitled "The Awakening of John Bond," will be ready for exhibition about December 5th, according to an announcement made by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

The film is the fifth health film, and the second dealing with tuberculosis and the Red Cross Seal movement which has been issued by Edison. It is about 1,000 feet long, and tells an interesting story of everyday life in New York city.

The leading characters in the story are Bond, a political boss, his wife, Grace and Nellie O'Brien, aged 18, living on the lower East side of New York. The O'Briens, a large family, live in a miserably kept tenement owned by Bond, who refuses to do anything to clean up his building for fear of losing money. Bond is married and sails with his wife on a cruise for a wedding trip, taking with him as a deckhand, George O'Brien, Nellie's brother, who has consumption. On the cruise George fails rapidly and finally dies; Bond's wife having nursed him during his sickness and being with him at the last takes his death bed messages. As a result of this close communication with George, Mrs. Bond contracts tuberculosis from him and is brought back to New York for treatment. On her arrival home, she sends for Nellie to give her George's dying messages, and there Nellie sees and denounces Bond as the murderer of her brother, because he refused to clean up the tenement in which they lived, or to help secure a hospital where consumptives might receive free treatment.

Meanwhile, Bond has been trying to find a sanatorium where he may place his wife, but to his horror, finds every private sanatorium full, and no room for more patients. He then proceeds to the Tuberculosis Society and finds that there is no public place, because he voted against it. He tries to bribe the secretary to make a place for his wife, but the official takes his money and gives him a package of Red Cross Seals. Bond is at first angry, but when he learns what the Red Cross Seal means, he writes out a check for $150,000 for the campaign and agrees to support the hospital bill. The secretary then shows Bond a tuberculosis exhibit and an open air school, and arranges for the placing of his wife and the O'Brien children, who also have tuberculosis, in a sanatorium. The last scene shows Bond's wife and the O'Brien children recovered, playing in Bonds' parlor, and a committee waiting on Bond, showing how his candidate is being supported because he believes in the tuberculosis hospital.

The film will be shown in thousands of moving picture theatres during December, and will be used by tuberculosis societies all the year round. The picture is produced under the supervision of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis and the New York Committee on the Prevention of Tuberculosis.

President Paddock of the local Board, has ordered 25,000 seals to be placed on sale in this city within a fortnight. They will be distributed among the merchants on either side of the river who signify awillingness to handle them. The names of such merchants will be published in the Times as soon as arrangements are perfected.

SAVED CHILD FROM DEATH

"After our child had suffered from severe bronchial trouble for a year," wrote G. T. Richardson, of Richardson's Mills, Ala., "we feared it had consumption. It had a bad cough all the time. We tried many remedies without avail, and doctor's medicine seemed as useless. Finally we tried Dr. King's New Discovery, and are pleased to say that one bottle effected a complete cure, and our child is again strong and healthy." For coughs, colds, hoarseness, la-grippe, asthma, croup and sore lungs, its the most infallible remedy that's made. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by the Red Cross Pharmacy.

GOVERNORS THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

"It is meet and right that we render to Almighty God our grateful acknowledgments for the abundance which has been vouchsafed to us during the year just passed. The fruit of the tree and the increase of the field have rewarded the husbandman; progressive industry in art and science has given occupation and reward to labor. Advancing knowledge, and the enjoyment of enlightened citizenship and freedom from plague, pestilence and famine have crowned the year with goodness, imposing on us no other conditions than of improving for our own happiness the blessings of a benign providence.

"Let us, bound by an honest yet humble desire, lift our hearts and voices in praise and thanksgiving in our homes or in the churches of our faith and be not unmindful of our neighbor that together we may promote freedom, liberty and happiness.

"Now, therefore, I, John A. Dix, Governor of the State of New York, by virtue of the authority vested in me by law and in accordance with the honored custom, do hereby appoint Thursday, the 30th day of November, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand and Nine Hundred and Eleven, as a day of general thanksgiving."—Albany, N. Y., Nov. 8, 1911.

There is little danger from a cold or from an attack of the grip except when followed by pneumonia, and this never happens when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. This remedy has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of colds and grip and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. For sale by all dealers.

Official City Paper

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1911.

Modern Legislative Methods

About twenty-two of the forty-six States elected Governors for four years, while New Jersey's term is for three years. The electors of Rhode Island have wisely decided to do away with an annual election for State officers and have adopted a two-year term, although the Legislature will continue to set annually. The same rule has been adopted in the State of South Carolina and Georgia. The practice of electing a complete State ticket each year is continued for the present in Massachusetts, although little excuse can be found for her clinging to the obsolete practice. Modern legislative methods are against prolonged and frequent sessions, as they are considered cumbersome and unnecessary. Forty of the forty-six States which have abandoned annual sessions are satisfied with the reduction thus effected. The great Empire State of the Union cannot too soon revise its political calendar and abandon annual sessions.

"Figs from Thistles"

The phenomenal vote cast in this city last week for Mr. Edward Rogers, an avowed socialist, has been a subject for profound consideration by the leaders of both political parties in this county. Mr. Rogers is a citizen of unimpeachable integrity and is deservedly popular, but he stands for the principle of socialism, which is unquestionably gaining in strength, wherever its doctrines are promulgated. Sixty cities have been captured by the socialists during the last municipal campaign, with a total vote of about 2,000,000. The noteworthy feature of the situation is that socialism has not made its progress in the great centers of population, but in the smaller cities and towns. The capture of Schenectady last week, with its 80,000 population— electing a Mayor (the Rev. Dr. George R. Lunn) and eight out of thirteen councilmen, was a most noteworthy event in their annuals.

The cause for the preference shown Mr. Rogers over the Democratic-Republican nominee for Mayor, aside from his popularity, was the anomalous condition of both political parties in this city, which made the presentation of a non-partisan ticket a feature. Time was when the aspirants to office in both parties pursued such activities as to keep the arteries from hardening. The brilliancy, versatility, wit, humor and eloquence of the adherents, kept alive party principle and was productive of regularity. A new theory has been evolved and political activity diminished.

Is not the precedent established by the last municipal campaign a dangerous one? Is not party principle involved in such contests?

Critical and dangerous situations should be averted, for they cannot fail to be of positive injury to the Republican party. The trend of public opinion should be gathered for great aggregations of wealth on the one side and agitation and unrest on the other are creating most critical periods which call for patience, for judicial fairness and for those rare and indefinable qualities that command the confidence of the people.

NEW CARDINALS FOR THE UNITED STATES

The announcement comes from Rome that three new Cardinals are to be given the United States at a consistory on November 30th, the honored prelates being Archbishop Farley of New York, Archbishop O'Connell of Boston and Mgr. Falconio, Papal Delegate to the United States. This country at present has only one Cardinal—Gibbons of aBltimore. It is estimated that there are 18,000,000 Catholics in the United States.

The Tibetans.

The Tibetans are not beautiful. How could they be when by their own confession the national ancestry runs back to the king of the monkeys and a bobgoblin? Bonvalot says of them, "The very bears are better looking." The type is midway between the Eskimo and the Chinese. Broad, flat noses, without visible bridge; no eyebrows, wide mouths, full lips, oily skins, hair as coarse and straight as horsehair and short, square, ungainly figures—these are the elements of the unpleasing picture.

LEGAL NOTICES

SUPREME COURT, Oswego County.

Patrick H. Ward, Plaintiff, vs. John Harding, Helen Petengail, Carrie Green and Ellen E. Ward, Defendants.

In pursuance of a judgment in the above entitled action of partition, entered in the office of the clerk of the County of Oswego on the 4th day of October, 1911, I, the undersigned referee in and by said judgment for that purpose appointed, will sell at Public Auction at the Law Offices of William S. Hillick, at number 59 South First street on the East side in the City of Fulton, County of Oswego, New York, on the sixteenth day of November, 1911, at two o'clock in the afternoon, the lands and premises directed to be sold therein and described as follows:

ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Town of Palermo, County of Oswego and State of New York, and known as part of lot number 108 of the 15th Township of Scriba's Patent and bounded as follows: Beginning at the Northwest corner, thence Easterly along the North line of land owned by Samuel Baldwin; thence Southerly along said Baldwin's line ten chains and ten links; thence Westerly, parallel to the north line, to the west line of said lot; thence Northerly along said line to the place of beginning. Excepting a triangular piece taken from the Northwest corner and known as the Phelps piece and supposed to contain about three-fourths of an acre. Being about forty acres.

Also, ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Town of Palermo, County of Oswego and State of New York, and being part of lot number one hundred eight (108) of the 15th Township of Scriba's Patent, is bounded as follows: Being all that portion of said lot lying North of the highway leading from Morse's Corners to Mexico and containing three-fourths of an acre of land more or less.

POSTAL SAVINGS BONDS

Information Concerning Postal Savings Bonds to Be Issued January 1, 1912

Depositors of the Postal Savings System may exchange the whole or a part of their deposits on January 1, 1912, for United States registered or coupon bonds in denominations of $20, $100, and $500, bearing interest at the rate of 2 1-2 per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually, and redeemable at the pleasure of the United States after one year from the date of issue; both principal and interest payable 20 years from that date in United States gold coin.

Postal savings bonds are exempt from all taxes or duties of the United States, as well as from taxation in any form by or under State, municipal or local authority.

Applications for the conversion of deposits into bonds on January 1, 1912, must be received before December 15, 1911, by the postmaster at the depository office where the certificates were issued. The postmaster will supply an application form which must be made out in triplicate. The depositor must indorse and surrender with his application postal savings certificates covering the amount of the bonds desired, for which the postmaster will give him a receipt. When the postmaster receives the bonds applied for he will notify the depositor and will deliver the bonds on presentation of the receipt for the certificates surrendered.

The conversion of deposits into bonds at a date less than one year after the certificates began to bear interest forfeits interest on the deposits as in the case of withdrawal for any other purpose.

Postal savings deposits converted into bonds are not counted as a part of the maximum of $500 allowed one depositor, and there is no limitation on the amount of available postal savings bonds which may be acquired finally by a depositor. The exchange is considered as taking effect on January 1, and a depositor who has applied to convert into bonds all or part of the maximum balance of $500 may deposit an additional amount in January, though the bonds may not yet have been delivered.

Postal savings bonds can be procured only by the conversion of postal savings deposits and will not be issued to persons who are not depositors. They may be sold or assigned to any person, however, by the holder, and when a registered bond is assigned a new bond will be issued in the name of the owner.

The depositor's application must indicate whether bonds are desired in registered or coupon form. Coupon bonds are preferable for a depositor who intends to hold them for a short time only and who has ample facilities for their safekeeping. These bonds are payable to bearer, and the title will pass by delivery without indorsement. Interest on coupon bonds is collected by means of interest coupons ,which are detached by the holder as they become due.

Registered bonds are preferable for persons intending to hold them for a considerable period, and they differ from coupon bonds in the following respects:

(a) They have inscribed upon their face the names of the persons to whom they are issued.

(b) They are payable only to the persons to whom issued or their assigns.

(c) The ownership of registered bonds can be transferred only by assignment in proper form.

Registered bonds are assigned by the use of a form printed on the back, properly dated and acknowledged. When the assignment is made by mark, it must be witnessed by at least one person other than the officer before whom it is made. A ledger account is opened in the Treasury Department at Washington with each holder of one or more registered bonds, and when such bonds are assigned they should be transmitted by the new owner to the Secretary of the Treasury (Division of Loans and Currency) for transfer on the books of the department. Registered bonds can not be exchanged for coupon bonds. Coupon bonds many be converted into registered bonds, without charge ,at the request of the holder.

Under the regulations of the Treasury Department a minor can not assign registered bonds without the consent of a duly appointed guardian or trustee ,evidence of whose authority must be submitted. A minor has the right to convert his postal savings certificates into registered bonds, but if he should desire to assign the bonds during his minority he must comply with this regulation. This difficulty does not exist in the case of coupon bonds, which are transferred by mere delivery.

Interest on registered bonds is paid by checks drawn at the Treasury Department in favor of the registered holder. These checks are sent by mail to the post office address of the holder, and the holder of a registered bond should notify the Secretary of the Treasury (Division of Loans and Currency) of any change in his postoffice address at least 15 days before the interest falls due. Checks for interest on registered bonds, as well as interest coupons detached from coupon bonds, are payable on presentation at the United States Treasury or at the office of any assistant treasurer of the United States. Interest checks and coupons covering interest on postal savings bonds may be cashed by postmasters under the same conditions as other Government paper.

Payment on registered bonds that have been lost or stolen may be stopped by notifying the Secretary of the Treasury (Division of Loans and Currency) at Washington. If coupon bonds are lost the Government does not undertake to protect the owner against the wrongful holder, but recognizes the bearer only. The owner has recourse only to such means as he could use to recover any other valuable property. When bonds, either registered or coupon, have been destroyed wholly or in part, or defaced, a claim may be filed with the Secretary of the Treasury under certain prescribed conditions for their replacement. Such claims will not be allowed for coupons which have been detached from coupon bonds.

United States bonds are issued, transferred, and redeemed under such regulations as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe. Requests by holders for additional information after the delivery of the bonds should be addressed to the Secretary of the Treasury (Division of Loans and Currency), Washington, D. C.

Beware oof Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescription from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney, & Co. Testimonials free.

ONE HONEST MAN

There is at least one resident of Binghamton whose conscience feels easier than it did and the coffers of the Syracuse, Lake Shore & Northern Railroad company are enriched by twenty cents as the result.

The following letter received the other day by H. J. Clark, the General Traffic Manager of the Lake Shore road is self explanatory:

"Dear Sirs of the Longbranch Electric Railroad: About three years ago two of us came up from Longbranch on one of your cars and did not pay our fair inclosed please find 50 cents in stamps to pay for same, I do not remember how much the fair was but do not think it was more than that.

Yours truly,

It is not often that the writers of "conscience money" letters really sign their own names but this man did. Inasmuch as the "fair" the writer should have paid was but twenty cents, the extra thirty cents in stamps was returned to him with a hearty letter of thanks, his action being so exceedingly unusual.

YEGGMEN SERVE "SOUP."

Its Queer Recipe Is in Possession of the Secret Service.

Here is a recipe for soup served only after nightfall, preferably in the early morning hours.

"First take about ten or a dozen impwri hz xug, crumble it up fine and put it in a pan or washbowl, then pour over it enough uswhobs (either chbx or iaky) to cover it well. Stir it up with your hands, being careful to break all the lumps; leave it set a few minutes; then get a few yards of cheesecloth and tear it in pieces and strain the mixture through the cloth into another vessel, wring the sawdust dry and throw it away. The remains will be the lbal ngx uswhobs mixed. Next take the same amount of water as you used of uswhobs and pour it in; leave the whole set for a few minutes."

This is the "soup" employed by yeggmen, and a single portion of it is guaranteed to open the door of the stoutest safe, provided an aperture can be made sufficiently large to pour in the stuff. The names of the ingredients are written in a crude sort of cipher commonly used for preserving such secrets. This and dozens more of the same transparency of meaning are in the possession of the United States secret service men, the police, detective agencies and others who deal with the cooks of such dishes. By a substitution of letter for letter—the first six for the last six of the alphabet, the second six for the third six, with G and N taken out of turn and made interchangeable—the cipher is easily read. "Impwri hz xug," translated, is "sticks of dan" (short for dynamite). "Uswhobs, either chbx or iaky"—alcohol, either wood or pure—may be used.

The directions for serving this soup require considerable attention and the best of trained service. After the "gay cat," or advance agent of the band, has learned all that can be found out about the bank, store or postoffice, its lighting, protection and the means of escape by freight train, vehicle or on foot, his companion or companions come on, avoiding notice as far as possible. "Stickups," or lookouts, guard the place while the "inside men" break into the safe. Sealing the cracks about the safe or vault door with soap, the yeggmen pour in the soup through a small hole left open at the top. The liquid flows down by locks, hinges and bolts and is set off by fuse or detonator. Blankets and covers of any kind are used to muffle the sound of the explosion and the fall of the door. Perhaps the "stickups" are forced to create a diversion outside and to frighten the citizens or mislead them while the "inside men" pick out the valuable papers escape. Who pays the check for the soup then depends upon the ingenuity of detectives.—New York Post

The Diamond.

The diamond is pure carbon or charcoal, but the secret processes by which nature rearranges the atoms of the black, lusterless charcoal into the flashing diamond is a mystery that the chemists, stimulated by the certainty of great gains provided they were successful in finding the solution, have never been able to discover. Nor is it certainly known from what department nature takes the diamond making material. It is supposed to be furnished by vegetable charcoal which undergoes a peculiar process of decomposition and crystallization, but it has also been conjectured that the carbonic acid, shut up from remote periods in the calcareous rocks, may have solidified in this peculiar form.

Thackeray and the Tip.

Thackeray often revisited his old school, always with a well filled pocket, which was quickly emptied. Lewis Melville writes that an old Carthusian who once accompanied him has related how Thackeray tipped the first lad he met with a sovereign, proceeded to empty purse and pocket in dips for other boys and, his resources temporarily exhausted, borrowed every coin his companion had about him and distributed these, too, with the result that, not having the cab fare left, the two 'old boys' had to walk home."—London Graphic.

The Rolling Pin Followed.

"William," said Mrs. Peckem sternly, "did you ever stop to think that some one might steal me when you are away?"

"Well," responded the poor husband, with a faraway look. "I was a little alarmed when a horse thief was prowling through these parts last week."

Mrs. Peckem stiffened up haughtily. "A horse thief, eh?"

"Yes. I heard that he carried off two or three nags from this district." And then Peckem made a bee line for the door.

There are some surnames which jar on the susceptibilities of purists. A story is told of an Oxford don who after hearing the viva voce of an undergraduate named Littler thus addressed him: "Mr. Littler, your Greek prose is disgusting, your Latin prose is disgusting, your translation is disgusting and your name is ungrammatical."—London Tit-Bits.

Conductor Courtesy.

"Conductor," called the woman who sat near the rear door, "let me out at the next corner."

But the conductor forgot.

"Hey!" shouted the woman as the car sped along for two blocks. "Didn't I tell you to let me off at the next corner?"

"Yes'm," answered the polite official, "but this here ain't the next corner. It's this one."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

There are lots of ranges built to sell rather than to use. You can't tell them apart by looking at them either. Why not let me show you the new Model "R" Sterling? I wouldn't lie to you about it, but even so, you don't have to take my word for it's being a big, powerful range,—the "most range" for the money. You can measure it, and compare the measurements with any other. That will tell.

DEATHS

Last week word was received in this city of the sudden death at his home in Fowler, Cal., of W. B. Lane, who a fey years ago married Julia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Cole of this city, now of California.

Miss Marion A Conde of Oswego, died on Friday at the home of Frank Ormsby, No. 46 West Cayuga street after an illness of three months. Miss Conde was born in Central Square on February 19th, 1845, but removed to Oswego when a child and has lived there since. She is survived by one brother, Frederick, of Oswego.

William Rice, aged 82, for many years a lock tender in this section, died at his home on the west side on Wednesday. The funeral was held from the late home on Sunday afternoon, Post Schneck, G. A. R., attending in a body. The immediate survivors are the widow, one son, Asa, and two daughters, Mrs. Lillian Hardwick and Mrs. Martha Nichols.

Paralysis caused the death of Mrs. Anna Perry, formerly Miss Bartlette of Mt Pleasant, at East Syracuse on Wednesday. The body was brought to the home of a daughter, Mrs. Mabel LaPoint, in this city from where the funeral services were held on Friday. Burial in Mt. Adnah. The survivors are the daughter, and two sons.

On Saturday, Nov. 11, occurred the death of William L. Foster at his home on Main street, North Canandaigua, N. Y. All his family were with him during his sickness of only one week, the cause of his death being pneumonia. He married Anna E. Gasper in 1871. His sudden death was a shock to all his friends. The funeral was held on Tuesday, Nov. 14, at 2:30 . He is survived by his widow, a son and a daughter.

Sunday in the Masonic Home, Utica, occurred the death of Charles B. Wood, aged 73 ,a former well known resident of this city but for the past two months an inmate of the Home in Utica. The deceased was a member of Hiram Lodge, F.& A. M., and of the First Methodist church. The body was brought to this city and the funeral services were held today from the Case Mortuary Chapel. The widow, one daughter and one son survive.

The death of Mathew Frawley, aged 85, a native of Ireland but for nearly his whole life a resident of Granby, deid at his home on Wednesday afternoon. The funeral services were held from the Catholic church on Friday morning and burial was made in St. Mary's. He is survived by four sons, Patrick Frawley and John Frawley of this city, Daniel Frawley of Syracuse and Michael Frawley of Palermo, and four daughters, Mrs. Bridget Scanlon of Granby, Mrs. Catherine Murphy of Buffalo, Mrs. Mary Nailor of Waterloo and Miss Margaret Frawley of Fulton.

The community was shocked on Friday morning to learn of the death during the night at his home inThird street of William Patrick Coleman, aged 49, one of the proprietors of the Columbia Market in First street. The deceased had been confined to his home for a week but was thought to be convalescing, when his heart became suddenly weakened ,and despite all that experienced nursing and skillful medical attendants could do, he passed away, leaving a widow and five little children, together with his father, brothers and a sister, to mourn his loss.Perhaps there was no better known or better liked resident of this city than the deceased,who had resided here throughout his life, and genuine regret was freely expressed at his untimely demise. Five years ago the deceased decided to embark in business for himself and he became associated with Mr. Elmer E. Taylor in the meat business. Of him the remaining partner has nothing but words of highest praise ,stating that a squarer man never lived. In this sentiment there is hearty endorsement of all who knew him. The funeral services were held on Monday morning from the late home and from the Catholic church, the Rev. J. L. Lindsman officiating. The beautiful flowers and the large audience that assembled to pay a last respect to the departed evidenced the regard in which he was held. The Knights of Columbus, of which order he was a member, sent a large delegation to accompany the remains to their last resting place in St. Mary's. To the young widow and her little ones and to the other members of the afflicted family deep sympathy is extended.

Last weeks Times gave a brief notice of the passing away of a former Fultonian, Martin B. Schenck, at his home in Meriden, Ct., at the age of 74. A twin brother, Marcus P. Schenck, still lives and enjoys good health at his home in Springfield, Mass. The deceased over a year ago underwent a severe operation for kidney trouble and death was the result of a recurrence of the trouble. The deceased was one of the most highly respected residents of Meriden, having served on the Board of Taxation and Apportionment; town school committee and on the Common Council. His widow, his second wife, whom he married in Phoenix a year ago, a son, William a daughter, Mrs. Louis H. Perkins; his twin brother, Marcus, and two sisters, Miss Alice Schenck of this city, and Mrs. Levi Brackett of Hannibal, with a large number of relatives and friends, survive.

The body was brought to this city for burial in Mt. Adnah. Services were held on Wednesday from the home of Mr. J. A. Morrill in this city.

Of the deceased the Meriden Daily Journal says in part:

"Martin B. Schenck was born April 29, 1838, in Fulton. He was brought up on his father's farm, educated in the common schools and in Falley seminary.

In the years following he taught school, learned the builder's trade, served from 1862 to 1865 in the 147 regiment, N. Y. Vols., in the war of the rebellion and from 1865 to 1881 was engaged in mercantile pursuits. He went to New Haven, Conn., in 1882 but five years later his factory was burned out and he went to Meriden.

In creed he was a Methodist; in politics a Republican, from the brith of the party. He was a devoted member of Merriam post, No. 8, G. A. R., and a manufacturer .

He was an active "Wide Awake" in the campaign of 1860, cast his first presidential vote that year for Lincoln and again four year later, sending his ballot home from the army in an envelope.

His experiences the last fifty years have been exceedingly varied, interesting and instructive. He was a lover of choice literature and traveled extensively in his own country and abroad.

His pleasant home on Broad street, surrounded by well-kept grounds, is one of the most desirable locations in the city. It stands at an elevation of 135 feet above the business portion of the city, away from the throb and whirl of its many great industrie and commands a view of city, park and mountain range rarely equaled in thhe many beautiful, busy cities of Connecticut.

Mr. Schenck was, on his father's side of pure old New York Knickerbocker Dutch blood, and belonged to the ninth generation in his country.

The inception of the M. B. Schenck Company was in 1881 when the present president of the company began the manufacture of a line of double wheel casters of his own invention, suitable in their sizes and var- For nearly twenty-five years they have been known the world over as the Yale castor.

The fifteen years intervening between the close of the war and the above date were devoted by Mr. Schenck to the hardware trade in Fulton, N. Y., his native town.

This had not only qualified him as a merchant but had given him a practical knowledge of the requirements of the trade which later on has proven an exceedingly valuable asset.

While fairly successful in his business, it was limited by existing conditions, and could not be enlarged to cover the broader field to which his laudable ambition aspired.

With his invention as a nucleus, he sold out his business and came to New Haven in 1882, to learn the new and untried life of a manufacturer.

At the end of a five years' struggle , with inexperience, insufficient active capital, patent lawsuits and discouragements almost overwhelming and just as the tide was turning in his favor a destructive fire swept away a very important part of his business.

Inducements, seemingly promising, brought him to Meriden in 1887. In 1891, in company with his son, W. A. Schenck, they bought the Beecher Mfg. Co. plant which has since been brought to a high state of perfection.

The plant extends 600 feet along the main line of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., which affords excellent advantages for a manufacturing business.

In 1897, it was incorporated with M. B. Schenck as president. W. A. Schenck as secretary, treasurer and general superintendent.

Five distinct and exceedingly popular lines of castors, all the product of Mr. Schenck's inventive talent,are now made and the business has grown to large proportions

UNAVOIDABLY DELAYED

The story on the county and city officials elected last week, together with some interesting comments on the causes and the results, has been unavoidably delayed this week but will be published next week.

AFTER-ELECTION EXCITEMENT

The failure of Third Ward Republicans to select a committee empowered to fill vacancies, may cause Alderman-elect F. W. Youngs, who was elected on a fusion Prohibition and Republican ticket to lose his seat in the Common Council. Mr. Youngs was nominated by the Prohibitionists and when Mr. E. E .Taylor refused the Republican nomination Mr. Youngs was illegally it is claimed, placed on the Republican ticket. He was elected by a majority of 5, over his Democratic opponent H. Freeman Johnson, who had served his ward as Alderman in a most conscientious and creditable manner for two years.

It transpires that in the Third Ward during the past year or two most reprehensible political measures have been resorted to, according to the speech of Third Ward residents, and the defeat of Alderman Johnson, it is claimed, was encompassed by methods that will not stand the searching light of publicity. In fact, it is alleged, that if this agitation is thrown into the courts the result will be far reaching in its harmful disclosures.

Alderman Johnson has engaged the services of Attorney W. S. Hillick to protect his interests while Attorney Clarence Elwyn Pitts will defend Mr. Younge's position in the controversey.

It is the opinion of several attorneys that Mayor-elect Boland will appoint the alderman from the Third Ward at the conclusion of the legal battle that seems imminent, and in all probability Mr. Johnson will be his choice.

FULTON'S PADDED CELL PROPOSITION

State Charities Aid Association Officials Interested in Project and Send Following Communication to the Times Relative to the Law and its Provisions—Health Officer Responsible for Care of Insane.

New York, November 17, 1911.

Editor Times: I am writing you relative to an important situation which is arising in Fulton. We are informed that the city is about to "erect a padded cell for the temporary care of its insane pending commitment." While we are very much pleased to know that Fulton is about to make provision for its insane, we strongly hope that quarters for the observation of such cases may be provided which will be much more humane and modern than the "padded cell."

The State Charities Aid Association has always been greatly interested in the condition and care of the insane in the State of New York. It is not boasting to state that many of the improvements have been brought about largely as a result of the efforts of this Association. One of the things which the Association is now greatly interested in and endeavoring to promote in all ways possible, is the establishment of observation wards for the insane pending commitment, in connection with general hospitals in the various centers of population. Such observation wards bring about most beneficient results; first, by making it easier to determine the sanity or insanity of any patient; second by placing the care of the insane immediately under medical authorities, rather than police officers; and, third, by helping to impress upon the community the idea that insanity is a group of diseases and not an indication of criminal tendencies in the individual.

You probably know that Chapter 608 of the Laws of 1910, provides that health officers, not poor law officers, shall take charge of the alleged insane pending commitment. Further than this, paragraph 88 of Chapter 27 of the Consolidated Laws, revised to July, 1, 1910, contains this statement:

"The health officer of the town, city or village, wherein an insane or alleged insane person may be, shall see that such person is cared for in a place suitable for the comfortable safe and humane confinement of such person pending the determination of the question of his sanity, and until his transfer to a state hospital or some other proper institution for the insane as provided in this chapter. Such person shall not be confined in any such place without an attendant in charge of him, and the said health officer shall select some suitable person to act as such attendant. The proper authorities of any such town, city or county may provide a permanent place for the reception and temporary confinement, care and nursing of the insane or alleged insane person, which shall conform in all respects to the rules and requirements of the commission."

May we ask your co-operation in influencing the proper authorities of the city of Fulton to make modern provision for the care of its insane pending commitment? Should you care to use any part of this letter in the columns of your paper, do not hesitate to do so. Should you care to support the proposition of proper arrangements for the care of the insane pending commitment by an editorial in your paper, I assure you that your assistance would be greatly appreciated.

Very truly yours,
E. S. Elwood,
Assistant Secretary.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HOLDS SESSION

Friday evening the regular monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held and a smoker and luncheon followed the more solid entertainment of the evening. Over fifty members were in attendance. Under the inspiriting effort of President Penfield and his co-workers the influential body has now reached a total membership of two hundred "live wires."

Secretary H. L. Stout read letters regarding the project of compelling frieght trackage to be carried outside of the city.

Alderman Johnson and Messrs. A. G. Gilbert and T. H. Marvin were appointed a committee to find available land upon which the trolley company might erect a shelter at Broadway, for the convenience of west side and southern section patrons of the road.

Resident Engineer T. M. Ripley gave a very interesting and instructive talk upon the commission form of government. Mr. Ripley stated that he believed the State's and city's share of the new upper bridge would be let on or about Dec. 15.

Mr. A. W. Wiltsie spoke intelligently on scientific farming and the benefits to accrue therefrom. He also touched on the proposition to place a soil expert in every county in the United States.

Attorney H. J. Wilson took for his theme the betterment of conditions surrounding United States Embassadors to foreign countries since they were allowed sufficient money to care for their current expenses.

Mr. F. A. Emerick of Oswego was a guest of the Chamber.

UNION THANKSGIVING SERVICES

A union prayer meeting for the churches of the City will be held Wednesday evening, Nov. 29, at the First Methodist Episcopal church led by the Rev. G. W. F. A. Miller, pastor of the State street church.

LEARN AUTOMOBILE ENGINEERING

Be a Chauffeur, Demonstrator, Auto Salesman or Repairman.

We teach you thoroughly in your spare time by the only practical method, not from paper models, books or mail order course, but from high-grade motor cars and parts and a competent instructor who will explain the use and mechanical operation of every part of the auto. Here you take apart and assemble every part of the auto and have every part explained to you while doing so. The magneto is the most complicated part of the auto and not one man out of one hundred, who is in the auto business today, understands the principle of the high tension magneto. Yet I will teach my students every detail of the mechanical operation of the high tension magneto also the low tension magneto and every other part of the auto.

After you get the other parts of the auto learned, you learn the controls with the rear wheels off the floor and the motor running. You learn to start, stop, work the brakes, shift the gears and get handy with the controls in general. Next you take the cars out on the road and run them and get handy steering, ascending and descending hills, etc.

I guarantee to teach anyone the auto business so that he can run and make repairs on any car made and that he will pass the State Examination and get his chauffeur's license in the spring. One very reasonable charge covers everything. Cash or weekly payments. Money refunded if not perfectly satisfied at the end of two weeks. School will be held on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 7 to 10 p. m., beginning December 4th, 1911. Students may also come any day at any time and stay as long as they like and work on different models of cars. Write at once for prices, terms or further information to the Baldwinsville Auto School, Baldwinsville, N. Y. 11 29*

A CARNIVAL OF CRIME

Oswego County Seems Centre at Present of Crime Wave—Many Cases Reported to Officials From Different Sections—Fulton Visited.

The furnishing store of Buck & Everts in Mexico was entered by burglars early Sunday morning and a large amount of valuable goods taken. The robbery was discovered when one of the members of the firm went to the store to look at the furnace. Deputy Sheriff Jasper Coe was called into the case and he notified the Oswego police. One article taken was a $60 fur lined coat.

Early Sunday morning as Conductor Wise and Motorman Conway of the S. L. S. & N. R. R. company, were enroute to the Oswego substation to spend the night, they were pitched upon by four men and a stubborn effort was made to wrest the money box containing $50 from the conductor. The two electricians in the substation heard the struggle and by their appearance the foot pads were frightened off, leaving no clue behind them. The officers and detectives working on the investigation believe the work to have been that of amateurs.

The Fulton police are busily engaged in an effort to locate the man or men who on Sunday night attempted to enter several homes in this city. The cellar of Thomas Hunter was entered and a barrel taken therefrom which was used to stand upon in an effort to find an unfastened window or door at the homes of Messrs. F. A. Gage, E. H. French, L. W. Emerick and Dr. Charles R. Lee in First street. Lavelle's cafe and the Gayer drug store and Brooks grocery store in Broadway. An effort was also made to enter the Presbyterian parsonage in Third street, Mr. Wellburn telephoning police headquarters, as the thief was trying to open a window. He made his escape before the arrival of the officers. From the modus operandi the snow Chief Ross is led to believe that all the attempted robberies were the work of one man.

Last week burglars entered the storage plant office of J. W. Rigley and tossed things about badly but were unsuccessful in securing anything of value.

On Monday afternoon it was reported that George Sharp's house in Erie street had been entered by burglars on Sunday night and some lard, watch and a sum of money taken. The same busy body entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Palmer and purloined a pair of rubbers and some milk. Attempts were made to enter the houses of Dr. L. F. Joy, Mr. George E. True and the Odd Fellows Home in Oneida street. There may have been other houses approached but the Times has not heard of them.

Fulton residents have long since learned not to keep articles of value or large sums of money in their homes, owing to the slight police protection available in the residence sections of the city. An intruder risks his life for a bit of silver and perhaps some bricabrac when he enters most homes in this city.

"The Girl in the Taxi" at the Empire, Syracuse, Thanksgiving Week

"The Girl in the Taxi," that laugh-producing sensation which has rocked two continents with its merriment, is announced as the Thanksgiving-week offering at the Empire Theatre, Syracuse, commencing Monday evening, Nov. 27. That the presence of "The Girl in the Taxi," with Bobby Barry and its New York cast of comedians, will afford local theatregoers a feast of amusement is assured when it is remembered that on the occasion of its initial visit to Syracuse a year ago it scored a triumph which won for it the distinction of being the most talked of play of the season. Therefore, it is but fitting that "The Girl in the Taxi" should return to us Thanksgiving week, for in this bright and clever French farce, with its musical specialties, is found just the sort of entertainment to appeal to and amuse the playgoing public at a time when all wish to offer thanks for the good things bestowed during the current twelve-month.

"Bobby" Barry, heads the cast of "The Girl in the Taxi," and is supported by such players of distinction as Julie Ring, sister of Blanche Ring, Helena Salinger, Jean Salisbury, Jeanette Bageard, Amelia Nelson, Gertrude Shirley, Harry Hanlon, Jack Norval, Frank Farrington, Jules Cluzotti, George Richards, Clifford Heckinger and other. This will positively be the final appearance of "The Girl in the Taxi" in Syracuse. Three matinees will be given during the week, Wednesday, at popular prices; Thursday (Thanksgiving day) and Saturday. Try a little "taxi" with your turkey.

DEATHS

Edward M. Hanlon, aged 20, died at his home in Phoenix on Saturday, after a brief illness. The funeral was held on Tuesday, the Rev. D. J. Dooling of this city officiating.

Catherine O'Grady, aged 63, died on Thursday at her home in West Second street. She is survived by two daughters, May and Margaret, of this city and two sons, Edward of this city and William of Chicago.

The death of Delos Durfey, aged 79, a Civil War veteran, occurred in the Lee Memorial hospital on Sunday after having been ill in that institution for a year. Death was due to old age. The deceased was for 20 years a boatman on the Oswego river and had a wide acquaintance; he had spent his entire life in Volney and Granby. One brother, Albert Durfey; one son, Frank, of this city; and two sisters, Madeline and Helen Durfey, survive.

Helen Simons, aged 72, widow of the late Perry Simons of this city, died on Wednesday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary L. Long, Seneca Hill, after a brief illness. The funeral services were held from the late home on Monday afternoon. Burial was made in Mt. Adnah. The immediate survivors are the daughter at whose home she died; and three sons, George, of Fulton; Andrew of Scriba and Leonard of South Dakota.

Mrs. Maggie Cullen on Sunday received news of the death of her brother, Thomas Cullen, at his home in Chicago at the age of seventy-three years. He was born in Fulton, but left here about thirty-five years ago and has since resided in Chicago, where the funeral was held on Tuesday. Besides his brother, he leaves a widow, who was Miss Mary Althouse, of Fulton, and two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Cullen and Mrs. Kate Farrell of this city.

It is with regret that we chronicle the passing away on Saturday of Miss Mary I. Blackstock, a member of the High school fraternity and one of the most popular instructors ever in that institution. Death came after an illness of a week, followed by an operation performed by Dr. Jacob son in the Lee Memorial hospital on Friday as the one chance in a thousand of saving the frail life. The work of the knife revealed how utterly hopeless was the case and the patient never rallied from the anaesthetic. A malignant obstruction in the intestines was the cause for death. Miss Blackstock had been instructor in Latin in this city for eight years and she had made a place for herself in the respect and affections of the students, parents and teachers. She was born in Auburn and the surviving members of her family, three sisters and one brother now reside there. Her education was acquired in the Auburn High school and in Mt. Holyoke, from where she graduated with honors in Latin. The body was taken to the home in Auburn from where the funeral services were held on Monday, the bearers being young men friends from this city, all former students under her. A large contingent of Fulton friends attended the services. Burial was made beside the parents in Auburn.

The Fortnightly Shakespeare club have adopted the following resolutions on the death of Miss Blackstock:

We are called upon to record the passing away of one most cherished member of the Fortnightly Shakespeare Club, Mary I. Blackstock. An earnest, active, helpful co-worker and a whole-souled, sincere and valued friend. One whose keen analyses of character made her criticisms of great value. The committee appointed present the following resolutions:

Whereas, Our Heavenly Father has taken from us our dear friend and fellow-worker, Mary I. Blackstock,

Whereas, Although feeling that words are inadequate to express our sorrow for the loss we have sustained, therefore be it,

Resolved, That the Fortnightly Shakespeare Club has lost an earnest, helpful worker and an intelligent, noble woman; be it further,

Resolved, That we express our sorrow and extend our sympathy to her bereaved family and enter upon our records this testimonial; and be it further

Resolved, That our secretary be instructed to forward a copy of these instructions to her family and also,

Resolved, We cannot fathom the depths of Infinite Wisdom which decides the measure of human life and with James Russell Lowell, we exclaim:

"It matters not, for go at night or noon,
A friend whene'er he dies, has died too soon."

Committee.

MARRIED

James H. Townsend, Jr., and Miss Ethel M. Goodman of this city were united in marriage on Nov. 19, by the Rev. F. A. Miller.

Mr. Floyd H. Kenyon of Mexico and Miss Mabel Trask of Palermo were united in marriage on Nov. 19, at the home of the bride in Palermo.

Mr. Frank L. Stewart and Miss Cora LaPoint were united in marriage on Nov. 1, by the Rev. F. A. Miller. Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Tooke attended the young couple.

Mr. Willis V. Moon and Miss Bessie May Pringle of this city were united in marriage on Nov. 1, by the Rev. F. A. Miller at the State street parsonage. Mr. and Mrs. Moon will reside at No 256 South Fifth street.

Mr. F. A. Rudd, formerly manager of the Union Pacific Tea store in this city, was united in marriage at the State Street parsonage on Nov. 16, with Mrs. Elizabeth Sivers of Phoenix, by the Rev. F. A. Miller. Mr. and Mrs. Rudd will reside in Phoenix.

The many friends of Mr. John Hume Hunter of this city and Miss Ethel Sperbeck of South Granby, were greatly surprised on Friday morning to learn that they had stolen a march on them and had been united in marriage the Wednesday evening previously in the Presbyterian parsonage, by the Rev. G. W. Wellburn, the attendants being Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McKnight and Miss Mabel Hunter, all of this city. The young couple had been devotedly attached to each other for several months and their marriage was being eagerly looked forward to by their friends, who planned to give them a merry send-off, but the quiet marriage has stopped all proceedings along this line. The groom is related to the Hunter Brothers of this city and he was employed in the Hunter Arms factory until recently when he resigned his position owing to poor health. He then engaged in the chicken raising industry on a large scale. Mrs. Hunter has been the popular accountant in the H. P. Allen grocery store and she has many friends. Following the ceremony the happy young couple left for Sterling Valley, where they will make their future home.

MAGNIFICENT RECITAL NEXT MONTH

Under the auspices of the Schumann Club, a superb concert will be given in the Presbyterian church on Friday evening, Dec. 8, at 8 o'clock. Prof. Garrison of Syracuse University, the Paderewski of American, and Miss Laura VanKuran, the well known soprano singer, will be the artists.

The Schumann club has a reputation for excellence of entertainments arranged for the music lovers of Fulton, and the coming event will prove an exceptional one.

Tickets have been placed at 50c, and are on sale by all members of the club.

Treat yourself to a new hat for Thanksgiving. You will find a fine assortment at YOUNGS', Cayuga street.

BAD WRECK ON CENTRAL

Two Killed; Eight Injured by Collision of Freight and Passenger Trains at Iron Pier, Syracuse, on Tuesday morning—Traffic Held up Over Half a day by Wreckage — Blame not Fixed Yet.

The delay in delivery of the mail at homes and business houses on Tuesday morning brought forth the query, why. It was then carried from home to home that there had been a bad accident on the Central railroad at or near Woodard and fatalities had resulted. No further information was available until noon when the first train over the line since Monday night brought the following:

Two railroad men were killed, a third so seriously injured that he may die and seven others of the crews suffered hurts when a passenger train and freight collided on the cross-over of the old Iron Pier at 5 o'clock this morning.

Nicholas Snyder, 410 Burnet ave., conductor of the freight train, was killed.

Carl Hettler, 910 Danforth st., fireman of the freight train St. Joseph's Hospital, seriously hurt, died at 10:30 a. m. to day.

George Thorn of Buffalo, engineer of the freight train, cut about face and internally injured. At the Hospital of the Good Shepherd.

Thomas J. McGraw, 146 Wolf street, internally injured. Was engineman on passenger train.

William Bell, DeWitt, internally injured and left leg bruised. Was fireman on passenger train.

John E. Voughty, Oswego, internally injured and shoulder wrenched. Was baggageman and expressman on passenger train.

Alfred Farmer, 322 Winton street, dislocated thumb and bruised hip. Was brakeman on freight train.

A. J. Walsh, 417 Cedar street, badly shaken up. Was brakeman on freight train.

Arthur Hinman, Oswego, bruised about body. Was mail clerk on passenger train.

S. J. Broomfield, Oswego, badly shaken up. Was conductor on passenger train.

The blame rests between the towerman at the crossing and the engineer on the freight train.

BIG MASONIC EVENT

Oswego.—Masons from throughout the Twenty-fifth Masonic District are expected here in large numbers on Dec. 13 and 14, the occasion being the district convention of the order. Delegates and members of lodges will be here and the gathering will be honored by the presence of Robert Judson Kenworthy of New York, grand master of the order. This will be the first time within the memory of most Masons that Oswego has been honored by the personal attendance of the grand master.

The business sessions will be held at Masonic Temple in the Neal Block and in the afternoon a reception will be held at the Masonic club. On the evening of the 14th there will be a big banquet of the order, at the Armory, which it is expected will be attended by 500 Mason from Oswego, Fulton, Watertown, Cortland and other places. There will large and successful convention, al so an enjoyable banquet is anticipated.

INTERESTING LETTER FROM CALIFORNIA

Venice, Cal., Nov. 4, 1911.

Editor Times: What is the weather at home? How I wish I could spill some of these delightful days over onto the friends at home. Here they come, not day after day, but absolutely week after week, of what at home we used to call "an ideal June day." If a few of you would just take an aeroplane or else put on your "seven league boots" and come out to see us I could show you many things of interest but to put those same things into words and tie them down to paper makes everything seem commonplace. You who have been down the St. Lawrence river, or boated on the rivers of Florida or crossed the Rocky mountains knew just how helpless I feel when I attempt to write a real home letter. As I write of the different things I often think of this one who will be interested in one item and that one in the next, so that to me these letters always have a strong personal side. We are only a half hours ride from Los Angeles and are not only on the ocean but the whole Pleasure Pier is built out into the ocean. This Pier is lined on each side with amusement places of all kinds: bird houses, aquarium, Japanese stores, games of chance, tea rooms, merry-go-round, ferris wheel, double whirl, slides, glides, dashes, sem cutting store. One big hotel is the exact copy of a Spanish vessel of the old time and is called the Cabill, this si c omplete as to masts and rigging and at night is enterly outlined in electric lights. This is only a few of the attractions. It is an all round open town no restrictions on any thing, yet is very orderly and every one, by reason perhaps of being allowed to make their good time according to their own wills, seems never to clash with any ones else in their good time. A fine band gives a concert twice a day in the band stand on the centre plaza, and there are easy seats for several hundred people. Many ladies always take their fancy work and sit there and work day after day. If one loves the big waters, here is an ideal place to see the biggest one in the world.

A week ago four of the big war vessels appeared on the horizon about 3 p. m., just big enough to be counted. On they came side by side like clock work until close in, about 5 p. m. ,when they turned like a company of soldiers at drill and went single file up the beach till they were signaled to cast anchor. That night over 2000 men were given shore leave of, 48 hours. You should have seen the Jackies enjoy themselves, they rode the merry-go-round, the scenic railroad, the race thro the clouds, the bumps and everything they could find to put in motion. When too tired to play any longer they rolled over on the sand and slept till sunrise.

Last Sunday was Chrysanthemum day and 10,000 of the big yellow and pink beauties were given to the ladies only. Today was Carnation day and 15,000 of these were given away between 1:30 and 4 p. m. Flowers are so cheap here a friend of ours was up at Los Angeles lately and came out about 5 p. m. and brought home over 3 dozen beautiful red carnations, whole bunch only cost him 20 cents. I suppose the new fall hats are in evidence there as here, with all their weird effects of ancient knighthood, they tell us and all the colors of the rainbow and every shade of every color. There is no use trying to describe them they must be seen to be enjoyed.

With a kindly thought for dear old Fulton and every person there, I must bid you good night and then wait patiently until next Tuesday brings my Fulton Times.

THANKSGIVING'S HILARIOUS ORIGIN

Funny Side of Good Governor Bradford's First Big Feed.

By WILL ALLEN.

GOVERNOR BRADFORD of the New England colony did not, as many people think, invent Thanksgiving in 1621, and if he claimed to it was an out and out infringement on previous patents, for many people of many countries, even far back in Bible history, had been setting aside times for feasts and rejoicing when they cut their oats, corn, squashes and other conveniences in the fall of the year.

But nevertheless the governor and his colonists no doubt broke the record for intensity of thankfulness, for, having so very little to be thankful for, the job could be done up in fine shape and not be neglected on any point.

SOME INDIAN WITH A CRUDE, PRIMITIVE SENSE OF HUMOR.

During the voyage over on the somewhat unsteady Mayflower if any one had so much as suggested a hearty Thanksgiving dinner he or she would most probably have been tossed over the rail, and some one of us today would be minus a pilgrim ancestor.

It is said that the rough trip over was the real cause of the pilgrims utterly losing their sense of humor and always carrying around such long faces.

Anyhow, hardships began right at Plymouth rock, for everybody was just crazy to set foot on something solid, and naturally there were some jostling and elbowing in the rush. The rock was never constructed for much of a crowd and, besides this, was real slick around the edges where the tide had washed up a few old jellyfish, so those who secured standing room only skidded off into the ocean without their rubbers on and got wet feet, which, as every one knows, is a bad thing to do in December anywhere along the New England coast. Of course these proceedings wound up with coughs, colds in the head and sore throats, which filled up the hospital right from the start.

As is usual in Massachusetts, there was no policeman around to handle the crowd or all this might have been avoided. It was a mighty bad winter, and, according to the accounts of the sufferers themselves, "lyons" roared and "wolves sat on their tayles and grinned," and if the Indians had not done any worse life would have been much more attractive in Plymouth.

But soon after landing in snooping around a deserted Indian village several baskets of corn, two pumpkin seeds and a recipe for mince pie were found, so that a foundation for the first planting was assured, which at least gave the people something to look forward to.

All this time marvelous appetites were being developed for the big feed in the fall, for, not yet having become familiar with the location of the best grocery stores and meat markets, the colonists were on a diet principally of little neck clams (much cheaper then than now) and eels, which they trod out of the mud at low tide with their bare feet.

THE ONLY HELPER CALF IN THE COLONY.

This undoubtedly brought into play the stern bearing strength of character of these old fellows more than anything else, for what iron nerve it must have taken to feel a cold, squirming eel suddenly wriggle up between one's bare toes and not lose any dignity or give way to unseemly remarks!

Spring came, and the planting was done under very trying circumstances, for the would be agriculturists could hardly stoop over to bed in a grain of corn but that some Indian with a crude, primitive sense of humor would let loose an arrow.

However, the crops did splendidly and were well attended, you may be sure, for the clam and eel diet was losing popularity.

The pumpkins spread all over the place and were diligently "hugged" every day to save the vines, and the extra shoots (technically known as "suckers") were all cut off the corn and fed to the only heifer calf in the colony in hopes that she might be induced to grow up and become a mature cow some day.

The harvest was so abundant that they even spared one pumpkin for the children to make a jack-o'-lantern of, and by working all day and praying all night everything was at last got in.

Now, Governor Bradford noticed how tired, thin and thankful everybody looked, and the most appropriate thing he could think of in the way of celebration was to set aside three days to see how big a hole they could eat in the harvest.

All fell right in with this unique notion and set to with a will making preparations.

Men were sent out gunning for turkeys, geese and other feathered poultry, barring crows and Indians. The old flintlock guns kicked so that while the bullet killed one bird the pilgrim progressing through the air in the opposite direction would crush out the life of another unsuspecting fowl which merely considered himself an innocent bystander until so rudely sat upon.

However, this was a great saving of ammunition, and the hunters soon returned with bruises and game a-plenty.

The Indians, getting a whiff of mince pie with brandy sauce and other evidence of a "heap big" free lunch, immediately became friendly and flocked in to town with their best feathers on and belts let out to the last hole.

This incident gave rise to the custom which we follow to this day of always inviting outsiders in to Thanksgiving before they get a chance to come without asking.

It was a merry time indeed. Everybody would sit down and eat awhile, then go out and run races with the Indians (which had been done theretofore under very different circumstances) until the violent exercise had so aided digestion that they could eat again.

So, taking it all in all, the feast was such a great success and took so with the public that Manager Bradford decided to reproduce it every year, and thus the grand old custom has come down to the present day, where some are overfed and some are underfed.

"WOLVES SAT ON THEIR TAYLES AND GRINNED."

That is where the old pilgrims got the best of us—they fared and shared equally in want and abundance.

We sit down to overloaded boards and hurriedly give thanks, one eye shut and the other on the turkey, never giving a thought to the rows and rows of little teeth with no drumsticks to gnaw or the thousands of mouths that would water at the very scraps from our tables.

Let us back up a few hundred years in spirit this Thanksgiving, good people, and go out and fill somebody up that needs it, then come back to our own meals with that good old fashioned thankfulness whetting up our appetites.

Simple Decorations For Table.

As Thanksgiving is a national custom it becomes us to treat it handsomely and make it not only a feast to the palate, but to the eye. Nothing can do this so well as the adornment of the table with flower and leaf and vine.

If you haven't a brilliant little scarlet poinsettia for the center of this table, now is the time and place for the dish of ferns you brought in some time ago from the wet places before the frost had touched them to withered gold and for a wreath-like flat arrangement about it on the snowy cloth of the small leaves of the whortleberry (pressed immediately after plucking), with all their rich tints of orange and carmine yet unfaded. If, however, you are so fortunate as to have an "akebia vine" anywhere on the premises you can have the preferable living green. This is a Japanese hardy vine, acclimated over here for perhaps a century, whose curious flowers of a reddish purple, male and female in one pendulous cluster, belong to the heats of summer, but whose small leaves are green and delicate even in midwinter.

But if you have foregathered none of these things you can purchase a little pot of maidenhair fern and can lay the sprays around the centerpiece and up and down the table just before the guests are seated, as they shrivel so soon. You can hardly have a prettier effect than this in its pure green white contrast unless there is added to it a tiny boutonniere at every place, made only of a single bud, together with a leaf of the rose geranium.

Miss Eva Dyke, maker in the O'Brien millinery store, was called home last week by the serious illness and death of her mother, Mrs. Dyke, of Mexico.

"The Musician" urges that work done by public school pupils in studying music outside of school, under private teachers, should be credited by the school authorities at the pupils graduation. This, it says, would largely increase the number of pupils who would feel free to devote some of their time to the serious study of music . A plan for such coordination of public and private institutions of music is suggested by "The Musician."—The Outlook.

CONTEST OVER CONDE WILL

Marie Conde Rogers, granddaughter of Mrs. Apama I. Conde, who died in Oswego several weeks ago, through her father and general guardian, L. Harding Rogers, Jr., of New York, on Monday filed in Surrogate's Court, formal objections to the probate of the will of Mrs. Switz Conde. Citations were returnable Monday. The executors, J. H. Walrath, of Syracuse, H. L. Conde and Leon Conde, of Oswego, who offered the will for probate, were represented by Attorney Charles A. Kalisch, of New York. Mr. Rogers's attorney was Daniel Whitford, of New York. The matter was adjourned until November 27th at 2 p. m., after George B. Thorn had been appointed special guardian for George Conde Thorn, another grandchild.

By the terms of Mrs. Conde's will, disposing of an estate of the estimated value of $500,000, Marie Conde Rogers, in a special clause, is cut off from any of the property because, so Mrs. Conde stated, the child's father had harassed the testatrix and tried in every way to cause her trouble after the death of her daughter, Marie Conde, Mr. Rogers's wife.

The objections to the will are based along the usual statutory grounds; that it is not her last will and testament; that it is not properly attested and that undue influence was used by some of the beneficiaries. The will was made in 1906.

CONGRESSMAN MOTT GLAD

Congressman Mott, speaking of the recent election result said:

"The people of Oswego have come to their senses, and, of course, like every good citizen, regardless of party, I am glad. It is seldom that the people of a city are caught twice by the same game, and the election of this year proves that we are not in Oswego . It was more than a Republican victory here, for we certainly should thank all of the good Democrats who placed the good of their city above party lines. I believe that Mayor-elect Long will justify the confidence which has been placed with him and that the city will rapidly recover what we have lost in the confidence and esteem of our neighbors in the last two years. Of course the result in the county in the election of our splendid county ticket is very gratifying. Mr. Hubbs' majority in Oswego county should be a source of great satisfaction to him, and Republicans of the entire county must feel gratified that we have at length secured a Supreme Court Judge for Oswego county. It is not very long ago since we had no member of Congress, and no Justice from Oswego, and several county offices were filled by Democrats. There is a difference now."

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

In case of a burn or scald what would you do to relieve the pain? Such injuries are liable to occur in any family and everyone should be prepared for them. Chamberlain's Salve applied on a soft cloth will relieve the pain almost instantly, and unless the injury is a very severe one, will cause the parts to heal without leaving a scar. For sale by all dealers.

The old and feeble will also find them a most suitable remedy for aiding and strengthening their weakened digestion and for regulating the bowels. For sale by all dealers.

TURKEYS VERY PLENTIFUL

The trust has cornered the cranberry crop but the turkey is still a free bird in this section of the country. Buyers who have been through the country state that the price this year will be nearer the realm of reason than for a year or two past, not to exceed 28 cents per pound, and this will insure more thankful families than during the past few years.

Usually the size of a turkey family is three or four to reach maturity. This year the flocks throughout the county have been larger and the fatality which usually marks attempts to raise the bird,lees prevalent, and as a result about Thanksgiving time turkeys of high quality and corn fed will bring about twenty-eight cents per pound retail. Last year the price was from thirty to thirty-four cents a pound, with good birds scarce at that. The other accessories to the turkey are also in goodly number in the market and cheaper than last year.

Postal Savings Banks

The issuing of Postal Savings Bonds is a new and unique feature of the Postal Savings system. The idea has been evolved by Postmaster General Hitchcock and the trustees of the system. Such efforts put forth for the conservation of the savings of the American people can not fail to be appreciated. The bonds will be deposited in the local office by Jan. 1, 1912, in denominations of $20, $100 and $500, bearing interest at the rate of 2 1-2 per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually and redeemable at the pleasure of the United States after one year from the date of issue, both principal and interest payable twenty years from that date in United States gold coin. There are other advantages to the possessor of the bonds which can be learned by a perusal of the article in last week's paper. An adherence to the instructions given will cause nights of refreshing sleep to the investor.

Direct Primary Law

The direct primary law, now effective, should engage the serious consideration of electors of both parties. A resume of the measure can be found in another column, conveying information with which it is absolutely necessary to become familiar, if intelligent action is to be followed by Republican and Democratic members of city and town districts. Ample notice will be given by the Oswego commissioners to the several towns, calling attention to the December enrollment. This is a very decided change from the past, when rural electors paid little or no attention to enrollment, leaving that important duty to registry officials. The new law provides by direct vote for the selection of all candidates, except those for State offices Ignorance of the Ferris-Blauvelt direct primary law will be no excuse. It is hoped that the electors of this city and county will give the measure the consideration it deserves and test its practicability. The new law is now operative.

American Emigration to Canada

During the past year, it is estimated that 140,000 Americans have emigrated to Canada, against 121,000 the year previous. All this in face of the excellent opportunities offered at home. During the same period the Federal government has brought under irrigation upward of 50,000,000 acres of usable land—virgin soil, capable of producing crops the equal of any which can be raised in the neighboring commonwealth.

Under th eCarey act, thousands of acres are being successfully irrigated in this country, while acres hitherto regarded as impossible of cultivation because of lack of rainfall, are yielding abundant crops by the so-called "dry farming" process, a wholly misleading name, although an entirely practicable method, as experience has demonstrated. Settlers in Wyoming enjoy the advantage of an abundant coal supply, almost at their very door natural gas and oil in many sections, and the proximity of vast mineral resources, thus insuring them in the near future a large consuming public without the necessity of long shipments to market. The spectacle of the desert being converted into fertile, prosperous farms is to be seen on all sides, whiledit is not necessary for the farmer to devote a large percentage of his income to purchasing fuel at exorbitant prices, as is the case in Canada. And the settler in Wyoming or in the other Western states does not forfeit his American citizenship, which ought to be an important consideration to every patriotic American.

The only explanation of the exodus to Canada which seems at all adequate is that Americans do not realize the resources which are available at home, while the enterprise of the Canadian immigration officials has set before them in a most effective manner, the few advantages offered to the farmer on the boundless and isolated prairies of the Canadian Northwest.

The foregoing emigrant statistics suggest a pregnant thought to those who are seriously inclined. The movement of populations to new territories in order that they might better their conditions, is governed more by sentiment than interest. Australia has an area a little greater that the United States, with soil and climate eminently fitted to sustain a larger population. For sixty years it has had the same opportunities in government, in all essential liberties and in attractiveness as our own country, yet while our population has grown to 100,000,000, Australia's has only about 8,000,000—less than the single State of New York.

Canada has an area in square miles about equal to our own. Two-thirds of it at least is capable of profitable development in agriculture, forestry and mining. Its existence as a colony, with every independent power of self-government, except a sentimental attachment as a member of the British Empire, is coincident in years with that of the Republic of the United States, and yet the population of Canada, with all the power of Great Britain to assist, is less than that of the single State of New York.

FUN ENDED SERIOUSLY

While wrestling with a fellow workman in the plant of the American Woolen company in this city, on Friday, John Corsick, aged 17, of West First street, received a stab in the left lung which may result in death. Corsick and another were indulging in a friendly bout, the other fellow having in his pocket a long, sharp instrument known as a piker and used in wool carding. The boys clinched and fell together, the instrument stabbing Corsick in the lung just over his heart. His companions did up the wound and the boy went to his home, only to be taken with severe pains soon after. Drs Schlappi and Fox were called and they had the sufferer removed to the Lee Memorial hospital, where his recovery is still in doubt, owing to the serious nature of the puncture.

CURRENT EVENTS CLUB

A Discussion of the Problems Confronting the Chinese Nation—Subject for Debate at Next Meeting.

The Current Events club met with Mr and Mrs. F. D. VanWagenen, on Monday evening, Nov. 20. Following the roll call and the reading of the minutes, President Fairgrieve announced that the date for the entertainment to be given under the auspices of the club had been fixed for some time in February, and that the consent of the Library Trustees had been secured for holding the proposed course of lectures in the assembly room of that institution. He also made mention of the death of Miss Mary I. Blackstock, a member of the club, and spoke in appreciation of her excellent work in the school and of her fine character. Rev. Olmstead moved that a committee be appointed to draw up resolutions on the death of Miss Blackstock and that the same be entered upon the minutes of the club and a copy sent to her family and published in the local papers. Mr. Olmstead, Prof. Wilcox and Mrs. Emens were appointed on this committee.

The literary programme for the evening consisted of a discussion of Chinese problems by Mr. T. M. Ripley and Dr. Teall. Mr. Ripley spoke of the far-reaching effects of the present struggle and gave an interesting sketch of Chinese history in explanation of the present situation. Dr. Teall spoke of present day affairs in China, illustrating his talk with lantern slides, showing conditions as he found them among the yellow people.

The question to be debated at the next meeting was announced as follows: "Resolved, That the United States government is pursuing a wise policy in increasing its military and naval armament."

Mrs. Harry A. Allen entertained at a thimble party at her home on Monday afternoon in honor of her sister, Mrs. Seeley, of Yonkers.

Dr. A. J. Gilmour of New York city, a former Fulton resident, has been appointed second assistant dermatologist in the New York city Children's Hospital. Dr. Gilmour is also treasurer of the American society of Sanitary and Social Prophylaxis.

Mrs. Rice, wife of the Veteran William Rice, who died a week ago, has been adjudged incompetent and a commission will be appointed to take care of her property interests. Grief at the sudden death of the husband unsettled a mind not very strong and this step was deemed necessary.

Canal Superintendent Hartnett has issued orders that the gates be opened and the Fulton Light, Heat and Power company granted four days use of the water that they may operate their old power plant while changes are inaugurated in their new plant. The power company will decide upon the dates for opening the gates.

The First Baptist church will hold a meeting on Thursday evening at which time the matter of extending a call to Rev. George Lehigh of Clayton, will be considered. Mr. Lehigh has occupied the local pulpit several times since Rev. J. G. York's resignation, and he has given excellent satisfaction to pulpit committee and the congregation in general. Mr. Lehigh spent a few days last week in Fulton and met many of his possible parishioners.

City Sealer of Weights and Measures, Harry O'Brien, is doing good service for Fulton housewives these days when he holds up foreign vendors of food articles and compels them to give sixteen ounces to the pound. Last week Mr. O'Brien apprehended a chicken salesman and found that as the result of shrinkage of the fowels, the purchaser was receiving two ounces to the pound less than was being paid for. There are many other like instances recorded to the young man's credit.

Mrs. Irving Keller has been confined to her home with palatal illness.

Miss Florence Kenyon is rapidly failing in strength at her home in Hannibal.

Dr. H. W. Schlappi is hopeful that Vincent Otis may recover from the shooting accident in which he was so seriously injured two weeks ago, and that the young man may be without a limp.

On Tuesday evening, Nov. 28, in the First M. E. church, under the auspices of the King's Heralds, will be held a box social. Every lady and girl is requested to bring a box packed for two.

The Thanksgiving donation will be received at the Lee Memorial hospital on Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 27 and 28. Everyone is requested to remember this worthy cause by a liberal donation.

Miss Grace J. Tucker will give a reception in Tucker's hall on Friday evening of this week, from 9 to 12, to her former dance pupils, all of whom are invited.

It is reported that Charles Glynn does not desire the position of secretary to Justice I. G. Hubbs, owing to other business arrangements he has entered into.

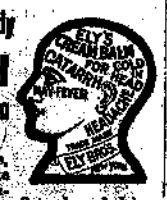
Zion church fair was a decided success, despite the unfavorable weather of last week. It is announced that the society will profit by over $600 as the result of the benefit for the building fund.

A new bank to be known as The First National Bank of Lacona, has been established at Lacona, with a capital stock of $25,000, all paid in. Supervisor Peter G. Hydorn of Lacona is one of the principal stockholders.

A number of young people of the First M. E. church are rehearsing for a little play, "Mrs. Baggs Bargain Day," to be given in the Brotherhood rooms, on Friday evening of this week. Admission 15 cents. Don't fail to see it.

The 91st annual meeting of the Oswego County Medical society was held in Oswego on Tuesday, a large number of Fulton physicians attending. Dr. E. A. Gladman presented a most interesting paper on, "Immunity of disease, natural and acquired." Dr. F. E. Fox was elected treasurer of the association and Dr. H. P. Marsh was elected a member of the Board of Censors.

The attention of Times readers is called to the advertisement of J. R. Sullivan on page 3 of this issue. Mr. Sullivan has something to say about a most necessary adjunct to the home, be it ever so modest of costly. Mr. Sullivan's established reputation for the best goods at the least percentage of profit makes his announcement doubly interesting to our readers.



An organization of physicians has secured an option on property in the town of Schroeppel upon which it is hopde within the next few years the State may erect a sanitarium for thhe insane of Oswego and Onondaga counties. At a meeting of the Fulton Academy of Medicine held at the home of Dr. C. G. Whitaker last week, the local physicians went on record as unquestionably in favor of the project.

The Christian Scientists society of this city have completed arrangements with the Universalist society whereby they will occupy the auditorium of the church, corner First and Rochester streets, for the coming year. The lease was signed on Monday morning, Mrs. Jean M. Allen, first reader in the church, acting for the Scientists. The society has enjoyed phenominal growth during the six months of its existence, the membership having doubled and thribled in the past two months until it is necessary to have an established church home. A library will be established in the near future in which literature pertaining to the cult will be found in abundance. Miss Bertha Elder is organist in the church and Mrs. Harry A. Allen second reader.

Beginning Friday, Nov. 24, Mrs. L. G. Metcalf, will sell her Homemade Candies at the Green residence, Corner Fifth and Utica st., phone 1453. 11-29.

DEMPSTER CAMP MEETING

At the annual meeting of the trustees of the Dempster Camp Meeting Association, held in the First M. E. church in Pulaski, last week, Frank Elmhurst, New Haven, was re-appointed as general manager of the camp grounds. Officers were re-elected for the ensuing year as follows:

President, Rev Charles E. Miller, Rome; Vice President, Dr. C. F. Nichols, Vernon; Secretary, Rev. Frederick Maunder, Pulaski; Treasurer, Rev. George F. Shepherd, Mexico.

The reports of the Secretary and Treasurer indicate that the association is in a flourishing condition.

The next meeting of the trustees will be held at the camp meeting grounds in June, when the program will be arranged.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

The Board of Supervisors met Tuesday afternoon as a Board of County Canvassers. A. S. Baker, of Orwell, was named as Chairman and J. J. Little of this city as clerk. Mr. Barber appointed the following committees to inspect returns and compare rolls:

Albion, Amboy and West Monroe—Fuller and Rounds.

Constantia and Granby —Stanton and Buck.

Hannibal and Hastings—W. M. Gallagher, Woods.

Oswego Town and Orwell — Pierce and Bough.

Mexico and New Haven—A. S. Barker and Cumerford.

Palermo and Parish —Hydorn and Gaffney.

Redfield and Richland—Jackson an Snow.

Sandy Creek and Schroeppel — Thompson and Niles.

Scriba and Volney—Terry and Andelfinger.

Boylston and Williamstown—F. W. Gallagher and W. M. Barker.

Fulton:

First and Sixth wards—Rowe and Tighe.

Second and Third—Sweetland an Lockwood.

Fourth and Fifth—Crimmins and Potter.

Oswego City:

First, Second and Seventh wards — Siver and Ouderkirk.

Third, Fourth and Eighth—Hartnett and Hamer.

Fifth and Sixth—Gayer and Vincent.

Thomas W. Hamer, of Boylston, was elected Chairman of the Board of Supervisors Tuesday afternoon and William J. Mahaney re-elected clerk.

Chairman Hamer has promised to take care of the Democrats on an equal basis with the Republicans as to committee appointments.

Mr. Sweetland called the meeting to order and Mr. Terry presented the name of Mr. Hamer, in which he briefly alluded to his six years of service and said that there were few members who had made a better record. He asked the privilege of casting the unanimous ballot of the Board for Mr. Hamer.

A. S. Barker seconded Mr. Hamer's nomination and said that he believed that Mr. Hamer was entitled to the vote of every Supervisor present.

On motion of F. W. Gallagher Mr. Terry cast the ballot of the Board for the election of Mr. Hamer and he was declared the Chairman of the Board. The oath of office was administered by County Attorney Coville, and Mr. Sweetland in an appropriate speech turned over the gavel to him.

Mr. Hamer thanked the members of the Board for the high honor conferred upon him and said that it would be his aim and purpose to see to it that every member received a square deal.

Supervisor Woods moved the nomination of M. Mahaney as clerk and Mr. Hamer, on motion of Mr. Hartnett cast a single ballot for him and he was also declared electde. He took the oath of office and thanked the Board for their many kindnesses to him in the past.

By Mr. Gayer: That the Chairman and Clerk be named a committee to secure the usual supplies and committeerooms for the meeting of the Board. Adopted.

By Mr Vincent: That the rules of government of 1910 be made the rules of the session of 1911. Adopted.

Mr. Sweetland said that the Superintendent of Highways had suggested to him that it might be desirable to send a committee of two members of the Highway Committee to Rochester to attend the National Convention of Good Roads Builders, which is in session there at present. The County Superintendent is going, and it was the opinion of Mr. Sweetland that much valuable information could be obtained there at slight expense to the county.

W. M. Gallagher moved that the Chair name two of the members of the Highway Committee to attend.

W. M. Barker said that as all of the members of the Highway Committee were men in whose towns good road building was being conducted, that it might be better if the entire committee attended and the suggestion was adopted and the committee was authorized to attend if they desire. They pay their own expenses. Adjourned until three o'clock Wednesday.

The Board of Supervisors met at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon and without transacting business adjourned until Monday night at seven o'clock.

JAIL BREAKERS PLEAD GUILTY

Oswego.—Three of the four men who escaped from the Oswego County Jail on July 4, after foully assaulting Under Sheriff John H. Dennis and trying to shoot him with his own pistol, which they forcibly took from him, pleaded guilty before Judge Rowe to jail breaking. The fourth of the band, who not only sought to kill Dennis but to liberate many other prisoners (Walter Parker), was shot to death by a sheriff's posse near Syracuse after a long, hard chase.

THE WEEK

The gains made in recent weeks, even if moderate in volume, have served to strengthen business sentiment, which, as the year draws to a close is noticeably taking a more cheerful view of the situation. While it is recognized that business is still in a great transition period, and transition means change and uncertainty, yet such progress has been made in necessary readjustments as to impart a better feeling. This is especially noticeable in the West, which for some time this year has seemed to be more depressed than the East, which is closer to the sensitive financial markets. A larger volume of business is being carried on and there is now further buying for the future. The iron and steel trade is stimulated by the increased orders of railroads for rails and rolling stock and by the somewhat better demands for structural materials. In dry goods there is further large trading in print cloths, while in cotton and cotton goods generally there is a fair movement with indications of increased orders for forward delivery. The seasonable weather and the approach of the holidays are imparting activity to retail trade. New England shoe factories are quite active and there is a good demand for leather.

The larger orders from the railroads include rails and equipment, the New York Central system having awarded contracts for 17,400 cars, while another leading company is expected to enter the market soon. The new tonnage in rails will be considerably larger than last year.

The increased demand in retail dry goods stores, due to cooler weather, has lead to more active demand in primary channels for any lot of merchandise ready for quick shipment. Prices are generally settling to lower levels and this is stimulating the placing of contract business in a quiet way. Sales at Fall River were 110,000 pieces of print cloths last week and there is additional trading in heavy staple convertibles. Orders for hose, belting and miscellaneous wide duck are increasing, and prints, ginghams and bleached cottons are moving steadily in small lots. Miscellaneous export trade of cotton goods is very satisfactory and no cancellations of China orders have been received. The narrowing margin of profit is causing a careful attention to the danger of overproduction at the mills. In woolens and worsteds, mills are running a substantial part of machinery and have been booking more forward business.

In the leather markets a single sale of about 125,000 union backs is noted; otherwise quieter conditions prevail, which is expected in view of the fact that many buyers covered their requirements during September and October. Consumers whose wants are not covered ahead are still operating in a hand-to-mouth way because of the high level of prices.

Sentiment in wheat remains distinctly bearish, yet technical conditions gave some support to prices. With the markets plainly oversold there was more disposition to cover, although the general news was again depressing.

Liabilities of commercial failures thus far reported for November amount to $7,180,52, of which $2,595,092 are in manufacturing, $3,246,554 in trading and $1,338,865 in other commercial lines. Failures this week numbered 266 in the United States against 274 last year, and 26 in Canada compared with 33 a year ago.

CIVIL WAR ECHOES

Martin B. Schenck and I attended school together at Falley Seminary in 1865, and were good comrades and have been since. He lived at Jacksonville and I lived at South Hannibal. I was one of his patrons while he was in the hardware business in Fulton. He was very much interested in the story of my army life published recently. The following sketch I copied from the Meriden Morning Record that I received:

Martin Bryant Schenck was born April 29, 1838, in Fulton, N. Y. His youth was spent on his father's farm and he acquired his education in the "little red schoolhouse" and in Falley Seminary in Fulton. He taught school for a while and learned the builder's trade just before the war. He laid down his building tools to join the Union army and served from 1862 to 1865 in the 147th Regiment, N. Y. Volunteers. During his term of enlistment he performed clerical duties in the war department at Washington and saw a great deal of President Lincoln, in fact, had often talked to him in the trying days of the war. He has been an active member and trustee of Merriam Post, G. A. R. since his coming to Meriden and his war memories were dear to him and also the comradeship of other men who wore the blue. Mr. Schenck was always proud of the fact that he cast his first presidential vote for Abraham Lincoln in 1860 and again four years later sending his ballot home in an envelope.

Mr. Schenck was at the front only six months and the remainder of his enlistment was spent in Washington where he held the important post of clerk of the central guard house—the Washington military prison. Mr. Schenck was a fever patient in the army hospital when Lincoln was shot. While at the front, Mr. Schenck's military company was in the battle of Fredericksburg. In camp his feet were frozen so he had special duty assigned him in Washington afterward.

AGAINST FREE PAPER

Congressman Luther W. Mott announced Thursday that immediately after the opening of the coming session of Congress he would introduce a bill for the repeal of Section 2 of th Reciprocity Act. Owing to the defeat of the Canadian act this section is the only one of the bill in effect. Congressman Mott's district is probably more interested in paper manufacturing than is any other in the country and the paper manufacturers of the three counties of Jefferson, Lewis and Oswego are vitally concerned in this matter. Congressman Mott has talked with some of the manufacturers of Oswego County, and has had some correspondence with those of the other counties whom he expects to meet before his departure for Washington next month.

SAVED CHILD FROM DEATH

"After our child had suffered from severe bronchial trouble for a year," wrote G. T. Richardson, of Richardson's Mills, Ala., "we feared it had consumption. It had a bad cough all the time. We tried many remedies without avail, and doctor's medicine seemed as useless. Finally we tried Dr. King's New Discovery, and are pleased to say that one bottle effected a complete cure, and our child is again strong and healthy." For coughs, colds, hoarseness, la-grippe, asthma, croup and sore lungs, its the most infallible remedy that's made. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by the Red Cross Pharmacy.

FIRST ST. FULTON, N.Y.

WILL NAME DENNIS

Sheriff-elect Stranahan, of Fulton, was in this city Thursday and announced that he would re-appoint John Dennis Under-Sheriff. Mr. Dennis has held the position for nine years and has made a good officer. Among the members of the Board of Supervisors, Wednesday, the question as to the right of that body to name the Under-Sheriff was discussed. There was a promise, it is said, that Charlie Lockwood, of Scriba, would be appointed by the Board. He was the candidate of C. I. Kingsbury. Doctor Baxter and other leading Republicans of Scriba. Mr. Stranahan submitted the question to Udelle Bartlette and the latter held that there is no question about Mr. Stranahan's right to appoint and the announcement was made that Mr. Dennis will get the place.—Palladium.

YEGGMEN AT PULASKI

Pulaski.—Last Wednesday morning when the office of the Ontario Iron Company, at the foot of Mill street, was opened up, the safe was found to have been blown to pieces.

The burglars had wrenched off the handle to the safe's door and inserted a large charge of nitro-glycerine. After covering the safe with a number of old coats to deaden the sound, the explosive was set off.

The books and papers were found undisturbed, but forty cents, which had been left in the cash drawer, was missing. The back door of the office had been forced.

Under-sheriff Dennis of Oswego, is assisting Officer Holmes in the investigation.

IS THE WORLD GROWIN GBETTER

Many things go to prove that it is. The way thousands are trying to help others is proof. Among them is Mrs. W. W. Gould, of Pittsfield, N. H. Finding good health by taking Electric Bitters, she now advises other sufferers, everywhere, to take them. "For years I suffered with stomach and kidney trouble," she writes. "Every medicine I used failed till I took Electric Bitters. But this great remedy helped me wonderfully." They'll help any woman. They're the best tonic and finest liver and kidney remedy that's made. Try them. You'll see. 50c. at the Red Cross Pharmacy.

Can you bake bread in the afternoon?

Some people can't because the fire seems to get contrary about that time, and simply won't start up no matter how much you try. If you ever have that trouble, you will be interested in the Model "R" Sterling Range, for here is a range with a big deep firebox, with patented grates and flue system, that is always ready to bake. You won't believe how different it is until you "ask the woman that has one"—SHE knows!

Through his choice of pictures for exhibition in his two motion picture playhouses Dreamland and Theatorium, Proprietor Irving Galusha has popularized the motion picture form of entertainment with all circles in Fulton. It is entertaining in the highest degree to witness, as one can, in either playhouse on any day life portrayals enacted by players who are stars amid scenes of surpassing beauty, the stage settings being usually the broad and beautiful out-of-doors. Clean, wholesome subjects only are tolerated by the management every picture shown in these theatres being approved by the National Board of Censors. At Dreamland tomorrow, Thursday, Mr. Galusha will exhibit a beautiful motion picture portrayal of Dickens' "David Copperfield." Three separate reels, 3,000 feet of film, comprise the series: "The Early Life of David Copperfield," "David Copperfield and Little Emily" and "The Loves of David Copperfield." These pictures have been favorably commented upon by the press of the larger cities and are well worth while.

SANE CHRISTMAS

Now that the sane Fourth has been secured by agitation, attention should be turned toward a similar observance of Christmas. There are few things more foolish than the rivalry of extravagance which many indulge in at that festal season. Costly gifts, instead of making the ocacsion tend to mar it. There should be a return to the old-time simplicity, when the spirit of the day was the chief charm. The custom in some families to limit the price of gifts to a fixed amount, sets ingenuity to working and adds to the interest, while the major part should go to those who need to be remembered because of some misfortune.—Ex.

ELECTORS TAKE NOTICE

To the Electors of Oswego County

Every elector who wishes to vote at the primaries in the year 1912, must be enrolled in accordance with the provision of the Election Law. And the Inspectors of Election will meet in their respective districts from twelve o'clock noon until nine o'clock, p. m., on the first and second Tuesdays of December, 1912, for the purpose of making such enrollment, and every qualified voter should see to it that this name is properly placed on the enrollment book.

SUPERVISORS MAY FIX SALARY

That the Board of Supervisors have the power to fix the salary of every county officer, except Judicial officers, and have the power to appoint and fix the salary of every county employe, is evident from a copy of the law enacted June 16th last. The matter is of particular importance at this time in view of the fact that it is claimed that under the provisions of the statute the Board may, if it desires, name the Under-Sheriff and Deputy Sheriffs to serve under Sheriff-elect M. A. Stranahan.

The law, chapter 359, an act to amend the County law in relation to the powers of Boards of Supervisors, reads as follows:

5. Have power to fix the amount and the time or manner of payment of the salary or compensation of any county officer or employe, except a Judicial officer and the mode of appointment, number and grade of the clerks, assistants or employes in any county office, notwithstanding th provisions of any general or special law fixing the amount of such salary or the time or manner of payment thereof, or providing for the mode of appointment, number or grade of the clerks, assistants or employes in any county office, or vesting in any other board, body, commission or officer authority to fix the amount of such salary or compensation or the time or manner thereof, or to provide for the mode of appointment, number or grade of the clerks, assistants or employes in any county office; and the power hereby vested in the Board of Supervisors shall be exclusive of any other board, body, commission or officer, notwithstanding any general or special law. The salary or compensation of an officer or employe elected or appointed for a definite term shall not be increased or diminished during such term.

2. This act shall take effect immediately.

INSTANTLY KILLED BY FALL

Louis LaPrade, aged 18, and until a few weeks ago a resident of Tupper Lake, was instantly killed at the American Woolen mill on Monday morning by falling down an elevator shaft and striking on his head two stories below. A fracture at the base of the skull caused death. Coroner Marsh and Drs. Wells and Schlappi were called at once and the body was removed to the E. S. Brown undertaking parlors, where they were prepared for burial and then removed to the former boarding place of the deceased on the west side. A sister at Tupper Lake and relatives in Canada were notified.

SEALED PROPOSALS

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Public Works of Fulton, N. Y., at the office of the Board of Public Works, at 8 p. m. of Monday, Dec. 18, 1911, for the construction of a concrete steel bridge across the Oswego river at Broadway, in the City of Fulton, N. Y., according to the plans and specifications prepared by the Concrete Steel Engineering company of New York city.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check on a National Bank, payable to the order of the City Chamberlain of the City of Fulton, N. Y., for $7,500.00, or currency for that amount, without conditions or endorsement of any kind, as evidence of good faith.

The successful biddder will be required to furnish a bond acceptable to be Board of Public Works in the sum of 50 per cent. of the contract price. Plans are on file in the office of the City Engineer of Fulton, N. Y.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

Plans and specifications may be obtained from the City Engineer or the Concrete Steel Engineering company, Park Row Bldg., New York city. A deposit of $25.00 for each set of plans and specifications will be required.

Dated Fulton, N. Y., Nov. 21, 1911.

Allison G. Crandall.
Closing ceremonies....Officers of lodge
Closing ode.....Lodge and guests
Benediction.
Postlude March.
Accompanist, Mrs. W. A. LaFurney.

Guests are requested to join the lodge in singing. Members of the lodge are requested to be at Elks' Home not later than 2:45 P. M. The attendance is limited to members and the adult members of their families; each member may also invite a friend. Visiting Elks in the city are invited to sit with the lodge.

WILL BE PLEASING TO FRIENDS.

The Oswego Palladium is authority for the statement that a new office, that of Commissioner of Public Safety, is to be created in Oswego this spring and that Sheriff Charles W. Taft is the official selected to fill the place. The term will be six years and the salary $2,000 per annum. Mr. Taft has a host of friends throughout the county who would be unqualifiedly pleased to have him appointed to the position, knowing that whatever he sets his hand to is done thoroughly and in a satisfactory manner.

The Palladium says in part: Leading organization Republicans admit that the Sheriff was slated for the place. At present his legal residence is in Williamstown, but he has leased apartments in East Third street and will occupy them as soon as he turns over the jail property to Sheriff-elect Stranahan. That will make him a bona-fide resident of Oswego and eligible for appointment to a city position.

Sheriff Taft's friends say that he would make an ideal man for the head of the combined Police and Fire department. His experience in hunting and caring for criminals during the last three years as Sheriff, has given him a thorough insight into the workings of the Police department, and before he moved from Williamstown, he was for a number of years chief of the Williamstown Volunteer Fire department, one of the crack organizations of the county, the terror of all the other "Vol." commands in prize drills and hose races. The Sheriff can couple on a nozzle with the best of them and it is pointed out that much of the time he was chief of the Williamstown squad, there was not a disastrous fire there.

Ely's Cream Balm has been tried and not found wanting in thousands of homes all over the country. It has won a place in the family medicine closet among the reliable household remedies, where it is kept at hand for use in treating cold in the head just as soon as some member of the household begins the preliminary sneezing or snuffling. It gives immediate relief and a day or two's treatment will put a stop to a cold which might, if not checked, become chronic and run into a bad case of catarrh.

Two Thanksgiving Day Dinners

BY "OLD MAN DARBY."

Archibald Worthington Marlborough James (which, we pause to remark, is a great set of names), commanded his chauffeur on Thanksgiving Day, to drive him at once to the town's best cafe. At the door of the latter, a uniformed flunkey—who looked very much like a gold-bedecked monkey—assisted friend James to reach the front door, where he was greeted by three or four more, who promptly divested him of hat and coat (and received as a tip a two-dollar note). The pompous headwaiter now took him in hand, showered him with attention in a manner quite grand, settled him into a big easy chair and spread out before him a large bill-of-fare. One waiter supplied him with spoons, knives and forks, another stood waiting to simply pull corks, while still other waiters, to show they were able, adjusted the silver and danced 'round the table. James started with soup, then tackled some fish, and down in the entries sought out some dish that might strike his fancy or taste halfway right and appeal to his jaded old appetite. On through the courses of turkey and roasts, through all the eatables that French cuisine boasts, with reckless abandon he ordered and tried dish after dish 'till the headwaiter sighed and informed Mr. James that he had come to the end, that he knew of no more for which he could send. James tipped the waiters, and then paid his bill (an amount that would make your heart stand still), and puffing away at his big cigar, was assisted out to his waiting car. "Home," he commanded in accents deep and closing his eyes was soon asleep.

He dreamed he was back in a certain small place—he knew the town well, recognized every face. This was the town in which he was born, a place that he always had thought most forlorn but now it seemed changed—it even looked gay—and somehow he knew it was Thanksgiving Day. He ascended a hill by a path he well knew, whistling the while like all small boys do—for in this dream-picture he was small Archie James, and hadn't acquired those other big names. On top of the hill stood a small wooden frame. He saw the door open; heard his mother exclaim, "Hurry up, Archie, and come in and eat," and soon at the table he had taken his seat. He started on soup; it was plain navy bean and it didn't come out of a silver tureen, but some how or other it just touched the spot—this soup made by mother and served piping hot. The turkey came next, with baked sweet potatoes, and cranberry sauce and home-canned tomatoes, and real homemade bread—not this French stuff they buy us and serve in the restaurants, sliced on the bias. Then came a big pudding, steaming and hot—made in a sack and cooked in a pot by some mystic old process that his mother knew, a process quite old and but known to a few. After the dinner came no fancy cut glass bowl for his fingers, and no small demitasse was served little Archie to help him digest; what he wanted the most was a quiet place to rest. So he murmured, "Excuse me," and slipped from his seat and managed somehow to get to his feet. Heading straight for the parlor, he dropped into a chair and was soon fast asleep, free from trouble and care. Then came a strange voice, a voice loud and clear, which kept on repeating, "Wake up, sir, we're here!" He woke with a start and, rubbing his eyes, he gazed at the speaker with a look of surprise. 'Guess I was dreaming," James sheepishly said. The chauffeur said, "Yes, sir," and nodded his head. "I guess you were having some bad dreams, too. When one sleeps in the day, they generally do." "Bad dreams? Nonsense," said the man in the car, as he searched through his pockets for another cigar, "I'd give you this auto and all of my wealth if only I had my old time health and could sit down once more to a home-cooked meal prepared by my mother—that's how I feel." James stepped from his car, and, as he went up the walk, the chauffeur could swear that he heard the man talk of turkey and pudding and thick pumpkin pie. "The boss is crazy," he murmured, "or I hope to die."

STOCKHOLDERS HOLD MEETING.

The stockholders in the Independent Telephone company held their annual meeting Saturday afternoon at Dr. C. R. Lee's residence and they report matters very satisfactory in every respect in their corporation. Mr. Arthur W. Wiltsie was elected secretary and treasurer of the company to succeed M. S. Powell, and J. H. Hollingsworth was elected a director to succeed Mr. Powell.

The other officers were re-elected as follows: President, Mr. H. L. Paddock; vice-president, Dr. C. R. Lee; manager and cashier, Mr. L. R. Owens. Mr. Owens' reappointment gives universal satisfaction to the company's patrons.

The directors are Messrs. J. R. Sullivan, H. L. Paddock, A. W. Wiltsie, J. H. Hollingsworth, E. Quirk, John Hunter, Charles R. Lee, F. A. Gage, D. E. Wadsworth, C. T. Currier, T. C. Sweet, A. H. Cowie.

OSWEGO APPROPRIATION INCLUDED.

Congressman Mott received word from the War Department Friday that $85,000 for the Oswego harbor was included in the estimate for continuing the work for river and harbor improvements for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1913. This is the amount which was asked for by the Oswego office and which Congressman Mott endeavored to have appropriated. There is over $100,000 in addition available for work at this harbor.

IS THE WORLD GROWIN GBETTER

Many things go to prove that it is. The way thousands are trying to help others is proof. Among them is Mrs. W. W. Gould, of Pittsfield, N. H. Finding good health by taking Electric Bitters, she now advises other sufferers, everywhere, to take them. "For years I suffered with stomach and kidney trouble," she writes. "Every medicine I used failed till I took Electric Bitters. But this great remedy helped me wonderfully." They'll help any woman. They're the best tonic and finest liver and kidney remedy that's made. Try them. You'll see. 50c. at the Red Cross Pharmacy.

SAVE YOUR TREES.

Fruit and Shade Trees Can Be Saved By the Science of Tree Surgery.

Do you know that your trees now suffering from a complication of diseases may be doctored so that they will overcome disease and take new hold of life, and give you elegant shade for the rest of your days? Do you know trees are one of the most valuable assets to your property? Well, they are. Ask the Real Estate man if a place with nice trees does not sell more readily than one without trees. Warren Smith, the "Tree Doctor," is now taking orders for Spring work. Phone 1227. Just step to the phone and call up the "doctor" and tell him you want him to give your trees an inspection, it will cost you nothing for an inspection and it may be the means of saving a life. DO IT NOW.

WOMAN MADE NIGHT HIDEOUS.

Officers Brannigan and Pare arrested Mary Milo and Clinton Yardley at midnight on Sunday for public intoxication. The woman was placed in the woman's cell in the jail and she started in to create havoc with the furnishings and fittings to the room. In the breaking of glass she sustained a badly cut finger which necessitated the attention of a physician. At 10 o'clock on Monday morning the husband ascertained his wife's whereabouts and stated that as it was her first offense, he could not explain her conduct.

"Auld Lang Syne," two-reel Vitagraph production, with old Scotch songs by a duo of trained voices, will be the Thanksgiving program at Theatorium. It's well worth 10 cents admission.

ENJOYABLE BANQUET HELD.

The "Men and Religion" banquet held in the Presbyterian church parlors on Tuesday evening was a complete success, and thoroughly enjoyed by the large number in attendance. At the conclusion of the serving of the menu Mr. John Hunter, presiding as toastmaster, called upon the following for responses to subjects assigned them:

"The Men and Religion Forward Movement—What Is It?" Prof. C. V. Hartson.

Music by male quartet.

"Evangelism," the Rev. G. C. Wadsworth.

"What Shall We Do for Our Boys?" Dr. Robert Simpson.

"The Christian Man and His Bible," E. R. Redhead.

"Men and Missions," F. J. Switzer.

Male quartet.

"Social Service," Paul Ulman, Syracuse; the Rev. Murray Shipley Howland, Syracuse.

It is expected that before the new year arrives a new fraternity will be organized in the High school to be known as the Ki-Yi-Yi, a rival to the Alpha Kappa Alpha organization, so well known. The new society will be a strictly secret one and many of the athletes will hold a membership.

City Clerk Harrington and City Attorney Fanning are engaged in compiling the revised city charter to place in the hands of W. H. Barrett, to whom the contract was awarded several weeks ago. There are more than sixty amendments to the charter since it was adopted.

Constant complaint is heard relative to the poor lighting of the lower bridge. It is feared that damage suits against the city may result unless more lights are provided.

Mr. James Ward entertained a party of friends at a rabbit dinner at his hotel in First street on Friday evening.

West siders complain that the new disposal plant has sprung a leak and that the leakage of the contents onto the bank is neither sightly nor healthful.

Mr. Maurice Dunham of Syracuse spent Sunday with his family in this city.

Mrs. Carl Townsend has returned to her home in Rochester, after spending a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Skeel, in this city.

Mrs. Paul Blake and son, who have been spending some time in Colton, are the guests of Druggist and Mrs. W. J.

Mr. Fred M. Hart of Oswego, expert accountant, is verifying the accounts in the City Chamberlain's office preparatory to the closing of the year's work. The city is wise in that it, at the expiration of each term, verifies the figures in the various offices, thus protecting both the outgoing and the incoming official in that department. It is money well invested, and not a taxpayer will find fault with the expenditure.

Mrs. Edward P. Cole is critically ill at her home in First street. A five weeks' illness culminating in abscess of the liver makes the outcome very much in doubt. Dr. Elsner was called in consultation with Dr. H. M. Doane on Sunday evening in her case.

Mrs. Catherine Hayes, aged 80, died on Friday at her home in West Third street. Three daughters and seven sons survive her.

Veteran Peter Buck was stricken with pneumonia on Friday and is very ill in the Lee hospital.

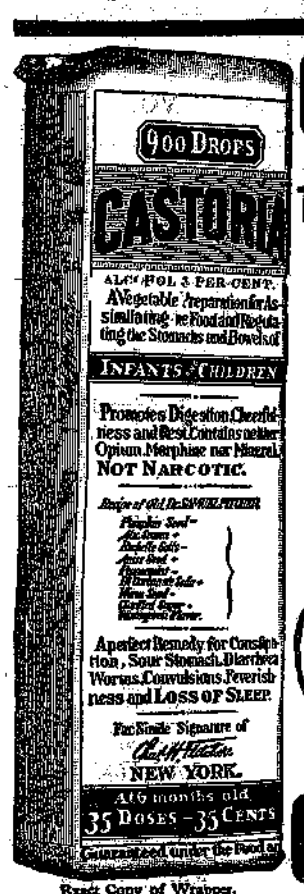
William, the little son of the late William Coleman, has been critically ill with pneumonia and his recovery was not expected. His condition is a little more hopeful this week.

Mrs. John Chubb is in the Lee Memorial hospital ill with pneumonia.

The newly elected officers of the Men's club of the Zion Episcopal church are: M. J. Fedler, president; Mr. Clark, vice-president; Mr. Jennings, secretary, and Charles Hall, treasurer. An executive and reception committee will be appointed soon. A meeting and smoker has been announced for December 17. The membership of the club exceeds thirty-five.

MARRIED

The home of Dr. and Mrs. F. L. Cary in West Broadway was the scene of a quiet home wedding on Thursday, when their sister, Miss Helena F. Smith, was united in marriage with Mr. Augustus Klinck, an electrician of Utica. The bride and groom were attended by Miss Ida Klinck and Mr. Stephen Klinck, all of Utica. The Rev. F. A. Miller was the officiating clergyman. At the conclusion of the ceremony and congratulations, a bridal supper was served and Mr. and Mrs. Klinck left for a western bridal trip. They will make their future home in Utica.



Mr. Fred E. Dolbear and Miss Marietta Flint were united in marriage on Thursday noon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Flint, in Park street, the Rev. Mr. Hoffmier of Syracuse, a friend of the family, being the officiating clergyman. The home was prettily decorated in a color scheme of yellow, white and green; smilax and chrysanthemums forming the decorations. The wedding march was played by Miss Anna Flint of New York city, a sister of the bride. Miss Eldora Flint, another sister, was bridesmaid and the groomsman was Mr. Ray Westover. Both bride and attendant wore tailored gowns of navy blue. After the ceremony a bridal collation was served the guests by friends of the bride, the Misses Grace Patrick, Nellie Ottman, Hazel and Ruth Ingamells and Blanche Humphrey. Mr. and Mrs. Dolbear will reside at No. 109 Warner avenue, Syracuse. The groom is attending Syracuse University. His bride is very popular in musical circles in Fulton.

Monday evening, at the home of the bride's parents, Editor and Mrs. F. M. Cornell, in Third street, occurred the marriage of Sheriff-elect Myron A. Stranahan and Miss Myrtle May Cornell. The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. C. G. Wadsworth, pastor of Zion Episcopal church, of which the bride is a member, and the guests were the immediate relatives of the young couple. The wedding was very quiet and the bride and groom were unattended. The wedding had been planned for Tuesday, November 28, but the enthusiastic friends of the bride and groom were laying so many plans for their entertainment after the wedding, that they conceived the happy thought of being married on Monday evening and starting on their wedding trip before the merry crowd became aware that the ceremony had been performed. At the conclusion of the ceremony and congratulations, Mr. and Mrs. Stranahan left to spend the honeymoon in New York city, the bride being gowned in a tailored suit of brown with hat to match. After February 15, 1912, Sheriff and Mrs. Stranahan will be "at home" to their friends at Mr. Stranahan's official home for the coming three years, on the East River Road, Oswego. Mr. Stranahan has been a successful merchant in Fulton for five years and he has just completed a phenomenal run for the sheriffship of Oswego county. The bride has spent most of her girlhood days in this city. The friends of the young couple are awaiting an opportunity to shower them with congratulations.

UNCLE WALT, THE POETIC PHILOSOPHER

The Bad Cold Season

I am coughing, mother, coughing, till my neck is out of joint, and I wish you'd bring the gooseegrease, my worn bosom to anoint. I have coughed in ancient lingos, I have coughed in modern tongues, till my India rubber larynx seems to telescope my lungs. I've done ground and lofty coughing, all the plain and fancy kinds, till my coughing jarred the plaster and shook down the window blinds; I have coughed a countertenor, I have coughed a rumbling bass, I have coughed until my coughing blew the whiskers from my face. All the dope you're brought me, mother simply fails to hit the spot, I have taken tons of tablets, demijohns of liquid rot; I have drunk the tea you brewed me, worn a poultice on my throat, and the doctor has my savings and the druggist has my goat. Let us change the treatment, mother; give me goose or gander grease; rub it on my tortured larynx and perhaps I'll die in peace.

Walt Mason.

may not paralyze a home so completely as a mother's long illness. But Dr. King's New Life Pills are a splendid remedy for women. "They gave me wonderful benefit in constipation and female trouble," wrote Mrs. M. C. Dunlap, of Leadill, Tenn. If ailing, try them. 25c at the Red Cross Pharmacy.

TRUE IN FULTON

Recently a large department store in Philadelphia, strong rivals of John Wanamaker, whose proprietors had risen to that position from clerkships, took 20 pages of advertising space in the Press of that city, paying several thousand dollars therefor. There are merchants in a village not a thousand miles from Skaneateles, who wonder why so much trade goes to Syracuse and Auburn, who would suffer a severe attack of heart failure if they were solicited to place a quarter-page ad., one time, in their local papers.—Skaneateles Press.

THE ADAMS SEPARATION

By WINIFRED COWLES

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams, having concluded that marriage is a failure, agreed to separate. Mr. Adams owned the house, but Mrs. Adams owned the homestead in which she had been born, and she decided to go there to live. Perhaps I am not right in including Mr. Adams with his wife in considering matrimony a failure. He was a steady going business man whom nothing appeared to trouble, and whenever he took any action it was not on impulse, but after deliberation.

Mrs. Adams departed on Monday and on Tuesday afternoon returned to her husband's house to procure some articles that she had forgotten.

"Who are you?" she asked of the person who received her.

"The housekeeper."

"Well, I'm Mrs. Adams. I have left some things upstairs in my room that I want."

She brushed past the housekeeper, went upstairs, tried her bedroom door and found it locked. She called to the housekeeper for the key. The housekeeper informed her that Mr. Adams had locked the doors of the rooms he wished kept closed and committed the keys to her charge. She did not feel at liberty to permit any one to enter any of those closed rooms.

"But I am—I mean I have been—the mistress of this house. I wish you to give me the key to my room."

"Not without Mr. Adams' order."

Mrs. Adams was nonplused. She had not considered what it would be to find herself locked out of her own bedroom. Flouncing into the library, she threw off her wraps, unpinned her hat and laid it on a table with an air of one who proposed to settle herself and remain till the crack of doom.

"Will you wait for Mr. Adams to return?" asked the housekeeper deferentially.

"What is that to you?"

"Nothing, but I thought it might be something to you since Mr. Adams told me he wouldn't dine at home today, but at his club, and he will spend the evening there."

"I will dine at home," said Mrs. Adams decisively.

"I have no orders as to a guest at dinner; therefore I have not prepared anything."

"I'll not trouble you to prepare anything. Send Susan to me."

"Mr. Adams has discharged Susan."

"Discharged Susan! I told him to keep Susan."

"I thought you and Mr. Adams had separated."

"Never mind about that. I don't propose to give up my house to your management."

She whisked off to the telephone room and shut the door.

"Give me the Athenaeum club—I mean 4568."

When the club answered Mrs. Adams asked if her husband was there, and on being told that he was she desired that he be called to the phone; his wife desired to speak to him.

This was reported to Mr. Adams in the reading room. He noticed that the words wife and husband had been used instead of Mr. and Mrs. Adams. When he took up the receiver and was asked "Who is this?" he replied:

"Mr. Adams."

"I'm your wife," was the reply.

"Oh!"

"I'm at home."

"Your home or mine?"

"Both our homes. I see that I have scarcely left it when you have got in a housekeeper."

"Just so."

"And she has refused me admission to my own room."

"Whose room?"

"My room—mine, mine! Do you hear?"

"Oh!"

"I'm going to stay here till you come home to dinner and let me into my room."

"There isn't any dinner there."

"I shall order one sent in from Blakesley's."

"For one?"

"No; for two."

"Who's the other one?"

"You."

"Oh!"

"Frank, I've come to the conclusion that this separation is all nonsense."

"Nonsense?"

"I'm going to stay just where I am. I wish you to come home at once and discharge this housekeeper. I don't want her in the house."

"Oh!"

"Well, will you come?"

"Of course. If I'm sure of a dinner."

"I'll attend to that."

"Well, I'll be there by 6."

"All right. Goodby."

"Goodby."

When Mr. Adams appeared his wife was somewhat mollified. Indeed, she was quite ready to be very good to him. Her bitterness against the housekeeper, however, remained the same. Mr. Adams greeted his wife as though nothing unusual had happened. He called the housekeeper in and introduced her.

"Miss Ellen Burbank."

"What!"

"My half sister. By the bye, you two have never met, I believe."

"Frank, you have been putting up a job on me."

Adams and Miss Burbank laughed. That ended the Adams separation.

Spain's Free and Easy Railways.

An idea of the free and easy methods of the railways in Spain is given in this incident, related by Henry A. Franck in "Four Months Afoot in Spain:"

When I reached the station next morning the platform gate was locked and the train I had hoped to take was legally departed. A railway hanger on in rags and hemp sandals, however, climbed the iron picket fence and shouted a word to the engineer. Then, beckoning to me to follow, he trotted back into the building and rapped authoritatively on the closed window of the ticket office.

"Senor," he said as the agent looked out upon us, "be kind enough to sell this caballero a ticket."

"The train is gone," answered the agent.

"Not so, senor," replied the bundle of rags haughtily. "I am having it held that this cavalier may take it."

"Ah, very well," responded the official, and, having sold me the ticket, he handed to the hanger on the key to the platform gate. As I passed through it the latter held out his hand, into which I dropped a copper.

"Muchisimas gracias, caballero," he said, bowing profoundly, "and may your grace forever travel with God."

Germs in the Teeth.

Everybody knows in a general way how important it is to give the teeth a good cleaning and to rinse the mouth out first thing in the morning. The object, of course, is to remove the accumulation of bacteria which gathers on the teeth, gums, tongue and palate during the hours of sleep. How many germs do you suppose accumulate during the night's sleep? In answer to this question E. C. Bousfield, writing in the London Lancet, gives some interesting and rather startling figures, which are worth quoting. He states that he has found the mouth on waking in the morning to obtain about 3,000,000,000 bacteria capable of being removed by a fivefold rinsing with twenty-five cubic centimeters of water each time. After ordinary washing of the teeth with a hard toothbrush about one-fourth the number could still be rinsed away. After using tooth paste only 120,000,000 were left.

Gorillas.

At present there is not a live gorilla in America. There have never been more than three, and only one of these lived more than a few weeks.

"I would give $10,000 for a gorilla in good condition," said the superintendent of a noted zoological garden, "and we could get the money back in a few months owing to the crowds of people who would come to see it. A gorilla would be a great drawing card, but gorillas cannot be got for money. They grow sometimes to 400 pounds in weight. Their home is a small strip of marshy land on the west coast of Africa. The strip is perhaps 250 miles long and 100 miles deep, and the gorillas stay back from the coast and are hard to get. Once out of their native element they die from climatic changes and lack of proper food."—Detroit Free Press.

Caste in Music.

"Sometimes it is a disadvantage to have a musician with a reputation at the head of a hotel orchestra," said a hotel manager. "We found this out not long ago, when people from the middle west, who are among our best patrons, wanted our orchestra to play at a wedding in which they were interested and which took place in a private house. As the company got a little warmed up they decided they would have some dancing, so the hostess asked the orchestra leader to play. Would he? Not on your life. He was an artist, he was, and it was not his business to descend to playing for dances. The result was that one of the guests had to play the piano, and we almost lost the trade of the family we were trying to be especially nice to."—New York Sun.

Heine Made Goethe Smile.

When I visited Goethe, in Weimar, and stood before him, I involuntarily glanced at his side to see whether the eagle was not there with the lightning in his beak. I was nearly speaking Greek to him; but, as I observed that he understood German, I stated to him in German that the plums on the road between Jena and Weimar were very good. I had for so many long winter nights thought over what lofty and profound things I would say to Goethe if ever I saw him. And when I saw him at last I said to him that the Saxon plums were very good! And Goethe smiled.—Heinrich Heine, "Reisebilder."

The Advantage of Waiting.

Her Father—But, my boy, surely you are too young to marry Aurelia. How old are you? Her Suitor—One and twenty, sir. Her Father—And she is twenty-seven—too great a disparity. Why not wait half a dozen years? Then you'll be twenty-seven and she'll probably be just about the same age as you.

High Life.

"Is it meet and proper that you eat your heart out so?"

She did not answer.

"Dear heart!" he whispered intensely.

Then she lifted her eye tearfully to his. "Everything to eat is dear, these days!" she faltered brokenly.—Puck.

Deadlocked.

He—I am willing to make concessions. His Wife—Really! He—Yes, but it seems impossible to make the supply meet the demand.—Boston Transcript.

The original noise is what counts. Most folks are only echoes.

THE WEEK

Both in business confidence and in volume of business transactions the situation continues to improve. The gain is very gradual and conservative, and there is little disposition to go beyond satisfaction of immediate wants—but it is a gain; and the significant thing is that this improvement has now been maintained for several weeks. The cessation of disturbing international difficulties, the easier conditions of the international money markets, the growing conviction that domestic economic problems are shaping themselves for the better, and the pressing need of doing something to replenish depleted stocks, all contribute to the improvement which is being achieved. A notable development is the more active buying of rails, cars and other equipment by the railroads, a fact which imparts a decidedly better feeling in the iron and steel and supply trades.

Purchases of equipment by the railroads provide sufficient business to insure activity at the mills for several months to come, and on the recent brisk buying movement orders for some 40,000 cars were placed, with as many more in prospect before the close of the year.

Purchasing of cotton goods of the heavier and coarser descriptions for the manufacturing trades has steadied prices during the week. Miscellaneous export trade, however, is steady, and for the year to date shipments of domestics exceed last year by over $5,000,000. Dress goods and men's wear mills are in a better position as to orders and are cleaning up stocks very rapidly. The yarn markets are steadier, a fairly broad movement of merchandise being shown, and in the New England wool market transfers aggregate 3,000,000 or 4,000,000 pounds for the week and prices tend higher.

Footwear conditions improve as the season advances, and the influx of orders for prompt shipment, as well as for future delivery, show a substantial increase this week. The demand for leather is still rather quiet, but trade shows some improvement over a week ago and prices are firmly held.

Conflicting crop advices from Argentina produced irregularity in wheat, reports from that country now being an important price-making factor in the speculative markets. Support was also derived from the surprisingly small world's exports. Western receipts this week were again larger than a year ago, 4,890,270 bushels contrasting with 3,594,537, while shipments from all domestic points, flour included, rose to 2,366,106 bushels as against 1,841,910 in 1910. Increased country offerings and a slack cash demand depressed corn at the start, but a brisk rally followed in response to unsettled weather in the belt. Arrivals of 3,479,079 bushels of corn at primary markets this week compared with 3,100,417 last year, whereas Atlantic coast exports were only 13,998 bushels, as contrasted with 193,056 in the earlier period. Cotton still fluctuates within narrow limits, the lighter than expected ginning returns having scant effect. Spinners at home buy conservatively, but European mills are purchasing freely.

Liabilities of commercial failures thus far reported for November amount to $9,541,279, of which $3,660,402 are in manufacturing, $4,448,260 in trading and $1,532,717 in other commercial lines. Failures this week numbered 274 in the United States against 228 last year, and 32 in Canada compared with 32 a year ago.

MAY SELL RED CROSS SEALS IN POSTOFFICES.

Treasury Department Gives Permission to Tuberculosis Fighters to Use all Buildings.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1st.

On the opening of the sale of Red Cross Seals today, permission to sell these Christmas stickers in every postoffice in the United States has been granted to the agents selling seals, according to an official announcement made from Red Cross Seal Headquarters this morning.

In a letter to Charles L. Magee, secretary of the American Red Cross, the Treasury Department gives directions to the custodians of all postoffice buildings throughout the country to comply with requests of local agents who wish to sell seals in the lobbies of these buildings, not only for the coming Christmas holidays, but every year until the department shall direct otherwise. The order says:

"The department is in receipt of a communication from Charles L. Magee, secretary of the American Red Cross, to the effect that nearly the whole territory of the United States is covered by their arrangements for the sale of Christmas Seals during the coming Christmas holidays."

"In line with the request of the American Red Cross, you are hereby authorized, in case application is made by a representative of that association, to permit the sale of Christmas Seals in the corridors of the building in your custody, not only during the coming Christmas holidays, but during those to follow each year unless you are directed to the contrary."

The postoffice department has also approved of the Red Cross Seal design. Thus official sanction of two government departments has been given to the Red Cross Seal movement against tuberculosis.

An effort will be made to sell 100,000,000 seals this year, and an army of practically 50,000 paid and volunteer workers will cover the entire country.

A Lion's Vanity.

The intricacies of a great man's character are often simplicities to his wife. Once, when the present poet laureate had paid a visit to Tennyson, his immediate predecessor, Tennyson walked with him as far as the gate which led to the highway. There, says Mr. Alfred Austin in his recent autobiography, while the elder poet stood leaning on the gate, a party of wide eyed sightseers appeared.

"What a vulgar people the English are!" Tennyson exclaimed. "They come here to watch for me, and when they see me they say, quite loudly, 'There's Tennyson!'"

Mr. Austin afterward repeated this to Lady Tennyson, who smiled tenderly, but archly.

"My husband would be much more annoyed if the people didn't come," she said.

THANKSGIVING IN THE PRISONS

In All States the Incarcerated Get a Good Dinner.

IF you were in prison—and the reader may be for all that—you wouldn't feel particularly like giving thanks, would you? Yet the prisoners in penitentiaries and jails have special reason to be thankful on Thanksgiving day, for then it is that they get the best dinner of the year, even better than those served on Christmas and the Fourth of July, when special dinners are served to incarcerated people.

Thanksgiving day is celebrated in the poorhouses and prisons as well as in palaces and churches. It dawns for the pauper as well as for the prince and sometimes means more to the poor man than to the millionaire. There are no more contented Thanksgiving diners than those who will partake of their dinners behind the bars and no better appetites to be found than theirs.

Thanksgiving day is one of the great days in the state prisons, paradoxical as that may seem. Christmas day, Fourth of July and Thanksgiving are the three milestones that mark off the convicts' year, for those are the only three days of the 365 when they are allowed to speak aloud and even to sing, if they wish. And on those days also they enjoy a bountiful repast of much better quality than usual.

In the almshouses also Thanksgiving day is marked by a specially good dinner and a relaxation from work and discipline. Some of the specially favored paupers will receive boxes of food or of fruit from friends, and there is great rejoicing. The usual pall of misery is lifted for a day, and smiles are seen on sad faces and light in eyes long dimmed by age or sorrow.

At the Kings county almshouse, in Flatbush, N. Y., the recurrence of Thanksgiving day is an event looked forward to by the inmates, some of whom take pride in their long terms of life there. In the women's wards especially there is a truly feminine atmosphere of expectancy and excitement. There is gossip about the dinner in anticipation as well as a certain furbishing up of the uniform dress worn, as though in preparation for some social function.

Thanksgiving there is celebrated by a special church service in the morning, after which a period of rest and conversation is enjoyed. Then at noon there is a bountiful feast of chicken and turkey, with cranberry sauce and potatoes. And there is tea, dear to the palate of the lady pauper.

There are many young faces among the women who will eat their Thanksgiving dinner at this almshouse. Some of them have been committed as vagrants, but their faces are happier than many of the women's faces one sees in the cars and the shops of New York.

At Blackwell's island workhouse, where New York city offenders are held, the dinner will be a bountiful feast of chicken, with the usual accompaniments, for both men and women. Many of the tramps at present sojourning there make a special endeavor to get ten days in the workhouse in order to enjoy the holiday feast.

OBJECT TO BALANCE SCALES.

State Superintendent Fritz Reichman has issued orders that after January 1, 1912, all scales must be equipped with balance balls that can be operated only by a mechanical device. The state department has made a ruling to this effect because so many scales have been found out of balance by dealers and without satisfactory explanation being made as to how the scales became unbalanced.

Most balance scales, it is understood, can be easily balanced or unbalanced by twisting the balance ball. The state department now has decided that these balls must be so attached that they cannot be turned without a mechanical device of soft sort. Sealers will so inform business houses. Scales not so equipped after Jan. 1st will be condemned, the department states.

In this connection is furnished a list of articles which householders should keep, the weight per bushel being given. The list and pound weight per bushel is as follows:

Potatoes, 60 lbs.; apples, 48; barley, 48; buckwheat, 48; beans, 60; carrots, 50; clover seed, 60; flaxseed, 56; timothy seed, 45; wheat, 60; rye, 56; oats, 32; lime, 70; coarse salt, 70; fine salt, 56; peas, 60; onions, 57; corn, 56; sweet potatoes, 54.

Mr. Elbert F. King of Syracuse has been selected by the Board of Education as substitute Latin teacher in the Fulton High School. Mr. King was a graduate of Syracuse University in January, 1911. "I do not believe there is any other medicine so good for whooping cough as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," writes Mrs. Francis Turpin, Junction City, Ore. This remedy is also unsurpassed for colds and croup. For sale by all dealers.

MAIL DELIVERY.

Patrons Occupying Offices on Second Floor Requested to Provide Receptacles for Mail.

In compliance with general directions from the Postoffice officials, calling attention to the advantages of providing facilities for the receipt of mail by erecting conveniently accessible boxes, or cutting slots in doors, etc., an effort has been made since last June and polite requests issued from time to time by Postmaster Hughes, urging all occupying offices on the second floor of buildings, or inaccessible quarters, to place a locked box in the hallway of their buildings for the depository of their mail. Four-fifths of the patrons have readily complied with the request whenever the necessity for such action was brought to their attention, thus doing away with the necessity for the carrier to climb a flight of stairs three times a day with a load on his back weighing at least fifty pounds.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1911.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

To-morrow (Thursday) our readers will be permitted to choose the manner in which they will celebrate a day of Thanksgiving decreed by the President of the United States and the Governor of our own State. The observance of the day may take the form of religious, patriotic or gastronomic exercise, but no apparent reason can be given why the exercises can not be combined, and both turkey and thankfulness bring warmth and gladness to every heart. To those who gather around the family fireside, let there be genuine hospitality.

The Times extends sincere congratulations and hopes its many readers will be thankful for the blessings received during the past twelve months—especially for health—an inestimable boon.

No matter in what condition you find yourself when Thanksgiving Day rolls around, you won't have to search very far to find some fellow mortal worse off than yourself. Home should be the happiest place in the world and the delicious home-feeling one of the choicest gifts a parent can bestow.

Why not give thanks for not being as bad off as the other fellow—then help the other fellow, thus making him thankful, too. You won't necessarily have to inaugurate a "slumming expedition" to find some one to help. Go to the telephone and instruct your butcher to send a nice fat turkey, or to the grocer to send provisions, to any poor family with your compliments. They know who they are. There are plenty of little kiddies, too, who never get any closer to a turkey than to view one in the shop windows. Wouldn't they be thankful?

GREGG'S ASSAILANTS IN JAIL.

Jamse Gregg of Phoenix, the substitute at the New York Central station who was assaulted and locked in the cellar at the station in the Spring by desperadoes while the till was rifled of its contents, went to Canton last week with Railroad Detective Dempsey and positively identified Henry Rapplye and Jack Snyder, in jail at that place for petty thieving, as the men who held him up and did him personal violence. Mr. Gregg selected his assailants from a line-up of twelve men and was most positive in his identification.

ATTACHES PROPERTY.

Judge Merrell, on motion of the plaintiffs in the action of the First National Bank of Fulton, against Richard J. Cullen, has issued a warrant of attachment on the property of Mr. Cullen in this city. This consists of a verdict of $15,000 against the Battle Island Pulp and Paper company, recently confirmed by the Court of Appeals. Mr. Cullen is now manager of the Dominion Paper company, of Kingsley Falls, Quebec. The bank is suing Mr. Cullen on a note of $5,000 given in 1904, which they allege he never paid.—Palladium.

POMONA GRANGE.

The next regular session of the Oswego County Pomona Grange will be held in the Armory, in Oswego, on Tuesday, December 12, 1911, commencing at 10 A. M. This will be a fifth degree meeting. After the regular routine business, the officers for the ensuing year will be elected, and also the delegates to the State Grange. Coffee will be provided for those who bring their lunch.

DIRECT PRIMARY LAW EFFECTIVE

Official Ballot Now Takes the Place of the Old Time "Ticket"—Call Attention of Rural Districts to December Enrollment.

The new Ferris-Blauvelt direct primary law, enacted during the closing days of the Legislature in September, is now effective.

The official ballot now takes the place of the "tickets" familiar to all who have been in the habit of attending primaries. These ballots, are modelled on the regular election day ballots with their emblems, party circles and columns, and are printed at public expense.

When a group of men within a party want to oppose the candidates designated by the organization committee they are required to do so by petition and the names are placed on the official ballot.

The Oswego commissioners of election have had printed large posters to be distributed in the towns, calling attention to the December enrollment. In the past, rural voters have not been compelled to enroll.

The act will make many changes in the election system. It provides for the selection of all candidates, except those for state offices, by direct vote. One of the features of the act is to provide for the election of members of the general committees from each election district.

The state committees of the parties are to be fixed as to representation by the parties, but members of all committees, including the State Committee, are to be elected at the primaries. State committeemen are now elected at state conventions by the delegates from the district represented by the state committeemen.

The old "credential committee", which in the past has had the power to unseat delegates and to make substitutions, is abolished. The new law provides that the delegates elected at the primaries "shall be conclusively entitled to their seats, rights and votes as delegates to such conventions."

In the direct primary features of the bill, the candidate receiving the highest number of votes in the primary is to be the candidate of his party. The candidates for the different offices are to be designated by the Party Committee in the district. The Congressional district committee, for instance, names the candidate for representative in Congress. In a state senatorial district the Senatorial District Committee names the candidate. In the Assembly districts the Assembly District Committee names the candidate to be voted for at the primaries, and that's the rule all along the line.

Political committees must reorganize, there will be state wide enrollment of all voters according to parties, and uniform primary days, one in the spring and the other in the fall. Existing committees are permitted to designate party committees for the first primary, which will be held next spring.

Members of the state, county, judicial, congressional, senatorial, assembly, city, and municipal court district committees, are to be elected at the primary elections next spring, except in New York city, where they are to be chosen at the fall primary. It is also provided that every party committee, including the state committee, within 10 days after their election, shall organize and elect officers.

The judiciary, congressional and senatorial party committees will be made up of three representatives from each Assembly district and each representative will be entitled to a one-third vote for every 1000 votes or major fraction thereof polled for the gubernatorial candidate of the particular party in the last preceding election, unless such district is wholly within a given county. In the latter event the committeemen may cast the vote.

"A DAY AT THE RANCH."

In securing "A Day at the Ranch" to present to the public in Foster Theatre December 12 and 13, Nehasane Rebekah Lodge have a decided novelty and this big musical comedy is going to be the biggest and best home talent affair ever given here. Those taking part, and there are over 160, say the music, comedy and big singing and dancing numbers are equal to those in the big city shows. Mr. Rodenbaugh, who with Mrs. Rodenbaugh, is directing the affair, has had twelve seasons experience as actor, stage manager, or musical director with the largest shows on the road and this play will go like the professional ones, without a wait or hitch such as sometimes spoil such plays. The director came here direct from big successes in the larger New England cities and is much pleased with Fulton's talent. Make your plans to attend at least one performance.

DEATHS

Mrs. Ann Rafferty, aged 78, died at the home of her niece, Mrs. John Reavy, in Fifth street on Friday, following a stroke of apoplexy which she sustained a week previous. The deceased was born in Ireland, but had lived in Fulton for the past fifty years. The funeral services were held from the Catholic church on Monday morning, the Rev. J. L. Lindsmann officiating. Burial was made in St. Mary's.

Lillian A., wife of Mr. Knoxen Wright, died in Syracuse on Tuesday, Nov. 21, aged fifty years. Her death caused deep sorrow among a large circle of friends who with the family are left to mourn her loss. The deceased was well known in Fulton and vicinity, where she always resided until the past three months, coming to New York state from Wisconsin with her parents when a child. She was held in the highest esteem by all who knew her, being quiet in manner, possessing all the noble characteristics of a loving and devoted wife and mother, finding her greatest pleasure in making life pleasant for others. The funeral services were held from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Francis Cramer, West First street, Fulton, burial in Mt. Adnah. Rev. Mr. Peck officiated. Surviving are her husband and two daughters, Mrs. Francis Cramer and Miss Nellie Wright, also her mother, Mrs. L. L. Smith, and one sister, Mrs. W. Duncan, the last three all of Syracuse.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to extend our grateful thanks to the neighbors and friends who bestowed so many thoughtful kindnesses upon us during our affliction in the death of our wife and mother. Especial thanks are extended TWO FULTON to the employes of the Foster Brothers & Chatfilon Knife works for exquisite floral offerings.

Mr. Knoxen Wright
Mrs. Frances Cramer.
Miss Nellie Wright.

Resolutions of Respect.

Since we, the members of the Current Events Club of Fulton, N. Y., have been suddenly called to part with our esteemed member and friend, Miss Mary I. Blackstock, whose death on the 18th of November brought sorrow to us all, we wish to give expression to her relatives and friends of our high regard for her as a fellow member whose friendship and association we have enjoyed.

We have admired her faithfulness and interest in her work as a teacher who allowed no barrier to interfere with the thorough and conscientious preparation of her pupils in those studies in which she gave instruction, and her success as a disciplinarian who retained meanwhile the respect and devotion of those who were under her care.

As friends and acquaintances, we give testimony to her character in meeting the high obligations resting upon one whose faithful training bore fruitage in many kind and generous acts, and in the Christian courage and faith with which she met the supreme crisis of her life.

As the words of Tacitus, with which our friend must have been familiar, may be freely rendered, "The form of the mind is eternal, and finds its attainment and portrayal through one's own character rather than the talent and skill of another." Such lives have enduring qualities. While we deplore the suddenness of her departure at the noontide hour of her strength and usefulness, we commend her relatives and friends to a consideration of the goal she had attained, and the rest and reward upon which she has entered.

"Goodbye, till morning come again!
The shade of death brings thought of pain,
But night is short and hope is sweet,
It fills our hearts and wings our feet,
And so we sing the glad refrain,
Goodbye, till morning come again!"

HON. W. H. BAKER DEAD.

The death of the Hon. William H Baker, aged 84, occurred at his home in Constantia on Saturday afternoon, after an illness extending over a long period. Mr. Baker completed his law studies in the office of Seth Burton in this city and was admitted to the Bar in 1851. In 1862 he was elected district attorney and he was re-elected for the second term. In 1874 he was elected congresman from this district which then embraced Madison county, and he was re-elected to succeed himself two years later. He was a delegate to the Constitutional convention.

The deceased was a loyal Republican always and his council and advice was freely sought by the pioneers in the work of strengthening the party in this section of the state.

The funeral services were held on Tuesday from the late home. Scriba Lodge, F. & A. M., of which the deceased was a life long member, having charge of the services. Beside the widow, one son, Hon. W. B. Baker of Gloversville, and two daughters, Mrs. S. W. Hallenbeck of Gloversville and Miss Adeline Baker of Constantia, survive to mourn the loss of the devoted husband and parent.

There is little danger from a cold or from an attack of the grip except when followed by pneumonia, and this never happens when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. This remedy has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of colds and grip and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. For sale by all dealers.

MAY INCREASE SALARIES.

Commissioners of Election Whitney and Baker expect that they will receive an increase in salary during the present session of the Board of Supervisors, from $500 to $1,000 per year.

The new election law makes the duties of the commissioners more arduous than when they were appointed to the positions, and they ask the salary increase in the expectation of securing it.

DOING A COUNTRYMAN

By HARRY B. LARNED

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

A champion billiard match between an American and a French expert for the championship cue was to be played at Detroit, and crowds were flocking into the city to witness the trial of skill. A countryman during the morning strolled into the billiard room where the game was to be played the same night and stood looking at a couple of men engaged in a friendly game.

He was dressed in a rusty suit of store clothes and wore a plug hat with much of the nap worn off, his attire giving him the appearance of a hayseed who had come to town to splurge, but did not know how.

Now, these men were both billiard sharps, and, taking advantage of the excitement attending the match game, had come to the city to pick up a dishonest penny. The countryman had no sooner entered than by signs to each other they arranged to get him in for a game and fleece him. Having finished a game, one of them put his cue in the rack, while the other, after knocking the balls about for awhile, said to the farmer:

"Neighbor, do you play billiards?"

"Not much. I've played pool sometimes in our town."

"Come on; let's have a game. I'll give you points."

The countryman assented, while the man who had stopped playing took a seat to look on. The sharper agreed to start by giving the countryman thirty points in a hundred. The latter played better than was to have been expected and beat his opponent by ten points. He was putting up his cue when the sharper said he would bet him $10 he couldn't beat him again with the same odds. The countryman produced the money and the confederate offered to be stakeholder, but another man had sauntered in and stood looking on, and the countryman handed his $10 to him.

In this game the sharper endeavored to let the countryman beat him, but the latter played so poorly that this was impossible. He seemed very angry with himself for not doing better, declaring that he had never played such a "dod rotted" game in his life. Taking a roll of bills from his pocket, he offered to bet the sharper that he could beat him at no better odds, the best three games out of five. The offer was accepted, and the countryman, taking $10 from the roll, put the rest back into his pocket, whereupon the sharper, looking wistfully at his dupe's pile, offered to bet him four to one for any amount he liked. The countryman counted out $300, and the sharper, delighted, covered the amount with $1,200 more. The size of the bet attracted attention, and quite a number of persons gathered around. The proprietor came up and, having been taught by experience the outcome of such games, started to warn the countryman, but the confederate headed him off and took him away.

The first game of the set the countryman did better than before, and the sharper let him win by a few points. He appeared to be much exhilarated by this success and, taking out another roll of bills, offered to double the bet. The sharper made a loan of his confederate and put it up. The second game was won easily by the sharper, who had no further interest in playing badly. This staggered the countryman, who refused to raise the bet any further. The games were a hundred points each, and the countryman had first shot. The moment he led off there was a marked change in his playing. He handled his cue gracefully and instead of sawing it and then plunging, as he had done up to this time, shot lightly, came around the table on four cushions and counted.

The next shot was a long draw, which he made beautifully. On the third he got the balls together and nursed them till he had run fifty points, then, disdaining to do so any longer, scattered them and made twenty-five points more in round table shots. But on the twenty-fifth count he pulled the balls together again and ran twenty points, when he purposely knocked them apart and, by curve shots, won the game. His opponent had not had an opportunity to use his cue.

For awhile it looked as though there would be trouble, the sharper asserting that he had been swindled. But those standing about, seeing he had been beaten at his own game, took the countryman's part. The proprietor was called and said to the loser:

"I know you and your pal to be confidence men. Either submit to your loss or I will call the police, who will doubtless recognize you and take care of you."

There was nothing for the man to do but submit, and he and his confederate soon after slunk away. The countryman departed, saying that he was going to take his winnings as a gift to a charitable institution. He had scarcely gone before one of the men, who had witnessed the games, told the others that he had recognized him for one who, a few years before, had held the billiard championship, but who had relinquished it to go into a regular business. He was still interested in the game and often attended championship matches. When doing so, if he could find a sharper who was interested in "doing" a countryman, he invariably gave him a chance, donating his winnings to some institution.

Feats of Archery.

In the days when the buffalo was found in vast herds on the western plains there were Indians who, while riding at a gallop, could send an arrow through a buffalo's body. Remarkable as this archery was, yet it did not equal that reached by the archers of ancient times. It is of record that the MacRaes of Gairlock, Scotland, were such skillful archers that they could hit a man at the distance of 500 yards. In 1794 the Turkish ambassador at London shot an arrow, in a field near that capital, 415 yards against the wind and 482 yards with the wind. The secretary of the ambassador, on hearing the expressions of surprise from the English gentlemen present, said the sultan had shot 500 yards. This was the greatest performance of modern days, but a pillar, standing on a plain near Constantinople, recorded shots ranging up to 800 yards. Sir Robert Ainslie, British ambassador to the sublime port, records that in 1798 he was present when the sultan shot an arrow 972 yards.—New York Press.

Mark Twain's German Coffee.

German coffee must have given Mark Twain a pain, judging from the following recipe which he gave for its concoction:

Take a barrel of water and bring it to a boil; rub a chicory berry against a coffee berry, then convey the former into the water. Continue the boiling and evaporation until the intensity of the flavor and aroma of the coffee and chicory have been diminished to a proper degree; then set aside to cool. Now unharness the remains of a once cow from the plow, insert them in a hydraulic press, and, when you shall have acquired a teaspoonful of that pale blue juice which a German superstition regards as milk, modify the malignity of its strength in a bucket of tepid water and bring up the breakfast. Mix the beverage in a cold cup, partake with moderation, and keep a wet rag around your head to guard against over excitement.

Clever Crows.

In a garden a dog was eating a piece of meat in the presence of four covetous crows. They evidently said a great deal to one another on the subject, and now and then one of them tried to pull the meat away from the dog, which he naturally resented. At last a big, strong crow succeeded in tearing off a piece, with which he returned to the tree where the others congregated. A long powwow now ensued, which ended in all four crows flying down to the dog, the leading crow dexterously dropping the small piece of meat within reach of his mouth. The dog immediately snapped at it, unwisely letting go the big piece, which was seized by two crows and carried to the tree, where it was devoured with much fluttering and hilarity, while the cheated dog walked away with every appearance of discomfiture.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

A Notorious English Spendthrift.

Among the customers at Long's, the famous hotel in Bond street, was the last Marquis of Hastings, the most notorious of mid-Victorian spendthrifts. Hastings, according to one who knew him well, "gambled so that not even the Bank of England, backed by the Rothschilds, with the mines of the Transvaal as additional supports, could have withstood the strain."

Yet even he protested at Long's when charged 2s. 6d. for a whisky and soda. The proprietor declared that this had always been the charge. "About time it was altered, then," retorted the marquis. Just before his death Hastings remarked to a friend: "I've made a pretty bash of my life. About all the good I've ever done was to bring down the price of a whisky and soda at Long's."—London Express.

Henley and Stevenson.

W. E. Henley once met Robert Louis Stevenson and found his friend distressed because he was not a Voltaire or a Dumas, though he had an equipment which ought to have made him their peer. Stevenson put his "failure" down to the weakness of his lungs. "Perhaps you are right, Louis," said Henley. "I've always felt that if I had not been a blessed cripple I could have taken the earth in my hand and hurled it into the sun."

A Suspicion.

The Doom of the Turk

By THEODORE H. BOICE

Now the turkey's days are numbered, and he won't have long to wait,
For the proclamation's issued fixing our Thanksgiving date.
At the end of this November there will be a royal feast,
And we'll hear a cry for turkey from the highest to the least.

There'll be pumpkin pie and fixin's down each eager throat to toss,
There'll be many palate ticklers and the tart cranberry sauce,
And there'll be a lot of dainties some will feel inclined to shirk,
But not one of all the eaters will decline a slice of turk.

There'll be children, mothers, fathers, brothers, sisters, uncles, aunts,
With the turkey on the table as the object that enchants,
And if they are still as hungry as on feasting days before
They'll not stop at the good carving, but will pass their plates for more.

There'll be trouble for the carver, though he tries to do his best,
When too many call for drumsticks and too many want the breast;
There'll be frequent calls for "stuffing" in the most persuasive tones,
And before the feast is ended there'll be nothing left but bones.

So get ready, Mister Gobbler, and get ready, Mistress Hen,
For Thanksgiving day is coming, and you'll see your finish then.
Now, at last, your days are numbered, and you won't have long to wait,
At the end of this November you'll be smoking on the plate.

CASWATTER'S TURKEY

ART AND A THANKSGIVING DINNER

On Nov. 23 things looked pretty gloomy for Sebastian Caswatter. He had intended to celebrate Thanksgiving day as it should be celebrated, with all the proper accompaniments. But the trouble was that Caswatter did not know just exactly where the money was to come from. With rare providence he had set apart a five dollar bill from the sale of his "Prometheus," but the coal had run out, and more had to be bought.

"Never mind," said Caswatter; "I'll take that 'Autumn Sunset' down to Perdigan tomorrow. I'd made up my mind that I'd keep it if I couldn't get a hundred for it, but if Perdigan wants it for fifty he can have it."

Mrs. Caswatter almost wept, for she knew how much her artist husband thought of that "Autumn Sunset." He would almost rather have parted with his "Solitude" or his "Gloaming" or his "Achilles in His Tent." It was a masterpiece. "Solitude," "Gloaming," "Achilles" were also masterpieces. There were few things that Caswatter painted that were not masterpieces. The great difficulty with them was that they would not sell.

"But, then," Caswatter would say, "I don't paint to sell. It is my misfortune that I believe in art. I follow my ideals as Michelangelo, Guido and Burne-Jones followed theirs. I suffer from neglect now, but the time will come when I shall be recognized."

On the 24th Caswatter took the "Autumn Sunset" under his arm and offered it to Perdigan. But Perdigan declined to give him the fifty for it—in fact, he wouldn't have it at any price. Caswatter bore his disappointment with an air of indifference, but he felt it nevertheless, and it was with a rueful face that he met Mrs. Caswatter on his return.

He went upstairs to his attic studio and began to pace the floor in great agitation. He was an artist, but he was also a father, and the thought of little Leonard's disappointment when invited to sit down to pork chops was maddening, and the pork chops seemed inevitable. As he walked and gnawed his beard his eye fell upon "Solitude," and he made a sudden resolve. He would have that Thanksgiving dinner at all costs. He wrapped the picture carefully in the paper that he had just taken off the "Autumn Sunset" and started out.

Perdigan looked at it with his under lip pushed out and said:

"Well, I'd like to make you an offer for it, but—you see, it isn't the sort of thing that sells. I'll tell you, though, if you would like to leave it here I'll do the best I can with it on a commission."

"I suppose you wouldn't care to advance me a little on it?" said Caswatter.

"Why, I'd like to, but you know that's altogether against our rules."

"I'll leave it," said Caswatter.

Caswatter went back to his studio and did some more walking. Usually he dismissed household cares easily from his mind, but this dinner he had counted on so surely. He could see it—actually see it. He laughed savagely and, sitting down before his easel, began to sketch the outlines of a mammoth turkey. Then the idea took him, and he forgot his woes. Gradually the turkey took shape and form, and a celery glass topped with a fringing bouquet of stalks and leaves appeared beside it, then a bowl and a background of pies. He drew up his stool closer and began to spread on color and worked more and more feverishly until the waning light forced him to desist.

Early on the morning of the 25th he arose and attacked his "Barmecide's Feast" with undiminished fury. By 11 o'clock it was finished. He took it down into the little dining room, set it up on the mantelpiece and then called Mrs. Caswatter to look at it. "There's your Thanksgiving dinner," he said. "We'll look at that and imagine it's real."

Mrs. Caswatter was visibly impressed. "What a genius you are!" she said admiringly. "That turkey looks as if it had just been taken from the oven. I can smell it. And the cranberry sauce!"

At 12 o'clock Mrs. Caswatter tapped at her husband's door. "My dear," she said, "I hate to disturb you, but Mr. Tublin, the grocer, is down below. He says he's called for the balance of his account. I told him you were busy, but he said he'd like to see you and he'd wait."

Caswatter groaned. "Well, I'll be right down, dear," he said.

When he went downstairs he found Tublin in the dining room standing before the turkey picture, open mouthed with admiration.

"A fine picture that, sir," he said with feeling.

"About that balance—how much is it?" asked the artist.

"It's only five thirty-five," replied the grocer. "I was just passing, and—I never saw a prettier piece of work than that. It'd make a dandy thing for my window."

"You look in next week some time and I'll pay you," said Caswatter.

"Much obliged," said the grocer absently. "Now, that picture—I wonder where I could buy one like it."

"You can have that for a ten dollar bill," said Caswatter.

The grocer instantly produced a fat pocketbook and, taking out a bill, laid it on the table and advanced to the picture.

"Here; it's wet yet," said Caswatter.

"So it is," said the grocer. "Well, I must handle it carefully. That's going to help trade this afternoon and this evening. Good day, Mr. Caswatter."

Caswatter looked at the ten dollar bill on the table. Then he smote his forehead.

"Oh, art!" he cried in anguish.

But an exact replication of the pictured turkey smoked on his table the next day. And if when his last piece of pumpkin pie was consumed Caswatter was not thankful he certainly looked it.

REVENGE IS SWEET.

A PROFFERED GUIDE

By JULIA B. WICKERSHAM

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Mr. and Mrs. Barkendale, a young American couple, visiting Paris on their wedding trip, sauntered out of their hotel on the Rue Rivoli with a view to inspecting the sights of Paris. Crossing the Rue de la Paix, they met a gentleman, whom Barkendale stopped and asked where they would find the Place de la Concorde. Barkendale and his wife both spoke French fairly well, and they had no difficulty in making themselves understood.

"Perhaps I had better show you the way," replied the stranger.

"It is quite unnecessary, I assure you. Still!"—

The gentleman walked with them to the place in question and instead of leaving them where they could plainly see the landmarks he had mentioned escorted them farther, saying:

"Perhaps you will permit me to give you the historical facts concerning this locality. This space during the reign of terror was called the Place de la Revolution. Where that obelisk stands there stood the guillotine, and there were beheaded King Louis XVI., his queen, Marie Antoinette, and more than 2,500 others of lesser rank, from princes of the blood down to the most ordinary citizen."

Mrs. Barkendale shuddered and slipped a hand into her husband's arm.

"I sometimes pass this place late at night," continued the accommodating stranger, "and now and again I have seen some one contemplating this spot where stood the guillotine with profound emotion. Either such persons have been strangers who have for years read about those stirring times or descendants of some person or persons who were executed there. I once saw an old man looking at the spot, the tears rolling down his eyes. I asked him why he was so moved, and he said that his grandmother—whose portrait, a beautiful girl of twenty, hung in his house—was executed there."

"I never thought of that," said Mr. Barkendale. "I see people passing and repassing here entirely unmoved by these memories, and had you not mentioned it I would not have supposed any living person to be touched by them. You, sir, seem to be an exception."

"If I moved by them? I assure you, sir, I have no feeling whatever concerning those who have so long passed away."

Mrs. Barkendale, who had become quite interested in the stranger's experiences, at this involuntarily shuddered again. She could not understand how any one could be unmoved by them, even though they occurred a century ago.

"There are many stories," continued the stranger, "concerning this spot. No place in the world has contributed so many themes, especially for tragedies. Every time the ax fell some person or persons were filled with mingled grief and horror. It was the climax of many of life's dramas. The most eminent was the royal tragedy in which first a father was torn from his wife and children to be executed, then the mother torn from those who remained"—

Mrs. Barkendale pulled at her husband's arm. The subject was fascinating, but grewsome.

"I think," said the husband, "that we will go and get a little lunch. Would you honor us by taking a bite with us?"

The invitation was given with the expectation that the stranger would understand it to be a courteous exchange for his civility. Mr. Barkendale was surprised at its acceptance. The three walked to a cafe on a boulevard not far distant and, sitting down at a table, ordered the French breakfast with a fork, or dejeuner a la fercbette. The stranger spoke no more of the horrors which had so affected Mrs. Barkendale, but which troubled him not in the slightest. Nevertheless he made himself extremely interesting in telling the strangers about curiosities to be seen in the capital. Mr. Barkendale seemed greatly interested in what he said and gathered a good deal of information as to ways of reaching different objects of interest, especially those in the environs. But there was something about the man that produced a very antagonistic effect on the lady. She was greatly relieved when the meal was finished and they were preparing for their departure.

Mr. Barkendale thanked the stranger again for his kindness and, taking out a cardcase, handed him his card.

"I haven't a card with me," replied the man. "I never carry cards. If you can spare an extra one of yours I will write my name on it for you."

Barkendale handed him one of his cards. The man wrote his name on it and handed it back, but Mrs. Barkendale was so eager to get away from the man that her husband put it in his pocket without looking at it. When the lady reached the sidewalk and had parted company with their guide she said she felt as if she had been in a prison waiting for some one to drag her to the guillotine.

That evening while Mr. Barkendale was smoking in the hotel entrance he thought of the card. Taking it out of his pocket, he read the stranger's name—M. de Paris.

Handing it to the proprietor, he asked him who was M. de Paris. The proprietor looked at him curiously and said:

"M. de Paris is the executioner."

STATE ISSUES WARNING.

In a letter to sealers of weights and measures throughout the state, State Superintendent of Weights and Measures Reichmann asks that they use every effort, particularly during the holiday period, in protecting the honest dealer and the consumer against short weights. After referring to the sale of cranberries by dry measure and potatoes by weight, the letter says:

"Your attention is also called to the practice in vogue in many places of selling turkeys and other fowl by the tagged weight at which they are hung on racks. The public should insist on having the turkeys or other fowl weighed, and they are entitled to the quantity for which they pay and not by a particular marking on the tag which may be considerably off. Dealers state that it is done for convenience and when they are found several ounces or even pounds short the excuse is given that someone has inadvertently shifted the tags."

RIFLES IN COFFINS.

U. S. Authorities on Border Halt "International Funerals."

El Paso, Tex.—"International funerals" were last week placed under the ban by federal authorities as a result of the discovery that the coffins which were carried across the Rio Grande from United States to Mexican soil, instead of holding corpses of Mexicans, really contained new, shiny 30-30 rifles to be used in the Reyes revolution against President Madero's soldiers.

At Laredo from five to ten funerals were occurring daily before the authorities discovered the ruse which was being worked to transport arms from Texas into Mexico.

GOD'S COMMANDS FOR THANKS ARE BUT LOVING REQUESTS.

By Rev. Dr. RUSSELL H. CONWELL of Philadelphia.

GOD commands us to give thanks, and all his commands are but directions to do those things which are for our good. His commands are in reality but loving requests.

Thanksgiving day is but a reminder of the great privileges and of the blessing which all receive who train themselves to give thanks.

It is of far more benefit to the recipient of a Christmas present to be grateful than it is to receive a gift itself. It is very wise to be grateful for last year's Christmas presents.

Cultivate a habit of mind which will make you grateful to God and to all your friends and ancestors, for with a grateful heart you will appreciate much more and be in every way a better and happier man.

AN INDIAN THANKSGIVING

Pueblos of New Mexico Do the "Rabbit Hunting Dance."

THE Pueblo Indians of the new state of New Mexico have a day for thanksgiving and prayer contemporaneous with that of the paleface. Their prayer is a dance. That is the Pueblo Indian method of praying to the Great Spirit. The prayer dance is held in the latter part of November, according to the phase of the moon by which their days are regulated. The festival is known as the "rabbit hunting dance." Each village has a festival. There is a generous attendance of Pueblos, and whites are admitted as spectators. The villages of Zuni, Acoma and Taos, being remote, are seldom visited by white people on these festivals, but the one at Isleta, a few miles from Albuquerque, is more generally attended, especially by tourists.

When the chief of the village has officially designated the day the official crier mounts to the top of the "estufa," or place of worship, and announces that the prayer dance of the rabbit hunt will begin at daylight on the stated day. Runners are sent out to notify the Pueblo ranchers.

The dancers are dressed in white cotton pantaloons and cotton skirts of all colors, and some wear loose cotton gowns reaching to the feet. Crown hats with broad colored bands are most generally worn, yet some wear the paleface hat. Others are hatless and let their hair hang down over their backs. Each dancer carries a gun. Three or four men are standing at the head of the line, and they are given the signal by striking on a wooden drum, rattling gourds partly filled with pebbles and singing the song of the rabbit hunt, a slow, monotonous chant, punctuated with an occasional grunt.

When the music starts the line begins to sway, the men at first moving only their bodies. Then they put their feet in motion, raising each alternately without moving from their position. Later they chant the song and thump the ground with their feet more rapidly and violently, and then they give a yell and trot around the square, one following in the other's footsteps in time to the song and music. After making the round they break into circles after the manner of a quadrille, and the square is filled with parties of dancers. The men forming the circle do not join hands, for they need them in executing the movements with their guns in imitation of the hunt, showing how they will kill the rabbit on the morrow. The circles dance in a direction opposite to the course of the sun—that is, from west to east. This ceremony is repeated several times.

At first the dance is fast and furious, but finally decreases to a mere "hippety-hop" movement and then into the primary movement. The Indians continue their chant and dance as long as strength and breath remain.

Dear Old Thanksgiving Day.

I remember, I remember
Thanksgivings long ago,
The day was always crisp and bright,
The ground was white with snow.
'Neath buffalo robes we nestled close
In our big double sleigh
And dashed away to grandmamma's
To spend a happy day.

I remember, I remember
The farmhouse kitchen clean,
Upon whose shining, painted floor
No speck was ever seen.
And, oh, the appetizing sights
The pantry shelves would show,
Where pickles, doughnuts, tarts and cheese
Stood in a tempting row!

I remember, I remember
The turkey of great size,
The squash and turnips, homemade bread
And golden pumpkin pies.
Grandpapa's bent and hoary head
I never can forget.
(I wonder if the dear old man
Can be a-lying yet!)

I remember, I remember—
Oh, I guess that's enough!
I really can't write any more
Of this old fashioned stuff.
I only know of it from books,
But this thought gives me joy—
We're further from that sort of thing
Than when I was a boy.

ELECTION EXPENSES FILED.

Mayor-elect David D. Long's expense account, shows an expenditure of $56.50, of which $50 went to the Republican County Committee.

Mayor John Fitzgibbons' expense account, which was also filed, shows an expense of $83, of which $75.50 went for cigars, etc. and the balance for clerks and office help. He received $70 of this amount from the Democratic City Committee.

Edward C. Rogers, Socialist candidate for Mayor, says in his statement of expenses that he expended $3.50. His vote was 874.

Alderman Freeman Johnson, Third ward, $17; William J. Sullivan, Alderman-elect, Second ward, and F. W. Richardson, defeated for the same office in the Fifth ward, spent nothing.

Statements filed by the candidates in the office of the secretary of state certify that in the judicial election of the Fifth district Edgar C. Emerson spent $1,016.17, Irving G. Hubbs $289 and Henry Purcell spent nothing.

Judge Purcell qualifies his statement by certifying that he made no expenditures except those exempted by sections 541 and 542 of the election law and section 767 of the penal law.

The section of the law referred to by Justice Purcell in his statement as candidate of the Democratic party and the Independence League exempts all personal expenses incurred, such as printing, traveling, hotels, halls, music, literature and the like. As a candidate and a justice of the supreme court, Justice Purcell was prohibited under the laws from making any contribution to a political committee.

All the candidates state that they received no contributions from outside sources.

The largest amount of Judge Emerson's total was for advertising in papers throughout the district.

Charles R. Skinner received $76.50 covering his expenses for many trips to points in different counties. F. C. Puro received $65.83 for various trips and F. S. Rice, $15 for putting up lithographs. $137 was used for stamps and $22.45 for telegraph and telephone.

Mr. Hubbs spent $30 for mileage books, $190 for hotel, $50 for telephone and telegraph, $60 for postage, express and stationery and gave $49 to Miss Jennie Carrie, a bill clerk.

James L. Jones, Democratic candidate for supervisor of the Fourth and Fifth wards, spent $10.50 for printing in his campaign.

George E Pomphret, supervisor-elect of the First and Sixth wards, spent $27, $20 to the Democratic city committee, $3.50 for printing nd $3.50 for postge.

Supervisor-elect Wade E. Gayer gave $24 for horse hire and poll workers, and spent $19.50 for printing.

George B. Palmer, Democratic candidate for alderman of the First ward, gave $10 to the city committee.

In his statement of election expenses filed, Clarence E. Pitts, who ran for mayor and district attorney on the Prohibition ticket, claims to have spent $742. Of this $300 went to the Oswego Prohibition Committee $400 to the Prohibition State Committee; $12 to the National; $15 each for postage and bill posting.

SAVED CHILD FROM DEATH

"After our child had suffered from severe bronchial trouble for a year," wrote G. T. Richardson, of Richardson's Mills, Ala., "we feared it had consumption. It had a bad cough all the time. Beebe; first vice-president, former Senator Hendrick S. Holden; second vice-president, C. B. Benson of Minetto; third vice-president, B. A. Dyer, Jr., of Auburn; treasurer, W. A. Holden; secretary, H. C. Beatty; assistant secretary, A. M. Michaels; assistant treasurer, W. W. Foster; general counsel, William Nottingham.

Mrs. Bert Mason has been confined to her home by illness.

Agent J. W. Stevenson last week gave out the pleasing information that the woolen mill would work full time from now until spring. The company employs 2,00 0hands and all are working overtime every day.

Miss Bertha LaLonde may be found in the W. C. Morgan jewelry store during the holiday season, where she will be pleased to meet all of her friends.

Miss Florence Newell last week received news of the death of her fiancee, Guy Gaskell Collins, in Spain. The marriage was to have taken place during the holidays, but the groom-elect, who was a resident of Canandaigua, went to Spain to look after some grape vineyards and died suddenly.

The recently installe dofficers in the Good Templars lodge are: C.T., Floyd Cox; V.T., Blanche Cramer; P.C.T., Harry Betts; secretary, Harry Betts, and treasurer, W. F. Stewart.

The veteran farmer, Mr. Leman Babcock, announced last week that he proposed to retire from the strenuous life he has led for eighty years and devote the balance of his years to rest and recreation. His friends will wish him a very long and merry life.

Robert Paddock Marsh, son of Dr. and Mrs. H. P. Marsh, left on Monday for Cornell University, where he will take a special course in agriculture.

Miss Lulu Newsbaum has been confined to her home by illness.

The account of Louis W. Emerick as executor of the estate of Medora C. Morrow, late of Fulton, was filed this morning. The total amount received was $25,963.01 which was paid out as follows: debts, $3,592.99; value of chattels, $917.10; paid to legatees, $4,850.56; executors' commissions, $345.53; balance on hand for distribution, $5,846.86.

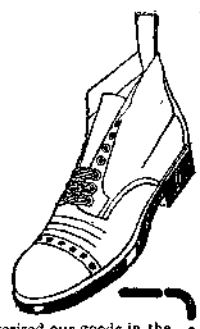
A Handsome Woman



Every woman may not be handsome, but every woman should keep with care the good points nature has given her. No woman need have sallow skin, dull eye, blotchy complexion, who pays proper attention to her health. Where constipation, liver derangements, blood impurities and other irregularities exist, good complexion, bright eyes and sprightly movements cannot exist. Internal derangements reveal themselves sooner or later on the surface. Headache, dark rings around the eyes, sallow skin, a constant tired feeling—mean that the liver and digestive organs are needing help and correction. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets give this necessary help. They work in nature's own way. They do not merely flush the bowels but tone up the liver and stomach to fulfill their proper functions. So mild and gentle do they act that one hardly realizes that they have taken medicine. Chamberlain's Tablets can be relied upon to relieve biliousness, [illegible] constipation and dizziness. Sold everywhere. [illegible]

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

Nov. 22.—A committee composed of Chairman Hamer and Supervisors Barker and Rounds was selected to investigate the proposed enlarging of the County Clerk's building and the most feasible plan to be adopted. They report back to the Board. A third story will probably be the result.

The next business of importance and a move that meets with the approval of the entire county, was the appointment of County Attorney H. D. Caville for a term of two years at an annual compensation of $1,200, payable quarterly. Mr. Caville was given a vote of confidence and approval, his selection being made unanimous by Democrats and Republicans.

Supervisor Barker suggested that the county attorney be directed to attend the next annual session of the State Board of Tax Commissioners and oppose the injustice of adding $2,500,000 to the equalized valuation of the county. A motion embodying this suggestion was made by Supervisor Terry and adopted.

The annual valuation of Oswego county, both real and personal, is about $31,684,112 and it has been increased nearly to $34,500,000 by the State Tax Board. The assessed valuation of realty is $28,267,726. This increase is believed by the supervisors to be unfair to Oswego county.

Mr. Rounds presented a petition from the assessors of Oswego Town to correct the assessment of the Syracuse, Lake Shore and Northern railroad by reducing it from $40,000 to $30,000, the correct figures.

By Mr. Gayer—That a committee be three be appointed to settle with county clerk monthly. Carried.

By Mr. Gayer—That a committee of wego Semi-Weekly Times for printing the session laws. Carried.

Just prior to the adjournment of its session the Board of Supervisors extended the privilege of the floor to L. M. Simons, a former resident of Fulton, and brother of G. C. Simons, until recently a member of the board. Mr. Simons is now a member of the legislature of South Dakota and lives in the Black Hills, near Deadwood.

Nov. 23.—The board must provide quarters for Justice-elect Irvine G. Hubbs of the Supreme Court. This morning the matter was taken up at the session of the board, and Chairman Hamer named M. Terry, W. M. Gallagher and F. E. Sweetland a committee to consult with Mr. Hubbs and learn his wishes.

By Mr. Crimmins—Designating the Semi-Weekly Palladium for publication of the session laws. Adopted.

Mr. Rowe presented a report of the railroad indebtedness of Volney. Ordered printed.

Nov. 24.—The first disputed matter that has come up since the opening of the present session of the Board of Supervisors, arose this morning over the appointment of a jail physician. On the roll call, Dr. Joseph D. Ringland was named, receiving 17 votes to 14 for Dr. C. R. Harvey, the present incumbent.

A communication from County Clerk McCarthy requesting that a filing cabinet for the maps be purchased for the county clerk's office was discussed at length.

Chairman Sweetland of the supply committee said that the cabinet was needed and he moved that the matter be made a special order for two weeks from Monday night.

Mr. W. M. Barker offered the report of the committee to fool rolls as follows: Real estate, $29,021,925; personal, $1,108,555; special franchises, $1,172,270; leases, $125,000. Total valuation of the county, $31,427,720. Valuation of exempt property of pensioners, $292,915. The acreage of the county totals 76,335. The number of dogs in the county is 3,135.

By Mr. A. S. Barker—Authorizing 1 per cent. to be added to each town abstract as compensation. Carried.

Mr. Buck presented an invitation from County Poor Superintendent Stone to the supervisors to visit the county house at Mexico, one week from Wednesday next. Mr. Shaw moved that the invitation be accepted and that the clerk be authorized to engage transportation.

The Board adjourned until Monday evening of next week at 7:30 o'clock.

Martin B. Schenck.

Editor Times: Certain of my friends and acquaintances have added a word, at intervals, since the death of our common friend, Martin B. Schenck, and I hope these appreciative lines will not be deemed too late in connection with the life, all too soon ended as we see things. My recollection of Comrade Schenck goes back to the period just following the War, when he was a young business man in Fulton making every one within reach of his hand and voice sensible of the great energizing power that he was. I have always been sorry that he did not see his way clear to remain in Fulton and there develop his inventions, for the village needed just such active, vigorous men to push her out of the ruts. However, he found congenial souls in the Connecticut city of Meriden and his success there has long been a matter of record. Only once did we meet in the New England, so long the residence of both of us and, very likely, each one of us has passed through the respective city of the other many times. That once was when he called on me some years ago, he being on a business trip to Worcester. In May, 1910, when I gave the Memorial Day address in Meriden, I confidently expected to see him in my audience, but it subsequently appeared that this was at the time of his serious illness. My last meeting with him was in the hall of the Fulton Post of the Grand Army in the summer of 1910. I had not known of his presence in the city, hence the meeting was entirely unexpected and very pleasant for me, at least. Our comrade, Norm Cooper, now of Oberlin, Ohio, was also there and all of us did some talking and I remember going away greatly pleased at the outcome of the meeting. I had little notion that it was to be the last of our earthly greetings. His grave in beautiful Mount Adnah is one more of those to be visited when I make my regular trip to my old time home. Comrade Schenck, and men like him, made up the rank and file of the army that preserved the Union and they should live long in the memories of those who love their country.

CULKIN APPOINTS ASSISTANTS.

District Attorney-elect Francis D. Culkin last week announced that he would appoint Don A. Colony of Sandy Creek, as assistant district attorney to succeed himself, and Harry M. Stacy of Oswego, as grand jury stenographer as his own successor.

Mr. Colony has held the position under District Attorneys Barker and Davis, and has made himself invaluable to his superior officers. His reappointment is made on merit and is very pleasing to his friends. Mr. Stacy is not only an attorney of ability, but is also an efficient stenographer. It would have been impossible for Mr. Culkin to have made more satisfactory selections.

FEDERAL POST-OFFICE BUILDING

Supervising Architect of the Treasury Department Seeks Specific Information for Survey of Plat, etc., to Show Accurately the Actual Angles and Dimensions of the Lot.

In order to obtain specific information regarding the site purchased in this city for the proposed Federal building, the Supervising Architect of the Treasury Department has sent the following communication to Postmaster Hughes:

Sir: You are requested to aid this office by securing from the City Engineer, if possible, and from other persons in your city technically qualified, proposals for furnishing a survey and certain data or information in relation to the land secured as a site for the proposed public building in your city, in accordance with the specifications herewith inclosed. In connection with securing the bids you are requested to advise all bidders that while Congress has authorized the erection of the building no appropriation has yet been made therefor, and the acceptance of the proposal and payment for the work will be made subject to the future action of Congress in appropriating the money.

The above information is urgently needed, and you are requested to give the matter your prompt attention, submitting the amount of all bids received by wire, stating which one, if any, is from the City Engineer. All bids must be made to you in writing, and are to be forwarded to this office.

The parcel of land referred to is situated on the north side of Broadway, between the Oswego Canal and South First street in the City of Fulton, New York.

At the time of securing proposals you are requested to ascertain from the city authorities whether the sidewalk widths and curb elevations of all streets adjacent to the site have been established. If not, please take the matter up with them, in order that the official widths of sidewalk and elevations of curbs may be incorporated in the complete survey called for by the specifications. In this connection you are advised that it is contrary to the policy of this office to place permanent walks until the widths and elevations have been established.

Plats, etc.

The plat must show accurately the actual angles and dimensions of the lot; the "north point;" locations and figured dimensions of the adjacent street or streets, sidewalks and curb lines, hydrants, manholes, catch basins, street railways, electric or otherwise, if any, trees (noting size and kind), telephone, trolley, telegraph, and lighting poles, lamp-posts, etc., buildings, excavations, wells, cesspools, etc., on site, and location and size of gas and water mains, underground electric conduits, sanitary and storm water sewers, if any; and the material of which sanitary and storm water sewers are constructed, is to be given.

The corners of the lot must be marked with suitable stones or iron pins, and the exact location of two of the corners must be indicated with reference to some permanent monument located far enough without the lot lines as to remain undisturbed by the building operations.

Official elevations and grades of the adjacent sidewalks at lot line and curbs is to be given.

Especial attention is called to the fact that the actual elevation of the invert of all sewers and the direction of flow and rate of fall of all sewers, must be given.

If the actual surface of sidewalks and curbs does not conform to the established grades, the difference should be stated.

Over such portions of lot as are not occupied by buildings, levels are to be taken every 20 feet and at changes of slope, bottoms, of excavations, etc.; contour lines are to be put on plat in brown ink, for each difference in elevation of one foot.

Levels must also be taken on adjoining property, where not occupied by buildings, so as to enable contours to be extended on to adjoining property a distance not less than 5 feet.

All levels to be from city datum, and a bench mark to be established in a suitable place and noted on the plat.

The plat to be on tracing linen 24 by 36 inches and suitable for blueprinting; no colors to be used except black, deep red and brown, and the name of the city must be lettered in the lower left-hand corner in letters not less than 3-4 inch high.

Plats of sites whose greatest dimension exceeds 150 feet shall be drawn to a scale of 1-16 inch to 1 foot. All other plats shall generally be drawn to a scale of 1-8 inch to 1 foot, except that where it is necessary to include features not immediately adjoining the site, scale may be reduced to 1-16 inch.

All plats, before being forwarded to this office, must bear a certificate from the City Engineer, that the true street and lot lines are properly shown, and that the established grades of curbs, sidewalks and sewers are correctly given.

Report

The plat to be accompanied by a report (in typewriting) on the following features:

Information as to the character of the subsoil, stating whether there are any doubts as to its stability for foundations.

If rock underlies surface give supposed depth and dip.

Give an opinion as to the usual elevation of ground water, and state whether said elevation varies at different seasons of the year. Give reasons, if any, for supposing that quick sand will be encountered and give any other data which might affect the design of foundations.

What unit pressure is the soil under adjacent buildings sustaining therefrom, and state whether such buildings show exterior cracks or other signs of settlement.

State advisability of digging test points and suggest location therefor.

If there are no public sewers available and a suitable outfall for a sewer can be secured, submit a survey showing route for a private sewer from building to outfall.

A contour of ground and proposed sewer is also to be given, with notes as to the best manner of protecting sewer outfall if protection is deemed necessary.

State whether dry wells are used for either sanitary or rain water disposal purposes, and, if so, if subsoil is sufficiently porous to properly drain them. If dry wells or cesspools are in general use state the size of same and also describe their construction.

State the materials of which the sidewalks and curbs, if any, are composed and their present condition.

Give transcript of municipal regulations in regard to sidewalks and curbs.

Photographs

Send with report two photographs, size 8 by 10 inches, mounted on cloth, taken from well-selected points marked on the survey by a star. Photographs to show the site and something of the surroundings.

James Knox Taylor,
Supervising Architect.

LEARN AUTOMOBILE ENGINEERING

Be a Chauffeur, Demonstrator, Auto Salesman or Repairman

We teach you thoroughly in your spare time by the only practical method, not from paper models, books or mail order course, but from high-grade motor cars and parts and a competent instructor who will explain the use and mechanical operation of every part of the auto. Here you take apart and assemble every part of the auto and have every part explained to you while doing so. The magneto is the most complicated part of the auto and not one man out of one hundred, who is in the auto business today, understands the principle of the high tension, magneto Yet I will teach my students every detail of the mechanical operation of the high tension magneto, also the low tension magneto and every other part of the auto.

After you get the other parts of the auto learned, you learn the controls with the rear wheels off the floor and the motor running. You learn to start, stop, work the brakes, shift the gears and get handy with the controls in general. Next you take the cars out on the road and run them and get handy steering, ascending and descending hills, etc.

I guarantee to teach anyone the auto business so that he can run and make repairs on any car made and that he will pass the State Examination and get his chauffeur's license in the spring. One very reasonable charge covers everything. Cash or weekly payments. Money refunded if not perfectly satisfied at the end of two weeks. School will be held on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays from 7 to 10 p. m., beginning December 4th, 1911. Students may also come any day at any time and stay as long as they like and work on different models of cars. Write at once for prices, terms or further information of the Baldwinsville Auto School, Baldwinsville, N. Y. 11-29*

The Little Boy Who Moved.

The fairies missed him when they came
To play their evening game.
They searched the old red farmhouse through.
They called aloud his name,
They even looked inside the barn,
But vain their questing proved.
So they made up their elfin minds
The little boy had moved.
Kriss Kringle missed him when he came Upon his reindeer ride.
He hunted for him high and low,
But not a trace he spied.
But still he keeps a lookout sharp
To find him if he can—
The little boy who went one day
To live inside a man.

THE WEEK

Not only has the recent increased activity in the leading industries and trades been maintained, but there is a distinct improvement in business confidence both East and West, while in the South the largest cotton crop ever harveted is a favorable factor. There are signs, moreover, of some disposition to anticipate the future, instead of confining purchases to immediate necessities. Taking everything into consideration, November has been the best month of the year. The large business in iron and steel—emphatically the best of the year—due to the increased buying by railroads of locomotives, cars and rails; purchases by large users of structural materials, is, in its influence on general business sentiment, the most important development. The copper market continues strong. In the dry goods trade the reports are scarcely less encouraging than those in iron and steel.

Estimates of the November business in iron and steel run high and include nearly 50,000 cars and about 230 locomotives. The heavy purchase of cars was reflected in the placing of contracts for a large tonnage of plates and shapes, and these products display a firmer tone.

Contracts placed with the large cotton mills cover substantial lines of duck, denims, print cloths and convertibles and the market was sensibly stronger at the opening of the week, but became slightly irregular towards the close because of the declines in the raw material. Fall River sold 610,000 pieces of print cloths and convertibles last week, the largest total for over a year. Export trade with miscellaneous small ports has been of liberal proportions, shipments of domestics from the port of New York up to November 25 amounting to 328,633 bales against 229,851 bales for the corresponding period a year ago. Jobbers still buy fine goods cautiously, but merchants generally look for increased purchasing within the next two weeks. Jobbers have completed their inventories and have closed their fiscal year with the lightest stocks of merchandise on hand in many years. In woolens and worsteds duplicating on spring goods continues and several of the large mills are assured of steady work all through the winter months.

The demand for footwear continues to slowly improve and manufacturers now have good-sized reserve contracts and supplementary orders calling for shipment within a month.

All the leading farm staples have receded in value, with depression in wheat especially pronounced, the May option at Chicago falling below a dollar. Steadily accumulating visible supplies and big receipts at the Northwest were chiefly responsible, while the decline was also accelerated by more favorable crop news from Argentina. Speculative selling was heavy in all markets.

Liabilities of commercial failures thus far reported for November amount to $12,976,588, of which $5,723,950 are in manufacturing, $5,579,431 in trading and $1,673,157 in other commercial lines. Failures this week numbered 217 in the United States against 275 last year, and 34 in Canada compared with 38 a year ago.

"BUT FOR THE GRACE OF GOD—THERE GO I"

In the December Woman's Home Companion there is a most interesting talk on charity. Following is an extract:

"One anecdote especially, I reckon to have increased my charity tenfold. It was that one told of a great man who, seeing a poor drunken wretch reeling along the street, said with keen wit and still keener charity to his companion, 'There, but for the grace of God, go I.'

"Perhaps that does not seem to you so striking an anecdote. It did not seem so to me when I first read it, but it came back to me again and again, and each time it enriched me. For again and again, when I saw someone a prey to some weakness not mine, the gentle tolerance of that great man would point out to me that but for the grace of God, but for the better advantages, the greater blessings, the lesser temptations in my own life, I, too, might be even as this person was. Over and over it came to me to remember, 'But for the grace of God—there go I.'

I have heard a good many sermons on Charity, but this little incident in a great man's life seems to me a better sermon than them all."

NEW AMERICAN CARDINALS

The appointment of three American Cardinals by Pope Pius X. is certainly a merited tribute to the Catholics of the United States, who have grown greatly in numbers in the past half century. The Roman Pontiff praised America and in the ceremony of conferring the scarlet biretta upon Cardinals Farley, O'Connell and Falconio, feelingly exclaimed: "In America surely God reigns in His glory." And the United States has no State church.

SUNDAY SCHOOL INSTITUTE

A Sunday School Institute will be held at the Congregational church in this city on Monday, Dec. 11. Conducted by Rev. Milton S. Littlefield of Brooklyn, an expert in Sunday school work and methods. The theme for the afternoon session, at three o'clock, will be: "The opportunity of the Sunday school through Gradation" The topic for the evening session at 7:30 will be: "The Teacher's Equipment", and there will be an open parliament at each session. All persons interested in Sunday school work are cordially invited to attend.

The ladies of the Congregational church will serve tea and coffee for any who may bring basket lunch and remain to the evening session.

CHRISTMAS APPROACHES

Christmas but three weeks away,
Crawling closer every day.
Notice how polite and sweet
Are the ones you daily meet?
Office boy is right on hand,
He is wise, you understand.
Does his work with joy because You're to be his Santa Claus.
And the janitor—great Scott.
He is Johnny on-the-spot;
Cleans your desk of all the dust,
Ain't afraid of being cussed;
Has your office nice and warm,
When you come in from the storm;
And the fair typewriter maid
Works as if she were afraid
You'd forget the present gay
She'll receive on Christmas day.
Then at home, the servants there
All are doing twice their share.
Gracious goodness. Mercy me.
How polite they all can be,
For a day or two before
Christmas day knocks at the door.

RING OUT THE OLD, RING IN THE NEW!

"RING out the old year, ring in the new!"

In every country of the world where civilization has taught mankind the importance of celebrating his holidays brazen throated bells will obey this injunction at the midnight moment which marks the passing of 1911 into 1912.

Every bell, every chime, every peal, come it from brass or steel or glass, sounding in mellifluous beauty in the silence of night, marks the observance of a custom that goes back not less than fifteen centuries.

Ring out the old year, ring in the new, is not an impulse to celebrate with more noise another swing of Father Time's scythe. The custom has a significance, a beauty of meaning identified with some of the earliest observances of the church.

From remotest antiquity bells played a part in religious worship. In Egypt the feast of Osiris was announced by the ringing of bells. Aaron and other Jewish high priests wore bells attached to their vestments. In Athens the priests of Cybele used bells in their rites; the Greeks employed them in camps and garrisons, and the most solemn moment in the ritual of the Catholic church is preceded by the ringing of silver chimed bells.

Paulinus, bishop of Nola, introduced the bell into the Christian worship in the year 400 A. D.

The first bells were made in Campania, hence the term campanile or bell tower.

The adoption of the bell into the services of the church soon gave the chimes the comforter's office in the minds of the devout. In their simple faith the worshipers believed that consecrated bells had the power to prevent storms, to drive away evil spirits and to bring repose to the sufferer.

The direct forerunner of the New Year bell is what was known as the "passing bell." This was rung at the death of a believer. In theory devils troubled the expiring patient.

But the peals of a consecrated bell were believed to possess a potency that the most malignant of devils could not withstand; hence with every death the ringing of the holy bells exorcised the evil spirits and assured the soul a happy passing into a future untroubled peace.

From this ancient custom developed easily and naturally the habit of ringing out the old year and ringing in the new.

Centuries have passed, a thousand years and still 500 more have been numbered since the first New Year was hailed by the music of tuned brass, but man still finds the custom beautiful and comforting, and 1912 will be saluted by more peals than any of its predecessors.

The bell most favored is made of tin and copper. In the reign of Henry II. experts decreed that a bell should have two parts of copper and one of tin. When Mr. Layard made his famous investigation of the ruins of Nineveh he found beautifully toned bells where the proportion was ten parts of copper against one of tin. Later experts have decided that four to one is about the right proportion. Experiments have also been made with bells of brass, German silver, real silver and gold. Some made of steel were shown to have a beautiful tone, but deficient from the fact that it could not be sustained. Glass bells of great thickness give out an exquisite melody, but the material is too brittle to withstand the constant impact of the clapper.

So most of the bells that greet 1912 will be made according to the formula of four parts copper to one part tin.

The most famous of the bells that have greeted New Year are now silenced for all time. One is a prized relic of the world's greatest autocracy; the other is a worshiped memento of the struggle for liberty that launched into existence the world's mightiest republic.

The great bell of Moscow, now located in the Kremlin, was cast in 1734. It was the design of its makers that it should fill the air with a volume of melody that should make it world famous. In both height and diameter this colossus of bells is twenty-one feet. It weighs 198 tons.

But how vain is the planning of mankind is proved by the tragic career of this monster of sound. Only for three years did it toll forth the beginning of the new year. Cast in 1734, it remained in its place till 1737. Then it fell during a fire and from its great weight sank deeply into the earth.

For exactly one century it was permitted to remain buried.

Then it was raised, but the excavators found in its side a gaping hole, where a great piece had been broken out. No more should the bell ring. But they raised it, placed it on a solid foundation, and it now forms the dome of a small chapel, made by excavating the space beneath it. Now, though it may no longer ring in the new year, it can be the sanctuary for the New Year prayers of the faithful.

Every New Year eve citizens of Philadelphia gather around the shrine of liberty, Independence hall, to hear the new year rung in. Formerly this service was performed by the bell now known as the Liberty bell.

Before that memorable day in 1776 when the nation's fathers gave forth to the world their Declaration of Independence, whose signing was heralded by the ringing of Liberty bell, the old bell had been used to ring in the new year.

SOME SENTIMENTS OF CHRISTMAS TIME.

A MERRY Christmas to us all, my dears, God bless us. God bless us every one, said Tiny Tim the last of all.—Charles Dickens.

MEN cannot live isolated. We are all bound together. No higher man can separate himself from the lowest.—Carlyle.

REALIZE that doing good is the only certainly happy action of a man's life.—Sir Philip Sidney.

CHRISTMAS time I have always thought of as a good time—a kind, forgiving, charitable, pleasant time.—Charles Dickens.

HEAP on more wood. The wind is chill; but, let it whistle as it will, we'll keep our Christmas merry still!—Sir Walter Scott.

THEN arose a joyous clamor from the wild fowl on the mere, and a voice within cried: "Listen! Christmas carols even here!"—Charles Kingsley.

AGAIN at Christmas did we weave the holly round the Christmas hearth. The silent snow possessed the earth and calmly fell on Christmas eve.—Tennyson.

Force of Lightning.

It is hardly possible to use instruments for the purpose of figuring the forces of lightning, yet there are many other ways of calculating familiar to every mathematician. The amount of light given by a single lightning flash is enough to illuminate an area of two square miles. The bolt itself would be visible several miles further off, but the remotest part of the region mentioned would have as much light as would be given by a candle—quite enough to read by. To produce such a light it would be necessary to expend 13,000 horsepower for a second. These figures appear very large, but the time is short. The flash might be for only one-thousandth of a second, but the impression on the eye would continue for a tenth of a second anyway. Figured down to an exact hour this amount of force would mean only about four horsepower.—Electric News Bulletin.

Boiled Water.

Boiled water for drinking purposes should boil for ten or fifteen minutes before being poured off.

Christmas Is the Birthday of One Who Never Gave to the World a Dollar

In the December Woman's Home Companion, Dr. Charles E. Jefferson, pastor of the Broadway Tabernacle in New York, writes a great Christmas sermon. One of the eloquent passages in it follows:

"It is worth remembering that Christmas is the birthday of Jesus, the Man who never gave the world a dollar. He bestowed upon mankind not a solitary material gift. He carved no statue, painted no picture, wrote no poem, composed no song, fashioned no piece of jewelry, built no edifice, founded no city, erected no triumphal arch but He stands in history as the great Giver. Silver and gold He had none, but such as He had He gave to men, the gentle touch of a sympathetic hand, the golden glow of a genial mind, the healing love of a generous heart, the bracing energy of a courageous spirit. Paul calls Him God's 'Unspeakable Gift.' The best thing God is able to give us is not gold or silver, or costly stones, but Himself.

"It is when we give of the things of the spirit that we escape from the realm of embarrassments and burdens. Into a spiritualized Christmas we everyone can enter, the rich and the poor, the high and the low, the small and the great.

"In preparing, then, our Christmas presents, let us get ready to give some of the things which Jesus gave. Along with the many gifts which are priceless, let us give thought to someone who needs it, sympathy to someone who craves it, praise to someone who deserves it but does not get it, kindness to someone whom the world has over-looked, affection to someone who is starving for it, inspiration to someone who is fainting because of the lack of it. One's Christmas does not consist in the abundance of the things which he receives or gives away, but in the spirit of good will which fills his heart."

Many sufferers from nasal catarrh say they get splendid results by using an atomizer. For their benefit we prepare Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Except that it is liquid it is in all respects like the healing, helpful, pain-allaying Cream Balm that the public has been familiar with for years. No cocaine nor other dangerous drug in it. The soothing spray is a remedy that relieves at once. All druggists, 75c., including spraying tube, or mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren Street, New York.

Your Xmas tree IS SAFE with the little electric lamps and more attractive than ever. Candles mean danger and therefore should be avoided.

President Taft and the Sherman Law

It is the judgment of President Taft that the Sherman law will bring order out of chaos with the courts to interpret and apply its principles. This view of the situation is opposed by Colonel Roosevelt, who believes that "the effort to administer a law merely by law-suits and court decisions is bound to end in signal failure." He asks for the formulation of a policy of government regulation and control for corporations that shall not attack the big ones merely because they are big, but shall "amply safeguard the interests of the whole public." "This law," Colonel Roosevelt states, "should be clear, unambiguous, certain, so that honest men may not find that unwittingly they have violated it." Control should be authorized, not by the courts, but by an administration bureau or board such as the Bureau of Corporations on the Interstate Commerce Commission. This is a reasonable alternative to the policy now being followed by President Taft, and the time is ripe to consider it because of the labors of the President to enforce the Sherman law, as it stands, though existing machinery. The President may wonder how a better law can be expected to be administered than by law suits and court decisions. It is a clear possibility that the President can obtain from the present Congress a law that is "clear, unambiguous, certain," now that the session has begun, others who have alternates in mind should present them for investigation and adoption.

PENNEY POSTAGE VS. PARCELS POST

Washington, Nov. 29.—"The greatest danger to the parcel post movement lies in the demand for a one-cent letter rate," said Senator Jonathan Bourne today. "Members of Congress are now being flooded with letters from bankers and wholesale merchants asking for one-cent letter postage. The similarity of the language in the letters shows conlusively that they are not written because business men feel the two cent rate to be burdensome, but because some interested organization has agitated the subject.

"Establishment of one-cent letter postage would mean a reduction of the revenues of the postal service and would delay enactment of parcel post legislation. I deem it important that all advocates of the parcel post counteract the influence of this demand for one-cent letter postage by asking that the parcel post be established before the question of reduction in letter postage is considered.

"No European country has one-cent letter postage, but European rates on parcels are less than ours. Our letter rate is not burdensome. The parcel rate is now prohibitive and forces the people to patronize the express companies. It is burdensome and compared with the rates in other countries is a shame to our postal system. Every advocate of a parcel post should make his voice heard now."

DEATH OF EDITOR

Troy, N. Y., Dec. 1.—Charles S. Francis, aged 68, editor of the Troy Times and former ambassador to Austria-Hungary, died suddenly at his home today.

BURGARD IS A HUSTLER

The dirt is beginning to fly on barge canal contract which is in charge of the Henry P. Burgard Construction company and it is believed that by next week the work of building the new high dam will be started in earnest.

The Construction company has had shipped from Niagara Falls a monster concrete mixing plant of the most approved type which is capable of turning out 65 cubic yards of concrete per hour or 520 yards a day. The plant is equipped with a heating device which will permit the mixing and laying of concrete during cold weather.

A cableway has been constructed at the site of the dam which will permit concrete being carried across the river from the west shore. A considerable amount of excavation remains to be done before the work of constructing the dam will be started but it is hoped by those in charge to have everything ready by the latter part of next week.—Palladium.

Santa Claus And the Big Stocking

POLLY had a small bed close to that in which her father and mother slept, and, although she was nearly always asleep in it by 9 o'clock, the light from a street lamp which slyly slipped in at a curtained window could have told you that upon this particular night she was wide awake long after 11 o'clock and that her brown eyes had been open ever since the lights in the room had been put out. She lay very still, however, because she had something to do which, although she was good and truthful, for some reason she did not wish her parents to know.

AWAKE AT NIGHT.

Just after the little clock on the mantel had struck 12 Polly rose halfway in bed and listened. She could hear her father and mother breathing, and a mouse was gnawing somewhere near the dressing case.

She was afraid of the mouse, but she was too much in earnest to let even a mouse stop her. So she thrust her hand softly under the pillow and pulled forth what, had the light been turned up and had you been in the room, you would have seen at once was a large black stocking filled with a number of things which bulged it out in the funniest way.

With this in her hand she climbed carefully out of bed and glided across the carpeted floor like a wee ghost which had forgotten and stayed out too late. The bedroom opened with folding doors into a sitting room, at one end of which was a mantel, where on all the Christmas eves that Polly could remember her stocking and her mother's had been hung. Polly had many times asked how Santa Claus knew it was stocking there, too, but he could not tell her. She was sure it was [illegible] wanted, and, besides, it was only children like her mamma who hung up their stockings for Santa Claus, not grown people like himself. Polly felt her way to this mantel and leaned the big black stocking against its side.

She turned and ran back and climbed into her bed. The mouse was still. To tell the truth, it was far more timid than Polly and had heard her first noiseless footfall and was crouched in the bureau drawer, fearing the worst. In a few moments Polly was asleep, and the ray of the street lamp fell across her quiet little hand.

POLLY'S FATHER FINDS THE STOCKING.

Polly slept on Christmas morning later than any other child in the great city, and when her father, who had risen before she had awakened, passed the Christmas mantel he saw the big black stocking where she had left it. As he had helped to hang up the other stockings the night before this one seemed so strange to him that he looked into its contents. The very first thing he found was a letter:

Dear Santa Claus—This is little Polly. Last Crismes and Crismas before you hav given me so many things and I hav never given you anything. Take these dollys and blocks and picher books for your little girl I like them but you can hav them I want too giv you a kiss sum time how are your rain dears good by with mery Crismas and happy New Year from your dear litel Polly. Pleas exkews mistaiks from litel Polly luv to al.

Polly's father took the big black stocking with [illegible] the toys which it contained and [illegible] it where Polly will never find it, there to keep until Santa Claus comes to claim it and the darling letter.

When [illegible] and ran to the Christmas [illegible] her dinner night dress [illegible] and when [illegible] that [illegible] her [illegible] was for a big black stocking [illegible] arms around her and hugged her very tight and said "Merry Christmas, little Polly!" so earnestly that she fancied he was sad.

She put her face close to his and stroked his cheek with her hand, and then her mother came, and altogether they had a merry morning with the gifts which Santa Claus had brought. But Polly said never a word about the big black stocking. That was a secret between her and Santa Claus.

OLD CHRISTMAS SUPERST

Recalling Time When a Peculiar Popular Prejudice Existed.

A well known fifteenth century carol begins:

Holly and ivy, box and bay
Put in the church on Christmas day.

But the customs of those times were rigid regarding the removal of all decorations from churches and dwellings before Candlemas day, Feb. 2, for people had superstitious about their remaining longer. Herrick alludes to this popular prejudice in the lines:

Down with the rosemary, and so
Down with the bales and the mistletoe,
Down with the holly, ivie, all
Wherewith ye dress the Christmas hall,
That so the superstitious find
No one least branch there left behind.
For look how many leaves there be Neglected there. Maids, trust to me,
So many goblins you will see.

Perhaps the superstition was a pretext of the particular old housewives who knew that by Candlemas day the crisped green things, dried by Yule logs and many candlelights for illumination, would be nuisances of falling leaves and berries to tread underfoot. However this may be, the belief obtained.

A CHRISTMAS IN WAR.

"Fighting Bob" Evans' Story of the "Presents" to Fort Fisher.

"On Christmas morning," said Rear Admiral Evans, U. S. N., retired, "I thank God that he made three times as much water as land. No true sailor would exchange Christmas at sea for one on shore.

"Of all the Christmases spent at sea the one that rises before me most vividly is that of 1865, when the Federal army and the gunboat fleet were trying to capture Fort Fisher. The only presents we received, and they came fast and furious, were solid shot and shell from the guns of the enemy. But this didn't destroy our sense of humor. The boys would write on each solid shot or shell before placing it in the gun, 'Presented by,' and add the name of the vessel from which it happened to be fired. Mighty few hurled at the fort that day lacked this Christmas greeting. All the gunners caught the spirit of the grim jest, for the fighting line is no place for serious faces.

"Despite the excitement of the fierce combat we managed to have the mastheads of all the ships trimmed with Christmas greens, even though the sailors had to risk their lives in going ashore to get them, and you may be assured the sentiment of the day was not wasted."

No nation provides more plentifully for the Christmas cheer of its sailors than does Uncle Sam. Each of the battleship crews has a dinner of roast turkey, plum pudding, pumpkin pie and all the trimmings that go with it. The men are served in messes of twenty at 12 o'clock, and each man is allowed one snifter of grog as an appetizer in celebration of the occasion.

The officers dine at 6 o'clock and, as is the custom when spending the holiday at sea, are guests of the commanding officer.

STERLING RANGE

There's a lot of nonsense talked about ranges. Everybody claims his particular make will "save half your coal," or give you "twice as much heat," etc., etc. But it's easy to make claims. What range but the Sterling has dared to prove it's efficiency? It is the Sterling, you know, that bakes a barrel of flour with hod of coal! More than 1000 public demonstrations have been given by the Sterling people, in which 250 loaves were baked with 22 to 28 lbs. of coal, —16 big loaves at a time,—sure proof that the Sterling will do all your work at the lowest possible operating cost.

FOR EMERGENCY GIFTS.

Advice to Avoid Last Minute Despair Over "Another Name."

For the last moment gifts one should always have at hand some boxes of candy and perhaps a few very fine flowers. One, for instance, might rather have a single orchid than all the carnations in the shops, while a gardenia is the most admired of all blossoms by the average young girl. Either of these exotic gifts may be tied up in a little box and decorated with a spray of fern or holly, so that it will look attractive.

For the big-hearted woman who always at the last moment adds another name or two to her Christmas list what could be better than silk stockings? These she may buy and have on hand in assorted sizes, and when a name pops into her memory all she needs to do is to tie up the silken affairs in a pretty box and they are ready to send on their way. Having a few such auxiliary gifts in the house saves the busy woman much disappointment.

CHRISTMAS THOUGHTS.

It has been said that a sealskin coat usually makes a devout Christmas churchgoer.

It's a foolish girl who gives her beau the mitten before Christmas. Few do.

Better a paid pork chop than a fat turkey on tick.

Don't forget to kiss your wife just once under the mistletoe.

The Mistletoe.

Here in her father's library
On Christmas eve I wait sedately
Till Mistress Nancy comes to me.
That damsel most serene and stately.

And dangling from the chandelier
A berried spray (long since I knew it)
Seems to proclaim: "She hung me here.
I dare you—dare you—do it, do it."

Well, Christmas comes but once a year.
Less often such a chance I fancy.
So ere you cross the room I fear
That something may arise you, Nancy.

The Tallest Holly Trees.

The American holly appears to attain its greatest size and perfection in southern Arkansas and Texas, where it is to be seen at times from forty to fifty feet in height. In much smaller form it grows naturally, however, along the south shore of Massachusetts among tupelos, black oaks, red maples, cedars, etc., but not much northward of Hingham and Quincy.

When Santa Called on Doubtful Boy

JOE was one of those boys who didn't believe in Santa Claus. He had been sitting in front of the library fire on Christmas eve, glancing now and then at the uncurtained window through which he could see the snow falling. Suddenly he heard the tinkle of bells and went to the window to look out. A little old man with the whitest of hair, the reddest of red cheeks and the merriest of brown eyes was driving up.

"Hello, hello, there!" he called.

Joe ran to the door.

"How d'ye do?" called the little old gentleman. Then he put his hand into his pocket and fished out a huge card. On it was printed "Mr. Santa Claus, Christmastown, North Pole."

Then the old gentleman pulled out a book. Joe could see that in it was a list of names of children. Some of them had black marks beside their names.

"KNOW A BOY NAMED JOE JINGLE?"

"Know a boy named Joe Jingle?" asked the little old man, keeping his finger on a name beside which there was a very black mark.

"Y-e-e-s," answered Joe. "He lives here."

"Ah, indeed," chirped the little old gentleman. "I hear that he is one of those smart boys who don't believe in Santa Claus. He doesn't believe in me! What d'ye think of that? When I first began to make my Christmas rounds many, many hundred years ago there wasn't a boy or girl in all the world who did not know me and believe in me, and I never forgot one single child. But after awhile the world grew so big, so many children were born into it, that it was very hard for me to get around to them all.

"By and by things got so bad I had to get the fairies—only the good fairies, of course—to go about and make up a list of all the boys and girls in the world and to find out what they wanted for Christmas and if they believed in Santa Claus or not. I have all the names in this book here. Do you think Joe Jingle deserves anything for not believing in me?"

"I—I s'pose not," said poor Joe. "But if I promise to tell him about meeting you and prove to him that you're real p'r'aps you'll forgive him this time."

Old Santa Claus shook his head sadly. "It always makes me feel very bad to think anybody needs proof of me. A boy or girl ought to believe what their parents tell them about old Santa Claus."

"If I—I mean if Joe had only seen you come down the chimney once I'm sure he'd never have doubted that you were real," said Joe eagerly.

"That was all very well in the old days," replied Santa sorrowfully. "But they make the chimneys so narrow these days, and what with steam heat and gas logs in the city houses I haven't any chance at all to make my Christmas calls on children in the good old fashioned way."

"If you don't go down chimneys much how do you manage to fill all the stockings?" asked Joe.

"Oh, that's easy!" cried Santa. "I have formed what I call a parents' league. I learn from each parent just before Christmas what is best to give each child, and when it comes Christmas eve the fairies leave the presents at each house. I go about the country just seeing that everything goes right."

"GOOD NIGHT AND A MERRY CHRISTMAS."

Here Santa's little horse began to paw and toss its head.

"Well, I must be getting along," cried Santa, and he climbed into his sleigh, and as he picked up his reins he called out, "Good night and a merry Christmas to you!"

He chirruped to his horse and in a moment was out of sight down the road, though the tinkling of the sleighbells could be heard for a long time after.

* * * * * * *

The next thing Joe knew he was being shaken by the shoulder and his father's voice was saying in his ear: "Why are you snoozing here by the fire? You ought to have been in bed long ago. It's almost time for Santa Claus to come."

"I've seen him myself. I do believe in Santa Claus. Please ask the little fairies to tell him Joe Jingle is going to be a good boy now."

THE HAYESES' CHRISTMAS.

The President's Wife Herself Put Up Delicacies For the Sick.

Christmas at the White House with Mrs. Hayes as its mistress was a succession of Christian charities and joyful gatherings.

"William, I want you to buy forty turkeys, besides our own, and vegetables, pickles and fruit to go with them," she said to the steward one Christmastide.

The steward has told with pride how for four years he got the forty turkeys and how the madam came to the storeroom, rolled up her sleeves and filled bags with cranberries, lemons, crackers and small delicacies for the sick.

The Hayeses gave the home Christmas presents in an original way. All the gifts were taken to the family room, assorted for each person and laid on tables. Mr. and Mrs. Hayes distributed them. At the tap of a bell some one was called, and, walking in, he received all his gifts. Each in turn came the same way.

WAR'S MEMORIES

From Norm G. Cooper's Diary, 1862. Incidents which Tried the Endurance and Courage of the Old 24th N. Y. Infantry.

Aug. 11, 1862—Another hard day. Hot sun and terrible dust—choking experience renewed; passed through Stevensburg and made a record of twenty-eight miles. Went to bed at 10 p. m. in a field not far from the battlefield of Cedar Mountain.

Aug. 12—Rested and refreshed ourselves. Many of us took a look at dead horses killed in war and snuffed the carnage of Cedar Mountains, which came off a few days previous.

Aug. 14—Kings Division reviewed by General Pope.

Aug. 16—Marched seven miles to Slaughter Mountain.

Aug. 18—Formed line of battle at 7 p. m. and laid on our arms, sleeping a few hours with gun in hand, ready for handling.

Aug. 19—Called up at 3 a .m. and jogged along with the other mules twenty-one miles, stopping to breathe at 11 p. m.

Aug. 20—Tpok a four-mile walk to Rappahannock Station.

Aug. 21—Wagons left early for Catlett's Station. Shells burst over us. The Johnnies were careless in shooting; maybe they wanted to hurt us. A close action was looked for and 100 rounds of ammunition was issued to each man.

Aug. 22—Started about daylight and took positions, flat as pancakes, just below a hill. We were under fire of artillery from both sides, the Rebels firing over the Rappahannock River to break us up and our cannon giving them fits to break them down. Fowler of Company D was killed by a piece of shell from the enemy and several had arrow calls. My impression is that I was scared, but the rest took it calmly. At 5 p. m., the sharpshooters took our position and we retired to eat our quail on toast in the woods in peace.

Aug. 23—Up at 3 a .m. and formed an attack which failed. While eating our frugal breakfast, more shells came our way and. Roy, the darkey cook, turned as many white as he could while he murmured in accents wild, "Oh, Lord, let me out of dis." Shells had the effect of making a man feel pious when they bursted near him. Captain Jennings caught a piece of shell on his head. Aug. 22, but the force was out of it and we laughed at the joke. Jackson is getting in our rear up the river. At 10 a. m., we lit out for new pastures; the sun boiled us; the rain dampened us, and the mud was knee deep in places; only marched twelve miles, but it was horrid.

Aug. 24—Sunday—Took a two-mile walk and camped near Warrenton until Tuesday.

Aug. 26—Marched six miles to Sulpher Springs and rejoiced because shells missed us.

Aug. 27—Marched to new Baltimore.

Aug. 28. —Marched to near Bull Run. Our brigade supported artillery and brought on an engagement between Ewell's Confederate brigade and other Rebels and Gibbon's Union brigade with part of Doubleday's. It was the first of the Bull Run three day's slaughter and was very desperate for the time engaged. We were ordered to support them and took a double quick up the road. The firing ceased ,however, and we took a nap with a satisfactory grin on our smile puckerer.

Aug. 29—At 2 a. m we hopped off to the rear, thinking of a short trip to a place where we could cook coffee. Our kitchens only contained coffee and hard tack and we had not been able to cook coffee since noon of the day before. Much to our disgust we kept on several miles tightening our belts occasionally over our hash depot. About 9 o'clock we halted at Manassas Junction and had the exquisite pleasure of masticating some beef which had been killed on the spot. The supposition was that we had Stonewall Jackson surrounded, and victory seemed certain. Some of McClellan's troops passed by and we gave them hearty cheers. About 3 or 4 o'clock we vamoosed toward the firing line and after much changing of positions were suddenly ordered to double quick into action. Our information was that the Johnnies were retreating and we rushed yelling through a creek, over a fence, in front hellity-split up an embankment, where the Rebels had a soft snap. It was about dark and the cry, "You are firing on your friends," produced confusion, and a retreat was ordered, none to quick. Lieut. TenEyck G. Pauding of Co. E was killed while doing his level best for the Union. He was a student with Dr. A. C. Livingston in Fulton when he enlisted and had many warm friends. Thomas Coles lost his good right arm.

I had previously to the battle offered my resignation but the captain remarked that only officers could resign; privates never. My claim of being a Quaker was also decided out of order by the chairman and my feelings were badly shocked. My intentions were good to keep out of danger. My aspirations didn't lead me to sing out "A horse, a horse. My kingdom for a horse;" in order to die a martyr. I felt that under the circumstances, I would rather pay two dollars and a half out of my salary than be killed. There was considerable hurrying that evening and some "son of a gun" plugged a bullet through my right arm, which placed me "hors de combat" without even a colt. About that time the order was "Retreat, Retreat;" and if I know myself I didn't carry that musket another second. Grabbing my arm above the elbow, I put not my trust in chariots, but in legs and tried to fly. A few minutes took me out of immediate range, although the bullets kept singing "wait a minute". Some comrade tied a handkerchief around my arm and left me alone in my glory. I was very weak and could not keep up with him, so I told him to escape being taken a prisoner. We dreaded prison life as much as bullets. Belle Isle and Libby Prison were horrors to our minds. I rested and walked a short way, then rested and continued on again; lay down and got up again; darkness all around my pathway and nobody in sight. Finally I must have got turned around, because I saw a long row of soldiers on the brow of a hill and went toward them with the conviction strong in my mind that they were Union troops. Just before I reached them I hollered out, "Any of the Twenty-fourth there?" The answer was "Twenty-fourth what?" I sang out, "Twenty-fourth New York." The answer came "Yes; come on." My satisfaction was intense as I closed in on them, but my pleasure was turned to dismay when a sergeant of a Texas regiment said, "You are a prisoner."

N. G. C., Oberlin, Ohio.

The following letter from one of the bravest men in the 24th Inf., Co. E and the 24th Cavalry, Co. A, is very interesting. Our dead Comrade Teller has gone over the river but the memory of his deeds cannot die. We loved him:

Solvay, N. Y., Nov. 26, 1908.

Dear old Comrade Cooper: Received your letter in due time, also Chan's and Simpson's, was glad to hear from you all, hope this will find you and your all well. Hope you will have a good fat turkey for your dinner, we are having a Thanksgiving dinner and the children are all home today. I quit work the first of this month but I am not very well, just so as to be around; my wife is pretty well for her, she sends her regards to you all. Now in regard to the battle of Groveton on the 29th day of August, 1862, as our regiment halted there near the creek and near the stone house, the Captain sent me with 10 or 12 canteens to get water for the men I had quite a time to find any but did find a good spring of water and when I got back to where I left the regiment, the regiment was gone and also my gun. It was getting dark and I heard heavy firing in the left and front and I went in the direction of this firing and kept going until I got up where the bullets were whizzing and until I saw anybody I knew. The first I met was Peter Cathcart and Tommy Cole and Tommy was wounded bad in the arm Peter took his canteen from me and drank about half the water and seemed to be excited and skipped out and left Tommy and me alone, then we went back and I helped him the best I could to that stone building at the creek; when we got three they had a lot of wounded men there and I laid Tommy down on the floor. I stood over him for three hours to keep the rest from stepping on him. Then I got Dr. Murdock to look after him and he said he would have to go to the other hospital as his arm would have to come off. He ordered an ambulance and took him to another hospital.

Then I went out and crossed the creek. I saw troops there laying down and I laid down with them and when I awoke in the morning I was with my own regiment and after we got something to eat they marched us around awhile and a report came around that we were not going into battle that day but when they got ready for the ball to open they marched us right through the lines to the front. We went into that charge with 330 men and lost 277 of them. I was wounded after the charge was made and I went back to this same house where I left Cole the night before. The doctor said that there was so many hurt more than I, he took my gun from me and told me to report at Centerville which was eight miles away. I went about one mile and run onto Sergeant Buck and he stayed with me until I reached Centerville. We found an empty house there and went in. It was raining hard when we got there and in a few minutes there was hardly standing room, we stayed there until morning; it was still ranging in the morning. Then an officer rode up three and told us that all that could walk to report to Alexandria. I started and Buck followed, we had not gone far before Tip Day came along with an army wagon and we rode clear through. The next morning I had my wound dressed for the first; then I went to Upton's hill, the regiment went there and occupied their old winter quarters. In a few days they went into Maryland and they sent me to Harwood hospital, Washington, D. C.

PRESIDENT'S VIEW OF HIS OWN ADMINISTRATION

Taft Awaits the People's Verdict

"I am very grateful for the honors the people have given me. I do not affect to deny the satisfaction I should feel if, after casting up the totals pro and con, and striking a balance, they should decide that my first term had been fruitful enough of good to warrant their enlisting me for another. Any man would be proud of such a verdict.

"But I have not been willing, nor shall I be, to purchase it at the sacrifice of my freedom to do my duty as I see it. My happiness is not dependent on holding any office; and I shall go back to private life with no heartburnings if the people, after an unprejudiced review of my administration, conclude that some one else can serve them to their greater advantage."—President Taft.

A CHARMING WOMAN

Is one who is lovely in face, form, mind and temper. But its hard for a woman to be charming without health. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation and kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. But Electric Bitters always prove a godsend to women who want health, beauty and friends. They regulate stomach, liver and kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion and perfect health. DO PEOPLE LIKE CHRISTMAS AFTER ALL?

In the December Woman's Home Companion, Sophie Kerr Underwood, writing an article entitled "A Christmas Fallacy," takes up the point that of late years it has become a sort of habit to speak of Christmas as an obligatory and expensive ceremony,—a tax upon our time and strength and bank accounts. The author made a careful investigation and she brings in an interesting verdict. Following is a brief extract:

"When first I put on the gum shoes and lit the dark lantern that every simon-pure investigator carries, I directed my stealthy steps to the side of a nice, nice girl who works for her living at eighteen dollars a week, and pays her board at home, and buys her own clothes, just like dozen or more girl friends. And she She has a father, a mother, two sisters, a brother, a sweetheart, and a dozn or mor girl frineeeds. And she perfectly adores Christmas.

"She saves one dollar a week all the year as her Christmas present fund. She keeps a memorandum of tastes and preferences,and notes whether her mother says she wants a new salad-bowl or her sister admires extravagantly the rhinestone barrette of her dearest friend. Then, at Christmas, she has the delight of giving to those whom she loves best the things they really want. Sometimes she has to deny herself a bit to do it, but I could not tell that she found it a hardship. And she liked the gay shops and the crowded streets and the tying up of her Christmas parcels and even the gifts she received.

"Next I investigated a man, a middle-aged, commonplace, rather bad-tempered, not particularly neat and tidy, very masculine man. If anyone could have no sentiment for giving an gaiety and holiday making, it must be he. Believe me, he was secretly cutting down his cigar-expenditure in order to buy for his wife a wonderful big, framed photograph of the 'Sistine Madonna' which she had long coveted. Did he like to do it? Did it make Christmas a happy time for him that he could do something beautiful for the one he loved best in the world? Answer these questions for yourself."

The quicker a cold is gotten rid of the less the danger from pneumonia and other serious diseases. Mr. B. W. L. Hall, of Waverly, Va., says: "I firmly believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be absolutely the best preparation on the market for colds. I have recommended it to my friends and they all agree with me." For sale by all druggists.

The Moral of the Story.

Professor John Spencer Bassett, author of "A Life of Andrew Jackson," in one of his lectures at Smith college, repeated a well known story in regard to Stephen A. Douglas, closing with a moral which aroused peculiar interest.

Douglas, as the narrative runs, was once sitting in a profound sleep in the corridor of the capitol when Adeline Cutts, a Washington belle, passed by. She did not know the sleeper, but was struck with compassion on seeing such a splendidly intellectual face under such conditions, and stooping down laid her handkerchief over it to protect it from the flies. Douglas on awakening found the handkerchief, sought the owner and eventually married her. There was a pause, and then the professor added: "Young ladies, the moral of this story is, have your pocket handkerchief marked."

When you have a cold get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will soon fix you all right and will ward off any tendency toward pneumonia. This remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. Sold by all druggists.

A CAROL CONTEST.

A carol contest affords exercise and fun. A young lady is requested to take her place at the piano and play gay Christmas music. Some chairs are placed down the center of the room, back to back, just one less in number than the players. Suppose there are twelve children to play. You place eleven chairs, ten back to back, one extra. Then the twelve children dance hand in hand around the chairs in time to the music.

Suddenly—sometimes in the middle

"I had been troubled with constipation for two years and tried all of the best physicians in Bristol, Tenn and they could do nothing for me," writes Thos. E. Williams, Middleboro, Ky. "Two packages of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets cured me. For sale by all druggists.

MAIL DELIVERY

Patrons Occupying Offices on Second Floor Requested to Provide Receptacles for Mail

In compliance with general direction from the post office officials, calling attention to the advantages of providing facilities for the receipt of mail by erecting conveniently accessible boxes, or cutting slots in doors, etc., an effort has been made since last June and polite requests issued from time to time by Postmaster Hughes, urging all occupying offices on the second floor of buildings, or inaccessible quarters, to place a locked box in the hallway of their buildings for the depository of their mail. Four-fifths of the patrons have readily complied with the request whenever the necessity for such action was brought to their attention, thus doing away with the necessity for the carrier to climb a flight of stairs three times a day with a load on his back weighing at least fifty pounds.

A correspondent of an out-of-town paper, whose office is on the second floor of a public building, when notified of the unwillingness of the Postmaster to allow the carrier to longer continue climbing the stairs in the official routine of his duties, complained that warning was not given before arbitary action was taken. Nothing could be wider of the truth. Ample notice was given from time to time, not only by personal request, but by publication in local and out-of-town papers, calling attention to the humane side of the question. When such requests were ignored by a few it became time to act, and a conscientious papers, calling attention to the buperative that an order should be issued that on and after a certain date no more mail should be delivered to the upstairs floor of any building.

AN ALMANAC OF YE OLDEN TIME

FORTUNATELY for our forefathers, the almanacs had some claims to literary merits in their day. Reading matter was scarce outside of the larger towns of the colonies. Magazines were practically unknown. Filled with prognostications as to the weather, with snatches of wisdom and humor, verse and essay, the annual almanac became a compendium of useful knowledge that was most eagerly awaited and was hailed as an important event in many a home. One might say that it was treated as a household god, for, hung upon a hook in some corner, it always was ready for instant reference. The wise saws and quaint sayings which ran through its pages were read over time and again by every member of the family.

There were numerous almanacs published during colonial days in this country. The popularity of Poor Richard's Almanac, edited by Benjamin Franklin, went hand in hand with that of its illustrious maker.

The first Ames Almanac, issued in 1726, was conventional in form and closely followed other almanacs of the period. Its maker was a physician. It contained a table of the movements of the planets and sundry prophecies concerning the weather. That the doctor was afraid of severe criticism of this first effort is indicated by the following stanza, which also illustrates the style of his poetry:

Read, then, and learn, but don't all fruits object,
Since they can only judge that can correct.
To whom my works appeal, and if I find
The sons of art to favor them inclin'd,
With their propitious smiles it shall suffice
To counterpoise the frowns of enemies.

An examination of the files of the Ames Almanac shows that nearly every conceivable subject was discussed by the doctor in its nearly forty years of publication. Sometimes he indulged in flights of imagery, as in November, 1730:

Old winter's coming, void of all delight,
With trembling steps. His head is bald and white.
His hair with robes of icicles is hung.
His chatt'ring teeth confound his useless tongue.
He makes the rich to spend and poor to buy
For want of that which would their wants supply.

In the opening lines of the almanac for 1738 Dr. Ames takes a fling at lawyers, priests and doctors and blames old, overburdened Adam for their existence. Thus:

Had Adam stood in innocence till now
And his blest sons had deign'd to hold the plow
No labor had fatign'd, nor time had spoiled
His youth, but spring had ever blooming smil'd.
No lust for pelf nor heart distressing pain
Had seized the miser nor the rural swain.
Nor vice, as now, with virtue ne'er had vied,
And heaven's omnipotence itself defy'd.
Nor lawyers, priests nor doctors ne'er had been
If man had stood against th' assaults of sin.
But, oh, he fell! And so accurs'd we be.
The world is now obliged to use all three.

Probably the most interesting portions of these almanacs are the bits of wisdom and humor which went with each calendar month. A few illustrations will suffice to show the sort of thing that amused our ancestors:

ALWAYS READY FOR INSTANT REFERENCE.

FEBRUARY, 1738.

Pretty cold, freezing nights, followed with a short storm. Let travelers be upon their guard to defend their noses.

FEBRUARY, 1747.

The farmer now's resolv'd he will not freeze
While he has pipes, tobacco, fire, with good bread and cheese.

OCTOBER, 1753.

Those that are husbands good
Should now get in their cider, grain and wood.
An honest friend is good company, but a good conscience is the best guest.

SEPTEMBER, 1763.

Virtue is praised more than followed. To some men their country is their shame, and some are the shame of their country.

Love and Time.

"Charm, New Year, of your good grace,
These sad wrinkles from Love's face.

"Wan and weary now he seems.
Bring him back the dreams, the dreams!

"Arch above him April skies.
Kiss the light into his eyes.

"Lead him back to moments fled—
Lure Love's roses from the dead!"

"Nay," the New Year saith; "his day
Hath o'erpast the daisied way.

"Though he weareth now the thorn,
'Neath the rose leaves it was born.

"Now the stem, of rose bereft,
Love must keep the thorn that's left.

"Merry is the wintry morn.
Love is dead, and Love is born!"
—Baltimore Herald.

Self Convicted.

"Say, pa," queried small Bobby, "what is gossiping, anyway?"

"Gossiping, my son," replied the old man, "if we get right down to the plain, unvarnished facts, is lying. But why do you ask?"

"Because," answered the young investigator, "ma says you do a lot of gossiping every time your business keeps you late at the office."—Exchange.

CHRISTMAS TOWN.

IT lieth sweet as a little street
That sweeps to a good green valley.
It lieth clean, with no squalor seen.
No dark and loathsome alley.
It lieth there in the golden air,
A town of song and gleaming,
With childhood's chatter and bugles' clatter
And the make believe of dreaming.
It lieth still on a little hill,
By a brook and a strip of wildwood.
Oh, let's go down to Christmas Town
Just as we did in childhood!

Its streets are bright with merry light,
And all day armies wander
All to and fro, with golden glow,
From childhood's way back yonder.
Each laughing face wears smiles of grace
And trust and all undoubting,
And o'er the throng the voice of song
Swells into silvery shouting.
It lieth calm as isles of balm
Far off from hate and wrangle.
Oh, let's go down to Christmas Town
With all its glow and spangle!

Its hills are toys for girls and boys.
Its vales are candy icing,
Its lanes and lake are gingercake
And bonbons most enticing,
While always there a fragrant air
Of orange bloom is blowing,
And on the trees green memories
Of childhood days are growing.
It lieth far, but love's sweet star
Eternal watch is keeping
To guide us down to Christmas Town
Through little paths of sleeping.

Ah, it may seem a foolish dream
That I should see it lying
So still and sweet, its every street
With some fond vision vying.
But yet I know that long ago
They built it there who love us,
And many a day we've spent in play
With its blue sky above us!
It lieth near for those, my dear,
Whose eyes have fairy essence
To help them see, though aged they be,
The gleam of childhood's presence.
—Hagerstown Bard in Baltimore Sun.

Pointer For the Preacher.

Among the stories related by the late Rev. Dr. A. F. Pierson was one of a marble cutter, with chisel and hammer, working a block of stone into a statue. A preacher who was looking on said, "I wish I could, on hearts of stone, deal such transforming blows!"

"Perhaps you might," was the workman's quiet answer, "if, like me, you worked on your knees."—Philadelphia Record.

YOU AND YOUR BOY.

(From Scrap Book.)

Whom is your boy going to for advice?
Tough Johnny Jones at the end of the street,
Rough Billie Green or untaught Jimmy Price?
Who is now guiding his innocent feet?
Who takes him walking and swimming today,
You or the stranger just over the way?
Whom is your boy leaning on for a friend?
Whom does he tell all his wee troubles to?
Say ,now with whom does your little one spend
Most of his time, with a stranger or you?
Whose hand is leading him where he should go?
Answer now, Busy Man, tell if you know.
Who is the pal that he opens his heart to,
You, or some stranger you never have seen?
Whom does your boy all his secrets impart to?
Maybe to some one whose mind is unclean.
If it isn't to you that he comes he's in danger.
What do you know of the worth of
What do you know of the worth of the stranger?
Oh, be a boy with that boy that is yours,
Play with him, stay with him, show him the way.
Walk with him, talk with him, take him out doors
Be his best friend as you ought to today.
Take him down town so the youngster may see
The right sort of man that you want him to be.
Don't be too busy to hear what he's telling,
Don't send him off when he comes to your knee;
This sort of father disaster is spelling—
He's hungry for you and his pal you should be.
Spend all the time you can with the lad,
He'll be a good boy if you'll be a good dad.

PRESENTS FOR ROYALTY.

Quantity So Great That Housing Them Is Serious Problem.

Were a royal personage to accept all the Christmas offerings of subjects and admirers, known and unknown, standing room in royal residences would soon be at a discount. Presents arrive at the British court from all parts of the world. A registered package from Vermont one Christmas was found to inclose a prize potato weighing five pounds. Another present was a nugget of pure gold found in the Klondike and valued at £260. It was subscribed for and sent by the inhabitants of Dawson City.

Not all gifts to royalty are returned. Where special permission is asked and obtained beforehand a present is accepted in the spirit in which it is offered.

The present most coveted by Roman Catholic royal ladies of Europe is the papal golden rose. The jewel, the first of which was presented by Pope Urban VI. to Joanna of Sicily, is a minute plant of pure gold standing in a golden pot. The leaves are set with diamonds in imitation of dewdrops, and a palm leaf blessed by the pope accompanies the gift.—Chambers' Journal.

FORGIVENESS.

Every one has his weak points; every one has his faults; we may make the worst of these; we may fix our attention constantly upon these. But we may also make the best of one another. We may forgive, even as we hope to be forgiven.—A. P. Stanley.

THE INDIANS' CHRISTMAS.

Little Redskins Not Slow to Get Acquainted With Santa.

From the time that Uncle Sam began to encourage the idea of schools for Indian children the teachers made much of Christmas, and the little redskins were quick to show interest in the Christmas tree.

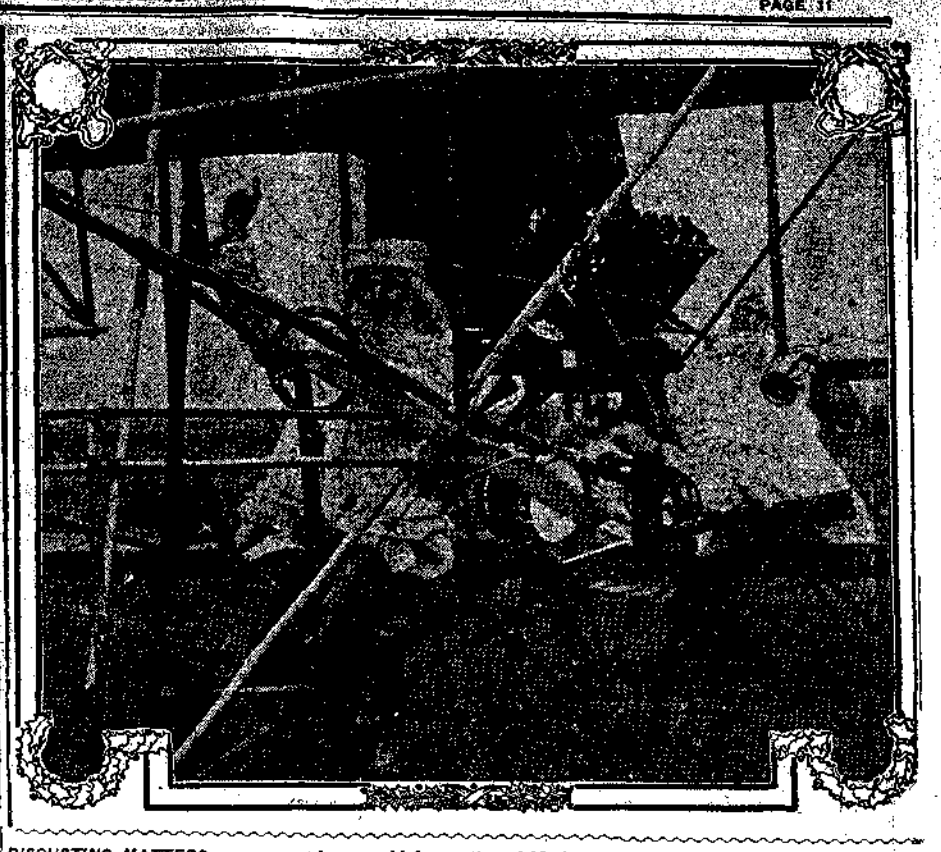
The Christmas of the Brule Sioux Indians shows business management. In each village a committee of prominent braves is appointed, perhaps several weeks in advance of the momentous day, to make a canvass of the tribesmen and gather a fund to be expended in the purchase of a "heap big feast." The committee makes out a prospective menu as soon as the cash is in hand, and then, with true Yankee shrewdness, the specifications as to eatables are submitted to the various traders in the vicinity for bids, the contract for this odd undertaking in Christmas catering being awarded, of course, to the lowest bidder.

The Sioux Indians generally have a Kriss Kringle, a member of the tribe, who disguises himself for the occasion and makes speeches and gives presents.

A representative illustration of the Indian Christmas celebration in the southwest can be seen any year in Pueblo or San Filipe, N. M. The holiday celebration is a curious mixture of Christian and pagan customs. The redskins there attend the mission church in the morning, feast at noon and later inaugurate a fantastic and ceremonial dance that continues for half a week.

Christmas In the Country Places.

Christmas in the country places—
There you see the rosy faces.
There the joy, the world entrancin',
Joy that sets the world a-dancin'!
Fine an' free the lifeblood races—
Christmas in the country places!



Glad enough to hear it hummin',
Waited long to see it comin'.
Knows the place where we're a-stayin'
Fine to spend a holiday in.
There is where amazin' grace is—
Christmas in the country places!

City has the good time, too,
Yet the country calls to you.
There it is you want to roam
In the frosty fields of "home."
Hearty handshake, friendly faces—
Christmas in the country places!

Pile the ample oak logs higher.
Room for one more at the fire.
Same old tales of long ago—
Tell 'em, for we love 'em so.
All the life's trouble joy effaces—
Christmas in the country places!
—Atlanta Constitution.

Double Work In the Choir.

Village Tenor (hearing complaints the singing in the choir on Sunday) Well, I do all I can, ma'am, but it's them boys, you know: I always 'as to 'urry with my tenor and go back and 'elp 'em with their treble.—London Punch.

DISGUSTING MATTERS MADE PUBLIC.

There has been much washing of dirty linen in the daily press during the past week, relative to two residents of this city, both past the meridian of life; both with legal partners living in this city, who went to Canada and meandered through the farce of having a minister say the words which should be most sacred on earth, before them. Both perjured themselves when they secured their license and both lied upon their return to Fulton when confronted with their escapade. An order to these aged evildoers to move out of town would be a good example to some others contemplating a similar move.

REVOLUTIONARY ACTIVITY ALONG THE RIO GRANDE.

It was hoped that with the expatriation of Diaz from Mexico all civic strife would be at an end, but General Bernardo Reyes, a soldier of fortune possessing an ambition to replace Madero as chief executive of Mexico, in conjunction with five alleged conspirators, has kept things stirred up along the Rio Grande. The United States authorities, after patiently awaiting the abatement of revolutionary hostility, decided to put a stop to all violations of neutrality laws without awaiting orders from the department with reference to the movement of troops within divisional limits.

On a warrant charging Reyes with violation of the neutrality laws, the general was arrested in Texas. Indictments were returned against Reyes and five alleged co-conspirators by the Federal grand jury at Laredo on the charge that they were preparing to launch a revolution to overthrow the Madero government of Mexico. The names of Emilio Vasquez Gomez and Emilio Zapata were linked with that of Reyes in the reported effort to overthrow the Madero government. Three pronunciamentos, published over the printed name of General Reyes, were seized in Laredo. They are dated at Soldad, Mexico, and purport to be an offer by General Reyes of his services to the people of Mexico in the character of Provisional President. General Reyes said the manifestos were printed without his authority. Federal authorities seized at Laredo, Texas, a quantity of ammunition and arms said to be part of a store provided by persons expecting to lead a revolt against the Madero government in Mexico. It is now thought that the action of the United States authorities will stamp out further revolutionary activity and that peace and prosperity will abide with our sister Republic.

Santa Claus And His Flying Machine

IT was the night before Christmas, and it may have been because Marjorie's papa had been reading an article about a man who had a wonderful flying machine that all these strange things happened. Marjorie was sitting in the big easy chair in the corner, where the light from the lamp did not hurt her eyes and where she could listen for any sound of Santa Claus' reindeer on the snow outside when suddenly she felt the chair move. Then it was whirled around and out of the door into the street. Marjorie wondered what had happened, but Annabel, her biggest doll, who was in the chair with her, spoke up and said: "Don't be afraid. We are going to see Santa Claus. He's met with an accident. Didn't you know?"

A WILD RIDE.

"Indeed I did not," answered Marjorie.

"Yes," replied Annabel, "I just got a wireless telegram asking me to come up to Castle Christmas. I was one of their favorite guests last year, and they would think it strange if I didn't call to offer sympathy. So, you see, as you were in the chair I just had to take you with me."

After what seemed a long time the chair came to a tall white building that looked as if it might have been built of great blocks of loaf sugar. It stood on top of a snow covered hill.

A cunning little brownie in buttons and a red and green uniform like holly opened the door for them.

"Mrs. Santa Claus says for you to please step right upstairs. They're expecting you," said the brownie.

When they reached the second floor a hearty voice called out, "Step right in!" and another voice said: "Now, be calm, Santa! You know, my dear, that you must not excite yourself."

In the center of the room stood a huge white bed. In the bed lay Santa Claus with covers to his chin. Mrs. Santa was bending over him with a cup and spoon.

A VERY SICK SANTA.

"It's his medicine time," she said, nodding to the doll and Marjorie. Santa made a very wry face.

After the medicine was down Mrs. Santa turned to the newcomers and said: "We've been waiting for you. The doctor says Santa must stay in bed for a month. He's sprained his ankle."

"Monkeying with that new flying machine young Chris coaxed me to buy in place of the reindeer," grumbled Santa. "Plague take it, I never had any trouble like this when I depended on Thunder and Blitzen and the rest of my dear old team."

"Well, Marjorie," said Mrs. Santa, "we thought you might be willing to take the gifts around for Mr. Santa this Christmas, seeing that he can't go himself. I don't want to let Chris go up in that horrid—I mean we—um—can't spare Christopher at present. I thought you might enjoy a ride in a flying machine. With a couple of brownies to run down the chimneys with the toys you can manage very well. The brownies do finely with some one to look after them, but they don't do to send out alone."

"Wife, I don't like this idea of the flying machine. Why can't Marjorie take out the reindeer? Maybe they are not so fast, but they are quite safe."

"Very well; I'll ring for the reindeer," agreed Mrs. Santa, touching a bell. Buttons came hurrying into the room.

"Harness the Christmas reindeer to the biggest sleigh and have all the toys put in it. This young lady will take them out for Santa Claus this Christmas."

Buttons looked dismayed. "I'm sorry, ma'am, but it's too late. Young Mr. Christopher, ma'am, had them toys all loaded into the new flying machine and he's just started off with them himself."

Mrs. Santa shrieked and fainted. Santa Claus jumped up and yelled, all the little brownies came rushing in and there was such confusion that Marjorie never could remember how she got away, but the next thing she knew she was opening her eyes in the big chair in the corner with Annabel clasped in her arm and mother saying:

"Come, dear; it's time to go to bed. Santa Claus will be around pretty soon."

Her Undeveloped Sense of Humor.

"The trouble with you women," he said, "is that you have no sense of humor."

"I know it," his better half admitted. "I suppose I ought to think being married to you is a lovely joke, but I can't seem to see it."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Letter of a Bad Boy

By GOODLOE THOMAS

Copyright, 1911, by American Press Association

WELL, Santa Claus, I guess it's up to me to write an' tell
About a thing or two you might get twisted on, an'—well,
Fergit to come or put a snowball in my stockin', like
You left last Chris'mas when you come, to fool my brother Ike.
First thing, I'll tell about that day I didn't go to school,
But went away to hunt for rabbits 'long with Andy Kool.
Well, that was Andy's fault. He said if I'd go 'long he'd see
That no one knowed, then went an' told an' blamed it all on me.

I s'pose you've got it in for me because the other day
I had that fight with Stringy Keys an' licked him so. Well, say,
I guess if one o' them air Eskymaux up round the pole
Would pull your reindeers' tails like Stringy did my dog's an' tol'
The other boys he yelped that way because he had the fleas
You'd want to hit him on the nose, like I did Stringy Keys.
So please excuse, an' if you know of any other fight
That I was in I'll fix it up with you next time I write.

I guess I'd better mention 'bout that pie that disappeared
So strange a night or two ago, an' mother said she feared
A burglar'd been around. You know, dear Santa, that was me
Or else I wouldn't bring it up right now. But then, you see,
I'm telling everything, so if my pa or ma should write
An' mention things you'll understand I've told them, honor bright!
I guess that's all. I hope you'll bring the watch an' skates an' gun,
A boy that's spected to be good has got to have some fun.

Nothing Like Optimism.

There's nothing like optimism. Armed with its breastplate, fitted with its rose colored spectacles, you can withstand any pessimistic foe, see any rainbow of hope. These thoughts were forced upon a friend of ours who was waiting on the corner for his wife the other afternoon. Minutes, hours, passed and she came not. An optimistic friend joined him and shared his vigil.

"Look again and see if Theodora isn't coming," begged the husband.

"No, I don't see her yet," answered the optimist cheerily. "But have courage. The women who are coming along the street look more and more like her every minute."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THE CHRISTMAS HAT.

Sleight of hand tricks or any trick that tends to mystify always pleases the Christmas company. The following, which is known as the Christmas hat, is recommended:

It is played by placing two hats on a table, with the crowns upward. The performer then requests that a sugar basin may be produced, from which a lump of sugar is taken.

Holding it in his fingers, he promises, by a wonderful process, that he will swallow the sugar and then within a very short time place it under one of the hats on the table.

The company are asked to decide which hat it shall be. Of course it is suspected that a second lump of sugar will be taken from the basin if it can be done without detection. Consequently all eyes are fixed upon it.

Instead of that, after swallowing the sugar the performer places the selected hat on his own head and thus foils his undertaking.

FUN WITH FORFEITS.

It would not have seemed Christmas to the old fashioned child without a game of forfeits. The cleverest boy or girl in the room was generally made the forfeit prescriber.

He or she would tell each player to do some impossible stunt; then, if it could not be performed, punishment was inflicted in the way of forfeits. Some of these were rude and rough, as compelling the victim to eat a cake of soap or hold his finger in the lighted candle wick. Others were just as funny, making a bashful boy kiss the girl he likes best and a girl with no ear for music sing a carol as a solo.

Shorn of the rough features of the old fashioned game, forfeits is an amusement that will keep a roomful of company laughing when everything else fails.

Unconscious Versification.

A good example of unconscious versification in a learned treatise occurs in Dr. Whewell's work on mechanics. "Hence no force, however great, can stretch a cord, however fine, into a horizontal line which is accurately straight."

Wigs.

In the early ages of the Christian era the fathers of the church futilely protested against the use of wigs.

DOING UP THE PACKAGES.

Vastly Important Detail to Assure Unstinted Appreciation.

To send a package that isn't "Christmasy looking" is bound to detract from the gift. There are stickers of all sizes and shapes, with Santa Claus, holly sprays, red and gold seals, "Merry Christmas" and gayly bedecked trees upon them. These stickers not only make a parcel more attractive, but they are a great help in tying up, especially a bulky parcel like a sofa pillow, which requires several sheets of tissue paper.

Red, bright green or holly baby ribbon is used for doing up most parcels that are not to go through the mail. The adhesive red and green paper ribbon is often substituted for the other kinds, or sometimes the outer wrapping has the pasted ribbon, while the inner tissue paper is tied.

Inside, instead of using a regular calling card, the name of the sender is written on one of the bright Christmas cards that come in packages.

Key and Dragon.

A big key, the symbol of St. Peter, on the cupola of the Church of St. Peter-Upon-Cornhill, in London, is the largest weathercock in the city. The dragon on Bow church, in Cheapside, is next in size, being only a few inches shorter.

The Difference.

Wife—John, what is the difference between direct taxation and indirect taxation?

Husband—Why, the difference between your asking me for money and going through my trousers while I'm asleep.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

EMPIRE THEATRE, SYRACUSE

From Glenmore Davis: "Valeska Suratt in "The Red Rose" comes to the Empire Theatre, Syracuse, Wednesday and Thursday for three performances. Miss Suratt has with her the original New York company of seventy-two people which has just completed an all summer's run at Charles Dillingham's Globe Theatre. She is started on a 42 weeks' tour of the major cities of the east and middle west—a tour which will not be completed until the middle of June, 1912.

"The Red Rose"was written by Harr B. Smith and his brother, Robert B. Smith, with music by Robert Hood Bowers. Harry B. Smith will be remembered as the author of 114 American musical comedies, "Robin Hood," "Rob Roy," "The Spring Maid," "The Pink Lady," and Donald Brian's new play, "The Siren" owe the principal part of their success to him. Robert B. Smith wrote "Fantana" and "A Knight for a day."Robert Hood Bowers, while only 27 years of age, has composed the music for Elsie Janis in "The Vanderbilt Cup," Richard Carle in "The Maid and the Mummy" and Mabel Hite in "A Certain Party."Non of these three has ever done anything better than "The Red Rose." People who have seen the play believe this, an the authors believe it also .

"The Red Rose" is the smartest musical comedy from a pictorial standpoint that has been presented in this country since Pocahontas met Captain John Smith. More than 180 gowns of expensive texture and exquisite design are worn by the 54 young women in the company, and 180 hats adorn the heads of the fair entertainers during the three acts of the piece.

Supporting Miss Suratt is a chorus of 50 girls carefully chosen for their ability to sing, dance, smile and outshine all other young women of the musical comedy stage for grace and pulchritude. In "The Students' Glide, "Men, Men, Men," "Oh You Beautiful Doll," "Vanity Fair" and "The Dance of the Saturnalias," they justify the care with which they were picked. Among the principals will be found such well-known men and women as Alexander Clark, Craig Campbell, John Daley Murphy, Louis Casivant, Maxwell Reynolds, Nicholas Judels Jack Tuller, Wilfred Young, Miss Flavia Arcaro, Miss Leah Jahries an Miss Trixie Doane. An added dancin feature is contributed by the famous Six English Rosebuds .

HURRAH FOR SNAPDRAGON!

An Old Game That Always Commands Applause.

Snapdragon is a diversion of Christmas time in England. The requisites are one or two large platters such as roasts are served on, some large, fat raisins, a little brandy or gin, a match and a darkened room. The platters are arranged thus: If there is but one and the party is of moderate number it is laid in the center of a dining table; if the number of players is large, then two platters are laid, one at each end of the table, or there may be two small tables, with a platter on each. Next the raisins are laid over each platter, singly and at short distances apart. A small quantity of brandy or gin is then poured over each platter and lighted. Out go all the lights in the room, leaving none but that from the dancing blue flames in the platters. Everybody shivers and feels uncanny, and the fun begins. Each player "snaps" at a raisin on the dish, and, hit or miss, the blue flame clings to the fingers in writhing, forked tongues, thus providing the "dragon." The raisins are all finally secured, the flames die out, the lights are turned on, and the company is ready for other amusements unless, as is often the case, there is a call to repeat the fun just ended.

The Christmas Dance.

When grandma danced the minuet
Some sixty years ago
The stately couples often met
Beneath the mistletoe.

To waltzes now the customs veer,
But Mabel's foxy beau
That damsel doth contrive to steer
Beneath the mistletoe.

The dances change, but not the game,
As close observers know,
For mortals act about the same
Beneath the mistletoe.
—Louisville Courier-Journal.

WINS FIGHT FOR LIFE

It was a long and bloody battle for life that was waged by James B. Merchson, of Newark, N. J., of which he writes: "I had lost much blood from lung hemorrhages, and was very wea and rundown. For eight months I was unable to work. Death seemed close on my heels, when I began,three weeks ago, to use Dr. King's New Discovery. But it has helped me greatly. It is doing all that you claim." For weak, sore lungs, obstinate coughs, stubborn colds, hoarseness, la grippe, asthma, hay fever or any throat and lung trouble its supreme. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. uGaranteed by the Red Cross Pharmacy.

CHEERFUL CHRISTMAS COMMENT.

Don't leave it all to Santa Claus.

Don't keep your Christmas spirit bottled.

Girls are bound to drift under the influence of the mistletoe.

The little Christmas greeb isn't a seaweed, but it sees lots of smacks.

This is the time of year when husbands and wives may properly hide much from one another.

Blessed is the person who doesn't keep track of the number of presents she receives.

A SUGAR PLUM SHOWER.

Scrambling For These Dainties a Jolly Romp.

Make a large bag of thin white paper, fill it with sugar plums and tie a string around the top to keep it fast. Then suspend it from the ceiling or from a large door frame and provide a long, light stick.

Each child is blindfolded in turn and the stick put into the child's hand. She is led within reach of the bag and told to strike it. If she succeeds in her aim and tears a hole in it the sugar plums are scattered on the floor, and the little ones scramble for them, but it is by no means easy to strike a suspended object blindfolded. Generally many attempts are made unsuccessfully.

Each child is allowed three trials. The maker of the bag can put in it tiny books, pincushions or any little toy with the sugar plums. An older person should always superintend in order that everything may go smoothly.

RURAL YULETIDE SPIRIT.

The Mail Carrier Finds a Present at Almost Every Door.

The rural postmen are not less generously remembered at Christmas time than are their city brethren. There is scarcely a farmhouse on his route where the mail carrier does not receive a token. Most of the presents are practical.

Knitted scarfs or mufflers, mittens and slippers are favorites with feminine donors, whereas the gifts of the farmers usually take the form of pumpkins, bushel baskets of potatoes, barrels of apples and turkeys. Many a rural mail carrier receives on Christmas morning enough eatables to stock his larder for weeks to come.

ANCIENT DOLLS' HOUSES.

Those of Earlier Centuries Marvels of Completeness.

The history of dolls is particularly interesting at this season. Very beautiful wax dolls were made in France in that period of reckless extravagance, the seventeenth century. No price was too high to pay then for anything that a little great lady might be pleased to own.

A few of the fine old dolls' houses built and furnished in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries still exist and reflect thorough attention to the smallest detail.

All are furnished and equipped with the same completeness, whether it is the linen cupboard, with its piles of napery; the drawing room, with pretty carpets and tiny china ornaments and pictures, or the nursery, where there is a high fender guard before the fire and a rocking horse for the baby to ride on.

Such details give a human interest to old toys, emphasized by the doll inhabitants which are to be seen in the old houses. The mistress of the house, with stiffly set out brocaded skirts, sits in the salon, her workbasket at her side, in which we find wee reels of cotton and rolls of tape. In the nursery the baby, with lace edged cap, is in the nurse's arms. The cook is suitably dressed in short cotton skirts and white coif.

When your feet are wet and cold, and your body chilled through and through from exposure, take a big dose of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, bathe your feet in hot water before going to bed, and you are almost certain to ward off a severe cold. For sale by all druggists.

WHAT A MAN EXPECTS OF A GIRL

A young man contributes the following to the December Woman's Home Companion.:

"I don't care for a prude; but I like still less the other kind of girl who has rather uncertain ideals of womanhood. It is quite probable that the latter is more popular than the quiet girl who refuses to allow even 'nice' boys to hold her hand, hug and kiss her; but allow me to express the opinion that no popularity at all is better than such popularity. A girl can be a 'good fellow' and a jolly comrade among the boys, and at the same time let the boys know that they are not to make free with her. Such a girl will be accorded genuine admiration on the part of the boys.

"The young men may seem to flock around the girl who will let them snatch a kiss in a dark corner, for young men have an evil nature as well as the better side that responds quickly and gladly to the good influence of a pure, sweet girl.

"I can answer for a large circle of young men friends when I say that we prefer the pure-minded girl to the girl who appeals to our baser natures .There would be no hesitancy in making a choice .

"I sometimes feel that girls do not make full use of their power to influence young men for good. Much as it would embarrass me to admit it in public, seven tenths of the things I do, plan, and strive for,are beacuse they will result in making me what I think a certain young lady expects me to be. For some reason— possibly shyness and the thought that the young men would not care for such influence—the majority of girls do not seem to attempt to exert their ability in this way. A pure girl consciously using this gift will do more, I think, to keep a young man in the 'straight and narrow'than anything else I know of. Not even a mother can do, as much in guiding a young man as his sweetheart in a 'puppy love-affair' at twenty or more years of age.

"The one big thing every young man worth while expects in a girl—whether she is sweetheart or just a friend —is her influence for good. Everything else is incidental, and will fade into the background in comparsion with what most young men silently expect in girls."

ALL ABOARD FOR SOME QUEER RIDES!

By UNCLE BOB.

(Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.)

COME along, now, children, and your Uncle Bob will give you a ride. What kind of a ride would you like best of all? What—aeroplane? Mercy, no! That machine that flies up into the sky and over rivers and fields and towns is too dangerous for children. It will be a long time before the men who invent things will build an aeroplane safe enough to carry little ones like you. For the present you'd just better stick to the earth and not try to go flying away into the air.

So we won't think about taking an aeroplane ride yet. Automobile, did you say? Well, Uncle Bob has no automobile for you today, but he has something that's lots more fun. A pony? Well, not exactly that, but it's something that walks.

Wait till we get the bridle on. There—take the reins and guide him. Why, what a funny bird! Yes, he's an ostrich. You never rode an ostrich, did you? Some ostriches are too bad tempered for children to ride, but this one has been tamed, and he's all right.

You don't need any saddle on him. Just sit on his shoulders, with your legs down along each side of his neck.

THE OSTRICH RIDING PONY.

His feathers make a nice soft seat for you. He is a very strong bird, and you may have to pull hard on the reins when you want to guide him.

Would you like to have an ostrich for a Christmas present? Well, perhaps a little wagon or one of these nice auto buggies that you run with a pedal and a crank would suit you better. An ostrich that is trained to draw a buggy or carry a passenger on his back costs too much for your Uncle Bob to pay. Ostriches are real rarities, and they come high in this country.

If you think the ostrich is too frisky—and maybe he is, with his long legs and stalky gait—perhaps you'd like a ride on the back of a llama, though it would be difficult to get one of these animals for a Christmas gift and still more difficult to keep it alive and well in the United States. The llama is a sort of camel-like animal that grows in South America. It can live only where the climate is moderate. Too much cold is bad for the llama. In the western and southern regions of South America this very interesting animal lives and thrives. There are many thousands of them, just as there are many thousands of cows in the United States.

The South American people use the llamas not only for their milk and flesh food, but also as beasts of burden. The llama takes the place of the horse in some of the mountainous regions of Peru and other South American countries. He can carry a pretty

MERRY CHRISTMAS, BABY.

Merry Christmas, baby, with life just begun!
Years of rosy footsteps, blithely may they run.
Childhood yet beyond thee proffers fun and play.
Farther on the shadows lie—oh, so far away!

Sunlight shimmers o'er thee from the morning skies.
Heaven smiles before thee in thy mother's eyes.
Laughing in her arms, baby, in that light divine
Love, the sweetest life can give, is this moment thine.
—Helen Holt in Leslie's Weekly.

What Confirmed the Suspicion.

Mary (angrily)—I think you are the biggest fool in town, John.

John (mildly)—Well, Mary, my old mother used to tell me that when I was a boy growing up, but I never thought she was right about it until I married you.

Her Ambition.

Mrs. Rich—Tell me, please, Mme. Beautydoctor, how soon will you make me handsome enough to wear colors that aren't becoming to me?—Smart Set.

He has not learned the lesson of life who does not every day surmount a fear.—Emerson.

THE SEASON FOR TACT.

Thoughtlessness in Yuletide Gifts Often Shatters Friendships.

Many a pleasant friendship has been broken by ignorance of good form in gift making. Many a social career has been nipped in the bud by a present ill chosen or wrongly sent.

If you are rich and have some friend who has lost her money be careful that your gift does not reflect your knowledge of her financial straits. Remember that somehow she will manage to buy the obviously necessary thing, while her heart still hungers for the dainty, the luxurious touches of life.

Again, there is the wealthy friend of your family to whom you brought letters of introduction when you came to town. She has not taken you into the bosom of her family, but occasionally at her large and general functions she has entertained you. Choose no gorgeous gift in such a case. Rather send her a beautiful flower on Christmas morning with a well worded greeting or the newest book about which her world is surely talking.

Nature's Monument to Washington.

Among the many monuments to Washington is the one which every visitor to the Cape Verde islands will remember as one of the most colossal and marvelous freaks of natural sculpture in existence. Along the farther side of the harbor of San Vicente, the principal town, rises a bold ridge of dark gray volcanic rocks, the crest of which forms an exact likeness of our immortal George, seemingly lying face upward, as if in a peaceful sleep. The hero's large, bold features, the backward wave of the hair, his massive shoulders and even the frill of the shirt front are all reproduced on a gigantic scale with wonderful exactness. The strange monument, sharply outlined against the deep blue of the tropical sky, is one of the first objects that meet one's eye in approaching the island. Its gigantic proportions, with the boundless ocean for a background, form a portrait wonderfully true to nature and overpowering in its magnificence.

Her Relatives.

"Has she any rich relatives?"

"I guess not. I never hear her knocking them."—Detroit Free Press.

Her Great Love.

"Could you love me, darling?" he whispered, with a tender, pleading look in his eyes, "if I had only the one coat to my back?"

"I could," she replied softly as she nestled in his great strong arms, "if I knew you had sacrificed the others to buy me a new dress."—London Mail.

CHRISTMAS GAMES

Tricks With Sheets to Divert the Christmas Company

A SHEET should always be provided for children's Christmas games. Arranged as a screen it serves many purposes besides shadow pictures and lantern shows.

Two capital games are played in this manner. For one an opening about six inches wide should be cut in the sheet at a convenient height for different persons to stand and show only their eyes. No light should be back of the sheet, and the company seated in front must guess whose eyes are staring at them.

A variation of this idea may be even more amusing because it affords opportunity for misleading the guessers. Instead of an opening the sheet is drawn up a few inches from the floor in order to show the feet of those who stand behind it. Boys accordingly put on skirts, and girls slip their hands into their fathers' shoes, getting down on all fours in order to deceive.

Another mirth provoking trick for children of all ages and one that will be heartily appreciated by adults is called mesmerism. Blacken the center of the under side of a small plate by holding it over the flame of a candle, being careful not to soil the edge or top. Put this plate upon another and place them in front of you. The person to be mesmerized must be seated so that by no possibility can he see his reflection in the glass, but must be in full view of the audience.

The mesmerist says impressively: "You must look me steadily in the eye all the time. Don't remove your eyes an instant from my face, but do just as I do slowly—see (picking up the blackened plate and handing it to the victim so that the black is toward the spectators). Hold it so (taking up the other plate and holding it with the concave side toward himself). Now this way (rubbing his finger round and round the back of the clean plate and the one who is mesmerized drawing his round the blackened one unconscious of its condition), now so (drawing the finger down the right cheek). Never mind how they laugh. You must not look down. Steady. Now again" (rubbing the finger as before and drawing it across the other cheek). The operation may be repeated until the face of the one mesmerized presents a most comical appearance and the audience is convulsed with laughter.

SNIGGLE THE SPRIG.

"Sniggle the sprig" means simply snare or catch the sprig. Any bit of green plant will do for the latter, and any number of children can play the game. Some one who is not playing hides the sprig, and all search for it. When found it has to be carried to a fancifully trimmed pole and tied there. This is no easy matter, for the sprig must first go through the hands of every player, and it is every one's aim to catch it before it reaches the pole. No attempt to do this can be made, however, until the sprig has returned to the hands of the finder and that player is running for the goal.

In the midst of the general search, when the finder has found the sprig, he approaches his nearest neighbor and quietly hands it to him. At the same time he gives his neighbor No. 2, which means that this one is the second person to hold it. The latter in turn as carefully passes it on and numbers this player a unit higher. So the game goes on until the last of the players has held the sprig. This one knows that he is the last, for the reason that before the game began a count was taken, and each participant knows just how many persons are taking part.

When the number is given to each player the first name of the finder is whispered also. As soon as the last player receives the sprig he passes it to the finder, who at once runs for the goal with it. All follow and give chase except the last player, who is not permitted to run.

In the scrimmage that follows the sprig may be snatched a dozen times. That one is victor who succeeds in placing it on the pole. Should it be the finder, then his triumph will have been so much the greater, for he will have had the most difficulties to overcome in doing this.

An Extenuating Circumstance.

Rector—Ah, my dear Mr. Cumming, glad to see you—glad to see you! But why are you so rare a worshiper with us? Cumming—Well, there's one thing I can honestly say, doctor—yours is the only church I ever go to.—Brooklyn Life.

WITH DICKENS AT THE CHRISTMAS HEARTH

By RICHARD BURTON.

The fact that the centenary of Charles Dickens is to be observed Feb. 7 makes this poem particularly appropriate for reading this Christmas.]

BEFORE the Christmas hearth I muse alone.
And visions of the past, for grave and gay,
Rise from the ruddy coals; outside the moan
Of homeless winds is chidden by the lay
Sweet sung by children who keep holiday,
Making the season's mood their very own.

And slowly, while I gaze and dream and grow
Less lonesome, do the sights and sounds of earth
Fade, and my fancy wanders to and fro
With a great master of lament and mirth,
Who waved his wand to gild the long ago.

A wondrous company! Micawber smiles
In spite of poverty, and Little Nell,
Too frail a flower, travels her weary miles,
Then falls on sleep, and David tries to tell
The trials of the young; now Pickwick's spell
Makes laughter easy; on a pinnacle
Of sacrifice sits Carton midst war's wiles.

Now the air sweetens, for those brothers twain,
The Cheeryble, have preached their creed
Of kindness; honest Tapley hails again
A world too pleasant; while their horses speed
The Wellers make the walkin ting indeed.
Lo, Deadlock House looms darkly through the rain.

And, look, the tiny dressmaker limps by,
And she, eternal type of faithfulness,
Dorrit, whom prisons do not daunt; her eye
Is for her father; next, in seaman's dress
Quaint Captain Cuttle lifts his hook to bless
His darlings; Barkis at low tide must die.

Drolls, villains, gentlefolk of all degrees
Make populous the air, a hundred strong.
Last comes, as fits the season, Scrooge, his knees
Atremble, till he barks the Christmas song
Of love and knows that spite and greed are wrong
And how that charity is more than these.

Master of human hearts! No Christmastide
Whose chants are not the sweeter and whose cheer
Is not more blest since Dickens lived and died!
The savor of his teachings makes each year
Richer in homely virtues, doth endear
Man unto man; hence shall he long abide.

CHARLES DICKENS, "A GREAT MASTER OF LAMENT AND MIRTH, WHO WAVED HIS WAND TO GILD THE LONG AGO."

GET RICH MAKING TOYS.

Demand For Novelties Affords Good Workmen Profitable Employment.

New designs in toys are as eagerly looked for by toymakers as the new designs of a Paris dressmaker. Some of the best artists make small fortunes by designing new toys. A notable case of this kind is that of Caran d'Ache, the eminent French black and white artist. His physicians had ordered him to take a rest. Partly to amuse himself and partly to entertain some children he began to whittle some little toys out of wood. Out of these grew his famous toys showing King Edward bagging pheasants, Emperor William on a boar hunt, Carlos killing mountain sheep and President Roosevelt drawing a bead on a grizzly.

Paris is the only city that regularly holds toy expositions, and at these one may see every sort of toy made in the world. The United States keeps a permanent exhibition of the toys of all nations and times in the ethnological space in the national museum. From India, China, Africa, Alaska, Australia, from the remotest past down to the living present, these toys have been gathered.

Magnesia and Grease Spots.

Magnesia will take grease spots out of carpets and rugs. Get a block of it from the drug store for 5 cents. Scrape it with a knife into fine powder and lay this on the grease spot, covering it entirely. Rub it in a little and let it stand overnight. Remove it the next day with a clean whisk broom and the spot will be gone.—Boston Post.

WHO IS SANTA CLAUS?

A Query Prompting One of the Pretty Legends of St. Nicholas.

History says St. Nicholas, the patron saint of Christmas, was bishop of Myra, in Lycia, and that he died about 326.

Tradition fills in the meager details with a number of legends. Among his flock—so runs one—was a nobleman with three daughters. From being rich he became so poor there remained no way of obtaining food for the maidens, who, having no bread to eat, wept continually, while their father grew more and more desperate. St. Nicholas heard of the family's plight, and, taking a handful of gold, he repaired to the nobleman's house one night while the maidens slept and the father sat alone weeping.

A cloud showed St. Nicholas an open window in the nobleman's home. So he threw in the gold, and it fell at the feet of the nobleman, who, when he found it, returned thanks and presented it to his eldest daughter as her wedding portion.

PAPA'S PART.

Mother is in desperation,
And so is sister Sue,
For Christmas celebration
Buying the presents due;
Ann is a frazzled maiden
Exhausted by shopping frays;
Tom, with his arms o'erladen,
Hangs to the strap and sways.
Lurching—his bundles, (bother!)
Around the car he spills.
Everybody works but father.
He simply pays the bills!
—Lester Leetaire.

THEY ALL WORK FOR SANTA.

Fathers, Mothers, Grandparents and Children Who Make Toys.

Though Santa Claus begins getting ready for the next Christmas the minute he unharnesses his reindeer, yet he never could make enough toys to go around if he did not have a lot of people to help him.

In Germany there are several villages where everybody works at toymaking, not only the mothers, fathers and children, but even grandmothers and grandfathers. For generations these families have made toys—dolls, tin soldiers, doll furniture, little wooden wagons and wooden animals of all kinds. In many homes the children begin helping in this work when they are so small they can hardly sit at the common working table. Often a whole family will earn only 60 cents a day.

Firecrackers at Christmas

By ROBERTUS LOVE

WHEN I was a boy—and that was some time ago, kind and considerate reader—I never popped firecrackers on the Fourth of July. I popped them on Christmas day. That was because I was a boy in a southern state only a few years after the close of the civil war. Still you don't understand? Well, let me do a little explaining.

I shall not venture to speak for other communities in the south, but in my neighborhood most of the people still were somewhat bitter against Uncle Sam for having come down there with armies for a four years' fight. The folks in and around my serene and sequestered little village, lying on the cedar clad hillsides of southeast Missouri, had known much of the war from actual observation and experience. Armies, Federal and Confederate, had marched and countermarched through the village. A remarkable battle, that of Pilot Knob, was fought less than twenty miles away. Missouri, let it be remembered, was loyal to the Union, but in the southern part particularly the sentiment was mostly in favor of the "lost cause."

We small boys did not know that the reason for the firecrackerless Fourth and the firecrackery Christmas lay in the prejudices engendered by the war. All we knew or cared to know was that when Christmas came around it meant a few bunches of firecrackers and a lot of fun popping them out in the snow, for in those days we always had a white Christmas.

After the lapse of thirty years I can recall with vivid distinctness a certain Christmas in my town which began with high anticipation of fun and came very near ending in a tragedy. Our family doctor had three boys who were favorite chums of my brother and myself. Somehow we always managed to get together on Christmas day and pop the firecrackers which Santa Claus brought or which we bought with the paper quarter of a dollar allowed each of us out of the family exchequer for that purpose. A quarter bought three bunches of the little red firecrackers. There were five boys, and you can compute the number of bunches we had.

We all got up early on this Christmas morning, took the candles and oranges and other things from our stockings, inspected the "U. S. Mail" wagon left at the fireside, pulled the trigger of the new toy pistol—and then went down to old man Bean's store and spent our quarters to best advantage.

Brother and I went over to the doctor's house and joined his boys in the front yard. The snow was about ankle deep, crinkly under the foot, and the air was crisp and clear. The eldest of the doctor's boys had been presented with a new derby hat for Christmas—the first derby that ever came to Irondale. There—I just had to let the name of the town slip out.

Clainie—that was what we called the biggest boy—was intensely proud of that new hat. He wore it at breakfast that morning, his brothers said. When we all gathered in the yard to pop the crackers his derby was on the back of his head. We pooled our property by putting the fifteen bunches of firecrackers in a heap on the snow. Near at hand lay a piece of punk, burning slowly.

Just to see if we had a batful of firecrackers Clainie put his prized derby over the heap. Some of the crackers stuck out at one side. The littlest boy—dead many years now—picked off one of the crackers, touched it to the punk, and when it sputtered fire he dropped it. The cracker went under one side of the hat. That was the point where the frolic became a tragedy.

All of us were discussing the problem of firing a whole bunch of crackers at once when suddenly there was a ripping explosion which drew our attention to Clainie's derby. The hat was considerably divided against itself. One powdery piece of it struck me on the nose. The rim, a ragged ruin, flew over the fence into the street. The rest of it disappeared at various places in the snow.

To paraphrase the line from the poem of the boy who stood on the burning deck, "The hat—oh, where was it?"

Clainie's grief was twofold. He had lost his new hat, and all the firecrackers had gone up in one big explosion. All of us were disconsolate. But the dear old doctor—I think he is living yet and very old now—took pity on us and gave each of us a dime wherewith to purchase a bunch apiece.

Down there nowadays they pop firecrackers on the Fourth, but I dare say that some of the boys of this generation still find a bunch of the little red poppers in their stockings on Christmas morning.

A Handsome Woman

Every woman may not be handsome, but every woman should keep with care the good points nature has given her. No woman need have sallow skin, dull eye, blotchy complexion, who pays proper attention to her health. Where constipation, liver derangements, blood impurities and other irregularities exist, good complexion, bright eyes and sprightly movements cannot exist. Internal derangements reveal themselves sooner or later on the surface. Headache, darkings around the eyes, sallow skin, a constant tired feeling—mean that the liver and digestive organs are needing help and correction. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets give this necessary help. They work in nature's own way. They do not purge; push the bowels but tone up the liver and stomach to fulfill their proper functions. So mild and gentle do they act that one hardly realizes that they have taken medicine. Chamberlain's [illegible] can be relied upon to relieve biliousness, constipation, sour stomach and dizziness. Sold everywhere. Price, 25 cents.

CHRISTMAS FOX HUNT IN AMERICA

WHEN the weather is favorable on Christmas day the members of many country clubs throughout the United States engage in a fox hunt. This is the modern survival of the ancient chase that used to furnish game for the great holiday feast.

Long ago in the middle ages before the day of markets, of storage houses or refrigerator cars the lord and vassals shared the traits of the lion and scorned to eat that which they did not kill. At daybreak on the morning of the holiday the chieftain summoned the men of his clan, and to horse they went in pursuit of the wild boar. Across hills and level stretches, through swamps and across frozen streams they galloped till they came up with the fierce prey.

In the battle that ensued the privilege of the most valorous feats, of undergoing the greatest danger and of finally administering the death stroke was intrusted to the noblest. Then the body of the boar was carried back by the vassals, the body roasted and the head garnished and decorated to take the place of honor in the center of some long table laid in the center of a baronial hall.

Far into morning of the next day would the roistering continue, and the poor gentleman who could drink only one bottle was destined to sad experiences in this bout of mighty bibbiers.

The boar has passed from the earth. No longer does the lord kill his own Christmas feast, but in small measure he revives the joys of the holiday hunt by his pursuit of sly reynard. There are in the United States seventy first class clubs devoted to the sport of fox hunting. The season begun at Thanksgiving day is at its height by Christmastide, for then the air is crisp with frost, and the last of the crops that hunters might have damaged have been gathered into the barn and safely stored away.

For persons of wealth these are early risers who, at 7 o'clock in the morning, have gathered near the clubhouse. One comrade joins another, and a merry exchange of Christmas greetings recalls the holiday.

Trotting behind the huntsmen and the whippers-in come the hounds, now quiet and businesslike, but at the word of command ready to break into a very babble of dog noise. Horses, superb horses, stamp eagerly at their bridles, anxious to bear their red coated riders off in the chase.

The master of the hounds gives his word of command, and across a cornfield the mad Christmas race starts. To the first fence comes the mad cavalcade. It is a high one. Over, under and through the bars scramble the dogs. Grandly on his horse the master takes the fence. Others follow, some not so gracefully. Some one falls, but the race goes on, all eager to reach that place where in front the hound is giving tongue.

There comes a ditch whose surface is only partly frozen, the middle having the water free. The leap is a bad one, with the footing covered with ice, but one after another the hunters put their steeds at it. Some slip and scramble, splashing seas of mud on their riders, but none cares. Too great is the joy of getting over without loss of time to worry over a couple of pounds of mud added to the weight of what the gallant horse must carry.

A level stretch is reached. The thoroughbreds are put to it to keep up with the dogs. Then come a wilder outburst of barking and the capture of a fox. The brush is taken and awarded to the lucky rider who was in at the death.

Then the party turns sedately back, the excitement of the day over. The dogs are returned to the kennel, the horses are carefully rubbed down, the participants in the hunt have their shower bath and are ready to dress for dinner after the most exciting and enjoyable start a Christmas day can well have.

Not only members of the clubs have taken part in this chase. The growing good will between farmer and hunter has turned the attention of the man of agriculture to the delights of this holiday ride. He has mounted his best horse and joined in the race. He, too, returns home to a hearty dinner to tell what a good time he had.

In less aristocratic clubs, such as the many organizations of farmers are in various parts of the country, the hunt is less ornate, but it results in more Christmas killings of foxes.

The wild, rough country of Virginia makes directly following behind the hounds a hazardous, if not impossible, performance. This gives rise to the distinctively American style of hunting, which is to let the hounds work much of the time alone, the hunter following only in spirit, catching a glimpse of the flying pack occasionally, or, guided by their musical baying, trying to catch up at the next station.

In Kentucky the Christmas hunt is held at night on Christmas eve.

The fox hunt is an importation from England, where it still is the favorite sport of the elite at Christmas time. Virginia's early settlers first introduced the custom into the colonies, and General George Washington was one of the most famous of fox hunters. The colonial girl was educated to fox hunting as part of her accomplishments, and hundreds of the belles could take a five rail fence as easily as they cut a graceful figure in a minuet.

IVY AND HOLLY.

A Rhymed Game For the Older Boys and Girls.

Boys and girls enjoy a rhymed pastime called ivy and holly. Suggest the plan of it to them and they will amuse themselves with the adventures of the two heroines for quite awhile.

Chairs are arranged in two rows, and the children sit facing each other. One youngster begins with some adventure, as "Holly and Ivy went out to a party." The child sitting opposite must complete the rhyme with another couplet—for instance, "Holly and Ivy came back hale and hearty."

Then there is the fun provoking contest called dramatic adjectives. Here the company is divided up into two bands, one of which retires, while the other remains in the parlor and decides upon some adjective to be acted out in gesture language—for example, gay or doleful or vivacious. When the word has been decided upon the absent members must be summoned, and they are called upon to guess from the pantomime of the others what the adjective decided upon may be. If they can guess it in three minutes a point is won by their side, and the others withdraw. After three minutes the pantomime can be kept up if the opposition is determined to discover the right word, but a success point no longer represents a point won. As soon as the word is guessed players turn about, and those who have guessed become actors. Several rounds are played, and the greatest number of points won by either side wins the game. All those who belong to the winning side might draw for a prize if it is desired to make an award.

A SEARCH GAME.

Hunting Holly Leaves All Over the House.

For a pretty Christmas search game, which young children as well as the older boys and girls enjoy, cut several hundred little holly leaves from green tinted paper and hide them all round the house. At a given signal the young people scamper off in search of these symbols of the season.

The youngster finding the greatest number of them in the ten minutes allowed for the search should receive some inexpensive prize decorated with a design representing holly.

CHRISTMAS GAMES

Hunting Santa Is Sport For Young and Old

KEEP from the supply of Christmas novelties one little figure of Santa Claus (it may be a candy box or simply a figure but the former is better), in order to have the amusing game of silence form a part of the revels.

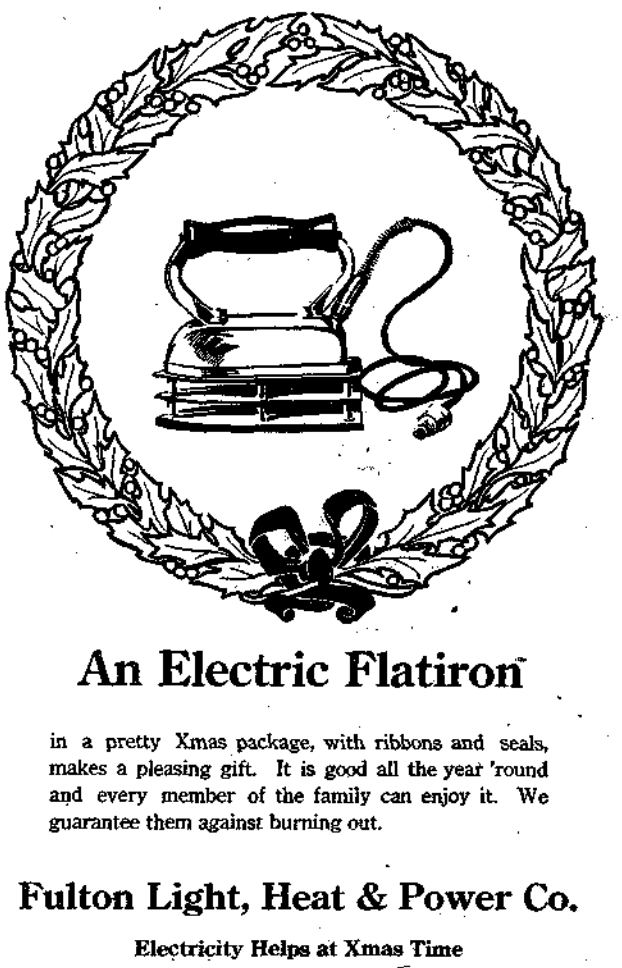
Some one is decided upon who will hide the Santa, and the rest are asked to go out for a moment to the hall. The player instead of hiding the figure places it in some out of the way position, where it will be visible, but will not immediately catch the eye of the players.

For instance, it may be placed upon something of almost the same color or on one end of a tall shelf or bookcase. Players coming in scan the room for the figure, and the first one to see it, without mentioning the fact to the others, quietly takes a seat. This is a general signal for the players to be seated, but in the excitement of the search many will fail to observe that one person is no longer standing.

The last person to sit down is obliged to pay a forfeit. Several rounds can be played, and all those who were not caught may draw for the prize, which is, of course, the little figure.

A CHRISTMAS PIE.

A jolly way to distribute Christmas gifts at a children's party is to make a huge Christmas pie out of a washtub. Cover the outside with turkey red cloth or crape paper, put in the presents and fill it with bran or sawdust, run the ribbons from each package out (one for each guest) and weight it with a small red apple, so it will rest on the floor. Then cover the top of the apple with evergreen and ivy sprays. Each apple should bear a card with the guest's name fastened on with a toothpick. Then on top of the pie plant as many tiny trees (either real or artificial) as there are guests.



When the hostess tells them to "go to the forest and bring home a Christmas tree" the fun begins. Each child finds his or her name in the branches of a tree, pulls it up, and there is a dainty white tissue paper, beribboned package. After these gifts are examined there is still the "pie."

At a given signal the apples are pulled, causing a mighty upheaval of evergreens and holly, and out come the large size snapping cracker favors, the kind that contain all sorts of "surprises," besides the cap. Attached to these favors are "jingles" describing some one in the party, who is to be found, and thus the children are paired for refreshments, which are served from a pretty table in the dining room.

Overhead hang eight red bells, alternating with eight green bells, scarlet ribbon being interlaced between them. Holly wreaths may be placed on the table. The candy boxes may be gilt stars and the almond dishes dear dit.

Unforgivable.

A woman may be a thorough Christian in most things, but she never really forgives the kindness of the man who brings her husband home about 3 a. m. with his feet sticking out of the window of a cab.—London Tatler.

DEATHS

Florence Kenyon, aged 32, died at her home in Hannibal last week after a years' illness with tuberculosis.

Mrs. Mary E. Keiser died on Thursday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Asa Burton, after a five days illness with pneumonia. The funeral was held on Saturday, the Rev. George Ward officiating.

Mrs. Carrie LePlain, widow of the late Fred LePlain, died on Monday at the home of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Frank Pullen, 200 West Seneca street, Oswego. Mrs. LePlain was 33 years of age and is survived by two daughters, Mabel and Pearl, and two brothers, Joseph Coyer of Oswego, and Theodore Coyer of this city.

The body of Ira C. McIntyre, aged 76, a native of the town of Volney, was brought to Fulton on Sunday for interment in Mt. Adnah. He died in Syracuse on Thursday after a stroke of paralysis a few days previously. Mr. McIntyre was a veteran of the Civil War, having been a member of Campany F, 111th Regiment, New York State Volunteers. He is survived by his widow, two daughter, Mrs. H. N. Ellis and Mrs. Samuel Kenny of Auburn and three sons, Franklin C., Roy A. and Arthur R. McIntyre of Syracuse.

The death of William Sutton, aged 78, occurred at his home in Pennellville on Nov. 25. A month previously he fell and fractured his hip. At his advanced age it was impossible for him to rally from the shock. The funeral services were held from the Methodist church at Pennellville on Nov. 27, and burial was made at Pennellville. The immediate survivors are a son, Hyman Sutton, and a daughter, Mrs. Emma Pickard. The deceased was born in Schroeppel and had lived in that township all his life. He enlisted in the 81st Regiment, N. Y. V., when the Civil War broke out, and he served out his term re-enlisting and serving until the close of the war. The greater part of his life he was an ardent Republican.

After a painful illness extending over a period of six weeks, during which medical skill and tender nursing were in constant evidence, Cora P., aged 51, wife of Undertaker E. P. Cole, died on Friday night at the home in First street. The deceased had resided in Fulton all her life and had been for many years a member of the First Presbyterian church and active in charitable circles. The funeral services, which were private, were held from the late home on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, the Rev. G W. Wellburn officiating. Burial was made in the family lot in Mt. Adnah. The immediate survivors are the husband, two daughters, Mrs. Jessie Lamphere and Mrs. Howard M. Morin, and one son, Mr. James Cole, all of Fulton.

Mrs. Sylvia Buell Stephens died of pneumonia Friday, Dec. 1, at her old home, 218 South Fourth street, after being confined to her bed for seven day. Mrs. Stephens was born 74 years ago in Cazenovia. Shortly after graduating from the seminary at that place she moved to this city with her parents. On April 17, 1856, she was united in marriage to William C. Stephens who died about four years ago. They began housekeeping in the home so long occupied by them on Fourth street. The deceased is survived by four daughters and two sons: Mrs. Gertrude S. Breed, Mrs. Alice E. Sinclair, Mrs. Abby S. Foster, Mrs. Sylvia S. Wright Messrs. Charles A. Stephens and John B. Stephens; a brother, Albert F. Buell of this city, and a sister, Mrs. James H. Loomis of Phillipsburg, Montana. The deceased was a woman of fine mental attainment and rarely sweet disposition. The deep affection of her children was the best tribute to her as a mother and the love and respect of her friends an neighbors bespoke her character as a woman. The funeral was held on Sunday, Dec. 3, Rev. George W. Wellburn of the Presbyterian church officiating. The services began with readings from the Bible and Mrs. Eddy's "Science and Health" by Mrs. Jean M. Allen, First Reader of the Christian Science church of Fulton, of which the deceased was a member. In addition to the usual service, Mr. Wellburn read Longfellow's "The Day is Done," and Whittier's "Death of a Sister." Interment was made in Mt. Adnah Cemetery.

Card of Thanks

We wish to convey to our neighbors and friends, an appreciation of their many kindnesses during the last sickness and death of our father. Their kind words, generous deeds and beautiful floral offerings will be remembered with deep gratitude.

Mr. Hyman Sutton.
Mrs. Emma Pickard.

ESTIMATES CUT $21,283,921.43

Total Amount Asked to Run the Government is $745,834,563

Washington, Dec. 4.— Claims of Republican administrative economy were forwarded to the Democratic House today when the Treasury Department submitted its estimates for running the Government during the next fiscal year with an apparent saving of $21,283,921.43 as compared with the amount appropriated for 1912. The total amount is $745,834,563. This does not include about $260,000,000 to be expended from the revenues of the Post Office Department.

THE PSYCHOLOGICAL MOMENT

While Bernard Smith was pulling a shirt over his head last Sunday morning prior to going to church, a pet dog belonging to the family, ran in and bit him four times.—Mt. Carmel, Ill., Republican.

MARRIED

Arthur J. Culver and Eva LaRock were married by the Rev. C. L. Peck at the parsonage on Friday.

Mr. William J. Irving of Syracuse and Miss Nellie E. Swain were united in marriage on Wednesday by the Rev. J. L. Lindsman.

At Niagara Falls on Nov. 23, Mr. Albert Ostrander and Miss Carrie Gilbert were united in marriage. After a ten days honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Ostrander returned to Fulton and are "at home" to their friends at the home of the brides' mother in West Third street. The marriage is the culmination of a friendship extending over many years

Love found the way for Miss Chloe Searles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Searles of this city, and Mr. Harold F. Kimball, all of this city, to elude parents, the law and their friends and be united in marriage in Syracuse on Wednesday. There was no obstacle placed in the way of the young couple other than that the parents of the bride thought her too young to decide the question yet, but as Mr. Kimball was to start on a business trip south, to extend over a period of several months, he and his bride decided that they might as well enjoy the trip together despite the parental objection, hence the elopement. Mr. and Mrs. Kimball entertained the friends who accompanied them to the ministers, at dinner at the Onondaga, and they then left on the trip which will not be completed until Spring. The parents have taken the matter philosphically and the newly weds are welcome to come home any time.

NEGOTIATIONS WITH GOMPERS ET AL

From a reliable source of information, it is stated that lawyers engaged in the McNamara defense began to negotiate with Gompers and officers high in council for the acceptance of a plea of "guilty" by one of the McNamara's during last July or August. Now it is stated that the leaders of this coterie, have the temerity to assert, while they were raising a huge sum from conscientious members of labor organizations to defend the culprits, that they were never told of these offers by McNamara's astute lawyers.

It seems strange that where such organized zeal was adopted by the men who assumed responsibility for the defense of such creatures as the McNamara's have proven themselves to be, could have been kept in ignorance of all such plans.

The New York Tribune states:

"The very nature of the deal constantly suggested to District Attorney Fredericks and its obvious motive star it with its origin. The ferocity of the negotiations culminated when the words "to receive any sentence except death "were stricken out of the terms with regard to James B. McNamara which the defense offered to the District Attorney. James B. McNamara was to die in order that his brother might go free. Why did Mr. Darrow thus discriminate between his clients unless it was because he regarded organized labor, which was supplying him with the funds, as his real client? Didn't organized labor, including its president, know what its lawyer was doing to save it?

OVERCOME BY GAS FUMES

Early on Sunday morning Mr. William Slee of West Second street was awakened by the persistent crying of his youngest child and as soon as he became sufficiently aroused he detected the odor of escaping gas. Mr. Slee hastened to the sleeping rooms of the remainder of his family and that of a boarder, Mrs. Looker. All were violently ill and unable to help themselves. Mr. See opened the windows, carried his wife and their four children into the open air and then ran nearly a mile in his stocking feet to call Dr. W. M. Wells to their assistance. Dr. Wells labored with the patients for several hours and reported them out of danger when he made a second call on Sunday night at the home.

A new furnace had been installed in the Slee residence, the work being completed a few hours before the family retired for the night and a flue cover had been left off. When the new fire was built and shut off for the night the gas escaped directly into the sleeping rooms of the family. That death did not come to all of the inmates of the house is a miracle.

Willis Lewis of Meriden, Ct., has been visiting Fulton relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Breads entertained a merry family party at dinner on Thanksgiving day.

Mr. Herbert M. Coe, who has been in the Troy hospital for two weeks suffering from local blood poisoning, is slowly recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Hunter have returned from Porcupine, Alaska, where Mr. Hunter has been looking after the Hunter Brothers gold bearing properties. He reports a prosperous season.

Mr. Albert I. Morton is confined to his home with pleuro-pneumonia. Dr. Jacobson of Syracuse was called in consultation with Dr. Fox on Monday evening in the case and, while Mr. Morton is critically ill, his case was not considered hopeless.

Our widest known citizen, the venerable Lehman Babcock, on Dec. 1, turned over the management of his 138-acre farm in Volney to his son-in-law, Mr. Alfred Morehouse, Mr. Babcock deciding that all men when they reach 80 should retire from active life.

A son has been born to Mr. and Mrs. Perle Inman in the Lee Memorial hospital. Dr. F. E. Fox, the attending physician, found that a Caesarian operation was the only means of saving the life of mother and child so the delicate and highly dangerous operation was successfully performed, Drs. Marsh, Doane, Keller and Schlappi assisting Dr. Fox. Both mother and child are doing well.

Congressman Mott has received word from the Department of Agriculture that this department will start the soil survey of Oswego County very early next spring. The surveying party has just completed work in Jefferson County and Oswego is next on the program.

While conversing with her sister, Mrs. Alice Merton, at dinner on Friday noon, Mrs. C. Goodrowe of Hannibal street was suddenly stricken with paralysis and became unconscious. Medical attendance was summoned and she is slightly improved in condition.

James, the 12-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Tucker, who resides east of Fulton, on Thursday loaded heavily an old fashioned blunderbus with modern explosives and started to have a good time. He pulled the trigger when near his grandfathers home and the article exploded. The recoil threw young Tucker against the barn wall and the explosion blew several pieces of the steel into the boys arm, making an ugly and painful wound. That he was not instantly killed is a marvel. Unless lockjaw or blood poisoning set in the young man will recover.

AN APPEAL FOR CHRISTMAS

Ensign Moyer of the local Salvation Army Corps asks as a special favor, because of the illness of her assistant, Cadet Dingee, that the public will send in their contributions for the Christmas relief fund of money, clothing or food, to their hall, 68 First street. The food will have to be sent in on the 22nd or on the morning of the 23rd.

The baskets will be given out on the 23rd; any needy persons can apply for help to Ensign Moyer at the quarters over the hall. Families are being investigated, and as much as possible offices are being solicited for money. The kettles will be put at the Cayuga and First street corner the coming Saturday to receive contributions for the food for the baskets.

INDICTMENTS DISMISSED

Judge Rowe held an adjourned session of County Court this afternoon, dismissing old indictments against Arthur P. Wolever, Fulton, and Eugene B. Walker, Pulaski.

MRS. MOREHOUSE PAINFULLY BURNED

Saturday morning as Mrs. Alfred Morehouse, formerly Miss Lena Babcock, was attending to her household duties she accidentally knocked a can of kerosine oil from a shelf onto the red hot kitchen stove. The oil ran from the can and immediately ignited and communicated to the clothing of Mrs. Morehouse. Mr. Morehouse was in the room and he wrapped his wife in rugs and carpets to smother the flames but could not extinguish them until her hands, arms and body had been cruelly burned. The sufferer was removed at once to the Lee Memorial hospital where she is resting more comfortably now although she suffered greatly for several days. Her friends are hopeful for her speedy recovery.

FAIR TO BE HELD

The Ladies' Aid Society of State street church will hold a fair in the city hall on Friday and Saturday of this week. The sale will be open both afternoon and evening, with a musical program each evening rendered by a full orchestra. There will be separate booths for the sale of handmade handkerchiefs, aprons, dolls, fancy articles, homemade candy and bakestuff. A lunch will be served each evening, consisting of oyster stew, beans, doughnuts, pie and coffee. The public is invited.

WILL OF MRS. STEELE

By the will of Mrs. Esther Baker Steele filed in Elmira an estate of $70,000 was disposed of. Mrs. Steele was a native of Mexico and her husband was a captain in K Company, Eighty-first New York Regiment, during the Civil War. His sword, epaulets and sash are left Syracuse University, where he was a professor for many years. The University also gets many valuable works of art and Chancellor Day is given $2,000. The rest goes to members of her family.

ROADS ACCEPTED

The Board of Supervisors has received notice of the acceptance by the State Highway Department of Part 1, Fulton-Hannibal road and of the Oswego-Fulton road. The former road was built by Joseph H. Conners, mayor of Fulton. The supervisors have twenty days in which to make objections to the roads. If none is made within that time the roads are formally accepted by the State.

FATHER LINDSMAN AROUSED

Rev. J. L. Lindsman took exception to a statement made at time by physicians and on Sunday morning he spoke feelingly on the subject from the pulpit in the Catholic church. Father Lindsman said in substance, "I have known patients for whom all hope seemed to be lost, who brightened up and began a period of recovery when a clergyman appeared before them. Physicians need never fear a clergyman will have a disturbing or distressing influence upon the sick person."

SCHUMANN CLUB CONCERT

MESSAGE OF THE PRESIDENT

Mr. Taft Champions the Anti-trust Statute.

NEW REMEDIES SUGGESTED.

Not Repeal or Amendment, but Supplemental Legislation Needed—The Tobacco Trust Decision an Effective One—Federal Incorporation Recommended and a Federal Corporation Commission Proposed—The Test of "Reasonableness."

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

This message is the first of several which I shall send to congress during the interval between the opening of its regular session and its adjournment for the Christmas holidays. The amount of information to be communicated as to the operations of the government, the number of important subjects calling for comment by the executive and the transmission to congress of exhaustive reports of special commissions make it impossible to include in one message of a reasonable length a discussion of the topics that ought to be brought to the attention of the national legislature at its first regular session.

The Anti-trust Law—The Supreme Court Decisions.

In May last the supreme court handed down decisions in the suits in equity brought by the United States to enjoin the further maintenance of the Standard Oil trust and of the American Tobacco trust and to secure their dissolution. The decisions are epoch making and serve to advise the business world authoritatively of the scope and operation of the anti-trust act of 1890. The decisions do not depart in any substantial way from the previous decisions of the court in construing and applying this important statute, but they clarify these decisions by further defining the already admitted exceptions to the literal construction of the act. By the decrees they furnish a useful precedent as to the proper method of dealing with the capital and property of illegal trusts. These decisions suggest the need and wisdom of additional or supplemental legislation to make it easier for the entire business community to square with the rule of action and legality thus finally established and to preserve the benefit, freedom and spur of reasonable competition without loss of real efficiency or progress.

No Change in the Rule of Decision, Merely in Its Form of Expression.

The statute in its first section declares to be illegal "every contract, combination in the form of trust or otherwise or conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce among the several states or with foreign nations" and in the second declares guilty of a misdemeanor "every person who shall monopolize or attempt to monopolize or combine or conspire with any other person to monopolize any part of the trade or commerce of the several states or with foreign nations."

In two early cases, where the statute was invoked to enjoin a transportation rate agreement between interstate railroad companies, it was held that it was no defense to show that the agreement as to rates complained of was reasonable at common law, because it was said that the statute was directed against all contracts and combinations in restraint of trade, whether reasonable at common law or not. It was plain from the record, however, that the contracts complained of in those cases would not have been deemed reasonable at common law. In subsequent cases the court said that the statute should be given a reasonable construction and refused to include within its inhibition certain contractual restraints of trade which it denominated as incidental or as indirect.

These cases of restraint of trade that the court excepted from the operation of the statute were instances which at common law would have been called reasonable. In the Standard Oil and tobacco cases, therefore, the court merely adopted the tests of the common law and in defining exceptions to the literal application of the statute only substituted for the test of being incidental or indirect that of being reasonable, and this without varying in the slightest the actual scope and effect of the statute. In other words, all the cases under the statute which have now been decided would have been decided the same way if the court had originally accepted in its construction the rule at common law.

It has been said that the court by introducing into the construction of the statute common law distinctions has emasculated it. This is obviously untrue. By its judgment every contract and combination in restraint of interstate trade made with the purpose or necessary effect of controlling prices by stifling competition or of establishing in whole or in part a monopoly of such trade is condemned by the statute. The most extreme critics cannot instance a case that ought to be condemned under the statute which is not brought within its terms as thus construed.

The suggestion is also made that the supreme court by its decision in the last two cases has committed to the court the undefined and unlimited discretion to determine whether a case of restraint of trade is within the terms of the statute. This is wholly untrue. A reasonable restraint of trade at common law is well understood and is clearly defined. It does not rest in the discretion of the court. It must be limited to accomplish the purpose of a lawful main contract to which in order that it shall be enforceable at all it must be incidental. If it exceed the needs of that contract it is void.

The test of reasonableness was never applied by the court at common law to contracts or combinations or conspiracies in restraint of trade whose purpose was or whose necessary effect would be to stifle competition, to control prices or establish monopolies. The courts never assumed power to say that such contracts or combinations or conspiracies might be lawful if the parties to them were only moderate in the use of the power thus secured and did not exact from the public too great and exorbitant prices. It is true that many theorists and others engaged in business violating the statute have hoped that some such line could be drawn by courts, but no court of authority has ever attempted it. Certainly there is nothing in the decisions of the latest two cases from which such a dangerous theory of judicial discretion in enforcing this statute can derive the slightest sanction.

Force and Effectiveness of Statute a Matter of Growth.

We have been twenty-one years making this statute effective for the purposes for which it was enacted. The Knight case was discouraging and seemed to remit to the states the whole available power to attack and suppress the evils of the trusts. Slowly, however, the error of that judgment was corrected, and only in the last three or four years has the heavy hand of the law been laid upon the great illegal combinations that have exercised such an absolute dominion over many of our industries. Criminal prosecutions have been brought, and a number are pending, but juries have felt averse to convicting for jail sentences and judges have been most reluctant to impose such sentences on men of respectable standing in society whose offense has been regarded as merely statutory. Still, as the offense becomes better understood and the committing of it partakes more of studied and deliberate defiance of the law we can be confident that juries will convict individuals and that jail sentences will be imposed.

The Remedy in Equity by Dissolution.

In the Standard Oil case the supreme and circuit courts found the combination to be a monopoly of the interstate business of refining, transporting and marketing petroleum and its products, effected and maintained through thirty-seven different corporations, the stock of which was held by a New Jersey company. It in effect commanded the dissolution of this combination, directed the transfer and pro rata distribution by the New Jersey company of the stock held by it in the thirty-seven corporations to and among its stockholders, and the corporations and individual defendants were enjoined from conspiring or combining to restore such monopoly, and all agreements between the subsidiary corporations tending to produce or bring about further violations of the act were enjoined.

In the tobacco case the court found that the individual defendants, twenty-nine in number, had been engaged in a successful effort to acquire complete dominion over the manufacture, sale and distribution of tobacco in this country and abroad and that this had been done by combinations made with a purpose and effect to stifle competition, control prices and establish a monopoly, not only in the manufacture of tobacco, but also of tin foil and licorice used in its manufacture and of its products of cigars, cigarettes and snuffs. The tobacco suit presented a far more complicated and difficult case than the Standard Oil suit for a decree which would effectuate the will of the court and end the violation of the statute. There was here no single holding company, as in the case of the Standard Oil trust. The main company was the American Tobacco company, a manufacturing, selling and holding company. The plan adopted to destroy the combination and restore competition involved the redivision of the capital and plants of the whole trust between some of the companies constituting the trust and new companies organized for the purposes of the decree and made parties to it and numbering, new and old, fourteen.

Situation After Readjustment.

The American Tobacco company (old), readjusted capital $92,000,000; the Liggett & Meyers Tobacco company (new), capital $67,000,000; the P. Lorillard company (new), capital $47,000,000, and the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company (old), capital $7,525,000, are chiefly engaged in the manufacture and sale of chewing and smoking tobacco and cigars. The former one tin foil company is divided into two, one of $825,000 capital and the other of $400,000. The one snuff company is divided into three companies, one with a capital of $15,000,000, another with a capital of $8,000,000 and a third with a capital of $8,000,000. The licorice companies are two, one with a capital of $5,758,300 and another with a capital of $2,000,000. There is also the British-American Tobacco company, a British corporation, doing business abroad with a capital of $26,000,000, the Porto Rican Tobacco company with a capital of $1,800,000, and the corporation of United Cigar Stores with a capital of $9,000,000.

Under this arrangement each of the different kinds of business will be distributed between two or more companies with a division of the prominent brands in the same tobacco products so as to make competition not only possible, but necessary. Thus the smoking tobacco business of the country is divided so that the present independent companies have 21.35 per cent, while the American Tobacco company will have 33.03 per cent, the Liggett & Meyers 20.05 per cent, the Lorillard company 22.82 per cent and the Reynolds company 2.66 per cent. The stock of the other thirteen companies, both preferred and common, has been taken from the defendant American Tobacco company and has been distributed among its stockholders. All covenants restricting competition have been declared null and further performance of them has been enjoined. The preferred stock of the different companies has now been given voting power which was denied it under the old organization. The ratio of the preferred stock to the common was as 78 to 40. This constitutes a very decided change in the character of the ownership and control of each company.

In the original suit there were twenty-nine defendants, who were charged with being the conspirators through whom the illegal combination acquired and exercised its unlawful dominion. Under the decree these defendants will hold amounts of stock in the various distributes companies ranging from 41 per cent as a maximum to 25½ per cent as a minimum, except in the case of one small company, the Porto Rican Tobacco company, in which they will hold 45 per cent. The twenty-nine individual defendants are enjoined for three years from buying any stock except from each other, and the group is thus prevented from extending its control during that period. All parties to the suit and the new companies who are made parties are enjoined perpetually from in any way effecting any combination between any of the companies in violation of the statute by way of resumption of the old trust. Each of the fourteen companies is enjoined from acquiring stock in any of the others. All these companies are enjoined from having common directors or officers, or common buying or selling agents, or common offices, or lending money to each other.

Size of New Companies.

Objection was made by certain independent tobacco companies that this settlement was unjust because it left companies with very large capital in active business and that the settlement that would be effective to put all on an equality would be a division of the capital and plant of the trust into small fractions in amount more nearly equal to that of each of the independent companies. This contention results from a misunderstanding of the anti-trust law and its purpose. It is not intended thereby to prevent the accumulation of large capital in business enterprises in which such a combination can secure reduced cost of production, sale and distribution. It is directed against such an aggregation of capital only when its purpose is that of stifling competition, enhancing or controlling prices and establishing a monopoly. If we shall have by the decree defeated these purposes and restored competition between the large units into which the capital and plant have been divided we shall have accomplished the useful purpose of the statute.

Confiscation Not the Purpose of the Statute.

It is not the purpose of the statute to confiscate the property and capital of the offending trusts. Methods of punishment by fine or imprisonment of the individual offenders, by fine of the corporation or by forfeiture of its goods in transportation are provided, but the proceeding in equity is a specific remedy to stop the operation of the trust by injunction and prevent the future use of the plant and capital in violation of the statute.

Effectiveness of Decree.

I venture to say that not in the history of American law has a decree more effective for such a purpose been entered by a court than that against the tobacco trust. As Circuit Judge Noyes said in his judgment approving the decree:

"The extent to which it has been necessary to tear apart this combination and force it into new forms with the attendant burdens ought to demonstrate that the federal anti-trust statute is a drastic statute which accomplishes effective results, which so long as it stands on the statute books must be obeyed and which cannot be disobeyed without incurring farreaching penalties. And, on the other hand, the successful reconstruction of this organization should teach that the effect of enforcing this statute is not to destroy, but to reconstruct; not to demolish, but to recreate in accordance with the conditions which the congress has declared shall exist among the people of the United States."

Common Stock Ownership.

It has been assumed that the present pro rata and common ownership in all these companies by former stockholders of the trust would insure a continuance of the same old single control of all the companies into which the trust has by decree been disintegrated. This is erroneous and is based upon the assumed inefficacy and innocousness of judicial injunctions. The companies are enjoined from co-operation or combination; they have different managers, directors, purchasing and sales agents. If all or many of the numerous stockholders, reaching into the thousands, attempt to secure concerted action of the companies with a view to the control of the market their number is so large that such an attempt could not well be concealed, and its prime movers and all its participants would be at once subject to contempt proceedings and imprisonment of a summary character. The immediate result of the present situation will necessarily be activity by all the companies under different managers, and then competition must follow or there will be activity by one company and stagnation by another. Only a short time will inevitably lead to a change in ownership of the stock, as all opportunity for continued co-operation must disappear. Those critics who speak of this disintegration in the trust as a mere change of garments have not given consideration to the inevitable working of the decree and understand little the personal danger of attempting to evade or set at naught the solemn injunction of a court whose object is made plain by the decree and whose inhibitions are set forth with a detail and comprehensiveness unexampled in the history of equity jurisprudence.

A late rush of advertising made it impossible to use the annual message of President Taft in the full text. The balance of the important paper will be printed next week.

EMPIRE THEATRE, SYRACUSE.

Character drawing is one of the strongest factors of success in the work of the talented young author, Della Clarke, whose lastest comedy, "Introduce Me" will be seen at the Empire Theatre, Syracuse on Friday and Saturday, matinee and evening, December 8 and 9. While every author realizes that no play can be written but it must have at least one or more conventional characters, Miss Clarke believes that even the most stereotyped role may be vivified and rejuvenated until it will stand out as almost a discovery.

In her new comedy, Miss Clarke, has given a fine exhibition of her power of character drawing as well as her ability to make new people of old stage friends. In the first place, she shows the husband, who is lord and master of his household, but who at the same time is a mere dependent upon his wife and without himself knowing it. Again, she has shown the wife who is thoroughly womanly and feminine but who is the real power of her home. She has made an entirely new comedy character of the maiden aunt of advanced years as well as of the butler of one household and the colored servant girl of another.

Miss Clarke's experience as author, actor and stage director has fitted her to realize just what an audience wants and that she has supplied it all is shown by the successes she has achieved. She works for strong character drawing and for striking contrasts. She also realizes the importance of a capable cast. In "Introduce Me" she appears in the leading role but she has surrounded herself with such capable people as Harry W. Pemberton, along with William A. Brady, Clare Krall, who is well known in New York and recently starred in "The Great Divide" Gordon De-Maine of the Charles Frohman forces, A. C. H. Rivers who has been with David Warfield for a number of seasons, Jessie Morris Sullivan who was one of the hits in David Belasco's "Is Marriage a Failure?" and other people equally well known.

DEACON SMALL'S CONVERSION

By Lillian May

"What would the Pilgrim Fathers think," said Deacon Ezra Small,
"If they could see men wallow in that brutal game, football,
Or see the crowds a-going to the Motion Picture Play?
A most ungodly way, I'm sure, to spend Thanksgiving Day.

"In Bible School, Miss Nancy Pert said Sunday, week ago,
She'd take her class, Thanksgiving Day, to see a Photoshow.
She said 'twould be inspiring; now, that is what I call Inspiration of the Devil," said Deacon Ezra Small.

His daughter then came prancing in—a bright-faced, winsome lass,
"You'll let me go, dad, won't you, with my teacher and our class?"
Said he, "You do precisely as your mother tells you to."
"All right, dad dear, that's what I want, for mother's going, too."

The deacon settled down alone to read the Good Old Book,
But something seemed to draw his thoughts; said he, "I'll find a nook Myself in that there Photoshow." No sooner said than done,
Of all the pictures shown that day, he didn't miss a one.

He saw the Mayflower anchor in the harbor of Cape Cod,
Bearing the Pilgrims, seeking for freedom to worship God;
He watched them build their first rude huts in storms of snow and sleet,
Then struggle thru the long, cold months with scarce enough to eat.

When their ship returned to England, not one who chose to go,
The half their valiant, struggling band now slept beneath the snow.
Their harvest time was but a name; hardships they did not lack.
But steadfastly they kept their way, no thought of turning back.

He saw glad, thankful faces for a bit of bread and fish;
Freedom of conscience, home and God, they had no other wish.
He saw the saintly elder, with his outstretched, trembling hands,
Thank God for "bounty of the sea and treasure hid in sands."

The deacon never moved his eyes, thru all these changing scenes,
Thought he, "I never knew before just what Thanksgiving means.
I hope the deacons all are here, 'twould be no harm at all.
I'm not so old that I can't learn," said Deacon Ezra Small

Clare Case of the west side underwent an operation for appendicitis on Sunday morning, Drs. Wallace of Syracuse, and Wells and Marsh of this city doing the work which was just in time to save the young man's life. Mr. Case had been ill for two weeks and until Sunday morning it was hoped that he might recover without the use of the knife. He was taken suddenly worse and the operation became imperative.

Joseph, the 13-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Waldhorn, was confirmed at their home in Oneida street on Monday afternoon, the rabbi from Syracuse officiating. There were nearly a hundred out-of-town guests present.

Whenever the excitement attendant upon the County and State Prohibitionists expending several hundred dollars to secure a few votes for Clarence E. Pitts, dies down, Mr. Pitts has to find some excuse for getting his name before the public. A few weeks ago he besought permission to carry a fire arm because he feared some one planned to remove him from this mundane sphere because of his great power in the political field. The permission was granted and a smile went 'round. Last Saturday evening as Mr. Pitts was walking along the street in Oswego nearby pedestrians were frightened by a pistol shot ringing out and fire was seen to belch from Mr. Pitts' coat. Mr. Pitts claimed that as he drew his handkerchief from his pocket it caught in the hammer and exploded a chamber of the weapon. No harm was done except to Mr. Pitts's nerves and some people are so unkind as to say that it would take more than that shock to jar it. And thus Mr. Pitts got his name in the paper again.

THE FOURTH CASE IN FAMILY

D. C. Case's Family Surely Afflicted With Appendicitis—Clare the Last to Be Stricken—Two Daughters and Son-in-Law Victims.

For about two weeks Clare Case had been ill with appendicitis and it was hoped that an operation would not be necessary. But his condition grew worse and last Sunday he was taken to the Lee Memorial Hospital where an operation was performed by Dr. W. L. Wallace of Syracuse, assisted by Drs. W. M. Wells and H. P. Marsh.

The operation was performed none too soon to save the life of Mr. Case.

It is singular how this disease has afflicted the family of D. C. Case. Within two years both of his daughters—Mrs. Charles Chesbro and Mrs. George Goldberg—have been operated upon for this disease, and now Clare is stricken with the same, and during his illness his wife gave birth to a son .

DON'T LICK POSTAGE STAMPS

"Don't lick stamps" is the advice of "The Lancet," more generally applicable in the Christmas season than in any other. "The adhesive stamp is a sanitary blunder," according to the venerable English medical authority, which admits, however, that it is a business necessity. "The old habit is opposed to a common sense of cleanliness." "The Lancet" continues, "let alone what bacteriological requirements may teach. No persons need lick a stamp if they seriously make up their minds never to do so, but unfortunately the use of stamps has created a habit which, once contracted, is difficult to avoid. The habit of licking stamps is, in fact, practically universal, and few people consider it an offense against good manners.There are several devices which are intended to obviate the licking of a stamp, but their adoption is comparatively rare. Licking envelopes is equally objectionable, and it is time that human ingenuity found a convenient way of sealing a paper cover or of attaching a stamp which shall not require the aid of the saliva."

CONGRESSMAN MOTT AGAIN HONORED

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.— Congressman Luther W. Mott was re-elected a member of the Board of Directors of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress at today's session. Mr. Mott's name was presented by the New York state delegation after a conference this forenoon.

Leaders in the House and Senate went on record today in favor of an annual appropriation for rivers and harbors in accordance with the plans of the chief of engineers of the army which means unusual appropriations to carry on the important harbor works at the ports of Oswego, Charlotte, Cape Vincent and Ogdensburg.

The National Congress also agreed to indorse any river and harbor project recommended by the chief of engineers. This action is of the greatest importance to Lake Ontario and St. Lawrence river ports as the chief of engineers has already recommended the building of a new Welland canal with the completion of the Panama canal. This canal is assurred unless the American and Canadian governments come to terms relative to the enlarging of the present Welland canal.

Congressman Mott and P. W. Cullinan today conferred with delegates representing the transportation and commercial bodies in New York city regarding the movement to remove the island near the mouth of the Oswego harbor and to deepen the river north of the bridge to a navigable depth of eighteen feet in connection with the proposed Oswego barge canal terminal.

The New York city representatives agreed to indorse any action taken by the Oswego Chamber of Commerce which would result in permitting heavier draft boats to trade in and out of the port of Oswego in connection with the barge canal and to unite in urging the chief of engineers of the army to recommend an early appropriation for this work.

The Oswego delegates were guests at a dinner at the Willard tonight given by Representative Mott. The guests included Harry A. Tuttle of Minneapolis, a vice president of the National Congress and former manager for the Western Union in Oswego.

Mayor J. C. Haynes of Minneapolis, who was born and raised in Baldwinsville, is a conspicuous figure in the sessions.

Sheriff C. W. Taft, Collector J. H. Parsons and Hon. P. W. Cullinan wer delegates.

SAVINGS BANKS' RATE OF INTEREST

Attempt to Be Made at Next Session of Legislature to Regulate the Rate By Law

New York, Dec. 7—Trustees of savings banks meet during the next fortnight for the purpose of declaring the rate of interest to be paid depositors on the first of January.Few institutions will reduce their rate from four per cent to three and a half per cent. per annum. Those that will take this step are mostly small banks in Harlem and the Bronx and a couple in Brooklyn.

It is undeniable, however, that the campaign of education that has been carried on during the past two years by those in favor of the 3 1.2 per cent. rate has made itself felt upon the trustees of the various savings banks throughout the city. In many cases and this applies to some of the largest institutions the trustees have already inaugurated the reduction, while in others the effect has only been sentimental. Some of the institutions in the latter class have held out to see what influence the reduction would have on depositor of those banks that have changed from the four per cent to the 3 1-2 per cent. rate.

An attempt will be made at the next session of the Legislature to have some law enacted making the payment of interest on savings deposits dependent upon the percentage of surplus to deposits held by a bank. At the last session was introduced a bill, which as yet has not been acted upon, fixing the rate of interest at three per cent. for all banks whose surplus falls below five per cent. of deposits, and 3 1-2 per cent. for banks whose surplus is under fifteen per cent. In order to continue the four per cent. rate now maintained by several institutions they would have to increase their ratio of surplus to over fifteen per cent. There is not a bank in the city whose surplus is above the percentage and most of them are below ten per cent.

At the convention of savings banks held in this city last May this bill was attacked as being too radical. The belief is now gaining ground, however, that some such law is necessary and it is not thought likely that when it is passed it will be any less severe than the Grady bill.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY VETERANS

Post Schenck, G. A. R., on Tuesday evening of last week, elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Commander, John W. Distin; senior vice commander, Monroe Skeel; junior vice commander, Freeman Mosher; adjutant, Charles D. Hannum; surgeon, Wesley Hastings; chaplain, D. M. Perine; quartermaster, Thomas Coles; assistant quartermaster, Edward Breed; quartermaster's sergeant, Job Bennett, officer of the day, William Ellis; officer of the guard, J. P. Hodges patriotic instructor, Major W. D. Ferguson delegate to the state encampment, Edward Breed, alternate, Ward Southard.

Post Schenck as an organization is over 40-years old and there is something pathetic in its growing old. The members retain the interest and zeal of youth but the strength is all too frail to permit many of them to participate in the camp fires and other social gatherings of the order.

It would seem that a first floor room might be secured in which the Post could hold its meetings and gatherings. Climbing the long flight of stairs is arduous labor for the men who once took entrenchments and fence with agility. Given more accessible quarters the attendance at the meetings might be substantially augmented.

At the conclusion of the annual meeting held last week the members adjourned in a body to the First Methodist church where they listened with interest to the lecture on China, by Dr. C. C. Teall.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

Supervisors Terry and Vincent presented figures on the cost price for printing journals in other counties of the State. Reports from thiryt counties indicate that the average price for 462 copies was $2.64 per page, and for 6,000 copies, the number Oswego county causes to be published, $3.17 a page.

Mr. Rounds said that he believed that the committee with the information at hand be directed to proceed and advertise for printing the journal of the Board.

By Mr. Rowe: Levying $403.60 on Volney to pay certificate of indebtedness and interest, $1,978.30 to pay O. & W. R. R. bonds and interest, and $586.30 to pay bridge bonds.

The quarterly session of Oswego County Pomona grange was not held at the State armory on Tuesday as previously announced. The grange through the master F. E. Alexander of Daysville, was notified by Captain T. A. Ball that the armory could not be used for the session unless a bond of $2,000 was given to protect the State from any damages. Captain Ball stated that he had permitted the use of the Armory by the Grange in the past but that the question having been raised in the Board of Supervisors as to the use of the Armory by outside organizations he could do nothing else but comply with the law.

Captain Ball added that hereafter any organization using the Armory would be required to give the bond. This applies to the local Masonic fraternity at the banquet next Thursday but the Masons have already made arrangements for the necessary bonds.

Captain Ball stated that his action requiring a bond for the use of the Armory is based on an order received Wednesday from the brigade commander, General Welch. He said it might be necessary to make some new arrangements regarding the basketball games. Captain Ball says that he has written General Welch for definite instructions on the matter.

Chairman Hamer and the members of the Board of Supervisors are working hard to conclude the session before Christmas, if possible. The miscellaneous committee has practically completed its labors, except for totaling the bills and this will be done early in the week. Next week will probably be the busiest time of the session.

At the session this eleventh day the securing of a new general index for the Surrogate's office was considered and the report of the special committee appointed to consider the matter who made a special order for Wednesday.

The report was presented by Mr. Pierce, who stated that a conference had been held with Judge Miller and representative of a Syracuse firm. Two index books to cost about $80 are absolutely necessary and the transcription of the old records from 1810 down to the present time into the newer Graves system such as is used in the county clerk's office,was suggested by the committee.

Surrogate Miller and Mr. McChesney of Syracuse, a dealer in indexes, etc., were both heard. The Surrogate said that in his personal opinion it would be advisable to have the old records reindexed but he said he would leave that matter to the judgment of the board. Mr. McChesney said that in his opinion it would cost about 2 cents a name to copy the 14,000 names from the old records.

It is the opinion of many members that if the indexes can be prepared in Oswego county this should be done.

SOCIALIST VOTE IN CALIFORNIA

San Francisco, Dec. 9.—While the unexpected developments in the McNamara case on the eve of election in Los Angeles to some extent clouded the issues on which the campaign was fought and probably caused the loss of ten thousand votes to the Socialist party the vote in the southern metropolis shows interesting results. As a test of woman's suffrage the election was a complete vindication of the claims of suffragist. The women not only voted but they seemed to have voted with rare discrimination. Eighty-five per cent. of the women who registered cast their ballots, while a little less than 75 per cent. of the men voted. When it came to voting on city ordinances, of which there were three submitted the women overwhelmingly defeated the drastic prohibition law but cast their vote in favor of a municipal newspaper and the regulation of street railways .

It is significant that in spite of the McNamara case the Socialists polled more than 51,000 votes in Los Angeles. If the election had been decided before the dynamite cases came to the front it is probable that the Socialist vote would have exceeded 60,000, showing that the party must be reckoned with.

PAPER COMPANY SCORES VICTORY

Oswego Falls Corporation Wins in Claims Court Decision—Is an Important Action

Albany, Dec. 9—The retiring Court of Claims handed down a decision yesterday granting $2,000,000 damages to the Oswego Falls Paper and Pulp company in its claim against the State for the impairing of its water power rights and the appropriating of its land bordering on the Oswego river at Fulton for barge canal purposes.

Yesterday was the last day on which the Court of Claims could hand down decisions because of the restriction imposed by the law which legislated the court out of office.

It is held that the State, in appropriating the strip of land adjacent to the paper mills, lying between the Oswego river and the Oswego canal has automatically acquired the water power privileges.

When the action was brought several years ago, a stipulation was entered into whereby the litigation was to be divided into two sections. The first trial was to be for the purpose of determining what land and power if any had been appropriated. This has been done.

On the second trial the amount of damages to be recevered will be fixed . Not until the action brought by the judges of the present Court of Claims to test the constitutionality of the disbanding act has been decided, will the second part of the litigation be concluded.

By the decision the Court unanimously decrees that the claimant company is the rightful owner of all the water power at the East end of the upper dam at Fulton and al the land for 400 feet North from the water's edge of the old Oswego canal to the center of the Oswego river and that the State by the filing of its appropriation maps and by occupancy of the land with the permanent structures of the new barge canal, has taken away practically all the rights of the company.

The Attorney General claimed that the title to the land and water power had never left the State, but the court holds in this decision that the title was granted to Jonathan Wheat and James Doolittle by sale in 1823.

The amount of damages awarded in the water-power cases has been based upon the amount of power generated. The company has used about 4,000 horse power. This is ten times the amount used by the Fulton Light, Heat & Power company, which was recently awarded $300,000 damages.

The case was first tried in 1909 and a second hearing was held a year later.

The State, if it so desires, can take an appeal.

MESSAGE OF THE PRESIDENT

Voluntary Reorganizations of Other Trusts at Hand.

The effect of these two decisions has led to decrees dissolving the combination of manufacturers of electric lamps, a southern wholesale grocers' association, an interlocutory decree against the powder trust, with directions by the circuit court compelling dissolution, and other combinations of a similar history are now negotiating with the department of justice looking to a disintegration by decree and reorganization in accordance with law. It seems possible to bring about these reorganizations without general business disturbance.

Movement For Repeal of the Anti-trust Law.

But now that the anti-trust act is seen to be effective for the accomplishment of the purpose of its enactment we are met by a cry from many different quarters for its repeal. It is said to be obstructive of business progress, to be an attempt to restore old fashioned methods of destructive competition between small units and to make impossible those useful combinations of capital and the reduction of the cost of production that are essential to continued prosperity and normal growth.

In the recent decisions the supreme court makes clear that there is nothing in the statute which condemns combinations of capital or mere bigness of plant organized to secure economy in production and a reduction of its cost. It is only when the purpose or necessary effect of the organization and maintenance of the combination or the aggregation of immense size are the stifling of competition, actual and potential, and the enhancing of prices and establishing a monopoly that the statute is violated. Mere size is no sin against the law. The merging of two or more business plants necessarily eliminates competition between the units thus combined, but this elimination is in contravention of the statute only when the combination is made for purpose of ending this particular competition in order to secure control of and enhance prices and create a monopoly.

Lack of Definiteness in the Statute.

The complaint is made of the statute that it is not sufficiently definite in its description of that which is forbidden to enable business men to avoid its violation. The suggestion is that we may have a combination of two corporations which may run on for years and that subsequently the attorney general may conclude that it was a violation of the statute and that which was supposed by the combiners to be innocent then turns out to be a combination in violation of the statute. The answer to this hypothetical case is that when men attempt to amass such stupendous capital as will enable them to suppress competition, control prices and establish a monopoly they know the purpose of their acts. Men do not do such a thing without having it clearly in mind. If what they do is merely for the purpose of reducing the cost of production, without the thought of suppressing competition by use of the bigness of the plant they are creating, then they cannot be convicted at the time the union is made, nor can they be convicted later unless it happen that later on they conclude to suppress competition and take the usual methods for doing so and thus establish for themselves a monopoly. They can in such a case hardly complain if the motive which subsequently is disclosed is attributed by the court to the original combination.

New Remedies Suggested.

Much is said of the repeal of this statute and of constructive legislation intended to accomplish the purpose and blaze a clear path for honest merchants and business men to follow. It may be that such a plan will be evolved, but I submit that the discussions which have been brought out in recent days by the fear of the continued execution of the anti-trust law have produced nothing but glittering generalities and have offered no line of distinction or rule of action as definite and as clear as that which the supreme court itself lays down in enforcing the statute.

Supplemental Legislation Needed, Not Repeal or Amendment.

I see no objection, and indeed I can see decided advantages, in the enactment of a law which shall describe and denounce methods of competition which are unfair and are badges of the unlawful purpose denounced in the anti-trust law. The attempt and purpose to suppress a competitor by undselling him at a price so unprofitable as to drive him out of business or the making of exclusive contracts with customers under which they are required to give up association with other manufacturers and numerous kindred methods for stifling competition and effecting monopoly should be described with sufficient accuracy in a criminal statute on the one hand to enable the government to shorten its task by prosecuting single misdemeanors instead of an entire conspiracy and on the other hand to serve the purpose of pointing out more in detail to the business community what must be avoided.

Federal Incorporation Recommended.

In a special message to congress on Jan. 7, 1910, I ventured to point out the disturbance to business that would probably attend the dissolution of these offending trusts. I said:

"But such an investigation and possible prosecution of corporations whose prosperity or destruction affects the comfort not only of stockholders, but of millions of wage earners, employees and associated tradesmen, must necessarily tend to disturb the confidence of the business community, to dry up the now flowing sources of capital from its places of hoarding and produce a halt in our present prosperity that will cause suffering and strained circumstances among the innocent many for the faults of the guilty few. The question which I wish in this message to bring clearly to the consideration and discussion of congress is whether, in order to avoid such a possible business danger, something cannot be done by which these business combinations may be offered a means, without great financial disturbance, of changing the character, organization and extent of their business into one within the lines of the law under federal control and supervision, securing compliance with the anti-trust statute.

"Generally in the industrial combinations called 'trusts' the principal business is the sale of goods in many states and in foreign markets—in other words, the interstate and foreign business far exceeds the business done in any one state. This fact will justify the federal government in granting a federal charter to such a combination to make and sell in interstate and foreign commerce the products of useful manufacture under such limitations as will secure a compliance with the anti-trust law. It is possible so to frame a statute that, while it offers protection to a federal company against harmful, vexatious and unnecessary invasion by the states, it shall subject it to reasonable taxation and control by the states with respect to its purely local business * * *

"Corporations organized under this act should be prohibited from acquiring and holding stock in other corporations (except for special reasons, upon approval by the proper federal authority), thus avoiding the creation under national auspices of the holding company with subordinate corporations in different states, which has been such an effective agency in the creation of the great trusts and monopolies.

"If the prohibition of the anti-trust act against combinations in restraint of trade is to be effectively enforced it is essential that the national government shall provide for the creation of national corporations to carry on a legitimate business throughout the United States. The conflicting laws of the different states of the Union with respect to foreign corporations make it difficult, if not impossible, for one corporation to comply with their requirements so as to carry on business in a number of different states."

I renew the recommendation of the enactment of a general law providing for the voluntary formation of corporations to engage in trade and commerce among the states and with foreign nations. Every argument which was then advanced for such a law and every explanation which was at that time offered to possible objections has been confirmed by our experience since the enforcement of the anti-trust statute has resulted in the actual dissolution of active commercial organizations.

It is even more manifest now than it was then that the denunciation of conspiracies in restraint of trade should not and does not mean the denial of organizations large enough to be intrusted with our interstate and foreign trade. It has been made more clear now than it was then that a purely negative statute like the anti-trust law may well be supplemented by specific provisions for the building up and regulation of legitimate national and foreign commerce.

Government Administrative Experts Needed to Aid Courts in Trust Dissolutions.

The drafting of the decrees in the dissolution of the present trusts, with a view to their reorganization into legitimate corporations, has made it especially apparent that the courts are not provided with the administrative machinery to make the necessary inquiries preparatory to reorganization or to pursue such inquiries, and they should be empowered to invoke the aid of the bureau of corporations in determining the suitable reorganization of the disintegrated parts. The circuit court and the attorney general were greatly aided in framing the decree in the tobacco trust dissolution by an expert from the bureau of corporations.

Federal Corporation Commission Proposed.

I do not set forth in detail the terms and sections of a statute which might supply the constructive legislation permitting and aiding the formation of combinations of capital into federal corporations. They should be subject to rigid rules as to their organization and procedure, including effective publicity, and to the closest supervision as to the issue of stock and bonds by an executive bureau or commission in the department of commerce and labor, to which in times of doubt they might well submit their proposed plans for future business. It must be distinctly understood that incorporation under a federal law could not exempt the company thus formed and its incorporators and managers from prosecution under the anti-trust law for subsequent illegal conduct, but the publicity of its procedure and the opportunity for frequent consultation with the bureau or commission in charge of the incorporation as to the legitimate purpose of its transactions would offer it as great security against successful prosecutions for violations of the law as would be practical or wise.

Such a bureau or commission might well be invested also with the duty already referred to of aiding courts in the dissolution and recreation of trusts within the law. It should be an executive tribunal of the dignity and power of the comptroller of the currency or the interstate commerce commission, which now exercises supervisory power over important classes of corporations under federal regulation.

The drafting of such a federal incorporation law would offer ample opportunity to prevent many manifest evils in corporate management today, including irresponsibility of control in the hands of the few who are not the real owners.

Incorporation Voluntary.

I recommend that the federal charters thus to be granted shall be voluntary, at least until experience justifies mandatory provisions. The benefit to be derived from the operation of great businesses under the protection of such a charter would attract all who are anxious to keep within the lines of the law. Other large combinations that fail to take advantage of the federal incorporation will not have a right to complain if their failure is ascribed to unwillingness to submit their transactions to the careful official scrutiny, competent supervision and publicity attendant upon the enjoyment of such a charter.

Only Supplemental Legislation Needed.

The opportunity thus suggested for federal incorporation, it seems to me, is suitable constructive legislation needed to facilitate the squaring of great industrial enterprises to the rule of action laid down by the anti-trust law. This statute as construed by the supreme court must continue to be the line of distinction for legitimate business. It must be enforced unless we are to banish individualism from all business and reduce it to one common system of regulation or control of prices like that which now prevails with respect to public utilities and which when applied to all business would be a long step toward state socialism.

Importance of the Anti-trust Act.

The anti-trust act is the expression of the effort of a freedom loving people to preserve equality of opportunity. It is the result of the confident determination of such a people to maintain their future growth by preserving uncontrolled and unrestricted the enterprise of the individual, his industry, his ingenuity, his intelligence and his independent courage.

For twenty years or more this statute has been upon the statute book. All knew its general purpose and approved. Many of its violators were cynical over its assumed impotence. It seemed impossible of enforcement. Slowly the mills of the courts ground, and only gradually did the majesty of the law assert itself. Many of its statesmen-authors died before it became a living force, and they and others saw the evil grow which they had hoped to destroy. Now its efficacy is seen; now its power is heavy; now its object is near achievement. Now we hear the call for its repeal on the plea that it interferes with business prosperity, and we are advised in most general terms how by some other statute and in some other way the evil we are just stamping out can be cured if we only abandon this work of twenty years and try another experiment for another term of years.

It is said that the act has not done good. Can this be said in the face of the effect of the Northern Securities decree? That decree was in no way so drastic or inhibitive in detail as either the Standard Oil decree or the tobacco decree. But did it not stop for all time the then powerful movement toward the control of all the railroads of the country in a single hand? Such a one man power could not have been a healthful influence in the republic, even though exercised under the general supervision of an interstate commission.

Do we desire to make such ruthless combinations and monopolies lawful? When all energies are directed, not toward the reduction of the cost of production for the public benefit by a healthful competition, but toward new ways and means for making permanent in a few hands the absolute control of the conditions and prices prevailing in the whole field of industry, then individual enterprise and effort will be paralyzed and the spirit of commercial freedom will be dead.

Knights of Old.

The knights of the days of chivalry were so well protected by their armor that they were practically invincible to all ordinary weapons. Even when dismounted they could not be injured save by the misericordia, a thin dagger, which penetrated the chains of the armor. In more than one battle knights fallen from their horses could not be killed until their armor had been broken up with axes and hammers.

We Are Waiting For You

With three floors filled with Holiday Goods. The largest and best line we have ever displayed. We have been anticipating your needs and for many months past have been gathering together the choice things from this country and abroad until now we have a wonderfully complete stock, as never before, of useful and artistic gifts in gold, silver, leather, glass, besides a vast array of attractive pieces in gold and silver plate, of guaranteed quality and yet EXTREMELY LOW IN PRICE. You will be surprised at the values we are offering. OUR STORE STANDS FOR THE BEST, and yet this does not mean the most expensive. If you are not one of our customers, you are the loser.

Watches

There is nothing finer for a Christmas gift than a fine watch. It is a permanent and personal gift and one that satisfies. DO NOT buy until you have consulted us. It will pay you!

A "Time-ly" Suggestion

What could be a more pleasing gift for the home than a beautiful CHIME CLOCK —rich and attractive in appearance and a very satisfactory timekeeper —$30.00. Other clocks at all prices, from $1.00 up.

DID you ever wear snowshoes? Maybe not, but they're great fun if you know how to use them. Of course if you live in southern California or Florida or other really southern places you needn't ever hope to enjoy snowshoes unless you go a long way north, but it is interesting to read about them and know something about them anyhow. There are states in this big country where snowshoeing is popular—away up in Michigan and Wisconsin, for instance, where the snow lies deep on the ground for months at a time. Over in Norway, far across the Atlantic ocean, is the place where snowshoes come in the most handy, for that is a land of deep snows and long winters.

The idea of the snowshoe is to keep you from breaking through the top crust of the deep snow and let you skim gracefully over the white surface. Snowshoes are much used in the big forests, where the snow falls several feet deep and then gets a frozen crust over the surface that will hold up anybody on snowshoes, but would let a person wearing ordinary shoes or boots break through and flounder about up to his arms perhaps.

With a pair of snowshoes secured to your feet you can travel fast over the snow crust—if you know how. It takes quite a little practice to learn how to travel on snowshoes. The little boy in the picture certainly looks as if his father had taught him how, for he doesn't appear to be the least bit afraid. His smile shows that he is enjoying the sport.

"SKATES FOR ME," SAYS SUSIE.

Snowshoes are not real shoes, of course. You must wear your real shoes and stockings to keep your feet warm, then fasten the snowshoes to your soles. They are really very much like little sleds, only that you have a sled on each foot instead of the "belly buster" that you use in coasting downhill. You can climb hills on snowshoes, and you can't do that on a sled, as you know. That's where lots of the fun comes in.

In northern Michigan and some other parts of the north the little boys and girls sometimes get a pair of snowshoes from Santa Claus, and they prove to be a very enjoyable Christmas present.

"Skates will do for me," says Susie. Oh, very well. Then we'll have Santa Claus leave a pair of skates for you beneath the mantel. They're too big and awkward to put into your stockings, and you want all the room there is in your stockings for candy and other smaller gifts, anyhow.

Every boy and girl who loves the outdoors—and what child doesn't?—wants to go skating. You'll agree to that, won't you? Of course, if you live far south, where the creeks and ponds don't freeze over, you can't expect ice skating, but then there are roller skates. Still, roller skates don't really suggest Christmas. A pair of them is a welcome gift from Santa Claus to a boy or a girl, but it is the ice skates that make us think of Christmas time.

Nowadays skates are nicer and cheaper than those we used to have, say, thirty years ago. Did any of you boys and girls ever see a pair of the clumsy looking wooden skates with steel runners which your fathers used to wear before the all metal skates came into fashion? Those wooden skates were strapped to heel and toe—no heel plates or toe clamps in those days. But they were mighty good skates all the same, and your father enjoyed them just as much as you'll enjoy the highly polished nickeled beauties which Santa Claus may leave for you this Christmas.

Here's a picture of the Christmas queen, the queen of outdoor sports in winter time. You will see that she is dressed very warmly, which is as she should be, for she is standing in a tree top—her throne, you know—and it must be pretty chilly up there when the wind blows. But you will notice also that the Christmas queen has wings, so she can fly down and join her subjects, the other boys and girls, in skating, snowshoeing or coasting downhill. The queen in this case is not a fairy, as you may imagine, but a dear little girl "made up" to play the part at a Christmas tournament that took place in an English town last year.

"FIRST LADY" WAS CHEF.

Wife of John Adams Cooked White House Christmas Dinner.

The first Christmas dinner at the White House was in 1800, when the wife of President John Adams, who prided herself on being a model New England housekeeper, served in the capacity of chef.

Under her directions old colored "mammies," clad in bright calico frocks, long white aprons and bright colored kerchiefs on their heads, flitted hither and thither before the roaring blazes on the hearths as they prepared the food for President Adams and his Yuletide guests.

The mansion was but dimly lighted compared with the present illuminations by numerous candles and lamps. Instead of steam radiators, heat was furnished by great wood fires on the broad hearths, which roared and crackled and sent showers of sparks up the ample chimneys.

THE FULTON TIMES

E. K. HUGHES, Editor
W. E. HUGHES, Proprietor

[Entered as second class matter, April 12, 1856, at the postoffice at Fulton, New York, under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879.]

Official City Paper

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1911

The close attention given by National Legislators to President Taft's message, presented last Tuesday, is worthy of more than passing comment The Sherman act, as interpreted in the decisions of the Supreme Court was a measure most strongly advocated by President Taft in dealing exclusively with the trust question, although it is the judgment of quite a few of the Representatives that Federal incorporation is not needed at this time. The Sherwood dollar-a day pension bill, with the aid of the Democratic majority, has passed Congress. It will add $35,000,000 to $45,000,000 to the pension rolls, should it become a law. This bill provides for a minimum pension of $30 a month to all soldiers who served more than one year in the Union cause. The foregoing important measures caused an indulgence in oratory as the sixty-second session of Congress opened at noon on Monday of this week. The President's message was received with closer attention than is usually given to such communications, and was universally conceded to be a most able and important State document.

ADVICE TO CHRISTMAS SHOPPERS

Never begin your shopping until one week before Christmas. Some stores remain open in the evening during that last week, and it is always well to take advantage of every golden opportunity. The salesgirls will undoubtedly be tired—feet will ache from constant standing— heads will buzz with a wild confusion of sounds, and this, coupled with that half chocked, half starved, half stuffed feeling left by a too hastily swallowed meal of perhaps not too substantial quality, will naturally spoil their erstwhile cheerful dispositions.

Be sure and take Fido and as many children with you as you can collect. Biting the mob and annoying everyone generally will be their reward, and the pleasure you will give them will add to the spirit of Christmas.

Should you carry a list of the gifts you wish to buy, be sure and keep it in the very bottom of your purse, hand bag, trunk or whatever conveyance you happen to have with you.

Should you see a crowd of people standing six deep around a counter take a position about four feet away, run a few paces to get a good start and then, with one wild rush, make your final break into the midst of the fray. This method has been proven to give best results with the least damage to yourself, and is used to a great extent by all professional shoppers. If after gaining first place at the counter you discover that it is only a sale in which you are not in the least interested, promptly edge your way out again, using elbows and fists to make your exit as abruptly as possible. Never waste time apologizing—it is a decidedly foolish and useless proceeding.

Make a point not to leave the store until the watchman has called "all out," for at least six times and is then compelled to open up the side of the building, owing to the wide expansion of packages surrounding you on every side.

When you finally reach a car for home, manage to occupy the capacity of two seats. Unfortunately this precaution is an absolute necessity, as the Public Utilities Commission has not yet thought best to compel the railroad companies to furnish baggage cars for Christmas shoppers —Life.

PATRONS OF INDUSTRY

Pulaski, Dec. 7—George W. Bettinger of Mannsville was re-elected president of the Patrons of Industry of Oswego county at the annual convention held this afternoon at Fancher Hall, Central Square. Other officers named were:

Vice president, J. H. Harris, Central Square; county secretary, Mrs. Cora E. Howard, Mannsville; treasurer, Ashabel P. Soules, Pulaski; trustee, for three years, Thomas R. Cook, Central Square. Several appointments will be made later by President Bettinger.

The meeting was largely attended delegates being present from Oswego and Jefferson counties. John F. Ross, the retiring secretary, has filled the office for more than ten years. He is secretary of the state association, which holds its convention in Syracuse on Thursday and Friday, December 14 and 15. Delegates to that convention were elected as follows: Earl Tubbs, Centerville; Charles Potts, Sandy Creek; Louis R. Trumble, Pulaski; William Barney, Rural Hill.

A young couple were united in marriage in a furniture store window in Wolcott last week, and received a present from the firm for the novel advertising stunt in their behalf, of a mahogany bedroom suite.

D. E. Wadsworth and family of Broadway visited their farm at Wolcott Friday.

Mrs. Alfred Morehouse's friends are pleased to hear that she is recovering from the effects of her recent painful experience with the flames, and that she is very comfortable.

The atmospheric conditions on Monday were sufficient to make even the philosphical local merchant swear. Warm, muggy, rainy, no one could be come imbued with the Xmas spirit nor with the ambition to purchase even necessities. The Xmas trade has opened up for fair now though.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

There were eighty-three members present in the Brotherhood class of the First M. E. church Sunday. The president Doctor Simpson, and the pastor are ambitious to reach the one hundred mark by January 1. This is a good healthy growth without a contest.

Mr. Marcus F. Crahan informs the Times of the approaching marriage of his daughter, Miss Agnes Crahan, of New York city, an expert stenographer and typewriter, to Mr. Flarity, formerly of Oswego. The event will be solemnized between the first and fifteenth of January and the family have been bidden to the marriage. Miss Bernadetta Crahan will be bridesmaid.

Miss Grace J. Tucker left on Monday for Belvedere, Ills., where she will spend the Winter with her friend, Mrs. G. R. Pierce.

The Citizens Club through its committee, Messrs. T. M. Ripley, T. H. Webb and S. B. Mead, have issued invitations to a dancing reception to be held in the club rooms in the City Hall on Friday evening, Dec. 22. Reception at 8 o'clock and dancing to music by a full orchestra, will commence at 8:30 o'clock. This will be the first party of the Holiday and probably the only large one, so that a most enjoyable time is anticipated.

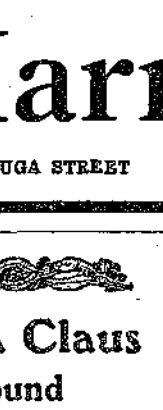
Santa Claus Found In the Heart

"THREE whole silver dollars apiece!" said Margy to the boy as they sat in the corner of the garret where the nut pile had been and gazed at their hard earned wealth. "It's like having money instead of nuts fall off the trees. How shall we ever spend it?"



"Spend it?" said the boy with a grand air. "Spend it? Why, that's easy. My! I could spend it if all the nuts we picked up and sold were dollars. It takes a heap of money to buy Christmas gifts."

"Uncle Tom said he would take us to the city, so father and mother needn't know a thing," said Margy.

True to his word, Uncle Tom happened in that very evening and said in a careless way to father:

"I'm going to town tomorrow, and if the children would like a trip I'll take them."

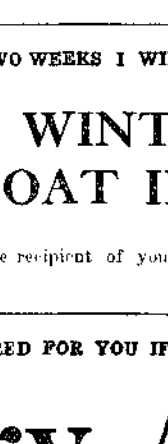
So, dressed in their best, with the precious money held tight in their purses, they went to the city with Uncle Tom.

WINDOWS FULL OF GIFTS.

What a day that was! Every shop window seemed full of gifts that would be just right for some one on the list. Two happy children went home that night and sneaked up the back stairs with their bundles. Later they stowed them away in an old chest of drawers in the garret, safe from the eyes of the curious.

And father and mother never made a guess as to all the whispering that went on. Nor did they notice that the children were fairly bulging with secrets. Perhaps they were busy with a few on their own account.

Christmas eve came. The boy said carelessly:



"Mother, why don't you and father hang up your stockings too?"

So four stockings were hung to the cover of the sitting room table—no, five, if you could call the baby's tiny sock a stocking.

When father had fallen asleep over his paper and mother was in the kitchen planning things Margy and the boy stole in with their gifts and poked them into the biggest stockings, and, oh, yes, Margy put a bundle in the boy's stocking, and the boy put one in Margy's, and then they stole out again and were off to bed so's not to have to wait so long for morning.

The boy's eyes popped open about 5 o'clock of the dark morning, and he woke the whole house shouting "Merry Christmas!"

Every one hustled into clothes and swallowed breakfast. Then they went into the sitting room together, and father shouted and danced like a schoolboy when he found a cup and saucer that would hold a pint of coffee, to say nothing of the motto "Love the Giver" in gilt letters and a lavish decoration of rosebuds on its outside.

FATHER SHOUTED AND DANCED.

How mother laughed and kissed both the children when she found in her stocking a great apple that proved to be a pincushion and a lovely Japanese fan with red, blue and green ladies painted on it!

It is not necessary to tell what the children did and said when the boy found a cocker spaniel puppy tied to his leg of the table and Margy opened a basket and found a sleepy Angora kitten blinking at her.

When every package was untied and the "ohs" and "ahs" were all used up, when mother had decked the mantel with her pincushion and fan and father had declared that never—no, never—again would he drink coffee out of any common little everyday cup, the boy and Margy sat on the hearth rug fondling their new pets, and the boy said:

"I wouldn't go back to the old kind of Christmas for anything. Then it was just Santa Claus that did everything. Now it's the spirit of Santa Claus in me and you and father and mother and everybody. It's like having a whole family of Santa Clauses."

"We'll earn our Christmas money every year after this, won't we, brother?" asked Margy.

And the boy replied, "You bet we will!"

"I'm going to begin to save and think of ways of earning money right off," declared Margy.

"Same here," responded the boy.

Our National Capitol.

"One thing I learned during a recent visit to Europe was that the average life of a stone building is not more than 700 years," said a builder. "Naturally I was interested in construction work and gave more attention to this part of Europe than I did to the examination of art galleries and the tombs of famous men. The buildings of Europe are no better in their construction than those of this country. I don't think I saw a building in Europe that is better built than the capitol in Washington. In nearly all of the older cities of England I noticed that the town halls, which had been constructed in many cases 500 years ago, were beginning to collapse. All of them had been patched up, and it was evident that they would not last a great many years longer. I do not think there is any doubt that the capitol building in Washington will be standing 500 years from now if it is not destroyed, but it will not last longer, nor will the treasury building, which is the finest example of its style of architecture in the United States."—Washington Post.

Inquisitive.

"Do you think women would improve politics?"

"Well," replied Mr. Growcher, "after listening to the conversation on the front porch, I'll say this for them: If they ever start an investigation they'll find out something."—Exchange.

CHRISTMAS GAMES

A Santa Claus Party For Christmas Evening

FOR a gay frolic of a Christmas party with the guests from the ages of ten to fifteen use these lines for the invitation:

Will you come to my party
And meet a "dear old friend?"
Don't bother 'bout fine clothes and things.
Just fix up good to bend,
For we will frolic,
For we will play;
We will dance;
We will take a turn with Santa Claus
Should we have a little chance.
Come from eight to eleven.

Decorate with holly, mistletoe and quantities of Japanese lanterns.

Santa Claus may receive with the young host or hostess, shaking hands with each guest, pulling snapping mottoes with them and throwing gay garlands of crape paper over their shoulders.

Then Santa disappears, only to come back with his pack, from which each child draws a Christmas favor. When the dining room is thrown open Santa leads the way to the tune of a lively march. He may then take his leave with a "Merry Christmas to all, and to all a good night."

SANTA CLAUS' CLAWS.

Santa Claus' claws can be played by any number of children.

First of all, the players sit in a circle on the floor, with their feet stretched out in front of them, and then one of the party starts singing:

Santa Claus, claw one.
Santa Claus, claw two.
How many claws has Santa got?
Santa, come tell me and draw it in.

As the singer pronounces each word she touches the feet of all the players in turn, allowing one word for each foot. When she comes to the last word, "in," the player whose foot she touches draws it in, as she has bidden.

This goes on until all the feet but one have been drawn in. The owner of that foot has to pay a penalty for being last.

To pay the penalty the player gets down on the ground on hands and knees, and one by one the other players, who have been fortunate enough to get out, place various articles on the losing player's back, saying:

"What is this over you?"

The child on his or her hands and knees says what he or she thinks it may be.

If it happens to be a handkerchief and the player guesses a fan the others say, "Let handkerchief stay until fan comes," and the handkerchief is placed on his or her back.

This goes on until a heap of all sorts of things has been loaded on the poor penalty payer's back. As soon as the player guesses correctly what is being held over him or her, however, he or she is allowed to get up, and then they play again and again until they are tired.

Might Have Been Worse.

"Did the play have a happy ending?"

"It might have been worse. My wife only forgot her handkerchief and one glove."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

STERLING RANGE

You men! You ought to be interested in the range question too, for if you don't get the right range this time, and it goes to pieces in half the time it ought to, why your pocketbook won't like that exactly! You will be interested in what we can tell you about the Model "R" Sterling,—about the ingenious "Unit System" on which the Sterling alone, among all ranges, is built,—about the manufacturing and selling economies, that make it possible to give you "more range" for the money than any other model ever built by the Sterling people or anybody else. WHAT IS A CHRISTMAS TREE?

BY ROBERTUS LOVE

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

WHAT kind of a tree is a Christmas tree?
I'm sure all you children and I will agree
That it isn't an orange or plum or pear,
Though all of these fruits it is likely to bear.

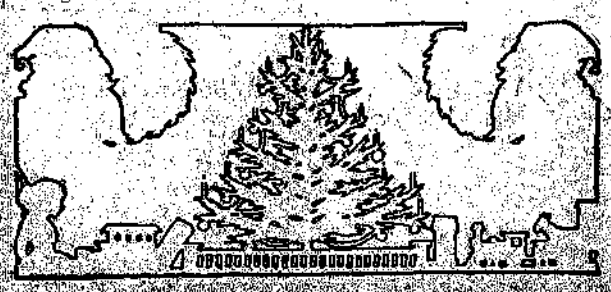
THE Christmas tree is a popcorn tree—
A fact that a Sleepy-Eye Kid can see—
For look at the popcorn balls and strings
That hang from its branches, 'mong other nice things.

BUT listen to grandpa's wise old talk.
He tells us that popcorn is grown on a stalk.
We'll have to believe him, and so, you see,
That it really isn't a popcorn tree.

THE Christmas tree is a candle tree,
For candles all over it all of us see.
They're red, white and blue, and we'll light 'em tonight,
For candles are meant to make candle trees bright.

NOW listen to grandma (please leave us alone!)—
She tells us that candles are molded, not grown;
So we've got to give up, with a sigh, you see,
The notion that this is a candle tree.

THE Christmas tree is a spangle tree,
For spangles are dangling all over it, see?
Spangles of silver and spangles of gilt,
It's surely a spangle tree Santa has built!



BUT listen to daddy—he says, says he,
There's no such thing as a spangle tree,
For spangles, says daddy, are made in a shop,
So this nice idea we'll have to let drop.

THE Christmas tree is a candy tree—
I'm sure now we have it! Let's holler with glee!
There's candy in boxes and candy in bags,
Let's mark it with "THIS IS A CANDY TREE" tags!

BUT here comes your mamma, who says, if you please,
"Who ever saw candy that GREW upon trees?"
So sadly we've got to surrender such whims,
It may be this candy was TIED to the limbs!

THE Christmas tree is a CHRISTMAS tree!
Is that not sufficient for you and for me?
It's full of good goodies that Santa Claus grows,
And WE shouldn't ask how they got there, I s'pose.

How Toy Fairies Make Christmas Gifts

"COME, hurry up, my dears. Our friend St. Nicholas will soon be here to look over our latest Christmas toys. And you know what a busy man he is, never having a moment to spare this time of year."

So spoke the queen of cloud fairies to her many subjects.

Now, maybe you children do not know that these cloud fairies live up at the north pole in the clouds that are always full of snow. But always having lived there they never feel the cold and enjoy a frolic each morning on the great icebergs, to which they come down in sleighs drawn by reindeer. Cloud fairies, so it is said, make all the Christmas gifts Santa Claus gives to the little ones each Christmas eve.

The season had been a busy one for the cloud fairies, for they had done their best to make up games and design toys that they might have many nice new ones for Santa Claus. He was to visit them any minute, the reason the queen had for begging her subjects to hurry with the work in hand.

"Yes, dear queen," answered a girl fairy, dancing on the silver edge of a cloud; "I have all the dolls on the south end of the rainbow, where his greatness St. Nicholas of All Lands may view them without a moment's delay."

"And I have all the drums, bugles, horns, fifes and other musical toys placed to great advantage on the north end of the rainbow," said a gay fairy, flapping his wings as he sat on the point of a stray starlet that had got tangled in the clouds.

Just as the fairies ceased speaking there came through the frosty air the sound of sleighbells and the tooting of a bugle.

"Ah, there he is now!" cried the queen. "Let's all go to greet him."

In rushed four beautiful reindeer drawing a sleigh in which was seated

SANTA BOWING BEFORE THE QUEEN.

Santa Claus. With a bound old Santa was on a cloud, bowing low before the queen and kissing her hand.

Then he gathered a dozen or more fairies in his arm and hugged them as a great bear would hug its cubs. He laughed so loudly and so merrily that the icebergs began to melt.

"Now," he cried joyously, "show me what you have made for my hosts of earth children. You know this time of year brings me millions of letters, and I must hurry to my postoffice and run through my mail."

After looking at the Christmas toys Santa Claus said he was more than pleased. Then, giving his order for 10,000 bags full of the beautiful things, he told the queen that he must go.

"But before I go," he said, "I must beg you to be prompt in filling my order. There can be no delay on Christmas, you know, my dear queen. That would mean to break the heart of some of my little ones, and that would never, never do. So farewell till earth's sundown on Christmas eve. I'll be here myself to get my toys."

After kissing again the queen's hand the jolly old saint sprang into his sleigh, blew his bugle and was away on a breeze.

As two fairies stood watching him one said to the other, "For one reason only would I be an earth child."

TO THE NORTHERN LIGHTS.

"And what is that reason, pray?" asked the fairy.

"That I might be in one of those houses on the earth and see old Santa Claus come down one of those chimneys with his pack on his back and then to watch him fill the family stockings with toys and bonbons. I'm sure it would be quite a treat."

"Oh, but it happens only once a year," replied the other fairy. "You'd get good and lonesome during the long waits between two Christmases, I'm thinking. But, come; let's fly over and play in the northern lights. They are very bright tonight."

"Don't be gone long," called the queen after them, "for you know there are 10,000 bags of toys to make for the earth children's Christmas day."

HOT COCKLES.

Christmas Pranks Popular in the Long Ago.

Hot cockles is a somewhat painful sort of blind man's bluff, dear to our grandparents at Christmas time. The blindfolded one kneels down in the center of the room, and all the rest of the players give him a bit on the back in turn. The object is to guess who struck the blow. As soon as a correct guess is made the hitter becomes "it." Care must be taken to strike lightly or this romp may become dangerous.

MASONIC DISTRICT CONVENTION

The banquet of the 25th Masonic District in honor of Robert Judson Kenworthy, Grand Master of Masons in the State of New York, to be held at the State Armory on the evening of December 14, promises to be a great event. Judging from the responses already received to the invitations sent out, between 500 and 600 masons will attend.

Each of the fourteen lodges of Oswego County will be represented by a large delegation, and in addition many will be present from Syracuse, Cortland, Watertown, Utica and other nearby cities and villages.

The banquet follows the sessions of the 25th District Convention held for the purpose of exemplifying the first three degrees. Besides the Grand Master and members of his staff many masons prominent in public life have accepted invitations to be present and the toast list will include the names of several well known jurists and public officials of this and other judicial districts.

The banquet will be spread on the main floor of the Armory, the Third Battalion Band is to furnish music.

The Rev. Wm. F. Kettle, who has many times demonstrated his ability as a toast master will preside in that capacity and introduce members of the fraternity who are famous as orators and after dinner speakers.

The banquet is also to a certain extent a reunion and many members of the lodges of the districts, who are in distant parts are coming home to renew old friendships.

The program in detail for the 13th and 14th is as follows: Convention opens on the afternoon of the 13th with the first degree, in the evening of the 13th, the third degree will be exemplified, and in the morning of the 14th, the second degree.

The Grand Master will arrive in Oswego during the afternoon of the 14th, and an informal reception will be held for him at the Oswego Masonic Club, to which all masons are cordially invited.

Promptly at 7:30 p. m. the banquet will open at the Armory. All masons without regard to the location of their home lodges are invited to attend the banquet.

CONSERVATION COM. MISSION PLAN

The importance of the forests and streams and their wild inhabitants in relation to the health, happiness and prosperity of the people was recognized by your newspaper long before the conservation movement had attained the prominence and scope which it now properly enjoys in state and nation. New York is taking the lead of its sister states in the great and noble duty of restoring to the people their depleted natural heritage and of insuring them fuller enjoyment and utilization of the forests and streams. You, therefor, will share with all patriotic citizens of New York the general approbation of the fact that Governor Dix and the Conservation Commission interpret "Conservation" to mean: To correct past indiscretion, perfect present utilization and insure future accumulation in the State's renewable natural resources.

The fulfilment of this program will mean for the people more forests to use and enjoy; more recreation in the out-of-doors, more fish and game; cheaper light, heat and power throughout the state by reason of the utilization of waters that now run wastefully to the sea.

It is the purpose of this Commission to keep the public fully informed of it plans and achievements in the great work imposed upon it by the new Conservation Law with which you are familiar. In order that our invitation for the hearty co-operation of the public may be both cheerfully and intelligently accepted.

HOW TO USE RED CROSS SEALS

Not Good for Postage—Post Office Approves Design—Fifty Thousand Workers Engaged in Sale

With the sale of Red Cross Seals in progress in almost every state and city of the United States, The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis is issuing the following instructions to its fifty thousand paid and volunteer workers engaged in selling the seals, and to the millions who will buy these holiday stickers for use on their Christmas mail.

The Post Office Department has approved of the Red Cross Seal design, everyone is urged to use them liberally, since every seal is a bullet in the fight against tuberculosis.

Care should be exercised in sending merchandise through the mails not to place seals over the string with which the package is tied, since this seals the package against inspection and subjects it to first class postage rates.

Red Cross Seals may be used also on the reverse side of mail matter sent to Austria, Germany, Great Britain and most of the British Colonies except India and Australia. Guatemala, Uruguay and Portugal refuse to admit mail bearing non-postage stamps.

Red Cross Seals may be used on the face of checks, on bills, on legal documents, and on any commercial paper.

These Christmas seals are not good for postage. They will not carry any mail matter, but any kind of mail matter will carry them. The slogan of the campaign this year is "A million for tuberculosis from Red Cross Seals." Every letter or parcel sent out during the holiday season should bear one or more seals.

JOHN DREW AT EMPIRE THEATRE, SYRACUSE

John Drew has been noted for many years as giving what might be called "drawing-room plays," perfect in production, and the delineation of a true gentleman surrounded by all the appointments that his aristocratic audiences know and love so well. And too, he has always gathered about him a company of beautiful women. This year in "A Single Man," by Hubert Henry Davies, the English playwright, which Mr. Drew will present at the Empire Theatre, Syracuse, next Friday and Saturday. He has made no exception to his rule. The polished gentleman is there, the beautiful women, the charming gowns, and the exquisite appointments—all are perfect.

As Robin Worthington, a writer, he is tremendously moved by the sight of the happiness of his brother and sister-in-law and their baby. It is Springtime and the fever of love enters his heart. He determines that he is lonely and must marry. Mrs. Worthington his sister-in-law, is enchanted at the idea, and begins her schemes for matrimony. She invites a old school friend, who is quite as keen for the wedded state as Robin, to visit her. But the best of plans sometimes miscarry, Robin has inconsiderately become engaged to a young tomboyish girl, who is obviously the last person in the world suited to be his wife. She leads him through a romping three weeks. Poor Robin sees his mistake, he can no longer be a frolicsome youth with ease and comfort. He longs for repose and quiet, and suddenly discovers that his real love is for Miss Haseltine, his typist, Miss Mary Boland, a charming intelligent woman who has worked with him for five years.

It is an awkward situation and one which teems with delightful comedy and an excellent opportunity for Mr. Drew's distinguished company.

Miss Louise Drew will be seen as the young match-making mother of the precious infant, Miss Mary Boland as the all invaluable typist whose sweetness and charm is finally appreciated by the "single man;" Miss Thais Lawton as the husband hunting near adventuress; and finally Miss Carroll McComas as Maggie Cottrell, the buoyant, irrepressible girl who first wins the affections of John Drew as Robin Worthington.

Do the right thing if you have Nasal Catarrh. Get Ely's Cream Balm at once. Don't touch the catarrh powders and snuffs, for they contain cocaine. Ely's Cream Balm releases the secretions that inflame the nasal passages and the throat, whereas medicines made with mercury merely dry up the secretions and leave you no better than you were. AN OPEN QUESTION

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.

As per the bills on the farmers' barns for miles around a circus made its appearance in the town of Goshen one day and set up its tents. Among the farmers who drove in to see things was Jabez Stebbins, but he didn't think it a bit wicked to view the elephants and camels as they paraded up and down the streets.

People noticed that he seemed to be feeling extra good as he drove in, but half an hour later he astonished everybody. He uttered a preliminary whoop or two and then got down from his wagon to tackle one of the elephants. Of course the circus men interfered, and then he cut loose and licked three of them before he could be quieted. He was hauled up before Squar' Warner for disturbing the peace, and the squar', who had known him for thirty years, said:

"Jabez, I can't make it out. You are one of the peacefulest men around here, and nobody ever saw you drunk, but you must have taken a swig or two to make you act as you did. I'm going to let you go, but my advice to you is to beware of the flowing bowl in the future."

"Squar', it was hard cider—nothing but hard cider," explained Jabez. "I took a drink of hard cider two years old, and it made me lose my head."

As Jabez was a church member, the brethren had to take up his lapse from grace, and nothing else was talked of for two weeks. Then, at the instance of Deacon Baker, who had been drinking hard cider for twenty-eight years and never stubbed his toe over it, a committee of six was appointed to investigate and report. They drove out to Stebbins' place, and he drew a pail of cider and took them out to the barn.

The deacon led off with about a pint and smacked his lips and passed the cup. There was a wait of fifteen minutes to watch results. They didn't pan out much. Deacon Black got a little playful and threw Goodwill Jones on his back, and Saul Johnson turned the handle of an old fanning mill so fast as to shake the whole thing down, but these things were not recorded.

The pail was emptied and Jabez refilled it. He wasn't in on the drinks, but his face were a broad grin after that second drink had been taken. "Symptoms" soon developed. Deacon Hope, who had been carrying a bland countenance, suddenly sobered up and turned to Deacon Thomas and said:

"Deacon, durn your hide, but I believe you'd hide stones in a load of hay."

"What's that?" shouted Deacon Thomas. "Say, you old hog stealer, don't you go talking about me or I'll knock your head off!"

Peace was made between the two men, but a moment later Goodwill Jones brought Benjamin Schermerhorn a mighty slap between the shoulders and cried out:

"How is it, old man—do you lick your wife as often as you used to?"

"I never licked her!"

"You are a liar!"

"Lemme get at him!"

There were two or three other outbreaks, but by and by the dove of peace came, and all cried on one another's shoulders. Then Deacon Black stepped up to the cider pail for the third time and huskily said:

"Ladies and gemlen, we have met to test this hard cider question, and, by gum, we are going to do it! I say it won't intoxicate, and the man who says it will is a'liar!"

"Knock his head off!" shouted Saul Johnson.

"I'll knock yours off instead!" whooped Goodwill Jones.

Deacon Black stopped the row by drinking another pint, and while the cup was going around Jabez Stubbins ran into the house and said to his wife:

"Hanner, you come out to the barn in about ten minutes and you'll see more fun than a boss can draw."

He made no mistake. Ten minutes after the third pint was down Deacon Black proposed a country dance, and all began to shuffle and caper and sing.

The horseplay lasted about a quarter of an hour. Then they fell upon one another's necks and cried. Then Deacon Hope charged Deacon Black with putting only a cent in the contribution box the Sunday previous, and the latter called Deacon Hope a human hog. Then the fight began. It went all over the barn and out into the yard and over the fence, and when it ended six men lay where they had fallen and slept and snored.

Jabez had to drive to town to get help to load them into his wagon, and one by one they were delivered to their homes. Of course there was more talk, and it was a week before the committee reported. The substance of the report was:

"Owing to the fact that a cyclone came along and destroyed the barn before we had finished our test we can't say whether hard cider intoxicates or not. We suggest, however, that it be kept mostly for tin peddlers."

To this day the question is still an open one, and whenever an "anti" asks Deacon Black how he came to be under a hayrick fast asleep that day his reply is:

"I was blowed out of a barn, sir, and lay stunned instead of asleep, sir, and I don't want to hear no more talk about it, sir!"

MEMORABLE YULETIDES.

Odd Coincidence of Queen Victoria's Sorrows at Christmas Time.

One of the most extraordinary Christmas days London ever had was that of 1891. The shops had been, as usual, specially prepared and decorated with the object of attracting the buyers when suddenly, on Dec. 22, a thick fog came on. Not until the evening of Dec. 26 did it lift. This particular fog held the record for being the heaviest London had known. Thirty lives were lost and over 200 accidents recorded.

Christmas, 1860, was the coldest England and Scotland had ever experienced. Just three years later Christmas day was marred by news that William Makepeace Thackeray, the great novelist, was dead.

The late Queen Victoria's most memorable Christmases were the most pathetic. It was in less than a fortnight from Dec. 25, 1861, that her husband, the prince consort, passed away. So affected was her majesty that she allowed fifteen years to pass before she celebrated Christmas day in the traditional fashion. Then on Christmas day in 1872 the Prince of Wales, who became King Edward VII., was so ill that his life was despaired of. But he made a remarkable recovery.

Plucking Sheep.

The pure bred sheep in Shetland are not shorn, but plucked. The process takes place generally in June, when the fleece is "ripe" and the silky wool can be pulled off without pain. This is called "rooing" and is much less damaging to the young fiber than clipping with shears. The wool when thus handled retains its peculiar softness, so that any one of experience can tell whether the material of a knitted article has been plucked or shorn. It ripens first upon the neck and shoulders, so that sheep half pulled resemble in some sort a poodle that is clipped. We must suppose that harsher handling prevailed at one time, for we read that in 1616 the Scottish privy council spoke of the custom as still kept up "in some remote and uncivil places," and James I. wrote to tell them that it had been put down in Ireland under penalty of a fine. Upon this they passed an act on March 17, 1616, deploring the destruction of sheep thus caused and imposing similar fines on those who should persist in the practice.

WHAT WILL I GIVE MOTHER AND FATHER FOR CHRISTMAS?

That is the question that is confronting a great many of us these days when we are planning some little surprise for our loved ones and friends.

Had you thought of giving them a year's subscription to a telephone?

For MOTHER, it will save many steps between home and the grocery or market besides bringing her into contact with her friends that she would probably not have an opportunity to visit very often.

For FATHER, if he were obliged to be out of town it would bring him in touch with his business and likewise his home.

For THE WHOLE FAMILY it is almost indispensible and should not be considered a luxury by any one when they stop to consider that it only costs the small sum of FIVE CENTS a day.

USE MOST CHRISTMAS CANDY.

Several Million Dollars' Worth Sold to New Yorkers.

Three million dollars' worth of Christmas candies is New York city's annual holiday bill.

The amount of money spent by New Yorkers during the holidays for candy alone is so great that it seems out of proportion to the amount donated for charity until it is remembered that perhaps one-third or more of all the candy bought during the last half of December is given away by secular and religious societies, by Sunday schools and churches, and that consequently a large part of the sum belongs in the charity account.

Three or four New York manufacturers get the bulk of this class of orders, and they agree that, even taking the population of the city into account, New York's consumption of candy excels that of any other city.

Cleanliness and Arsenic.

In Styria and Carinthia there is much arsenic eating among the peasants. The women take it to give themselves a good complexion and to make their hair fine and glossy. The men take it because they believe that it gives them wind in climbing in the chase after chamois. In Styria and Carinthia it is known that an arsenic eater can never be broken of the habit and that if arsenic be compulsorily kept from the eater death rapidly ensues. It is believed in the Tamar—and this is perhaps true—that an arsenic worker is fit for no other work. He must remain at this occupation. Health and breath fail him at other employments. Eventually it may be that chronic arsenical poisoning ensues. But this may be staved off, if not wholly prevented, by scrupulous cleanliness, by care taken not only to wash in the "changing house," but to bathe freely at home. As one of the foremen said to the writer, "Against arsenic the best antidote is soap taken externally."—Chambers' Journal.

Sealing Wax.

Sealing wax was first impressed upon a letter that was sent from London to Germany in 1554.

Head and Foot.

A chiropodist merely wants to get a foothold in business, while the wig maker only wants to make a bald existence.—Kansas City Star.

The best manners should be used all day and every day. They are none too good for constant use.

CHRISTMAS IN NORWAY.

Richly Cooked Rice a Popular Dish. Brownies Used to Share It.

The day before Christmas the holidays really begin. It is customary to have richly cooked rice served with milk or fruit juice for dinner. In the tureen is a blanched almond, and he who gets this receives a present. The practice used to be prevalent among the peasants to set out a dish of this Christmas rice in the barn for the gnomes or brownies, whom they thought would do some good turn for them in payment.

Flowers always make a home look festive, and the custom in Norway is to send these as messengers of love at Christmas.

Historic Spot at Ems.

On the riverside promenade at Ems there is a stone inscribed: "13 Juli, 1870. 9 Uhr 10 Min. Morgens." This marks the exact spot where Wilhelm I. and Count Benedetti terminated the interview which led the French to declare war. After the Franco-Prussian war the old emperor often returned to Ems. On one occasion his doctor mentioned that the municipality wished to commemorate the interview with Benedetti, which they considered the most memorable event in the annals of the town. He was instructed to meet the emperor on the promenade by the Lahn at 6 a. m. the following day. Wilhelm then said: "During my lifetime let nothing be erected to recall that sorrowful struggle. When I am dead do as you please. Since you wish to know where I dismissed Benedetti it was here under this tree at 9:10 in the morning." And, saying this, he placed his foot on the spot where the monument now stands.

The Air Mile.

The air mile is a unit of measurement that came into use with the advancement of aviation. We have the land mile and the sea mile, which is approximately one-seventh longer than the land mile of America. The nautical mile is often incorrectly called a knot, but a knot is a measure of both distance and time. It is correct to say that a vessel makes ten knots, but to say that she makes ten knots an hour is tautology. The air mile is measured differently from the land mile and the sea mile. It is a land mile minus the retardation of an adverse wind or plus the acceleration of a favoring wind. Thus an aviator could cover many air miles while hovering over a given point on the earth's surface.—Browning's Magazine.

A Handsome Woman

Every woman may not be handsome, but every woman should keep with care the good points nature has given her. No woman need have sallow skin, dull eye, blotchy complexion, who pays proper attention to her health. Where constipation, liver derangements, blood impurities and other irregularities exist, good complexion, bright eyes and sprightly movements cannot exist. Internal derangements reveal themselves sooner or later on the surface. Headache, dark rings around the eyes, sallow skin, a constant tired feeling—mean that the liver and digestive organs are needing help and correction. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets give this necessary help. They work in nature's own way. They do not merely flush the bowels but tone up the liver and stomach to fulfill their proper functions. So mild and gentle do they act that one hardly realizes but they have taken medicine. Chamberlain's Tablets can be relied upon to relieve biliousness, dizziness, constipation and dizziness. Sold everywhere. Price 25c. ads.

FROST CARNIVAL.

A Charming Christmas Masquerade For the Children.

Nothing would be more delightful to a family of little people under twelve years of age than a series of paper costumes. Some prefer cambric as even better for service. Collars of all kinds may be made of either fabric.

For Christmas nothing could be better than some costume of white canton flannel made with the flannel side out to represent Jack Frost and his delightful and unique winter family, among whom we find the wee snowball man, a tiny lad dressed in white cotton flannel, with snowballs made of cotton wool sewed all over his clothes and a huge one fastened upon the top of his white skullcap.

Sleighbells is a little girl dressed in the same fabric, with tiny silver bells bordering the skirt of her dress, also fastened about her wrists and along the outer seams of her sleeves and around the rim of her jaunty snow white flannel hat.

Queen Frostie wears icicles for trimmings. This trimming is made of cotton batting, sewed on quite firmly upon the upper edge, while from the lower the cotton is pulled down in the shape of icicles, then heavily sprinkled with frost powder (powdered isinglass). She wears a silver crown cut from silver paper pasted upon bristol board.

Snowflake's dress is delicately covered with silver fringe, and Snowbird adds a pair of wings to her snow white costume. Toboggan and Skater and Coaster and Snow Man are represented by lads, dressed all in white, and it would not happen amiss if good old Santa Claus, with Mrs. Claus and the little Claus children, came in quite unexpectedly, all covered with snow and frost, just from the "truly north pole."

Silver, gold and iridescent fringes and powders such as decorators use so effectively in dressing Christmas trees give to all these costumes their specially frosty appearance.

Of course the little frost people like to dance in very lively fashion, and, strange as it may seem, they must work vigorously to keep from melting.

Busy.

"Loafey tells me he hasn't been so busy for years."

"Nonsense! That job he has is a cinch. He never has to work hard there."

"That's just it. He's been fired, and he's chasing around after another job now."—Exchange.

Natural Inference.

Blobbs—Nell and Belle no longer speak to each other. Slobbs—Is that so? What's his name?—Philadelphia Record.

THE SNOW PARTY.

A Gala Event For Christmas Afternoon or Evening.

If in doubt how to entertain the little folks Christmas afternoon and evening let them have a snow party.

Cut bells from cardboard, either red to be written on with white, or green with red ink, on which write the following:

Come and see
Our Christmas tree
Saturday next
At half past three.
Snow party from half after three until six
At the home of Polly Weeks.

Prepare the tree by keeping to a white color scheme entirely—cotton sprinkled with artificial diamond dust, a white bird's nest filled with sugar almonds, one for each guest, on the branches. Glittering icicles of white rock candy hung from the branches and with white candy box snowballs make a very beautiful tree.

This is the song for the children to sing around the tree, all hands joined:

O dainty Christmas tree,
You came from woodlands deep,
Where winds were blowing chill
And flowers were asleep!
Now on your branches wide
The strangest fruit you bear,
With pretty toys for girls and boys,
For children everywhere.

CHORUS.

Christmas tree, Christmas tree,
Shining bright and fair,
The dearest tree in all the world
To children everywhere!

The snowball candy boxes are given out and the children lined up, throwing the balls until each girl gets one containing a wee doll and each boy one with a top.

LORD OF MISRULE.

A Merry Christmas Gambol For Nimble Folk.

To play this game appoint some lively person as master of the revels, using the old Yuletide phrase, lord of misrule. Give this person a gilt wand to which a bunch of holly is tied with a bow of scarlet ribbon or tissue paper.

As soon as the lord of misrule has been so invested all his followers are obliged to exactly copy all that he says and does. If he speaks his words must be repeated correctly. If he makes a gesture the rest of the company must make the same one, using the same hand or foot.

A clever leader will give his followers a merry dance around the room, climbing over sofas, crawling under tables, pirouetting, gesticulating; whatever he does the others are obliged to keep up with until every one is out of breath with exertion and laughter.

The Last.

What race may reasonably be expected to be the last on earth? The Finnish.

CHRISTMAS DOG PARTY.

Fun For Their Masters and Joy For the Dogs.

The most fun provoking celebration took place in a private stable last Christmas. Several boys determined that their dogs should not go unremembered on the gift day. Their scheme grew out of a story one of the boys heard about a family whose big dog Fritz was regularly a member of the Christmas party. Fritz was an interesting dog.

Christmas day Fritz was always dignified. When the family gathered around the tree he used to sit up straight near the fireplace and watch the proceedings gravely. There was always something for him on the tree and Fritz didn't mind if every Christmas brought the same thing, for it was a titbit exceedingly tasteful to him, chicken or turkey bones. These were put in a paper covered parcel loosely tied with ribbon. When Fritz's name was called he would rise promptly, cross the room slowly with a respectful wagging of his tail, receive the parcel in his mouth and return with it to his place. There, without undue haste or exhibition of greed, he would tear away ribbon and paper and crunch the bones contentedly during the rest of the evening.

The youngsters who elaborated on this plan did not meet with the liveliest encouragement from their parents. There was probably a doubt whether all the pets of the neighborhood would have the sagacious dignity of Fritz. After pleading the boys obtained permission to have a special celebration for their dogs in the stable. Accordingly there was a tree, and, besides presents of bones, there were new collars, blankets, harness and such other affairs as dogs are supposed to admire or need.

Not only their own pets, but those of their friends, were invited to the dogs' Christmas tree. Prizes were given to the animals who excelled in running queer races, for jumping and other canine tricks. It was a jolly party, and it is doubtful whether boys or dogs enjoyed it most.

Friendship.

Friendship is courteous and gentle; it does not domineer, does not command, but is satisfied with proposing without exacting compliance. At the same time it is indefatigable in labor when labor can achieve a friendly purpose.

Interrupted Repose.

"So you don't care for chess?"

"Not much. It's annoying to be wakened every time you drop into a nice nap merely to be told that it is your move."—Washington Star.

HERE'S FUN.

Ringing the Sleighbells For Good Santa Claus.

Santa's sleighbell party is a funny holiday game. It may be played as follows:

The leader says to the neighbor on her right, "Santa's sleigh has been at my house."

The one to whom she says this asks, "What has it brought?"

"A sleighbell," the leader replies and pretends to ring a bell with his or her right hand, every one in the company imitating her.

The person whom the leader has addressed turns to the neighbor on her right and says, "Santa's sleigh has been at my house," and this third party asks, "What has it brought?"

"Two sleighbells," he or she replies, making the gesture of ringing with both hands, while every one follows this example.

The statement "Santa's sleigh has been at my house" and the question "What has it brought?" are continued from one player to another, the third player announcing that Santa has brought three bells moving her right foot as well as her hands. At four all move both hands and both feet. At five bells they move both hands, both feet and right eyelid. At six bells they move both hands, both feet and both eyelids. At seven bells they move both hands, both feet, both eyelids and the mouth. At eight bells they move both hands, both feet, both eyelids, the mouth and head.

After this the one who first fails to keep time is forced to pay a forfeit.

Talking Canaries.

Talking canaries are a great rarity, but several authenticated instances are on record. At Norwood, England, in 1858 a lady had a canary bird which began by repeating a word which its mistress had often used to it—"Kissie, kissie"—and by following the word up by an imitation of the sound of a kiss. After a time the bird repeated other words until it had a large vocabulary of phrases, one of which consisted of five words. Again, in 1863, a talking canary was exhibited in Bath, with a vocabulary such as is generally taught to parrots, and another talking canary was exhibited for a few weeks in this country, but it unfortunately caught cold and died. In Germany and the Tyrol canaries are taught to imitate the notes of other birds and whistle simple tunes, and the words which it imitates may be regarded as a mere development or variant of its musical notes.

STAR BALL.

A Yuletide Game That Will Please the Boys.

The Christmas star may be used in the playing of several holiday games. Star ball is one of these.

Star ball requires that a carpet of dark cambric be stretched on the floor. On this a five pointed star is marked out and a circle that touches its points. A player takes his place in the center of the star. Others stand one at each star point and one on the circle at the middle distance between each point.

The player in the center throws the ball to a player at one point of the star. It is immediately returned and thrown to the player at the point at the right of the first. So the game continues until the central player has tossed the ball to every point of the star and had it returned.

All this is done as quickly as possible, for in the meantime the players on the circle are rolling the ball on the floor about the circle from one to another. The object of the play is for them to strive to roll the ball in this manner twice about the circle before the central player shall have sent his ball to each point and got it back again. If he fails the point and circle players change positions, and he also is changed.

The number of players may be increased by using a six pointed or eight pointed star instead of the five pointed one. These stars may be made by interlacing two equal sided triangles or two squares.

Gold Beaters' Skin.

A cheap substitute is much desired for goldbeaters' skin, which is prepared from the outside membrane of the large intestine of the ox. It is said that goldbeaters first tried paper for inclosing the metal, and mulberry fiber paper is still used in China and Japan, but animal parchment has been mostly employed for two or three centuries at least. While a thinner leaf can be beaten out between paper parchment sheets, it is damaged by adhesion. A special German paper is coated with isinglass or albumen, and paper parchment of some kind is much used in the first stages, but goldbeaters finish their product between goldbeaters' skins, still pounding an ounce of gold into 200 square inches of leaf.—New York Tribune.

The Giraffe's Neck.

"Why does the giraffe have such a long neck?" asks the teacher.

"Because its head is so far away from its body," hopefully answers the boy.—New York Press.

Many a fool man casts a shadow on his life by standing in his own light.

Serving His Country.

A certain public office has been the object of much satire because of the passive nature of the incumbent's duties—except when he is called by tragic occurrence into the thick of action. So very negative, indeed, is the work of this public servant that he sometimes serves his country most efficiently by being absent, as appears in this extract from Moses Coit Tyler's journal, written in Washington years ago:

"President Grant never starts a conversation, but when it is started he often says a neat thing. Last year there was an excursion down the Potomac. He was on board, with his cabinet and a quorum of both houses.

"'Mr. President,' said Mrs. Judd, who sat near him, 'it would be a pretty bad thing to have a great accident happen to this party. Nearly the whole government would be destroyed.'

"'Yes, Mrs. Judd,' assented the president, 'but you observe that the vice president has very prudently stayed at home.'"

An Odd Bequest.

The following is one of the oddest bequests ever recorded in a last testament. It appeared in the will of a Bristol mariner proved in 1795. The old gentleman ordered his executors to "pay out of the first moneys collected, to my beloved wife, if living, one shilling, which I have given as a token of my love, that she may buy hazelnuts, as I know that she is better pleased with cracking them than she is with mending the holes in her stockings."

Swayed by a Bell's Tones.

The Church of St. Nicaise, in the city of Rheims, is surrounded with pillars. When a certain bell in the tower is rung the top of one pillar always sways to the extent of seven inches on each side, although the base is immovable, and the stones are so firmly cemented as to seem like a solid piece of masonry. Notwithstanding that each of the four bells is about the same distance from the trembling pillar none of the others has the slightest effect on it.

THE WEEK

Recent gains in the leading industries and trades are maintained, and the improvement is clearly reflected in the statistics of bank clearings, which this week increased 12.3 per cent. over 1910 and 18.1 over 1909 outside New York, and 6.6 and 1.7 per cent. respectively, in New York. Detail trade, particularly for the holidays, is expanded by the generally favorable weather, but jobbing trade, as is natural now, is somewhat quieter. Nevertheless the dry goods market in most of its departments, both cotton and wool, fairly maintains the recent improvement. Continued progress is made in the iron and steel markets, with railroad orders still the main prop of the improvement, and the prevailing feeling that further cuts in prices are unlikely, contributes to the better conditions that exist. Leather is quiet, but continues strong. Hides are weak. Business confidence has been strengthened by the recent turn in the discussion of pending economic issues. Although the money value of farm products this year is slightly less than in 1910, yet the total yield, nearly $8,500,000,000 is so great as to carry the trade of the country into 1912 with another large dividend to national credit, notwithstanding that this has been a year of less than full business activity. It is a notable fact, which is demonstrated by statistics, that while trade and industrial depression retards, it does not entirely stop progress in wealth creation. Large visible domestic supplies of wheat, heavy receipts at the Northwest and great promises in Argentina are responsible for a sharp decline in wheat, while in cotton, interest has centered in the ginning report this week and the Government estimate, due next week, of the size of the notable crop. The copper situation continues firmer. Railroad earnings in November declined 0.6 per cent. as compared with last year, and foreign commerce at the port of New York for the most recent week was less favorable, showing exports of $12,690,880 as compared with $15,954,425 last year and $14,534,168 in 1909, while imports were $8,653,226 greater than the exports, being $16,344,056, or about $1,000,000 less than in the preceding two years.

The year draws to a close with steel production at Pittsburgh equal to that of any previous time this year, local plants rolling plates and steel bars operating 85 per cent. of capacity. Further substantial purchases of pig iron emphasize the recent favorable turn in general conditions. The pig iron output during November declined only slightly to 1,999,433 tons, or 66,648 tons a day, as against 67,811 tons in the preceding month, according to the Iron Age. On December 1, 211 furnaces were in blast, as compared with 212 on November 1, 213 on October 1, and 196 on August 1. Activity has been pronounced in all markets of late, especially in foundry grades. Tin mills are resuming, with contracts on hand for about 60 per cent. of capacity. Butt weld pipe is reduced $2 and lap weld pipe $4 a ton. The minimum spot price of steel bars is $1.10 and futures are quoted at $1.15.

The print cloth and fine plain good markets are still somewhat irregular and duplicate orders for wash fabrics are hard to secure. A revision of prices on 4.4 bleached cottons is announced and new business is broadening on these cloths. Export trade with miscellaneous ports is still good and a sale of standard drills has been made for India shipment. Red Sea buyers are making inquiries, but no business is possible with China, owing to the disturbed conditions in that country. In men's wear circles leading mills are well employed. Dress goods mills making cream and colored serges have booked a good spring business, but other cloths are generally quiet. Worsted yarn spinners are in a better position than for many months. The ribbon trade has been better of late. On the whole, the dry goods markets have maintained the steady gains that have been apparent since early fall.

Most New England footwear manufacturers, as well as those in other sections, are actively employed, with a good volume of contracts in reserve. The more seasonable weather has helped trade, particularly in heavier weights. Retailers are purchasing steadily. Trade in leather continues quiet. Tanners are not offering large quantities and buyers, as is usual at this time of the year, are indisposed to purchase extensively. Country hides declined 1-4c. and buffs have been sold down to 13 1-4c. Sales of packer hides for a week have amounted to 40,000 and full prices were realized. In one instance a premium of 1-4c. was secured on some choice Fort Worth November salting packer branded cows. At the last Paris auction heavy steers weakened 3 1-2 per cent., medium steers 4 1-4, heavy cows 6 5-8 and light cows 2 per cent., while light steers advanced 1 1-4 per cent. At Berlin there was a general decline in hides of about 6 per cent. Common varieties of Latin-American dry hides are still strong.

Liquidation in wheat and aggressive short selling accelerated the decline in prices. The heavy receipts at the Northwest lead to the belief that the spring wheat yield is larger than expected. Arrivals of wheat at western points this week exceeded the movement a year ago, 7,231,408 bushels comparing with 4,105,317 while exports from all ports of the United States, flour included, were 2,874,132 bushels against 2,711,530 in 1910. Corn again receded in value in sympathy with wheat and in response to liberal country offerings. Receipts of corn this week of 5,091,839 bushels, however, fell below the 5,456,821 shown last year, and Atlantic coast shipments were only 129,620 bushels as compared with 154,042 in the earlier period. Some recovery occurred in cotton, but net changes were not marked. The Census Bureau on Friday announced that 12,814,332 bales had been ginned prior to December 1, or 2,675,120 bales more, than in the precious season and 3,937,946 bales above 1909.

Liabilities of commercial failures reported for November amount to $15,226,237, of which $6,767,347 are in manufacturing, $6,541,789 in trading and $1,857,201 in other commercial lines. Failures this week numbered 310 in the United States against 287 last year, and 38 in Canada compared with 23 a year ago.

FORTUNATE FIND

Estate of Late Mary J. Gilmour Enriched by Discovery of Valuable Railroad Bonds.

A discovery of fifty shares of preferred stock of the Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad worth $8,262.50 after the estate was about ready to be closed up, has been made known in a petition filed in Surrogate's Court last week, asking for a correction of the appraisal of the estate of Mary Gilmour whose husband was for many years at the head of Falley Seminary, Fulton, and who died in Fulton about a year ago.

Mrs. Gilmour left a large estate and according to the petition the fifty share certificate which was in an envelope in a safe deposit box with other certificates was entirely overlooked.

Surrogate Miller signed an order allowing the correction in the appraisal. The proceeds from the sale of the stock found will go to the four surviving children, the residuary legatees: Eleanor V. VanWagenen, of Fulton; Mary T. Landon Schenectady Anna C. Deforest and A. J. Gilmour, New York. Their shares will be $3,637.69 each.

Take one million cats and get rich quick. This is the advice of the Liberte of Paris to its readers. The prescription is quite simple. A million cats will supply you with twelve million kittens a year. The skins are worth a little over 28 cents each, so there you have a daily gross revenue of about $10,000. To skin the cats you will have to employ 100 men, who will charge you $2 per fifty cats. Your net revenue will thus be reduced to about $9,000 a day. It should cost you nothing to feed your cats. Start a rattery. Rats breed four times as fast as cats, so the cats can have a daily diet of four rats apiece, which is ample. To feed the rats is perfectly simple. Give them the skinned cats. One cat will be ample for four rats. The scheme works out simply and automatically. The cats eat the rats the rats eat the cats, and you have the skins.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

I Win the Wager

A Christmas Love Story

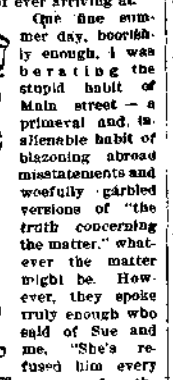
By GENEVIEVE KENNEDY

[Copyright, 1911, by American Press Association.]

RETURNING ever and anon to the town which held the one thing desirable to me, I was feted in the usual manner. It was Mrs. Jack Copita's 5 o'clock that was responsible for the wager which won me the wedding, a function I had grown to despair of ever arriving at.

"THEY'LL HAVE US ENGAGED BEFORE WE REACH THE END OF THE STREET."

One fine summer day, boorishly enough, I was berating the stupid habit of Main street — a primeval and inalienable habit of blazoning abroad misstatements and woefully garbled versions of "the truth concerning the matter," whatever the matter might be. However, they spoke truly enough who said of Sue and me, "She's refused him every summer for the last ten years." Perhaps, because of the precision of the guess in this instance, my remarks were more than usually scathing concerning "gossip" in smaller towns generally and the tittle tattle of Main street, Hilton, particularly.



"I'll wager," said I to Sue as we passed the postoffice on our way to Mrs. Jack's tea, "that they'll have us engaged before we reach the end of the street." Sue's hatred of gossip is as pronounced as her love for her native town, and what the board walk is to Atlantic City even so is Main street to Hilton.

"I'll wager," Sue challenged, ignoring my remark, "that I can have and hold against Main street for three months, if necessary, any matter which you may care to intrust to me, provided you swear to keep faith also."

"You for accomplishing that," said I, warily reviewing the weak points of a plot I had in mind. Sue's capacity for silence was the poser in my little scheme.

Arriving at Mrs. Jack's, it was very near the end of the allotted hour of "gobble and gabble" that I found myself unexpectedly in retreat in an alcove near the portierred entrance to the dining room. I had blundered upon a tete-a-tete between Sue and her inseparable ally, Mrs. Jack Copita.

"A thousand pardons," I murmured meekly, my eyes on Sue. "A few less will do," she laughed. "There is Mrs. Fish moving doorward, and I have something of importance to say to her. Wait here awhile," said Mrs. Jack as she fluttered away, leaving Sue and me together. Drawing my chair ever such a trifle closer, so that I might the better feast my eyes on that adorable face whose allurement for me neither time nor change nor any other creature could ever lessen, I said, "I dote on teas."

"SAY BOB MARRIES US AT THE REEF," I REPEATED.

"I judge you came for that reason," Sue replied.

"Do you remember"—

"I seldom or never do," she interrupted.

"That little thing," I continued casually, "concerning the uselessness of trying to guess the proportioned oncoming cargo of fate and how the little stars and tidal waves and other natural impediments are greatly in error, imagining that they can butt in between us and our natural belongings?"

"Your translation into the vernacular is not at all smart," Sue commented.

"And has nothing whatever to do with the subject I had in mind?" said I. "For what I was wondering is, Are you going with the Percys and yours everlastingly, for the week end, at the Reef?"

"Yes, I believe we're all to go together in the big car. We're to be there in time for dinner at 8. The Reef is raggeder and loveller than ever."

"Dear Reef," said I. "It's rather a coincidence that I first saw you there. Heavens, it was at a picnic of the Percys) come to think of it."

"Yes, but the coincidence?" Sue queried.

"Merely it may be the last place I shall see you." That this was my moment I knew. Yet but for my past experience of miserable wadings in shallows and through miseries and my knowledge of some of the strong points of Sue's philosophy I might have instituted and forever have lost my venture. "So I'm going to take your wager," said I. "You remember 'Holy Bob?'" Sue nodded. "He did take orders and is curate this year at the Reef. You may not remember his penchant for secrecy. At school it amounted to genius. 'I'll die, but not divulge,' was Bob's motto. "Then," continued I, with the airy unconcern of true sport, "say Bob marries us." Sue is so uniformly master of herself she scarce lifted an eyebrow, and of course it may have been a glint of the westering sun that shone in her eyes, but I can swear to the shine in them.

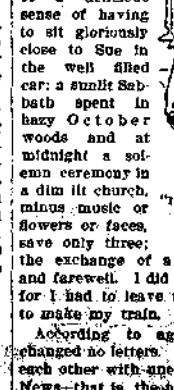
"Say Bob marries us at the Reef," I repeated, with nonchalance, "some time between now and Monday a. m. Why, I'll give you a month—two, three—any time you say for Main street to find us out and gossip us to housekeeping. I'll stake my life and Bob's that death will find us yet dumb. If I win you lose, maybe. If you win I lose all," I whispered.

"If," said Sue slowly, deliberating, chin on hand, "Bob swears, too, I'll accept the wager. It's as good as lost to you, though. I have, and still do hold, matters of more or less moment and less strenuously guarded than this will be, which have never reached the ears of Main street."

"This is the 23d," said I. "Two months from tomorrow will be Christmas eve. 'Merry Christmas,' I murmured anticipatively. Won't I look sweet all done up in tissue paper and Santa Claus seals and holly ribbon? But supposing I shouldn't. Suppose I lose?"

"That is the end," said Sue tersely.

I tried to read in her inscrutable eyes ever so small a hint of interest in Main street gossip. She smiled slightly and repeated her creed. "Serene I fold my hands and wait, nor care"— A sound as of muffled scraping and a sharp click caused us to turn toward the portierred alcove. Then some one joined us.



"I FAIRLY PIERCED HIM WITH MY QUESTIONING GAZE."

I have but a pipe dream of the whirl into the Reef that night; a memory of a delicious sense of having to sit gloriously close to Sue in the well filled car; a sunlit Sabbath spent in hazy October woods and at midnight a solemn ceremony in a dim lit church, minus music or flowers or faces, save only three; the exchange of a written compact and farewell. I did not see Sue again, for I had to leave the Reef at dawn to make my train.

According to agreement, we exchanged no letters. The days followed each other with uneventful regularity. News—that is, the news I strained my ears to hear—came our way until it seemed as though a cursed fate slew all the little birds that tell things on Main street. Sue preserved a silence which I doggedly forbore to break. Week after week, day after day, brought no sign nor the faintest breath of rumor till three days before Christmas, when there came a note from Mrs. Jack, which read: "I am having a surprise party for Sue Christmas eve. Fail me at your peril."

Had Mrs. Jack met me with a triumphant air as of "one who knows" I was prepared to have hugged her on the spot, but her bubbling mirth, candid and unsophisticated, struck chill to my heart as she proceeded to enjoy "the surprise" she was giving Sue.

Sue's back was toward the door as Mrs. Jack announced me. She turned, and for an instant I fancied her face paled. Perhaps it was but the reflection of my own. Then the dear, resolute chin lifted, and she calmly bade me welcome. The only other members of the party were Jack Copita, Mr. and Mrs. Percy and the Rev. Robert Clearmons. As I grasped Bob's hand I fairly pierced him with my questioning gaze. But his face was unresponsive. I fancied a bit pitying. I turned hopelessly away. "Here," said I to myself, "endeth the first lesson." At dinner I found myself at Mrs. Jack's left. Sue was next me and Bob directly opposite. The garishly diminutive Christmas tree seemed mocking me from its icy lake in the center of the table. Everywhere were holly and mistletoe, but across the happy hum of voices there floated to me a sound as of "sweet bells jangled out of tune." but it wasn't. Sue had evidently heard it also. Her little hand unconsciously touched my sleeve. In the alcove near the portierres Syd, the irrepressible ten-year-old Copita, stood near a table which held a big talking machine. "It's a little surprise Syd has been saving for Sue's party," explained Mrs. Jack. "It was a surprise to me also till a week ago, when I was hunting for the last Dunk record. Would you like to hear it?" The chorused response was all in the affirmative. "All right, son," and she nodded to Syd to proceed.

"THE PARTY AROUND THE TABLES LISTENED BREATHLESSLY."

A sharp click, a preliminary muffled scraping as Syd adjusted the record. Sue shot at me one look of startled apprehension as from the brazen mouth of the horn came an indistinct murmur of voices and clatter, then my voice, low, but unmistakable: "Say Bob marries us at the Reef some time between now and Monday a. m. Why, I'll give you a month—two, three—any time you say for Main street to find us out and gossip us to housekeeping. I'll stake my life and Bob's," the metallic echo of my voice ran on, "that death will find us yet dumb. If I win you lose, maybe. If you win I lose all."

"SHE TOUCHED HER GLASS RIM TO MINE."

The party around the table listened breathlessly as one waits the denouement of the third act. It came as Sue's voice replied clearly and deliberately and withal a trifle brassily, "If Bob swears, too, I'll accept the wager."

Mrs. Jack broke the spell. "That will do, Syd," she gurgled. "Hold up your hands, Sue. Last Friday I went to the Reef and while Mrs. Percy sang to Bob I secured the key of the church and searched the register." Then, springing to her feet, glass high in air, "I toast," she cried, "the bride of the Reef, the loser of the wager, my dearest friend—Mrs. Ted Moore!" She touched her glass rim to mine and gracefully, gloriously surrendered. "Yes," she nodded comprehensively, and so in response I toasted, "The ubiquitous, the all pervading, the ever blessed Main street and its presiding genius, true son of his mother—Syd Copita."

"But whatever made you think of the blank record, Syd?" asked Sue.

"Well," replied her youngest adorer, "there was such a racket when mum had one of her tea fights on I thought it would be fun to get it and let her hear it some time for a surprise—maybe her birthday. But I guess I got too close to you and Mr. Moore there, and of course if he wouldn't split on you I wasn't a-going to. Only for mum I'd died and kep' it dark too. But it wasn't a bad surprise for your party, was it, Sue?"

Later, in the recess afforded by that ever blessed alcove, Sue assured me that if I would but loosen my arms enough to permit her to breathe she would tell me what she thought of it. The surprise, she meant, of course.

"And as a small asset to start housekeeping on," I whispered, "would I do for a Christmas box without the holly ribbon?"

I'm afraid her answer tightened my arms again, but the memory of its thrilling sweetness will ever be to me the most exquisite music of all the bells of all the Christmastides.

COMMON COUNCIL

Fulton, N. Y., Dec. 5, 1911.

Regular meeting of the Common Council.

Present—Mayor Conners, Aldermen Palmer, Wolcott, Johnson, Smith.

Absent—Aldermen Malone, Newton.

A communication from Dr. Cusack regarding the temporary detention of the insane and to provide a suitable place for such.

Referred to the Property Committee.

Fulton, N. Y., Nov. 13, 1911.

The following resolution was passed by the Board of Public Works.

By Commissioner Whitaker; that the Common Council be requested to borrow the sum of $150.00 in anticipation of the collection of the taxes due from the abutting property owners for the sprinkling for 1911 and that the amount be placed to the credit of the Improvement Fund.

Aye—Commissioners Whitaker, Foster, Frawley. —Carried

Alderman Wolcott introduced the following and moved its adoption:

Resolved, That the City Chamberlain be authorized to borrow not to exceed $150.00 in anticipation of the collection of the taxes due from the abutting property owners for the sprinkling for the year 1911, the amount placed to the credit of the Improvement Fund.

Aye—Aldermen Palmer, Wolcott, Johnson, Smith, —Carried.

Alderman Palmer introduced the following and moved its adoption:

Resolved, That the City Clerk be authorized to draw an order for $65.00 for postage in favor of the City Chamberlain, for Primary election registration.

Aye—Aldermen Palmer, Wolcott, Johnson, Smith. —Carried.

Alderman Johnson introduced the following and moved its adoption:

Resolved, That the petition of M. A. Barnes for the cancellation and discharge of the erroneous personal assessment against him of $260.00 be granted and said assessment cancelled, and that the assessment of Charles Atwood be reduced $1500.00 and the Chamberlain directed to correct the roll accordingly.

SANDY CREEK'S WATER SUPPLY

Albany—A special bulletin of the State Health Department just issued discusses the water supply for Sandy Creek and declares that it is polluted by nitrogenous organic matter a high bacterial count and the presence of fecal organisms, which occurs from the fields through which the stream supplying the water flows.

THE PICCOLO PLAYER

A Story of a Chinese Political Movement

By F. A. MITCHEL

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

In the year 1900 took place the Boxer movement to expel all foreigners from China. The German ambassador was killed in the streets of Peking, and the members of the other legations shut themselves in in the region of the city which had been assigned them. For more than a month they defended themselves against the fanatical Chinese who were attempting to break down their barricades and get at them. The ambassadors and their families were protected only by a few marines and sailors, but they fought gallantly. An allied force of 50,000 troops was sent to Peking, but their progress was slow, and every day the little group of foreigners expected that the Boxers would break through their lines and they would all be massacred.

But on the morning of Aug. 14, at 2 o'clock, the besieged heard the guns of the allied troops without the gates and knew that their deliverance was at hand. A United States regiment scaled the walls and entered the city, followed by the whole allied army.

Now, there were a number of Chinese connected with the foreign legations, and an English gentleman, Sir Robert Hart, inspector general of the Chinese customs, much beloved both by foreigners and Chinese, had during peaceful times organized a band of the latter. Among his musicians was one Lung Chung, who played the piccolo. Twice the band was at different times called upon to play national airs. Chung was familiar with every one of them.

During the breaking in of the allied forces Chung remained at home with his family to protect them in case of lawlessness. The strictest orders had been issued by the generals against looting or in any way interfering with Chinese citizens, but Chung knew nothing about that, and the Chinese expected that they would receive no more mercy from the foreigners than they had granted them wherever they could get at them. Moreover, the innocent would suffer as well as the guilty, and Chung was aware that the allies would not know that he had been a friend to the foreigners.

So Lung Chung during that exciting day when the government had fled—no one knew where—and 50,000 foreign troops were pouring into the city remained with his family, every moment dreading that soldiers of some one of the different nationalities would come in upon them and murder them.

Notwithstanding the efforts of commanders it is not easy to keep armies under perfect control in entering an enemy's city. Chung was sitting in the midst of his family, shivering at the firing and the tumult without, when two Russian soldiers burst open his door and stood looking about for loot. They were Cossacks, and that means they were of that barbarous Russian-Tartar race which for centuries has ridden over the Russian peasant, trampling him without mercy. These men began to appropriate whatever was handy, insulting poor Lung Chung, his wife and his defenseless children. The more they took the more cupidity they showed and the fiercer they became. Chung feared that when they departed they would murder him and his family if only that "dead men tell no tales." He was at a loss what to do. But when he saw a vicious light in one of the Russians' eyes that forecast a diabolical purpose an idea occurred to the Chinaman. Taking up his piccolo, he began to play the Russian national hymn.

Now, the Russian national anthem is a very beautiful and a very impressive piece of music. It is questionable if it is not superior to any other national air, even the "Watch on the Rhine." But, besides the beauty of the music, the words contain a prayer. The effect on the Cossacks was instantaneous. They stopped where they were, their caps came off, and their heads were reverently bowed. Lung, realizing that not only his goods, but the lives of his family, were at stake, threw into the hymn all the expression and feeling he could command. His wife and little ones kept their eyes fixed on the great rough men, knowing that the result was either life or death to them. The husband and father played the air through, then stopped.

The men laid down not only the goods they had stuffed in their pockets, but what they held in their hands. Then, turning, they left the house.

This is one of the many true stories that were enacted during that most remarkable episode in the world's history, when a superstitious society, aided and abetted by the dowager empress—called the Old Buddha—undertook to defy eight of the most powerful nations on the globe by attempting to murder their accredited representatives and their families. It was in settling the terms of the penalty to be paid that Li Hung Chang became so well known in America. The Old Buddha was obliged to execute the leaders whom she had encouraged, and the Chinese people were forced to pay a large indemnity to every nation they had defied.

But out of evil often comes good. From that episode date the breaking down of Chinese exclusion, the beginning of a constitutional government and the admission of foreigners to the Forbidden City.

A Christmas Lesson. If the full meaning of Christmas time and its message of good will and all-embracing charity has not come to you, a stroll through the poorer quarters of a city, or failing that, a glance at such a picture as this—photograph of a scene in the New York ghetto—should bring the lesson home. It is the children's season, but the children of the poor often have little part in it. They cannot so much as hope for the beautiful toys displayed in the windows of the big shops, and even the modest stock of the push-cart man is beyond the means of many of these little ones.

Christmas Day.

How will it dawn, the coming Christmas day.
A northern Christmas such as painters love.
And kinsfolk, shaking hands but once a year.
And dames who tell old legends by the fire?
Red sun, blue sky, white snow and pearled ice.
Keen, ringing air, which sets the blood on fire
And makes the old man merry with the young.
Through the short sunshine, through the longer night?
In whatsoever garb or gay or sad,
Come fair, come foul, 'twill still be Christmas day.

—Charles Kingsley.

JACK-IN-THE-BOX.

He Makes a Hit as Santa Claus' Assistant.

At a Christmas party for children last year they had a big box on a platform covered with red cambric to which sprays of holly were pinned. At just the right moment Santa Claus appeared, saying he had an assistant this year who was so popular he just had to keep him shut up. He said all children loved him so that he was sure he would be recognized at once. Then he unhooked the box, and "Jack" leaped out with a spring, his arms full of packages. "Jack" was pushed down into the box with a great deal of difficulty, and Santa told him to look for more presents and hooked the box, in a moment unhooking, when "Jack" sprang up with more parcels. This act was repeated several times, and the children went wild with glee.

THE DOCTOR'S DAUGHTER

Edmund Vance Cooke in "Life"

She was a doctor's child, and he Embraced the opportunity
From all disease to make her free,
With absolute immunity.

"And first," said he, "as I indorse
Prevention of diphtheria,
This anti-toxin from a horse
Will kill some bad bacteria.

"Against consumption, you'll allow,
No means should be neglected,
And so this serum from a cow
Would better be injected.

"Another bovine brings a charm,
And I indorse it fully,
And so this vaccine in the arm
Will make the child feel 'bully.'

"And once again I pierce the skin,
Lest other evils threaten us,
And pump another serum in
To save the child from tetanus.

"Of snake-bite serum, just a touch;
We get it through a rabbit
Which we have bitten up so much—
It really likes the habit.

"A meningitis toxin, too,
Should be inoculated;
A guinea-pig we strain it through
To get it circulated.

"Some recent serums of my own
I'm rather sure will answer;
I make them for all troubles known,
From freckles up to cancer."

Alas, alas, for all his pains,
The end was scarce desirous;
She soon had nothing in her veins
But various kinds of virus.

Part snake, part sheep, part cow, part goat;
Her laugh was half a whinny.
"Dear me," cried he, "she's partly shoat,
And badly mixed with guinea.

"A girl that bleats and chews her cud
Will never make a woman;
I'd better get some good clean blood
And make her partly human."

Oswego County Judge

Watching Sponges Grow.

Outside the harbor of Sfax, Tunisia, in the shallow water of the clear Mediterranean, is situated a biological laboratory for the study of sponges. It is one of the most unique in the world and affords opportunity for observing the development of the sponge from tiny larva, so small that it can only be studied under a microscope until five years later it has developed into a perfect sponge.

Why the Dinner For Christmas Was Not Found

IT was Christmas eve. Everybody had gone to sleep, stockings had been hung up, and the house was quite still when all at once strange sounds were heard from the pantry.

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear!" some one was sobbing. "Oh, dear! Oh, dear! What shall I do?"

"It's the mince pie," growled the cranberries. "He's got a nightmare again."

"Keep quiet," growled the pumpkin angrily. "You have wakened the turkey."

And, sure enough, they heard the gobble-gobble of the turkey coming from the yard.

"Listen, my vegetables," said the turkey. "It was only yesterday the children came to my coop and began poking me with sticks. 'I am going to have his leg,' said one. 'And I his wing,' said another. 'And I his breast,' said a third. Now let us free the pig and all run away."

"I should like to know where we are going," said a sour pickle.

"Why, to Turkey, of course," said a sweet potato.

"Then we must lose no time," the turkey said. "Spring from your shelves and follow me."

The pumpkin, sweet potatoes, lettuce, pickles, cabbage and cranberries jumped down from their shelves. Only the mince pie was left behind, and he could not move, for he had been already chopped up and cooked.

Just then the pig began to grunt outside. The turkey had let him out.

THE PIG AND THE PIE.

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear!" the mince pie began again. "I shall be left behind. What shall I do?"

His cries attracted the attention of the pig, who came in the pantry and looked at him.

"Shall I take you with me?" he asked politely.

"Oh, please do!" cried the mince pie.

Thereupon the pig swallowed him and trotted off to lead the procession which was waiting in the yard.

"Let us go to the old owl in the wood," said the turkey. "He is very wise and will tell us which is the way to go."

"We want to go to Turkey," simpered the cranberries.

No sooner had the cranberries said this than, gobble-gobble, the turkey swallowed them. Meanwhile the pig had eaten the sweet potatoes and the young lettuce. When they reached the wood where the owl lived only the pumpkin and the cabbage head were left, except the pickles, who were so sour that nobody would eat them.

"Hoot, hoot!" called the owl from a tree.

"Oh, Mr. Owl," said the turkey, "is that yourself?"

"No; it is myself," said the owl.

During this talk the pig had swallowed the pumpkin. As for the cabbage head, it had burst with rage at the rudeness of the owl.

All at once steps were heard, and the pig and turkey started back in fear as they saw something black coming through the darkness. It was a colored man.

"Um-um!" muttered the colored man. "Does I smell chicken?"

The turkey, with a wild gobble, started to run, but the colored man grabbed him and put him in a bag. He started after the pig. The pig tried to escape, but he had eaten so much that he could not run, and, besides, the mince pie had given him indigestion. He felt himself seized by the tail, and the blood rushed to his head. All hope was at an end when suddenly "Hoot, hoot!" called the owl.

"Oh, golly!" cried the negro. "I didn't no nothin'." Next moment he was flying for his life, leaving the bag in which were the pig and the turkey.

Crawling out of the bag, they started off and run all night, hardly stopping to take breath, until when morning dawned they found themselves in a wild, lonely forest. There the turkey became king of wild turkeys, and he now roams the woods, followed everywhere by his faithful pig.

FULTON DAIRY FEED

Satisfies the requirements of the Most Expert and Exacting Critics

Dr. W. H. Jordan, Director of the New York Agricultural Experiment station, in his recently published book on "Feed and Feeding," says:

"It is simply necessary that the grain ration shall contain protein in sufficient quantity and proportion, and shall be made up of a variety of materials, better not less than three kinds, all of which should be palatable and exert no deleterious influence upon the milk or its products."

FULTON DAIRY FEED is a mixture of seven of the best protein feeds in the market—including Buckwheat Middlings, which few dealers can supply. Furthermore, it is so carefully and scientifically compounded as to produce a perfect balanced ration.

THE CHRISTMAS DONKEY.

A frolic on the order of the ever popular donkey game is always in order for a Christmas gathering of young folks. Vary the picture a little to suit the occasion and offer a prize to add zest to the struggle. If the shops are not at hand to offer inspiration for the new version of this contest any one with some little artistic skill can draw a picture of Santa Claus on a square of muslin and color with tinted chalks.

The youngsters are blindfolded one by one and are sent to pin a spray of holly in Santa's hand. It is, of course, the one who comes nearest to accomplishing this feat who wins the prize, a copy of some popular juvenile story. The children who stick their holly sprays farther away from the mark may be condemned to perform some funny stunts. For instance, they may draw imaginary reindeer in the air with the index finger in the presence of the rest of the company.

Cut a turkey out of white cloth and leave off one foot. Cut eight or ten feet out of paper, and, after pinning the cloth turkey to a curtain, give each child one of the paper feet. Blindfold one at a time and let each try to pin the foot in place. Some will come quite near if they watch closely and take measurements by eye before they are blindfolded. A little bag of candy or some little knickknack from the Christmas tree should be given the one whose foot is pinned nearest the proper place for it.

CHRISTMAS WOOING OF CUPID.

Mystic Love Spells With Apples in Foreign Lands.

Apples enter into many Christmas spells. In Austria on Christmas eve the apple must be cut in halves in the dark and without being touched by the hand. The left hand half is then placed in the bosom of the diviner and the right hand half behind the door of the bedchamber. Then at midnight, should the spell have been fully carried out, the spirit or "astral" of the beloved one appears, standing beside the half which was laid behind the door.

Another charm is to cut an apple in two and count the seeds in each half. If the numbers are even marriage will be soon. If a seed is cut in two there will be trouble in the course of love, and should two seeds be cut there will be early widowhood.

A Sicilian maiden throws the fruit from her window into the street and watches. Should it lie long without being picked up she will be widowed soon after marriage. Should it be picked up by a woman marriage will not be within the coming year, but should it be picked up by a man then she will be wedded before the next year is ended.

A Risky Place For Doctors.

Medical skill is at a father low ebb throughout Russia and not without cause. An American physician, tempted by the enormous fees so frequently paid by the nobility, went to St. Petersburg and within a year had a lucrative practice. Then he was called in to attend a baron who was suffering from lung trouble. The doctor gave his patient the best of care and skill, but the baron died, and the widow promptly sued the doctor for damages for unskilled treatment. The unlucky American was sentenced to pay a fine of 1,000 roubles and undergo an imprisonment of thirty days. Under the circumstances it is not surprising that the physician left Russia as soon as he got out of jail, and nothing could tempt him to return.

CHIEF RECEIVES ORDERS

Fire Chief Harry L. Waugh has received orders from the State Fire Warden's Department at Albany, to notify all users of steam boilers, whether for heating or power purposes, that they must file a certificate of inspection with the State Fire Warden at Albany at once. The inspection of reputable fire insurance companies will be accepted by the Department.

Upon failure to comply with this order, the State Inspector will make such inspection and his fee of $5 per inspection must be paid by the owner of the boiler.

DEMOCRATIC CLUB FORMED

Several weeks ago the Democrats in the city of Oswego who were offended at the alleged deals put up against their party last Fall, organized a club to be known as "The Regular Democratic Club." Mayor Fitzgibbons of Oswego became chairman of the club and Attorney Francis Cullen was active in its organization.

On Sunday members of the present club in Oswego came to Fulton and assisted in the organization of a club here which starts off in an enthusiastic manner.

Speeches were made during the afternoon by Mayor Fitzgibbons, Mr. O'Sullivan, Mr. O'Connor and Mr. Murray. All of them told of the advantage of such a club and insisted that it was not for the purpose ofknocking anyone, but rather for building up an organization. They made it plain that they should not try to embarrass Mayor-elect Boland. Similar clubs, it was stated, are to be formed in every election district in the county.

Fred. P. Crahan was elected permanent chairman of the Fulton club and F. W. Woodcock permanent secretary. Ward committees were named as follows:

First ward—J. M. Foster, James Carroll, John Crahan, Joseph Murphy and William Murphy.

Second Ward—John Mott, John O'Melia, John Bresnahan, Charles Dwyer and Martin Culkin.

Third Ward—Robert Dodge, John Harvey, John Sharp, Eugene Kimball and James Green.

Fourth Ward—Fred Easton, George Smith, James M. Caffrey, Francis O'Neil and L. C. Foster.

Fifth Ward—F. T. Watson, F. W. Woodcock, Alexander J. Young, Leon deLore and James Bane.

Sixth Ward—Joseph Newton, John Doyle, Irving Taylor, William Mahannah and John Cavanaugh.

The next meeting will be held Thursday evening in the Foster theatre block.

EXCELLENT HEALTH IN FULTON

Health Officer E. J. Cusack announced on Monday that there was not one case of contagious disease in Fulton reported at the present time. A condition most gratifying to the public and complimentary to the custodians of the public health.

The natural advantages and the healthful surroundings of Fulton should be strong factors in the growth of this city.

MAYOR-ELECT BOLAND'S OFFICIAL FAMILY

Before he takes his seat of office Mayor-elect Boland will accept the gratitude of the Times for his public spirited and pro-Fulton attitude in making the announcement of his probable appointments of member to compriee his official family for the coming term, to his own home papers before he gave them to the them to the out of town press. This is in line with Mr. Boland's attitude along many other lines and is to be commended. He is teaching a wholesome lesson to other of our citizens who rush first with their news to the out of town press and then ask that space be donated them by the local press whenever they may stand in need of assistance or defense.

The following well known citizens in both parties will in all probaility assist Mr. Bolland.

City Chamberlain, Fred A. Summerville.

City Clerk, J. C. Harrington.

City Attorney, George M. Fanning.

Commissioner of Charities, John B. Follan.

City Marshal, John W. Youngs; also janitor city hall.

Board of Governors, Lee Memorial Hospital, Dr. C. R. Lee, A. L. Warner, J. W. Rigley.

Commissioners of Deeds will be appointed later.

Board of Fire and Police Commissioners, W. H. White, J. L. Jones, Charles Brown.

It is expected that Daniel Hennessy will be appointed Superintendent of Public Works.

COUNTY HOME INSPECTED

The Board of Supervisors on Wednesday inspected the County Home at Mexico which Superintendent Stone so ably conducted for a term as to be re-elected this Fall to succeed himself.

Those present were Chairman Hamer, Clerk Mahaney, C. I. Miller, Surrogate; C. I. Kingsbury, superintendent of schools; supervisors, Terry, Hydorn, Jackson, Rounds, Comerford, Niles, W. M. Gallagher, Gaffney, W. M. Barker, Crimmins, Snow, Thompson, Buck, Stanton, Lockwood, Silver, Vincent and Sweetland; superintendent of the poor, C. A. Stone and Keeper Byron Shutts, W. A. Robbins and William Nacey.

The day was ideal for the trip and the inspection revealed a most satisfactory condition in and about the Home. Those present speaking in the highest terms of the efficiency of Superintendent and Mrs. Stone.

Following the inspection a turkey dinner was served the guests by Superintendent and Mrs. Stone and the guests presented the male inmates of the house with tobacco and cigars, and all of the inmates will oranges and confections. These yearly visits of the County officials are eagerly looked forward to by the inmates of the Home.

At the conclusion of the dinner Supervisor M. J. Terry of Richland was selected as toast master and he called upon the following for speeches: Surrogate Miller and Supervisors Gallagher and Rounds.

The recommendations made by the State inspector were considered informally and were generally approved A veranda around the building especially where the patients from the hospital might get air and recreation was favored, as were fire escapes and the removal of the wooden cells in the women's department. These cells were formerly used by insane patients.

REBEKAH'S BENEFIT SUCCESS

"The Day at the Ranch," presented in the Foster Theatre on Tuesday evening by local talent for the benefit of the Rebekah Lodge, I. O. O. F., was a success, the amateur performers taking their several parts like veterans at the business, and reflecting credit upon themselves and their instructors.

Among the performers and the parts they essayed were: B. G. Boigeol, H. D. Collins, Clarence Loyst, Grove Leymore, Parker Van Buren, John Rafferty, Charles Kempston, Clarence Thompson, and Lawrence Ranger to handle the heavy parts, while Howard Tracy, Sarah Scholz, James Blakman, Alta Dyer, Ella McDermott, Glen Quirk, Harry Nichols, Ruth Phelps, Theodore Campbell, Howard Ediey, Leona Joyce, Mary Morrison, Evelyn Waldhorn, Floyd Wright Thomas Fitzgeralds and Francis Hubbard appeared in black face.

A musical dancing skit was put on by Mae Baker, Ethel Knapp, Grace Rugg, Lois VanBuren, Ida Nichols, Ethel Downey, Naomi Wiborn, Freda Siler, Charlotte McKay, Anna Owens, Girt Worden and Dorothy Webara.

Neva Wafte and Clarence Taylor sang "Just We Two."

John Moore, Frank Bowman, Freeman Johnson and Russell Bush took the parts of cowboys and Hazel James, Lois Wellwood, Hester Wilcox and Esther Johnson took the parts of ranch girls. As riding girls May Burke, Beth Dix, Elizabeth Phelps, Mae Bidwell, Charlotte McKay, Anna Owens, Grace Rugg and Ethel Knapp appearing in the second part of the play.

Twelve schoolgirls took the part of schoolgirls on the stage. They are Dorothy Laferney, Helen Holsington, Dorothy Holsington, Vera Jennings, Mabel Newton, Anna Erhardt, Ruth Quirk, Lucy Mahannah, Catherine Otis, Edith Campbell, Mabel Bachan and Margaret Casselman.

Lucille Bowers, Millie Rolfe, Dorothy Rugg, Florence Moody and Hazel Bidwell assumed the role of Dutch girls. Mae Bidwel and Frank Martin as Jack and Jill caused much merriment.

The final song and dance of the play was entitled "By Wireless." It was presented by Helena Erhardt, Eva Wheeler, Mary Otis, Rosalia Nichols, Frank Martin, Vernon Jennings, Langford Holden and Leon Taggart.

The program in its entirety will be produced again this Wednesday evening and will be greeted by another crowded house.

UPHOLD PRESIDENT TAFT

Washington, Dec. 11—On the eve of the meeting of the Republican National Committee three Republican members of the House, from widely separated sections, advanced persuasive arguments tonight why President Taft should be renominated and re-elected. Their opinions are typical of those of the rank and file of the House, now fighting to uphold the hands of the President against Democratic opposition. If Congress will aid the President during this session, according to Representative S. W. McCall, of Massachusetts, his election is assured.

"President Taft richly deserves both renomination and re-election," said Mr. McCall. "His administration has been marked with courage and sincerity. He has dealt intelligently with the most important problems which the country recently has faced. The Mexican situation, for instance, might have involved the country in war had it been handled with less skill and less restrain than that employed by President Taft. His attitude toward Canada was dictated by the best interests of this country and also by a broad-minded regard for the prosperity of our nearest neighbor.

"Mr. Taft is adhering, resolutely to the principle that the tariff should be nothing more than a fair difference, between the cost of production at home and abroad. Undoubtedly if Congress supports him, we shall have a tariff that will accomplish that object as exactly as it can be devised. The President's peace treaties involved the most enlightened application of world politics which the country has ever witnessed. His appointments to the bench and to the highest tribunals in the land have been remarkably good."

TOTAL ENROLLMENT VERY LIGHT

Throughout the county and State, the total enrollment for the two ays was very light, approximately not over 10 per cent of the voters in all parties having enrolled.

The next duty of the Election officials will be to mail direct to every unenrolled elector, a bank which he must fill out and return to the officials before Jan. 1, or he will be disqualified for voting at the primaries in March, at which time delegates to the State convention and the several committees will be elected.

Either the electors of the county are not well informed regarding the provisions of the new primaries law, or they care too little for their right of franchise to place themselves in position to exercise it. Few, if any, of those who were the loudest in their demand for the direct primaries, have enrolled.

A Mere Chit

By WALLACE D. SAWYER

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Henry Martin and Fred Bradford were chums at school, chums at college and chums when they were middle aged. Henry Martin was a trifle the older. He had married very young, but had lost his wife, who left him with a little daughter. That daughter was now seventeen years old.

"Fred," said Martin one day, "I'm going away on a business trip. Millie will be under the care of the housekeeper during my absence, but she needs a certain attention that the old woman can't give her. The truth is, I am afraid of a youngster about Millie's age. Since I don't want my girl to be mixed up in any puppy love affair, I would like you to take her under your care."

Fred Bradford called the evening after his friend's departure, as he had told him he would, intending to remain but a few minutes, for he supposed he would find the little miss studying her lessons. What was his surprise to find her sitting in the drawing room waiting for him, decked out in the most dazzling finery she possessed.

"Papa has told me that you are to be my guardian for awhile," she said, "which is very nice. And I suppose the dear old stupid has instructed you to prevent my seeing anything of Benny Brenston. Just think of my being sweet on that kid. Why, he isn't six months older than I am."

"Then I suppose I'll have to watch you," said Bradford. "I shan't have to watch you."

"Watch me! More likely I'll have to watch you. Are you sure you've not got some affair on hand that you shouldn't have?"

She looked at him knowingly.

"Good gracious," he exclaimed mentally, "does Henry consider this girl a child? Instead of looking out for a boy lover I would better look out for myself. I'm afraid of all women, and one of these little imps is more capable of getting a man into trouble than a woman of thirty."

It's all very well for a man to say "beware" when one of the opposite sex is thrown suddenly in his path, but the trouble is to heed his own warnings. Mr. Bradford from the moment he entered the girl's presence felt as if a beautiful wasp with velvet stripes of yellow and black was buzzing about him trying to get an opportunity to sting him. Finally he arose to go.

"You don't need any attention from me," he said. "I'll tell your father when he returns that the next time he goes away he'd better put me in your care."

"And you're not coming to see me any more?"

"Why should I? You say your father is mistaken about this boy; therefore you don't need watching."

"Oh, don't come if you don't want to."

She tossed her head as if Mr. Bradford and she were lovers in a tiff. He said something in reply, but he didn't know what it was, and really he didn't intend to convey any especial idea.

The next afternoon, while looking out of his club window, who should pass but the girl he had promised to watch, driving an automobile, beside her the schoolboy whom Bradford had promised to keep away from her. As soon as he had dined Bradford went to see her, with the intention of giving her a good scolding.

"What do you mean," he said severely, "by driving with that boy?"

"Am I to have no attention whatever?" she asked, cocking her head on one side rebelliously. "You won't come to see me. I suppose I'll have to put up with a boy."

Bradford was in a quandary. He wished Martin would come home. "Will you promise," he said presently, "to let the boy alone if I come, say, twice a week while your father is away?"

"Why, certainly."

"On your honor?"

"Yes, on my honor."

"Very well. I'll do it."

He kept his word, and the girl kept hers. He spent two evenings a week with her, and, since her father remained away two months, by the time he returned Bradford didn't know whether he was on his head or his heels. One evening he lost his grip on himself and said some very sweet things to her. When he got outside the cool air sobered him, and he could have bitten off his tongue.

Finally his friend returned. Bradford called at his office to welcome him. Martin took him into his private office and shut the door.

"See here, Fred," said the latter, "what have you been turning my little girl's head for?"

"I turn her head?"

"Well, she tells me that you have been making love to her and she reciprocates. I don't mind the difference between your ages; but, you see, she has several years at school yet. I suppose you'll wait."

"Wait? Oh, yes; I'll wait—of course I'll wait."

"I'll have to restrict your calling to Friday and Saturday evenings. School takes up the rest."

"Certainly."

"Come around this evening and we'll talk it over. Of course I'm mighty well pleased at the match, you know."

"Of course; so am I. It's very jolly you and I being chums."

Bradford waited one year, then positively refused to wait any longer.

The Wonders of Color.

A small and simple experiment can be made by any reader which will go far to convince him or her what a debt we owe to color and what a good thing it is we have sunlight, which enables our eyes to take advantage of the beautiful hues of nature. Make a room quite dark and then burn some carbonate of soda in the flame of a bunsen gas burner. It will burn with an orange yellow light sufficiently strong to illuminate everything in the room, but you will realize with a sudden shock that, bright though the light is, all distinctions of color have vanished. Only light and shade remain. A crimson carnation, a blue violet, a red tablecloth, a yellow blind—all look gray or black or white. The faces of those present look positively repulsive, for all natural color has disappeared. No other experiment will so well convince those who have witnessed it how great a loss would be that of our sense for color.

Got a Free Lecture.

The agent for a handsomely illustrated book to be sold on long time credit—a feast to the intellect and an adornment to any library—leaned against the side of the house, caught his breath, clinched his fist and looked skyward.

"What's the matter?" asked a policeman.

"I've met the meanest man," he answered. "I've heard of him, and I've read about him in the papers, but I never expected to meet him face to face."

"Where is he?"

"Up in that building."

"How do you know he's the meanest man?"

"By the way he acted. I showed him this work of art, lectured on it for half an hour, pointed out the engravings, and when I hinted it would be a good thing to order what do you think he said?"

"I don't know."

"He said he never bought books, he didn't have to. He just waited for some idiot of an agent to come along and tell him all that was in 'em and turn over the leaves while he looked at the pictures. Nice, isn't it?"—Epworth Herald.

The Lerot and the Snake.

Every one has heard of the remarkable combats of the Indian mongoose with venomous snakes, in which little rikki-tikki-tavi comes off victor. The fact that the mongoose invariably survives has led to the suggestion that it is immune to snake poison. Other animals said to be immune are the pig and the hedgehog. The experiments of British naturalists show that an animal of the dormouse family must be added to the list of the immune. This animal is known as the lerot and is said to fight fiercely with vipers. Large doses of viper's poison were injected into one lerot, from which injection no ill effects followed. On one occasion a lerot was bitten badly in the eye by a viper, and no signs of poisoning occurred. There can, it is thought, be no doubt that the lerot is immune to snake poison.

The Long and the Short of It

By ROBERT DONNELL

HER'N HIS'N

THIS is the long and the short of it
(Isn't it really shocking?):
Santa Claus knows HE wears short hose,
While SHE wears a full length stocking.

So when the day approaches
Which once in a year is coming
The sly old saint (it would make you faint!)
Puts over this mental summing:

"She MUST have presents in plenty;
He CAN have very few,
For every one knows he wears a hose
That's scarcely as high as her shoe."

A Piscatorial Gunner.

The jaculator fish, the piscatorial gunner of the Javan lakes, uses his mouth as a squirt gun and is a marksman of no mean ability. Go to a small lake or pond filled with specimens of jaculators, place a stake or pole in the water with the end projecting from one to three feet above the surface, place a beetle or fly on top of the pole and await developments. Soon the water will be swarming with finny gunners, each anxious for a shot at the tender morsel which the experimenter has placed in full view. Presently one comes to the surface, steadily observes his prey and measures the distance. Instantly he screws his mouth into the funniest shapes imaginable, discharges a stream of water with precision equal to any sharpshooter and knocks the fly or beetle into the water, where he is instantly devoured by the successful Nimrod or some of his hungry horde. This sport may be kept up as long as the supply of beetles and flies holds out.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

If New Year's comes as late again
This year as it did last,
I don't believe I'll get to see
The end, when it goes past,
And when the new one starts to go
Across the calendar,
Last time I watched until I dreamed
I was a New Year's star.

Pa says there isn't anything
That folks can see or hear
When midnight comes and Father Time
Brings in another year,
But maybe he is fooling me.
Why do the people sing
And call it watch-night meeting, and
Why do the church bells ring?

Pa says they got the number of
The year by adding one
Each New Year's to the year before.
And when that year was done,
By adding on another, till
They piled it up to here.
It must have taken awful long
To count just once a year.

They tell me when I go to bed
The last December night,
I'll have to go without a meal
Until the next year's light.
Some people think they're awful smart.
But I know what they mean;
The next year has to be next day—
There's nothing in between.

A New Year's day's a happy time
For almost every one
It seems a sort of start of things,
With nothing quite begun,
And everybody's feeling young
And spry, just like a boy,
I hope your happy New Year will
Be spilling-full of joy.

TOMMY.

The New Year begins earliest on the 180th meridian, that is at the part of the world which lies exactly opposite Greenwich, on the magic line where sailors have to jump a day either forwards or backwards, according as they are sailing with or against the sun.

The earth rotates on its axis once every twenty-four hours, so that in the same period of time the sun apparently circles the earth. Supposing we travel around the earth in the same direction as the sun, and at a speed great enough to keep it in sight, then we get back to our starting point without once seeing a sunset, so that as far as we are concerned it is still the same day. As a matter of fact, it is exactly one day later. Even if you do not keep the sun over you on your voyage, it is apparent that you will reach your starting point with your calculations one day out, unless you have provided for this by striking out an extra day on the calendar. If you travel against the sun you will have to add a day to the calendar.

The convention that has been established with regard to this matter is to consider the day as beginning at the 180th meridian, so that the 181st meridian is always a day ahead of the 179th. As the day begins first at the 180th meridian, the New Year comes first at that point, too, being there twelve hours sooner than it comes at Greenwich.

New Year's Prayer for Women

By TEMPLE BAILEY

Grant that we may look forward and not back. Give to us memories only good of the past year and let the evil die.

In days of darkness and despair may we not cry out, but face the world bravely.

Link to our ideals of womanly sweetness and truth the strength which shall make them real.

Show us how we may be kind to other women, to those who have failed and fallen grant us the special grace of sympathy.

May we judge men not by trivial standards, but by the broader vision which shall give just due to their untiring efforts, their courage, their silent acceptance of the hard facts of life.

Help us to mother all little, lonely children.

If any we love have hurt us, let us love them still.

Give to us some work to which we may go gladly in the morning, and from which we may rest when the shadows of the evening fall.

And then, O Lord of All the World, and of All New Years, when Thou hast given to us these things which shall put us right with ourselves and with our fellowmen, grant to each of us, we beseech Thee, our moment of vivid ecstasy, our little share of human happiness, and, in the end, a quiet heart. Amen.

HOW SANTA KEEPS HIS WHISKERS CLEAN

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

SAYS Tiny Joe:
"I'd like to know
How Santy's whiskers look like snow
When he comes froo
The chimney flue
That's full of soot. Now, wouldn't you?"

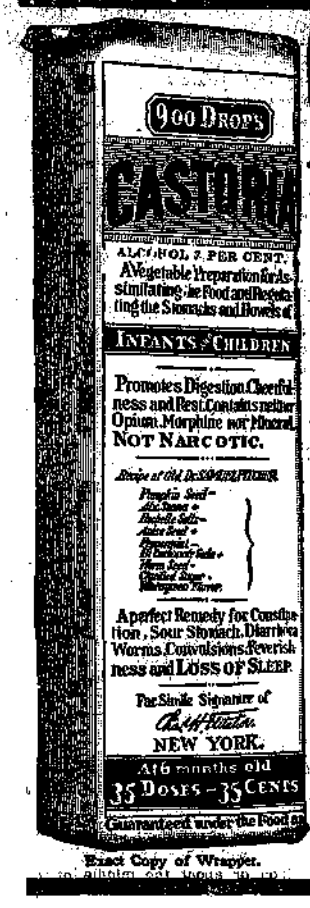
SAYS Dottie: "My!
That's easy as pie.
It's magic keeps him clean; that's why.
I know, betause
There never was
No soot 'ud stick to Santy Tlaus."

AS GOOD AS NEW

Old Year—Hello. What is that package you are carrying?

New Year—It contains the good resolutions that signalize my coming.

Old Year (exhibiting a similar package)—Huh! If you'd let me know I'd have lent you these. They're the ones I brought with me when I came, and nobody would keep them.



When in doubt I will believe the best of the other person. This is more easily corrected than the irreparable injury of misapplied censure and suspicion.

Love Philters.

A favorite plant with the old herbalist was satyrion, a name applied to several species of orchis. As far back as the days of the Roman empire it was commonly supposed that the roots of the satyrion supplied the satyrs with food and prompted them to commit those excesses for which they became proverbial. Kircher relates the case of a youth who, whenever he visited a certain corner of his garden, became so lovesick that he mentioned this strange circumstance to a friend. On examining the spot it was found to be overgrown with a species of satyrion, the odor of which alone had the effect of inspiring love.—Chambers' Journal.

FASHIONS IN DRESS ARE OUTRAGEOUS

Worse Than Tights Are the Diaphanous and Decollette Evening Costumes, Says a New York Censor.

New York, Dec. 11—Many New York women are wondering today whether their evening gowns would be marked "O K" if the advice of Mrs. Florence Clark Williams, director of the New York school of deportment and aesthetics, is followed and the city establishes a board of censors to pass on the morality of dress.

The fashions of the present day are degrading, says Mrs. Williams. "Clothes that in their making are simply outrageous are sold and worn. There is never a word uttered about the advisability of suppressing a certain style.

"Young society girls seem to lose all their modesty after marriage and parade in as few clothes as they can possibly wear and escape arrest.

"Why not have a board of censors appointed to force women to dress decently?

"For my part I would rather see a woman walk into a fashionable hotel clad in tights, than wearing such transparent clothes and such low cut bodices that there is little or nothing left to the imagination."

HOLIDAY SHOPPERS

Surge, surge, surge,
Through the crowded stores, O, see,
What a gang of the Christmas shoppers
Are out on their yearly spree.

O, well for the weary-eyed clerk
As she waits on the trade all day.
O, well for the late night hours
Ere the buyers go away.

And the merry crowds go on
Through the many stores,and leave
The most of their gifts unbought
Till the night of Christmas eve.

Surge, surge, surge,
Through the crowded stores, O, why.
Do they put it off till the last few hours
Before they go to buy?

George B. Staff from Life.

DO YOUR CHRISTMAS SHOPPING EARLY

You did it last year earlier than before. Do it early again.

It is better for you. You will be less crowded in the doing of it. You will have a better choice of the commodities that are offered and more time to make your selections.

It is a great deal better for the forces in the shops; the girls and men who wait on you, and deliver your purchases. The strain of the Christmas shopping on the shopgirls, in particular, is still very severe. Mitigate it, you who can, by every means in your power. Get your matters out of the way early. There will be many who won't, and a good many who can't, and the rush will be hard enough any way.

Do your Christmas shopping early. It is wise; it is thrifty, and it is kind. —Life.

HOLIDAY HINTS FROM POSTOFFICE

An Early Delivery of Seasonable Remembrances Assured If Suggestions are Observed.

Postmaster Hughes admonishes those who may be contemplating sending seasonable remembrances through the mails to father, mother, children and others, to dispatch the package at the earliest practicable moment. A label can be secured at our leading bookstore (Lashers') or others, reading, "Not to be opened until Christmas'," to place on the gift.

Do not fail to make the transportation of your gift safe by using wooden or metal boxes, if the article be fragile. The danger of damage or total destruction will be very much reduced if this were done.

Write the address in full on the box or package, also, your own address, with the word "from" attached. Your address should also be written on the inside, so that if the outer wrapping be destroyed your package will reach its destination in due time.

Do not use newspaper in which to wrap package, but a good quality of manilla, and tie with a strong cord.

If the foregoing instructions are observed the public will greatly assist postal employes in the care and prompt delivery of merchandise or articles of value entrusted to the Department.

BAPTISTS SECURE PASTOR

The Rev. B. J. Lehigh of Clayton has accepted a call to the vacant pastorate of the First Baptist church and he will enter upon his duties here on or about the middle of January. Mr. Lehigh's parishioners in Clayton were reluctant to permit him to leave but as the call to Fulton was in the nature of advancement, they permitted him to resign.

Mr. Lehigh is about 40-years of age, is married and has one child. The Watertown Times says in part of him: Rev. Mr. Lehigh is a well known Baptist minister of Jefferson county. Before going to the Baptist church at Clayton about five years ago he held a pastorate at Mannsville. He was at one time moderator of the Black River Baptist Association. He is a native of Brockville, Ont., is about 40 years of age and is a very forceful pulpit orator.

OSWEGO COUNTY ANGRY

Oswego county is suffering under the injustice of an additional sum of $3,000,000 being added by the Equalization Committee to Oswego county's burden of $34,015,906.15. The State Board added largely to the up-State counties and deducted as freely from the New York Counties.

There is a crying demand for representation on the part of Oswego county on the Board of Equalization.

JUDGE EMERSON APPOINTS SECRETARY

Watertown, Dec. 7—Justice-elect Edgar C. Emerson this afternoon announced that he had selected Miss Pauline Brown of Watertown as his private secretary. Miss Brown resides at the corner of Mill and Lynde streets and had been in the employ of the late Henry Cooke, County stenographer, until Mr. Cooke's death of heart failure a few days ago.

DEATHS

Loren P. Colwell, aged 85, died at his home in Third street on Tuesday. The funeral will be held from his late home on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. One son, Chester, of Minetto, and two daughters, Mrs. Phoebe Blogett and Mrs. Almeda Snyder of Fulton survive.

The death of B. G. Clapp, aged 78, for many years principal of the High school and Superintendent of Schools in this city, occurred at his home in New Jersey on Monday. The body will be brought to Phoenix on Thursday for interment. Beside the widow, the deceased is survived by one daughter, Miss Harriet Clapp, and one son, Raymond.

Chauncey Marvin, aged 62, died at his home on Monday from typhoid-pneumonia. The funeral services will be held from the late home on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, the Rev. Charles Olmstead officiating. Burial will be made in South Hannibal. The immediate survivors are the widow and two daughters, Mrs. Mary Hunter and Miss Blanche Marvin, all of Cato.

Mrs Eunice W. House, a life long resident of the town of Granby, died last week at her home at Lewis Corners. Mrs. House was eighty-six years of age. She is survived by one sister Mrs. Mary C. Lester of Syracuse, and four sons, Charles of Fulton, Sylvester of Memphis, N. Y., James of Syracuse and Frank House of Flint Mich. The funeral was held Monday at twelve o'clock from the house and at one o'clock from the Lewis Corners schoolhouse.

WHAT RED CROSS SEALS DO

Every seal that is sold is a real bullet in the fight against tuberculosis. These seals last year helped to support thousands of needy tuberculosis patients and to give them a chance for life. They provided for many visiting nurses, whose hundreds of thousands visits brought instruction and cheer to numerous patients. They helped maintain dispensaries in dozens of cities from the Atlantic to the Pacific, where many thousands of consumptive patients received treatment, aid and advice. They provided the means to purchase millions of reams of circulars, pamphlets and other literature, with which the public has been educated about tuberculosis. They have established and helped to maintain more than 40 open air schools for the children who needed open air treatment. These are just a few of the ways in which the $300,000 received last year was expended. This year a million dollars is needed. Surely anyone can help by buying at least ten seals.

When your feet are wet and cold, and your body chilled through and through from exposure, take a big dose of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, bathe your feet in hot water before going to bed, and you are almost certain to ward off a severe cold. For sale by all druggists.

MILK SUPPLY PURE

Inspector of Meat and Milk Kennedy in his annual report to the Board of Health last week gave a most favorable report on the conditions attendant upon the meat and milk business in Fulton. Dr. Kennedy said in part: "Milk and meat have been uniformly and without exception up to the standard all during the year in Fulton.

"Of 200 samples of milk taken at random from dealers all were found to possess over 3 per cent. butter fat and to be free from adulterations. All the 560 cows pasturing within the city limits were examined for tuberculosis and found to be immune.

"Of 200 inspections of markets not one was found not complying with the exacting hygienic laws of the state. Out of 34 carcasses of beef ostensibly ready for consumption, Dr. Kennedy found only seven that he deemed unfit for food. The carcasses on eight pigs were condemned and disposed of.

The record for condemnations was the lowest in four years in Fulton. There were eighty-four complaints about milk dealers received and twenty four regarding milk. Dr. Kennedy gave all the complaints his personal attention. Many of them were found baseless. He reported that there are eight dealers supplying Fulton with milk and two milk depots, with dairies he found to number 31. Dr. Kennedy remarked to the board that most of the leaders kept the milk far above the standard. Many had a mark of over 70 for excellence of their supply and some reached 90.

The low infant illness and death rate which Fulton has compared with many other cities of the state, was probably due to the excellence of the milk supply. The board accepted Dr. Kennedy's report.

CONTRACTORS AWARDED WORK

Barge canal cnotract No. 10, covering work on lock No. 2, near the Broadway bridge and 2,000 feet south, was let Saturday to T. A. Gillespie & Company of New York for $106,370. The contracts extends down to the limits of contract No. 39, which the J. A. Stewart company is executing. The principal work in the new contract is excavating. It is figured that there will be much rock, necessitating a large amount of blasting.

The lowest bid was $3,070 above what City Engineer Hackett figured the work could be done for.

A Prayer for the New Year

ETERNAL God, in whom is the hope of all our years, remember us in Thy mercy also in this new year of our Lord. Reveal Thy glory in the experience of its joys and sorrows. Forestall its tears with the abiding comfort of Thy presence. Make us strong rightly to measure all our gains and to endure with patience every loss Thy love allows. Show us Thy meaning in the gifts and opportunities of each new day. Assure us of Thy help in labor, Thy delight in our joys. Quicken our minds to clear vision and our hearts to cheerful content. Provide for our bodies such vigor as shall be needful for our allotted work. We leave to Thee the mystery of the year's events, assured that Thou wilt guide our way. Withhold from us all gifts which would prevent Thy purpose for our growth in wisdom and in service. Only deny us not Thyself—Thy Spirit to instruct our hearts, Thy work to share, Thy peace to still our restlessness, Thy presence to resolve our doubts. In the sifting of temptation grant that our faith fail not, and when our years are ended bring us to Thyself, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

June 18 Has Been Selected to Formulate Plans for Campaign of 1912—Chicago Chosen as Convention City.

Washington, Dec. 12—With little trace of friction, the Republican National Committee met here today and formulated the preliminary plans for the campaign of 1912. The program agreed upon was carried out expeditiously in two short sessions, aggregating barely more than two hours.

Chicago was chosen as the convention city and the call was issued for the assembling of delegates on Tuesday, June 18, to nominate candidates for President and Vice President.

Acting Chairman John F. Hill, former governor of Maine, was unanimously elected chairman of the committee after the acceptance of the resignation of Postmaster General Hitchcock, which went into effect on April 1, 1909. William Hayward of Nebraska was elected secretary to serve until the new national committee is organized in Chicago in June.

RED CROSS SEAD JOTTINGS

Spencer H. Miller, a ten year old boy of Meriden, Conn., has sold, single-handed, 50,000 Red Cross Seals, establishing a record for individual sales.

Prizes valued at over $100,000 are being given in various parts of the country for selling Red Cross Seals. These prizes consist of vacuum cleaners, pianos, drinking fountains, books and a variety of other articles down to a button bearing the Red Cross Seal.

Ohio is planning to sell 5,000,000 seals; New York City, 3,000,000; Brooklyn, 1,000,000; "up-state" New York, 3,000,000; Wisconsin, 3,000,000; Illinois, 3,000,000; and several other states are planning to sell large amounts.

Red Cross Seals will be sold this year in Rhode Island by ten automatic vending machines. To get a seal one must drop a penny in the slot.

MARRIED

Announcement was made on Tuesday of the marriage of Miss Lura Lawrence and Mr. Frank Mathias, the ceremony having taken place in the early Spring.

Miss Hazel M. Costello and Mr. Ernest L. Peayer of Constantia were united in marriage by the Rev. F. A. Miller on Tuesday. The young couple will reside in Constantia after the bridal trip.

Miss Matie Tilden, of Stop 28, and Mr. Irving Waite of Phoenix were united in marriage in Baldwinsville last week Tuesday. The marriage was a surprise to their friends although it was expected during the Holidays. After a honeymoon spent in New York city they will reside in Volney.

WHERE RED CROSS SEALS ARE SOLD

With the exception of Florida, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Idaho, Utah, and Nevada, Red Cross Seals are on sale in one or more cities of every state in the Union, and also in Porto Rico and the Canal Zone. In most of the states, the sale has been organized in every city, village and hamlet. Every conceivable method of conveyance is being employed in shipping the seals from the various state headquarters to local agents, from the ox-team in Alabama and Mississippi, and the pack-burro in Colorado, to the express train and the automobile in New York. These holiday seals are even being sold in mountain hamlets, where the snow will prevent the receipt of returns for months after the first of the year.

CHILDREN'S CHRISTMAS PAGE

BABY'S FIRST CHRISTMAS.

WHAT? Do I like Christmas? Don't I know what Christmas is? Of course I can't talk---not yet, but I'll talk next Christmas and show all you little folks who can talk that I just love Christmas same as you do. And I love Santa Claus too. Maybe you think I don't know who Santa Claus is. He's the big man with the long white whiskers and hair, with the great big sack full of goodies hanging down his back. When I get big enough to write I'll send him a letter, but for my first Christmas all I want is a new rubber rattle and a clean rag dolly. That's all for baby—this time.

Polly Bassett's Christmas Tree

by Louise G. Irwin

[Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.]

POLLY BASSETT stood at the window, gazing tearfully out into the night. It was a beautiful world, but she was so disappointed that it was difficult to follow Uncle Tom's advice and "keep a stiff upper lip." For the first time since she could remember she would have to spend Christmas without her father and mother. They had started, it is true, in time to join their little daughter before the holidays at Uncle Tom's and Aunt Ellen's, where Polly was spending the winter vacation. But an unusual fall of snow had stalled their train.

Polly felt so homesick, however, that she decided not to trim the little tree which was braced up in the room behind her. She gazed dolefully out over the snow covered meadows and watched the lights that appeared, one after another, in the neighboring houses. In the nearest house lived the Pratts, a large family of happy boys and girls. Farther off, at the foot of a little hill, was the Edwards cottage, the home of the village postman, his wife and their two boys. They were all recovering from heavy colds and had not been out for several days.

Polly thought how cheerless their home was compared with other homes, for Mrs. Edwards was an invalid, and the two boys were too young to help much about the house, while their father when he returned at night was too tired to do anything except eat his supper and go to bed. A stunted fir tree grew in their yard. Polly noticed how its icy covering sparkled in the bright moonlight. Suddenly she left the window.

"Oh, Aunt Ellen," she exclaimed, "I have just thought of the loveliest plan!"

"What is it, dearie?" asked Aunt Ellen, looking up from her sewing.

"I want to give the Edwardses a Christmas tree."

"My dear child, of course you can. I'll ask Uncle Tom to carry the tree down, and you can take the trim"—

"But," excitedly interrupted Polly, "I don't want my tree. They have one of their own."

"The Edwardses?"

"Yes, auntie—the dwarf fir in their yard. It's just beautiful tonight with all the sparkly snow on it. I'll stop for the Pratts and get them to help."

"You dear child," again exclaimed her aunt, "run right along. Your own things for the tree are in that box, and here are your mittens."

"Yes, Auntie," answered Polly. She buttoned up her warm coat, fastened her hood and in a few minutes was knocking at the door of the house across the road.

The entire Pratt family welcomed her boisterously, inviting her to help eat the candy and popcorn balls they had just been making.

"No, thank you," she said, her eyes sparkling with fun, "but will you please do up my share and put it on my sled?"

"What for?"

"What—have you got on it already?"

"Isn't it a cold night for a picnic?"

"Where are you going?"

These and many other questions were asked her in quick succession.

When she told them her plan they were delighted, and, while suggestions flew from one to another, deft fingers did up many parcels of different shapes and sizes. In an hour, dragging their well filled sleds, they started on their happy errand.

They were so excited that at first they could not lower their voices, but when they began to decorate the little tree that stood so alone, dressed in its mantle of ice and snow, they quite forgot to talk. Their busy fingers absorbed all their attention, and when their task was completed they stood in an almost awed silence looking at the transformed tree. A number of lighted candles twinkled from among the branches. Big oranges, bright red apples and huge bunches of white grapes hung in profusion. Gay cornucopias filled to overflowing, grotesque gingerbread figures and generous popcorn balls hung there, while yards of silver and gilt tinsel and various ornaments helped to perfect the whole. Several books and two pairs of skates were put near a warm shawl and a stout pair of boots at the base of the tree, and a beautiful silver and gauze star was fastened to the top branch.

"That is just the finishing touch," whispered Polly, "and now we'll call them."

She started to tap on the window, but a man came in from the road just then and motioned her to wait.

"Oh," she exclaimed, "it is Uncle Tom with his violin! He is going to play."

He stood near the tree, the children gathered around him, and when he began to play "God Rest Ye, Merry Gentlemen," their glad voices rang out on the clear, frosty air. The first words were scarcely sung before the shade at the little window was drawn aside and the boys appeared. Then their father and mother came and opened the window. They all gazed in dumb amazement.

When the last strains of music died away there was deep silence. The loving, tender spirit of Christmas had entered into the heart of each, and no one spoke. Then the delighted children at the window shouted for joy.

A very tired but a very happy little girl tumbled off her sled and, taking the rope from her uncle's hand, followed him through the gate up to the door.

HE BEGAN TO PLAY "GOD REST YE, MERRY GENTLEMEN"

"Oh, I have had the nicest Christmas!" she said.

"Even without your father and mother?"

"It would have been just perfect if they had been here," she replied.

"We are here," called out a welcome voice. The door was hastily thrown open, and Polly saw her father and mother.

"Oh!" she gasped.

"They dug us out sooner than we expected," her father explained, "and we managed to get here in time for Christmas after all."

"And now it is the happiest Christmas!" cried Polly as she put her arms around her mother's neck.

CHRISTMAS PUDDING RECIPE

By JULIA D. COWLES

FLOUR from the wheatfields
And eggs from the nest,
Milk from old Bossie,
Our cow, and the best;

LEMONS from Frisco
And spice from Ceylon,
Raisins and currants
From far Oregon,

CITRON from Florida,
Down in the south;
Sugar from Mexico,
Melts in your mouth.

MIX all together,
And what do they give?
A Christmas plum pudding,
As sure as you live!

Tommy Was Logical.

Uncle Bob came home the night before Christmas with a toy acrobat that would turn over and over on the floor after it had been wound up. Tommy was deeply interested in the trinket, and he expressed unbounded admiration for it. He did not ask for it outright, but he went so far as to say, "What are you going to do with it, Uncle Bob?"

The next morning Tommy was delighted to find a toy acrobat in his stocking. He wound it, and it was soon tumbling about on the floor, while Tommy watched it with great joy.

"It is just like the one Uncle Bob had," said his sister.

"Yes," replied Tommy, "and I think it is the same one. Now, if Uncle Bob has his this morning then this one was given to me by Santa Claus. If Uncle Bob hasn't got his then he gave it to me and there is no Santa Claus. I am going to find out whether you folks have been fibbing to me or not."

A Disbeliever.

"Papa," said seven-year-old Annie, "Tommy is an infidel."

"An infidel?" said papa. "What is an infidel?"

"Why, he—he does not believe in Santa Claus."

Darn Your Stockings.

Santa Claus won't guarantee gifts to stay in stockings with holes in toe or heel. A word to the wise at this season is sufficient.

Poetry.

Poetry is the record of the best and happiest moments of the happiest and best minds.—Shelley.

An Explanation.

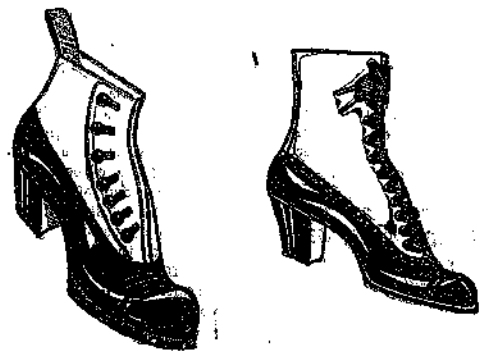
"Your nephew is a college graduate, isn't he?"

"Yes," confessed honest Farmer Hornbeak, "but in justice to the college I'll own up that he had no sense beforehand."—Woman's Home Companion.

Prison Laundry.

"All arrivals are washed," explained the warden of the prison.

"And if they kick up a fuss?"



"Then they are ironed."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

CIVIL WAR ECHOES

A War by Boys

Chicago Evening oPst:

We forget that the civil war was waged for the most part by mere boys. Of the 2,278,588 who enlisted on the union side, practically all were boys. The 118,000 of this number who were over 21 years of age form but a fractional part of the enormous total of 2,250,000. A million of this total were, at enlistment, between 18 and 21. About 300,000 were 18 years old. About 600,000 were 17 and some 100,000 from 14 to 15 years old. Three hundred were 13, 225 were 12, 38 were 11, and there were 25 who were only 10 years of age at the time of enlistment. The figures on the southern side would probably show a yet earlier average age.

As far as my experience and observation extended commissioned officers that influenced and led these boys away from good homes and dow into the deadly climate of the South land, the majority didnt' stay with them, or set them good examples. Our Colonel promised to stay with us, and be a father to us, but left us in six months. Dr. Alfred Rice of Hannibal proved to be the true father of the one hundred tenth regiment. I think he was the only original staff officer that remained with us the three years. He is the brother of Arvin Rice of this city.

WINS FIGHT FOR LIFE

It was a long and bloody battle for life that was waged by James B. Merchon, of Newark, N. J., of which he writes: "I had lost much blood from lung hemorrhages, and was very weak and rundown. For eight months I was unable to work. Death seemed close on my heels, when I began three weeks ago, to use Dr. King's New Discovery. But it has helped me greatly. It is doing all that you claim." For weak, sore lungs, obstinate coughs, stubborn colds, hoarseness, la grippe, asthma, hay fever or any throat and lung trouble its supreme. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. uGaranteed by the Red Cross Pharmacy.

COUNTY ATTORNEY ENTERTAINS

County Attorney H. D. Coville was host to a number of his friends on the Board of Supervisors at dinner in Oswego on Thursday evening. Mr. Coville is one of the best liked of the county officials and his reappointment was a matter of pride and satisfaction throughout the county.

Resolution Adopted December 9, 1911, By the Fulton Committee on the Prevention of Tuberculosis.

Whereas, In December, 1910, the Board of Supervisors of Oswego County voted to establish a county hospital for tuberculosis and a committee was appointed to secure a suitable site and

Whereas, In April, 1911, the board voted to establish the hospital in the town of Orwell, and

Whereas, No steps have been taken by the board or by its committee to select a site in Orwell and as it stands now the proposition to build a hospital seems side tracked, and

Whereas, Seventy-one persons die from tuberculosis in Oswego County annually according to the average of the past ten years and it is reasonable to believe that seventy-one more persons will die this year and every year until hospital care is given to the tuberculosis sick —these latter facts proving beyond doubt that a tuberculosis hospital is absolutely necessary in Oswego County, therefore, be it

Resolved, That it is the unanimous sense of the Fulton Committee for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis that the Board of Supervisors of Oswego County should fix and determine upon a site for a tuberculosis hospital at the present session of the Board, and be it further

Resolved, That copies of these resolutions be forwarded to the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors for presentation to that body and published in the local papers of Fulton and Oswego and presented to the Fulton Chamber of Commerce with the request that similar action relative to the tuberculosis hospital be taken by that body.

Signed, H. L. Paddock, President. E. A. Gladman, Secretary.

Many sufferers from nasal catarrh say they get splendid results by using an atomizer. For their benefit we prepare Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Except that it is liquid it is in all respects like the healing, helpful, pain-allaying Cream Balm that the public has been familiar with for years. No cocaine nor other dangerous drug in it. The soothing spray is a remedy that relieves at once. All druggists, 75c., including spraying tube, or mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren Street, New York.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

Christian Science services are held Sunday mornings at 10:45 o'clock and Wednesday evenings at 8 o'clock at the Universalist church, First and Rochester streets. The public is cordially invited to attend these services.

Sunday school at 12 o'clock, m., to which all under twenty years of age are invited.

It was New Year's night. An aged man was standing by the window. He mournfully raised his eyes toward the deep blue sky, where the stars were floating like white lilies on the surface of a clear, calm lake. Then he cast them on the earth, where few more helpless beings than himself were moving toward their inevitable goal—the tomb. Already he had passed sixty of the stages which lead to it, and he had brought from his journey nothing but errors and remorse. His health was destroyed, his mind unfurnished, his heart sorrowful, and his old age devoid of comfort.

The days of his youth rose up in a vision before him, and he recalled the solemn moment when his father had placed him at the entrance of two roads, one leading into a peaceful, sunny land, covered with a fertile harvest, and resounding with soft, sweet songs; while the other conducted the wanderer into a deep, dark cave, whence there was no issue, where poison flowed instead of water, and where serpents hissed and crawled.

He looked toward the sky, and cried out in his anguish: "Oh, youth, return! O my father, place me once more at the crossway of life, that I may choose the better road!" But the days of his youth had passed away, and his parents were with the departed. He saw wandering lights float over dark marshes, and then disappear. "Such," he said, "were the days of my wasted life!" He saw a star shoot from heaven, and vanish in darkness athwart the churchyard. "Behold an emblem of myself!" he exclaimed; and the sharp arrows of unavailing remorse struck him to the heart.

Then he remembered his early companions, who had entered life with him, but who having trod the paths of virtue and industry, were now happy and honored on this New Year's night. The clock in the high church tower struck, and the sound, falling on his ear, recalled the many tokens of the love of his parents for him; the prayers they had offered up in his behalf. Overwhelmed with shame and grief, he dared no longer look toward that heaven where they dwelt. His darkened eyes dropped tears, and with one despairing effort he cried aloud, "Come back, my early days! Come back!"

And his youth did return; for all this had been but a dream, visiting his slumbers on New Year's night. He was still young, his errors only were no dream. He thanked God fervently that time was still his own; that he had not yet entered the deep, dark cavern, but he was free to tread the road leading to the peaceful land where sunny harvests wave.

Ye who still linger on the threshold of life, doubting which path to choose, remember that when years shall be passed, and your feet shall stumble on the dark mountain, you will cry bitterly, but cry in vain. "O youth, return! Oh, give me back my early days!"—Jean Paul Richter.

Origin of New Year Gifts

Like the customs of Christmas, which, in their origin, are a curious mixture of poetry and symbolism and of superstition, those that belong to the observance of New Year's day are also relics of ideas that date from early heathen ages. The French derive their term for New Year presents from the Latin word, Strenia, the name of a goddess whom the Romans venerated as the patroness of gifts. There was a grove in Rome dedicated to this goddess, where it was customary to get fresh twigs, to give as presents to friends and relatives on New Year's day. During the sway of the emperors, Roman subjects made New Year's gifts their sovereign. Augustus received such quantities of these that he had gold and silver statues made of them. Tiberius did away with the usage, because he considered it too troublesome to express thanks for the gifts. Caligula, on the contrary, reintroduced the custom, and even made up for his predecessor's refusal to receive presents by requiring those that had been offered to him to be given to himself as arrearages. The custom of making New Year's gifts, notwithstanding attempts to suppress it, was continued after Europe had become Christian. For a time present making was transferred to Easter, but later it was again associated with the first day of January.

Maud Oudekirk; conductor, Mrs. Stella Davis; guard, Mrs. Ada Parker.

Five delegates and five alternates were named for the convention of the central body in June. The delegates chosen are Mrs. Myrtle Summerville, Miss Eva Palmer, Mrs. Stella Rowlee, Mrs. Slauson and Mrs. Perine. The alternates are Mrs. Jessie Waugh, Mrs Clara Lewis Mrs. Dora Drury, Mrs. Stella Davis and Mrs. Hattie Wolever.

Mrs. Tallman has been an officer in the organization ever since she became identified with it eleven years ago.

Mrs. Mary J. Harper is the retiring and very efficient president.

SOME RED CROSS SEAL FIGURES

Few people have any conception of the magnitude of the Red Cross Christmas Seal Campaign. The following figures will show what a gigantic movement this is. Already 85,000,000 seals have been printed, and practically that entire number distributed to agents. Probably 15,000,000 more will be needed. Advertising circulars, posters, cards, etc., to the number of several million have also been distributed. It is estimated that the army of paid and volunteer workers engaged in selling the seals will number over 100,000. The advertising and publicity donated to the campaign will amount to several hundred thousand dollars. Every effort is being put forth to sell 100,000,000 seals, or about one for every man, woman and child in the United States.

TO SUPPLY POWER FROM FALLS

The utilization of the proposed Salmon river power to supply many of the towns and villages of Oswego County with electric light and power is indicated in the certificate filed in the County Clerk's office at Oswego on Monday in which the company is given enlarged powers and authority to supply heat, light and power to Pulaski, Mexico, Altmar Parish, Central Square and Hannibal and in the towns of Richland, Albion, Orwell, Redfield, Parish, Mexico, Hastings, Palermo, Schroeppel, Volney, Granby, Hannibal

The company is now controlled by the Niagara power interests, 90 shares of the stock having been issued. Fred D. Corey, president of the company, owns 49 shares, John J. Albright also of Buffalo, 39 shares; H. E. Nichols, 1 share and J. Townley, 1 share.

THE "TEN DEMANDMENTS"

For gross wordly wisdom it would be difficult to surpass the "Ten Demandments" hanging in one of the many salmon canneries at Stevenson, in western Canada:

1. Don't lie. It wastes my time and yours. I am sure to catch you in the end, and that is the wrong end.

2. Watch your work, not the clock. A long day's work makes a long day short; and a short day's work makes my face long.

3. Give me more than I expect, and I will give you more than you expect. I can afford to increase your pay if you increase my profits.

4. You owe so much to yourself you cannot afford to owe anybody else. Keep out of debt, or keep out of my shops.

5. Dishonesty is never an accident. Good men, like good women, never see temptation when they meet it.

C. H. David G. E. Mason
David & Mason Fire Insurance
Representing Old, Reliable Companies
55 North First Street Phone 119

6. Mind your own business and in time you'll have a business of your own to mind.

7. Don't do anything here which hurts your self-respect. An employee who is willing to steal for me is willing to steal from me.

8. It is none of my business what you do at night. But if dissipation affects what you do the next day, and you do half as much I demand, you'll last half as long as you hoped.

9. Don't tell me what I'd like to hear, but what I ought to hear. I don't want a valet for my vanity, but one for my dollars.

10. Don't kick if I kick. If you're worth while correcting you're worth while keeping. I don't waste time cutting specks out of rotten apples.

IN SURROGATE'S COURT

Limited letters of administration on the estate of Louis Laprade, who was killed at the plant of the American Woolen company in Fulton November 20, were asked for on Monday by Joseph Gaff, of Tupper Lake, guardian of decedent's oldest sister, Mary L. Laprade. The estate consists of $104 personal property and a cause of action against the company. Miller & Matteson, Syracuse, are the attorneys.

ANNUAL MEETING

Notice is hereby given that the annual meeting of the First National Bank, Fulton, N. Y., for the election of directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of other appropriate business, will be held at the rooms of said bank, on Tuesday, January 9, 1912, at 3:30 o'clock p. m. Polls will remain open one half hour.

L. C. Foster, Cashier.
Dated December 13, 1911.

MANUFACTURERS ARE OPPOSED

The New York Central Railroad company is desirous of purchasing the Ontario & Western, and an application has been filed with the Public Service Commission for authority to purchase the capital stock.

The local manufacturers are bitterly opposed to the absorbing of one road by the other. The consummation of the deal will prevent the healthy competition that now exists between the common carriers through this city and will bring transportation rates higher. The local business men will take the matter up with the Commission, and will file their reasons for the opposition.

Figures that brought no pride,
Yet are the kids supplied;
So let us sing.—Life.

SPECIAL CHURCH PROGRAMS FOR CHRISTMAS

First Methodist Episcopal Church

A Christmas entertainment for the entire Sunday school, church and congregation, will be held Friday evening of this week, Dec. 22. There will be something of a novelty in the way of a program. Each Sunday school class is to furnish a special number, the nature of which is not to be revealed until the evening of the entertainment. One interesting feature will be the bringing forward and presentation of special gifts by representatives of the various classes as the roll is called. The character of the gift of each class is also to be a surprise to the rest. The purpose of the gifts is to carry Christmas cheer to less favored families among us. Mrs. T. A. Brown, deaconess, is to have charge of their distribution.

The Primary Department in charge of Mrs. L. F. Joy and her force of assistants, are to have their Christmas tree and exercises Saturday afternoon, Dec. 23, at four o'clock.

MANUFACTURES IN FULTON

City Has 45 Industrial Plants With $11,033,000 Capital Invested and 2,799 Wage Earners.

Washington—A preliminary statement of the general results of the Thirteenth United States Census of Manufactures of the City of Fulton N. Y., has been issued by Census Director Durand. It was prepared under the direction of William M. Steuart, chief statistician for manufactures, Bureau of the Census.

There were 45 establishments in 1909, and the value of their products was $7,867,000. The value of products represents their selling value or price at the plants as actually turned out by the factories during the census year, and does not necessarily have any relation to the amount of sales for that year. The values under this head also include the amount received for work done on materials furnished by others.

Further details, drawn from the summary, follow: Number of establishments 45; capital invested $11,033,000; cost of materials used, $4,867,000; salaries and wages, $1,547,000; miscellaneous expense, $812,000; value of products, $7,867,000; value added by manufacture (products less costs of materials), $3,012,000; number of salaried officials and clerks, 181; and average number of wage earners employed during year, 2,799.—Financial American.

CHRISTMAS MAIL DELIVERY

The Postoffice will be open on Sunday, Dec. 24, from 9 to 10:30 a. m., for the delivery of first, second and third class mail. The entire force of carriers and clerks will be on duty at that time, and the carriers' and general delivery windows will be open during the hours named for the convenience of those choosing to call for mail.

The station (west side) will also be open on the same date, from 12 to 1 p. m.

William E. Hughes, P. M.

BUSINESS INCREASE AT POSTOFFICE

It is pleasant to note that business at the Postoffice is having a steady growth, reflecting, as no other interest can, the industrial and commercial prosperity of our city A comparative table is herewith presented, showing a substantial increase in receipts over the same time last year. The period is from Dec. 1 to 15, inclusive:

	No. orders	Am't.	Fees
Dec. 15, '11	937	$7,021.49	$57.93
Dec. 15, '10	768	5,545.56	46.96
Increase over 1910	169	$1,475.93	$10.97

POSTOFFICE BUSINESS

To those who have some curiosity as to the extent of the money order business done at the local post office during the past thirteen days. Postmaster Hughes reports the total amount received on money order account for the period named was $4,482.added to which was $39.67 in fees, and the season thus far has not been unusually brisk, either.

When you have a cold get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will soon fix you all right and will ward off any tendency toward pneumonia. This remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. Sold by all druggists.

MARRIED

Chief Clerk Anthony J. Oliver of H. P. Burgard's office, and Miss Fannie B. Fradis, stole a march on their friends and were married Tuesday morning at six o'clock by Rev. John S. Lindsman at the Church of Immaculate Conception. Miss Frade is the daughter of William Fradis of New York city, Mr. Oliver is also of New York city and it was there three years ago that the young couple met. The bride has been stopping at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thompson of the West River Road for about two months during which time she has made many friends here. The groom is a son of former Assistant District Attorney F. V. S. Oliver of New York city and a nephew of the late Assemblyman James Oliver. The groom's brother F. V. S. Oliver, Jr., is private secretary to United States Senator O'Gorman The groom came here last May with H. P. Burgard, who has Barge Canal contract No. 37. He has been identified in politics himself having been elected a delegate to the County Convention at Pulaski where he was spokesman for the Fulton delegation. He also made the nominating speech for Orin, S. Bogardus for Sheriff. In the City Convention he made a splendid speech nominating John E. Boland for Mayor of Fulton that pleased everybody and he has been called to attend all the party conferences held since. The bride and groom have been kept busy acknowledging congratulations and well wishes from New York city where both were well known. Mr. and Mrs. Oliver will make their home at apartments in the Lewis House for the Winter.

DOUBLE WEDDING

This Wednesday the home of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Sheldon, will be the scene of a double wedding when the Rev. F. A. Miller will unite in marriage Mr. William Rowe, Jr., and Miss Grace Nimet, and Mr. Alonzo Joselyn and Miss Rachael Rowe. The young couples will reside in this city at the termination of the bridal trip.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH XMAS

At the morning service next Sunday the pastor will preach on "The the pastor will preach on "The Christmas Manifestation," and there will be special Christmas music by the choir.

In the evening the usual Christian Endeavor meeting will be omitted and at seven o'clock a chorus of twenty-five voices will render the cantata, "The Hope of the World," by P. A. Schnecker. They will be assisted by the organ, piano, cornet, and alto horn. The soloists will be Mrs. W. H. Barrett and Miss Florence Newell. The male choruses and ladies trio are especially effective. This exercise takes the place of the Christmas music usually given by the Sunday school. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

In place of the Christmas tree which has been held in former years for the Sunday school there will be a Christmas party in the church vestry next Wednesday afternoon. The members of the primary department are requested to come at 3 o'clock and the older boys and girls at 5. Supper will be served to all the children at 5 o'clock and the intermediate department are invited to remain after supper for their social hour. Early in January at the time of the annual meeting a banquet will be served for the church and adult members of the Sunday school.

JUDGE HUBBS APPOINTS SECRETARY

Justice-elect Irving G. Hubbs, has announced that he will appoint E. H. Bennett, of Pulaski, N. Y., his confidential clerk. Mr. Bennett is a young lawyer who is well equipped for the position. He is a graduate of Pulaski Academy, Hamilton College, and the Albany Law school. He was admitted to the bar about three years ago. He is also a first-class stenographer, and was at one time managing clerk for the law firm of Cobb and Cosgrove, at Watertown, N. Y.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

FULTON DENTIST GOES TO SYRACUSE

Prominent Resident Leaves for Wider Field—Will Take up Special Lines of Work—His Removal Deeply Regretted.

Dr. G. A. Guile, D. D. S., informed the Times on Monday, in reply to an inquiry, that on and after Jan. 1, 1912 he would be located in offices in Syracuse for the practice of his profession, being associated with Dr. E. R. White, president of the Syracuse Dental Society. This announcement will bring more than passing regret to Dr. Guile's many friends and large clientile in this vicinity. His conscientious work and his sanitary and very modern methods have impressed the residents so favorably that his removal comes in the nature of a personal loss, not only to the individual but to the community as well.

The removal of his office to that city is no new idea of Dr. Guile's as he has been registered in Syracuse at 213 James street since Dec. 19, 1902, and has been a member of the Syracuse Dental Society for several years.

Dr. Guile established an office in this city 20 years ago, having graduated with honor from the University of Pennsylvania in the class of 1889. Naturally studious and of scientific inclination, has has advanced along the preferred lines in his profession until he now chooses to take up the specialties exclusively, crown and bridge work. This splendid opportunity came to him unsought and it was too excellent to be turned away. Dr. Guile has enjoyed his work in Fulton and will, for a time at least, reside here, making daily trips to and from the city. He has selected a suite of five offices in the central section of the city which are being fitted up to his taste and which will be occupied by Drs. Guile and White. A lady assistant will be present at all times and as soon as the offices are ready for occupancy the street number and telephone call will be made public for the benefit of Dr. Guiles' friends and patrons in this city.

The Times congratulates Syracuse upon the acquisition of Dr. Guile and congratulates him that he is to go to a wider field of usefulness. That he will be successful beyond his highest hopes is prophesied.

MR. HACKETT CALLED TO UTICA

The many friends in this city of City Engineer G. W. Hackett, will learn with pleasure that he has been called to accept the position of city engineer in the city of his nativity, Utica, at a salary of $3,500 per year.

Mr. Hackett has made a satisfactory, competent and popular official and his friends and associates will regret the removal of himself and wife from Fulton, but as the removal is in the line of promotion they can but congratulate him. Under his decisions during the past two years the grades have been established right and all of his work has given the highest satisfaction.

It is expected that Mr. Clayton Hill, son of Mr. W. F. Hill, will succeed Mr. Hackett as city engineer of Fulton.

"COPEY" OF HARVARD.

The Idol of the Students, Whom He Bullies and Charms by Turns.

Assistant Professor of English Charles T. Copeland is known as "Copey" by the university and by hundreds of Harvard graduates, and the nickname shows how much he is loved. But there is no one of the teaching force more feared and respected than he.

If you want further proof go to the Union, the great university clubhouse, some night when Copeland reads aloud.

The dining room is crowded with "sports," "grinds," athletes, dilettanti—two or three hundred of them—the most representative crowd ever gathered at Harvard except for a football game.

They greet him as they would greet one of their classmates suddenly become famous or a newly elected class officer, as some one friendly and particularly of themselves. When he reads they are unconscious of anything else. Kipling, Bret Harte, Shakespeare, Burns, Conrad, Hardy, the Bible, Boswell—they will take anything he gives them and ask for more.

Yet he has a wonderful gift of knowing what will please the fellows. Sometimes he will read something of his own about great men he has known or studied or a Christmas sermon or sometimes he just talks.

In between he scolds his audience, bullies them, shames them for their ignorance, tells them that they ought to read, grumbles at the light or the stuffiness of the room with such drollness of phrase, such sympathy with youth, that they love it all.—American Magazine.

WATER POWER.

Its Wonderful Possibilities For the Generation of Electricity.

While the hydroelectric source of power is still in the beginning of its development, such is the number of natural sites available that no calculation can be accurately made as to the extent to which it will be installed throughout the United States for industries, illumination and other purposes.

We have fairly accurate knowledge of the principal water power sites through the investigation of the geological survey and hydrographic experts. It has been estimated by Professor W. C. Unwin that the total available water power in the United States is more than 30,000,000 horsepower and that this can be increased to 150,000,000 horsepower by storage reservoirs. It is estimated that the difference in cost of steam power and water power is $10 per horsepower per year at the minimum. Thus the manufacturing regions of the southern states alone, which are depending on steam instead of water power, would save $30,000,000 per year.

The development of the water power at Niagara indicates the possibilities of the manufacture of electricity. The power that Niagara might generate is estimated by Professor Unwin at 7,000,000 horsepower. The same authority estimates that there is fully 2,000,000 horsepower available on the upper Mississippi, while the southern Appalachian region can furnish a minimum of 3,000,000 horsepower.—Cassier's Magazine.

New Views of Mars.

Remarkable photographs of the planet Mars have been taken by M. Tikhoff, states the Gazette of the Russian observatory at Pulkovo. The superior definition of the new photographs is due to the use of improved plates and colored screens, which have enabled the astronomer to obtain fine contrasts in his pictures. The best photographs of the "canals" of Mars were taken through red and orange screens, and from these, it is claimed, it would appear that the "canals" are filled with water or at any rate something which has a sea green color. Further studies of a similar kind in connection with the polar cap indicate that ice is present there and not snow.

Modern Fame.

Fame for a singer begins from the moment he sings into a gramophone. The most famous actor today is, of course, Sir Herbert Tree, whose fame began not with being knighted, but when first he acted to the bioscope as Cardinal Wolsey. The highest fame of all is to be a wax figure in the collection of Mme. Tussaud.—London Saturday Review.

The evening school opened again this winter in the Phillips street building on October 30, with Erwin W. Cole, Elizabeth Sadler and Zita M. Dwyer as teachers. 73 pupils were in attendance during the month of November as follows: 57 Poles, 12 Italians, 3 Austrians, 1 Greek, 1 Croatian. As the average attendance for November was only 31.1, the services of one teacher, Miss Dwyer, were dispensed with after November 24th. The chief purpose of this night school is to give instruction to foreigners who expect to become citizens of this country. During the past year 28 of the 49 cities maintained night schools similar to ours. The expense is borne wholly by the city but the Commissioner of Education has recommended that State funds in support of these schools be authorized.

Comparisons from the Annual Reports of 1905 and 1911.

The following statistics taken from the Superintendent's report for 1905 and from this report, show the steady growth of the school system:

	Dec. '05	Dec. '11
Number of high school pupils	142	294
Whole number of pupils in schools	1,664	1,907
Number of high school teachers	8	13
Whole number of teachers in the schools	48	55

Grade Libraries

The grade libraries were started six years ago and each year books have been added to them. These libraries have proven of great value, as they furnish graded literature and reference books suitable to the different grades and high school. The board, during the past year, spent $325.74, for this purpose. Of the above amount the State paid $139.76 I recommend that $200 be used during the coming year for grade library books, reference books and supplementary readers.

Manual Training and Domestic Science

Instruction in manual training for the boys and domestic science for the girls in the upper grades and a course along these lines in the high school, has been, or is being, gradually adopted in most of the cities of the State. The matter should receive careful consideration at the hands of the Board of Education and it's adoption secured as soon as conditions will possibly permit. The use of raffia in making baskets, mats, etc., some wood work, and sewing by the girls in the grades under the charge of our supervisor of drawing is receiving attention in our schools.

High School

There are at present in the high school 294 students, and the following are preparing to try the final examinations for a preliminary certificate in January:

Phillips street school	17 pupils
State street school	15 pupils
Eighth grade, Fourth street school	19 pupils
Pre-academic room, Fourth street school	46 pupils
Total	97 pupils

It is probable from the above 80 more students will be added to the high school after the January promotions making 374. The demand for a new high school building becomes more imperative each year.

The Talley Seminary and Oak Street Propositions

The propositions submitted to tax-payers on November 7, to purchase the Talley Seminary property and to erect a new building at Oak street were voted down—the former by a vote of 271 to 620 and the latter by a vote of 429 to 462. This adverse vote does not appear to me to involve a lack of desire on the part of the people to properly provide for the public schools, but comes from a conflict of opinions as to the best course to pursue. If this analysis is correct, would it not be a good plan for each ward to select two representive citizens who with the Board of Education would form a committee to investigate and consider every phase of the question and recommend to tax-payers the right thing to do for the best interests of the schools and the city?

Buildings

The Fourth street, Phillips street and State street buildings are in excellent condition and repair each being equipped with modern systems of heating, ventilating and toilets, a new furnace, however, is needed at Phillips street. The Rochester street building is heated by hot air furnaces and has no toilet room for the boys. There are three rooms in this building and at present 119 pupils. There are two rooms in the Walradt street building one of which is used for primary children (first and second grades) living north of the D. L. & W. tracks. The room is heated by a stove and the building has outside closets. The Oak street building is very unsatisfactory. All of the six rooms in the building are now in use, accommodating at present 239 pupils. The closets are on the outside of the building and are unsanitary.

Teachers' Salaries

The following schedule of salaries which has been used by the Board of Education for th epast six years with slight modifications has worked out well, but does not compare favorably with the salaries paid by a large majority of the cities in the State. The result is that each year many of our best teachers leave us to accept more lucrative positions. Sixteen new teachers were appointed by the Board to fill vacancies at the opening of school in September, 1909; seventeen in 1910; and fifteen in 1911. This is too many, particularly as we often have to appoint Normal graduates without experience in teaching.

Schedule of Salaries

	Min.	Max.	Yearly Increase
First and fifth grades, inclusive	$425	$525	$25
Sixth and eighth grades, inclusive	450	550	25
High School	600	800	50

Purchases for Schools

Under the supervision of Miss Osborne, former principal of State street school, entertainments were held last year and the proceeds used for the purchase of a piano for that school. This piano is nearly paid for.

This year Principal Wilcox of the high school secured Mr. George C. Williams of Ithaca, N. Y., President of the New York State Association of Elocutionists, for an evening recital under the auspices of the High School Athletic Association. $50 from the net proceeds were used as the first payment upon a piano for the high school assembly room.

$60 from the proceeds of the commencement exercises held last June were used for the purchase of casts and pedestals for same for the high school. Each has the inscription "Presented by the Class of 1911." The casts purchased were: Statue of Lincoln, Statue of Goethe, Bust of Augustus Caesar.

Our High School Rating at the Regents Office

A report from the official records in the Education Department at Albany concerning the results of the Regents examinations last June shows that in the per cent of papers claimed, rated, and accepted by the Department our high school ranks third in the State. Considering that there are 709 high schools, 176 academies, and 20 registered academic schools—a total of 905 schools—counted, we feel quite proud of this record made by our high school teachers and students.

MERCHANTS INSTALL BRILLIANT GAS LIGHTS

Celebrate Opening of "Great White Way" with Big Motor Parade

"The Great White Way," that is the new name of that section of Grand River avenue from Woodward to Cass avenue,and it blazed forth in all its glory of brilliant, dazzling light when Mayor Thompson turned on the first cluster of four late Saturday afternoon. A moment later the other 156 spread their radiance through the air amidst the cheers of all the merchants in that section of the city.

The Mayor proved himself an expert lamp lighter. He had a long staff of wood painted a brilliant red with a gay ribbon of the same color tied about. The official ceremonies were held in front of the Griswold house. The Northwestern Business Men's association have installed similar gas lights in their section and as many of the merchants all along the avenue have expressed themselves as favorably disposed to a better lighting system for the street. It is certain that within a comparatively short time the avenue will be ablaze from one end to the other.

The new lights are a great improvement on the electric lights of the city. They burn with a clear steady radiance that makes the avenue light as day and it is believed that they will be the medium of drawing a large number of persons to the street the merchants of which declare that they can sell the same goods as Woodard avenue merchants at lower prices because of their lower rents.

Anyhow the lights have their attraction for people as was proven Saturday night. The unusual radiance drew hundreds from the adjoining streets, all eager to see the new system, and congratulate the progressive bousiness men behind the movement. — From the Detroit Journal Dec. 4, 1911.

The quicker a cold is gotten rid of the less the danger from pneumonia and other serious diseases. Mr. B. W. L. Hall, of Waverly, Va., says: "I firmly believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be absolutely the best preparation on the market for colds. I have recommended it to my friends and they all agree with me." For sale by all druggists.

THE LOG OF MY HOWARD

The makers of the well known "Howard" watch have issued a little brochure in which the writer, Charles D. Sigsbee, Rear Admiral, retired, U. S. N., tells the fortune of a watch he procured forty-two years ago and which has done service on eighteen vessels of the U. S. Navy sailing over three oceans and many seas. He writes: "In 1868 I fell overboard from a boat; during the struggle to regain my position the works of my watch were filled with salt water. I rinsed them out with fresh water and later had them cleaned by a jeweler. Long afterwards it was used as the standard timepiece by which the navigator's sextant expressed the time, the latitude and longitude of the ship were found. A second immersion in salt water occurred in 1873, twenty years before the Maine was destroyed; as before, I washed the works in fresh water and filled them with kerosene oil to prevent rusting until I could reach a jeweler, after which my watch did good service. While lying in Havana Harbor on the night of February 15, 1898, I was writing in my cabin with my watch lying on a berth in my state room when the shock came so suddenly there was no time to gather up watch and other possessions, all of which were carried down with the ship, remaining down for five days, when a navy diver recovered the watch together with much private correspondence. For the third time I caused my "Howard" to be thoroughly cleaned, repolished and put in complete running order and today I am wearing my much prized watch after forty-two years of navy duty, it showing no sign of being damaged from the unnatural treatment it has received.

The reading of this story reminded the writer that fifty years ago, in the early sixties, in connection with Samuel F. Casé and E. J. Carington was placed an order with Jeweler C. R. Nichols for three "best Howard movements" and allowing him to furnish such cases as each might desire. During the half century the writer can testify that small expense has been required to keep at least one of the Howard movements running in accurate time with no seeming desire to stop or rest.

Conclusion

The death of Miss Mary I. Blackstock, head of the Latin department in our high school occurred November 18. She had been a teacher in the high school for over six years. She was a strong teacher and able disciplinarian. Her loss is greatly felt.

Eighteen new teachers commenced work in our schools in September—fifteen filling vacancies and three new positions. In the main they are doing good work but some of the teachers who came to us directly from Normal schools without previous experience in teaching fail to secure the results which good experienced teachers would secure. All are faithful and earnest, however, and this usually brings, with experience, successful results.

If concentrated effort is made during the coming year to formulate plans which will provide for the future needs of our school system, I am sure that the school year will be a profitable and satisfactory one.

In conclusion I desire to express my keen appreciation of the cordial support and considerate treatment always given me by the Board of Education in administrating the affairs of the schools under their control.

Respectfully submitted,

J. R. FAIRGRIEVE,
Superintendent of Schools.

PARTIZAN ACTIVITY PROHIBITED

Philadelphia, Dec. 15.—All persons in the employ of the Federal government guilty of violating the civil service law should be punished "promptly, impartially and with just severity," was the declaration contained in resolutions adopted at the closing session here today of the annual convention of the National Civil Service Reform League. The resolutions among other things say:

The League further urges that like penalties be inflicted upon any Executive Federal office holder, whether his position be competitive or non-competitive, classified or unclassified, who shall use his office to control political movements, neglect his public duties to engage in politics, or cause scandal by his political activity in violation of the orders of Presidents Cleveland and Roosevelt.

Moreover, the league recommends that the rule prohibiting any partisan activity be at once extended to all Federal officeholders whose political opinions cannot properly affect their official duties .

Peace and Good Will

Christmas awakens the strongest and most heartfelt associations among the civilized nations of the earth. The commemoration recalls the beautiful story of the origin of our faith and the pastoral scenes that accompanied its announcement. This is made the season for the gathering together of family connections and the drawing closer again those bands of kindred hearts which the cares and pleasures and sorrows of the world are continually endeavoring to cast loose; of calling back the children of a family who have launched forth in life and wandered widely asunder once more to assemble about the paternal hearth—that rallying place of the affections— there to grow young and enthusiastic again among the endearing mementoes of childhood; the season for kindling the genial flame of charity in the heart.

To each one of our readers we hope that "peace and good will" will turn the various and varied incidents of life into melody and beauty and that they will enjoy a pleasant Christmas and a happy and prosperous New Year.

Collapse of a Presidential Boom

It seems strange that after all the tinkling brass and sounding of cymbals announcing the aspirations of Senator LaFollette to succeed President Taft as Chief Executive of the nation, his candidacy was never mentioned at the recent meeting of the Republican National Committee, so it is fair to presume that his Presidential boom will not cause any farther anxiety on the part of the "regulars." A Washington dispatch, referring to the destruction of the "tender infant" states:

Not one member of the national committee had the courage, even if any had the desire, to announce himself as a promoter of the boom of the Wisconsinite, and even when the President, with that whole-souled hospitality which is one of his chief characteristics, invited the manager of the LaFollette campaign to the dinner at the White House he, Mr. Houser, did not have the courage to respond to the raillery aimed at him and admit that he took seriously the Presidential aspirations of the Wisconsin Senator. When asked what he thought of the La Follette boom, one of the members of the national committee said: "Why, I never heard of it. What are you talking about?" And when it was explained to him that the Senator from Wisconsin, with the able assistance of Gifford Pinchot and James R. Garfield, was nourishing a tender little boomlet, the committeeman, offered to bet a large sum that its only reason for being was a desire to enhance the price of La Follette lectures on the Chautauqua circuit.

Financial and commercial circles of the country have awaited, with considerable interest, the President's message, and the tariff measure has now been presented for their consideration. A message has also been sent to Congress, dealing with questions affecting the various Federal departments, included in which is the subject of monetary reform. The foregoing will probably embrace every thing in the line of prospective legislation until after the Holiday season, when the report of the Secretary of the Interior and other important departments will be included in a message to Congress by President Taft when active legislative proceedings are resumed.

It might be of some interest to our home capitalists to learn that a total of $1,071 has been received at the Postal Savings Bank since the beginning of business, Oct. 25, up to and including Nov. 16. It is only fair to presume that most of this money, if not all, has been brought from obscure recesses and entrusted to "Uncle Sam" for safe keeping.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. Herbert Coe continues to gain in the Troy hospital.

Justice-elect Hubbs has requested the Board of Supervisors to provide chambers for him in Oswego. A special committee is now looking for suitable rooms to be used for this purpose.

During Sunday night the A. Z. Welever department store in Cayuga street was broken into by burglars. The glass in a door had been broken and the lock picked. Nothing of value was taken.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Young of Clifford and Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Moor and son of Palermo, were the over-Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Merriam. Mr. and Mrs. Young have gone to Syracuse to spend the severe Winter months.

Dr. Richard H. Hutchings, medical superintendent of the St. Lawrence hospital, who has been critically ill for the past four weeks, is somewhat improved in health and his family and friends have hopes for his ultimate recovery.

The merchants on the north side of Oneida street are planning to follow the example of their neighbors on the opposite side of the street and install ornamental boulevard lights in front of their stores. H. Sadelmyer, and trustee, Mrs. Emma Bellows.

Charles A. Gilkey was on Tuesday re-elected worshipful master of Hiram Lodge, F. and A. M. He and the other officers were installed by Past Master William H. Hornibrook. Other officers elected were: Senior warden, Edward P. Cole; junior warden, Frank A. Rumsey; senior deacon, Amos Beadle; junior deacon, A. M. Hurd; secretary, Frank W. Richardson; treasurer, Howard M. Morlin trustee, Thomas H. Marvin.

President E. J. Penfield of the Chamber of Commerce has announced that at the annual meeting of the organization to be held in January, steps will probably be taken to secure permanent rooms for the Chamber. The membership has now reached 200 and the success of its work seems to warrant some such positive step being taken. Mr. Penfield has expressed his unwillingness for several reasons to accepting re-election to the presidency of the order and Mr. E. R. Redhead's name has been prominently mentioned as qualified to fill the office acceptably.

Among the college students who are returning to their homes to enliven the city for the Holidays are the Misses Barbara F. Gilbert, Wheaton seminary; Verna Hunter, Wellesley; Zulma Allen, Bradford Academy; Emma Crockett, Northfield; Helen O'Brien, Elizabeth Convent; Imogene Padock, Dana; Antionette Hill, Wells, and Messrs. Fay Newton, Williams; Ronald Allen, Harvard; Charles O'Brien, Everett Wettengal, Boston Teck; Clare and Clement Wadsworth, Syracuse University; Bruce Steele, Northfield; Carlysle Hunter, Yale; Ernest Pollard, Cornell. The advance guard has already arrived and the others will reach Fulton by Thursday evening.

Observer: The Fulton Times comes out this week with 24 pages, the finest pre-Christmas edition ever turned out from the Times plant. * * Mr. William Murphy and wife now occupy their handsome new residence on Hannibal street which is perhaps the prettiest residence on the street. It is fitted with hot water for heating purposes has electricity for lighting and gas for culinary purposes. Hardwood floors are laid throughout and hard wood was entirely used for finishing. Mr. Wells Hannum was the master builder and he certainly has done a good job in the construction of this handsome residence. * * Out of about 4,000 barrels of apples grown by the Hunter brothers on their Sterling farm they have only 400 barrels unsold, that amount being in cold storage in New York. They have about thirty acres devoted to apple orchards.

A PLACE FOR JUDGE REEVES

It is understood in Watertown that George W. Reeves will be appointed by Governor Dix as County Judge to serve until January 1,1913, succeeding Judge Emerson, who goes on the Supreme Court bench.

DEATHS

Mrs. Jane Prime died at Lafarge on Friday. Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Prime of this city attended the funeral.

Myrtle, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Jennings died at the home in West First street on Saturday. The funeral and burial on Monday afternoon.

The death of Mrs. Maggie Baxter, of Fine, aged 69, occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William June, in Sixth street on Monday. Burial will be made in Fine. The immediate survivors are two daughters and four sons.

Willard Johnson, for 49 years a resident of this city, died in the hospital on Thursday after a brief illness with pneumonia. The funeral services were held from the E. S. Brown undertaking parlors on Saturday. A widow and two sisters survive.

The many friends of Hon. W. B. Baker of Gloversville will sympathize with him in the double affliction he has sustained in the death within three weeks of both parents, his mother having died on Saturday as the result of a stroke of apoplexy sustained that day.

William Ryan, of Syracuse, for 22-years a New York Central engineer running between Syracuse and Oswego, died in the hospital in this city last week after having been stricken with apoplexy in his cab as he was bringing a passenger train to this city on Friday. His fireman saw him fall; went to his assistance and brought the train safely to Fulton where Ryan was removed to the hospital. The fireman then carried the train to Syracuse.

MALICIOUS MISCHIEF

Two children whose parents reside on the West side, were discovered lighting matches and placing them in a letter box on the corner of West Boardway and Second street. The boys had not reached an age when they could be personally held to a strict accountability for their act and Postmaster Hughes asked Chief Ross to summon their parents and give them a heart-to-heart talk on the enormity of the offense their boys had committed. This was complied with and it is fair to presume no further trouble will be experienced. The penitentiary confronts anyone who has reached the age of accountability committing such a malicious act.

CURRENT EVENTS CLUB

On the recommendation of the Cent Events club met with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hunter.

On the recomendation of the Executive Committee, Miss Ada Thayer and Arthur G. Gilbert were elected to membership in the club.

Mrs. Thomas Hunter opened the evening's program with a pleasing piano solo and encore.

Rev. George W. Wellburn spoke on foreign affairs, discussing England's position in regard to Persia and English policy in the occupancy of India. Mr. Wellburn also touched briefly on the present political situation in England.

Following Mr. Wellburn's talk, Mrs. Hunter and Miss Anita Hunter favored the club with an organ and piano duet.

Prof. Wilcox spoke on a number of current topics, commenting on the trouble with Russia over the repeal of the treaty of 1832; the growing power of woman's sufferage in the western states; the proposed railroad across Africa and other topics of interest.

After a brief discussion of matters brought up by the leaders the club adjourned to meet again on Jan. 8, at the home of Hon. and Mrs. S. B. Mead.

VOLNEY

Mr. James Vant is on the sick list.

Miss Anna Jewett has closed her school for two week's vacation.

Mr. Louis Cornish has returned home after several weeks with friends in Buffalo and Attica.

CONGRESSMAN MOTT'S BILL

Brief Synopsis of Unfair Measure as Applied to Paper Manufacturers—Congressman Mott Supported and Approved for His Urgent Support of Home Industries—Free Pulp and Paper Clause Should be Repealed.

Congressman Luther W. Mott has introduced a bill in the House of Representatives repealing the free pulp and paper clause of the recent Tariff Act. The general public is unfamiliar with the details and the Times, applauding Congressman Mott's heroic stand, is glad to throw some light on the subject.

President Taft's Canadian Reciprocity Measure was designed to take effect at such time as Canada passed a bill granting certain reciprocal favors to the United States. Sandwiched into the Taft measure, however, was a clause providing for the immediate free admission of pulp and paper from Canada regardless of any favors from the Dominion in return. Even if Canada refused our country's favorable advances her pulp and paper would thus come into the United States free of duty.

The measure passed our Congress; was signed by the President, but Canada voted down the bill. The whole matter fell through, except the free pulp and paper clause which we had thus presented to Canada without reciprocation. Considerable feeling has developed, and Mr. Mott, very properly we believe, has introduced a bill calling for the repeal of the free pulp and paper clause. The Times hopes it will speedily become law.

Fulton is vitally interested in the prosperity of her pulp and paper mills. Fultonians have every reason to be proud of the standing of their city among the paper making centers of the world. Free paper from Canada, and incidentally from Germany, Norway and Sweden, would bring dull times to the Fulton mills and throw at least some of them entirely out of business.

The Watertown Standard comments on the situation as follows: "The paper industry and agriculture along the Canadian border will not share in the development the President's policies will bring about until the Canadian reciprocity pact is repealed by Congress. The rejection of the agreement by Canada furnishes a patriotic as well as a sensational reason for this action. It is humiliating to Americans that a rejected trade measure is still binding upon this country and available to the Dominion should it change its mind. The rejection of the pact emphasizes the humility of this government in making a concession to a neighbor who declined to reciprocate in trade.

"The free entry of Canadian print paper and wood pulp as a concession at once attracts the attention of the paper makers of Germany, Norway and Sweden who through their governments are clamoring for equal privileges under the favored nation clause of their treaties. This competition was not thought of when Congress passed the pact. If there were no reciprocity legislation on our books an undisguised effort to open our print paper and pulp markets to Canada and the rest of the world without charge or compensation would never have a chance of passage. It could be shown to the satisfaction of the rankest free trader that the day Europe was given our markets, every sulphite mill in the country would be put out of business. Competition with Canada was not welcomed by American Paper manufacturers, but it didn't spell absolute ruin. A part of the Canadian labor received as high a wage as this country pays; but through juggling of rates permitted by the Canadian government the rates to New York from Montreal are as low as from American paper shipping points and our manufacturers must pay freight charges on the wood. European competition means going up against the European wage scale and transportation so cheap it isn't worth considering.

"The paper making industry is an important branch of American activity. The investment is very large the greater volume of securities being owned by plain, thrifty citizens. Thousands of men are employed in the mills and the auxiliary lines of business furnish employment for thousands more. Millions were invested in this business, because of confidence in the stability of the policy of Protection. The business world has faith that this shall be the policy of the country as long as the Republican party remains in power. Protection is not for the favored few, but for all.

"The paper trade faces a situation today which is not even as fair as free trade. While manufacturers must compete with the world on the finished product, they must pay duty on the chemicals and other ingredients used in paper making. Just exactly what economic term describes this sort of a tariff is unknown to paper makers.

"It is un-American to continue upon our statute books an offer declined and a concession based upon the acceptance of that offer. It is unfair to an industry that under a Protective system it is singled out for free trade in its product, while it pays duty on its raw materials. It is but fair that paper industry have the Tariff Board's information followed in fixing the tariff upon its product. If this scientific method is fair and just why not let the paper industry come under its wing?"

Every loyal citizen of these United States should support Congressman Mott in this matter. Strenuous effort should be put forth in the fight to save for our country the wonderful paper making industry we have created at the cost of so much labor, the expenditure of such vast capital, and the bitter sacrifice of human energy.

Write to your Congressman and write to your friends all over the country that they may set their members of Congress right in this matter.

Interviews with the different paper manufacturers in Fulton have proven to the Times that the necessity for the repeal of the free clause is great.

Mr. T. H. Webb, for the Eureka Paper Company, urges the Times to speak in the strongest terms of the unfairness of the existence of the one clause in an otherwise dead bill and commends Congressman Mott for his action in behalf of his constituents in this district, one of the strongest paper making districts in the United States.

President E. R. Redhead of the Victoria Paper Mills Company appreciates fully the seriousness of the situation but is relying upon Congressman Mott's influence and the co-operation of the President, to save to the United States its millions of invested capital and to thousands of workingmen their fair wages and constant employment.

President H. L. Paddock of the Oswego Falls Pulp & Paper Company says: "If section Two of the Reciprocity Bill continues in force it means that the paper industry of the United States will be seriously menaced by the competition of free wood pulp and print paper not only from Canada but also from the paper producing countries of Europe and all the world. Canada can produce paper much cheaper than we can because the raw material costs considerably less, while out-going freight rates from Canada on the finished product are practically the same as from Northern New York."

Mr. J. H. Howe, treasurer of the Granby Pulp & Paper Company says: "We believe that the Mott Bill asking for the repeal of the Reciprocity Act between the United States and Canada should be passed by Congress because it calls for a simple act of justice to one of the largest manufacturing interests in this country. We as paper manufacturers ask to be treated in the same manner as it is proposed to treat the Woolen industry that is for the President to have the report of his Tariff Board and base his revision of the Tariff on wool and woolen cloths on this report. Why is it not fair and just to the paper industry to base the tariff on Pulp and Paper on the report of this same commission?"

Lack of time alone prevented expressions from the other paper manufacturers in this city and Phoenix.

MRS. LEE GENEROUS TO BABY

Mrs. Albert Lindley Lee, the generous donor of the hospital to this city, read in the Fulton Times of two weeks ago that a son had been born to Mr. and Mrs. Perle Inman in the hospital and that the babe had had been named Albert Lee Inman, after General Lee. A few days later Mr. H. L. Paddock, vice president of the Board of Governors of the Albert Lindley Lee Memorial hospital, received a letter from Mrs. Lee, containing the following clause: "I hope the little boy named after my husand is doing well, as well as his mother. They have given him the name of a good man. I enclose you a check for $100.00 and hope you will deposit it in the bank in his name. If his father will add something to it every month and let the interest accumulate for twenty years, he will have a nice little fortune."

Mr. Paddock has presented the delighted parents with the generous gift from Mrs. Lee.

DEMOCRATS HOLD STORMY SESSION

Wednesday afternoon the Democratic County Committee held a session in Oswego and the way the members present "sassed" each other was a rare lesson in pretty politics. The Bulger and the Fitzgibbons contingents present came together with a clash and the lie was passed and repassed adding to the intensity of feeling which has existed between the two fractions for some time. Perhaps there was more or less truth spoken by all sides and that did not tend to soften the blows.

After the preliminary scrapping Mr. Fred M. Moore became the choice of a large majority for the county chairmanship, over James Grey of Parish.

WATERTOWN BIDDER LOW

The lowest bid for the construction of the section of the proposed Broadway bridge which the city must pay for was submitted Monday to the Board of Public Works by Lew B. Cleveland a Watertown contractor.

His bid was $125,735 for all construction, except the pavement over the bridge, and $2 a square yard for the pavement. He agreed to reduce his bid by $12,000 in the event he should be awarded the part of the bridge work to be undertaken at the expense of the state.

EMPIRE THEATRE, SYRACUSE

Being a butterfly and regarding as the most serious things of life a new hat or a just imported gown, these are some of the ideas that prompted Porter Emerson Browne, an observing and brainful writer, to make a play called, "The Spendthrift". He wrote it and Frederic Thompson gave it an immediate production. Sometimes people like to see themselves as others see them and for twenty two weeks the largest audiences the Hudson Theatre had ever known(and women predominated) was the result of its New York run. The play comes to the Empire Theatre the latter half of this week,when it will be presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, with matinee Saturday, with the orginal production.

For this tour the strongest acting company that could be selected has been given to the cast of this play, which for a matter of fact, requires more individual work than any play that has been presented in years. The cast here will include Fanny Ward, Lionel Adams, Edwin Holland, Sumner Gard, Guy D'Ennery, Alice Kel, Kate Jepson and Eleanor Woodruff.

In "The Spendthrift" the author takes up the most vital question of the home. He deals boldly with wifely extravagence, the social duties that mean the neglect of husband,and he also takes a good sized view of race suicide. His principal characters are a hard working broker who is making money. He has a home and a wife but they exist in name only. He has longings that his wife does not or will not understand. To her the babies of the drawing room, the frou-frous of society, are the all absorbing things of life. He toils and earns, but her expenditures never leave him a balance. Suddenly there comes a crisis. She is head over heels in debt and he is faltering under the increased burdens of wifely expenditures. In desperation the wife seeks out a man friend for help. He is a member of the society to which she belongs but to the world which knows his reputation is that of a roue'. In her dilemma he loans her money. The husband becoming apprised of this begins to suspect. Finally he decides upon a plan that will not only tell him what course to pursue in the future but may teach the wife a lesson. At midnight after she has retired he makes her go to the telephone and summons to her boudoir this man who has aided her with money. He comes to the room and the husband is there to confront them both. Here the author brings in the great big moment of his play and out of the ordeal comes a transformation in the wife. Mr. Browne ends play happily but does it in an unconventional way.

ANNUAL MEETING

New ork Horticultural Society Will Be Held in Rochester January 24, 25 and 26.

The annual meeting of the Western New York Horticultural Society, the fifty-seventh in the history of the organization, will take place in Rochester, anuary 24, 25 and 26, three days instead of two as formerly .It is promised that the programme will not be a whit behind any of its predecessors in its practical educational features. Prominent men connected with the fruit industry have been secured as speakers,Illinois, Michigan and New Jersey being represented, in addition to which some of the leading men on the staffs of the Geneva Experiment Station and of the New York College of Agriculture at Cornell University will appear.

The "Round Table" feature first introduced by this society which gave such general satisfaction at the last meeting will be continued and grapes and other small fruits will be treated by men who know while vegetable gardening will also come in for attention. Vegetable Gardening on Long Island will be the subject of a lantern-slide talk by H. B. Fulerton connected with the agricultural development department of the Long Island Railway Company. He is said to be an interesting speaker.

The decision of the officials to extend the meeting to three days will be appreciated by the members as this means shorter sessions affording more time for social visiting and to examine the exhibits for which this society's annual gathering is noted. These will tax the convention exhibit hall to the utmost, it is predicted.

It has also been decided to hold a banquet on Thursday evening, January 25.

The programme will be ready to mail shortly and may be secured from Secretary John Hall 204 Granite Building, Rochester.

Turkish Cholera Remedies.

The Constantinople correspondent of the London Lancet gives the following Turkish cholera remedies prescribed by old fashioned Ottomans during the recent epidemic: First, drink infusion of juniper berries; second, carry with you an agate stone or on your neck a stone of hyacinth; third, never fail to have in your pocket a bone of a dead child; fourth, masticate pimpernel, and, fifth, since cholera is mostly caused by the moon, drink decoctions of laurel fruit when the planet Mars or Mercury is in the ascendant, as these planets are the enemies of the moon.

FRENCH THRIFT.

The People, as a Rule, Save One-fifth of Their Incomes.

Since the days when the people of France went down into their stockings for the five milliards of ransom exacted by Bismarck, the world has pondered as over a mystery the beetlike durability of French thrift. Not only has their car of progress been kept in full commission, along with a vast standing army and an enlarging naval force, but at the same time they have poured millions of treasure into the coffers of allies and friends.

Of French thrift apparently there is no end. It is founded on racial habits rooted in industry and intelligence and on a sense of proportion as universal to the Gallic race as its feeling for beauty. After forty years the republic stands firm in the strength of two generations of sons and daughters born under the banner of self government. That fact has excited as much wonder among her neighbors as the irrepressible thrift. Probably the one is a complement of the other, political as well as industrial, France being ruled by intelligence and moderation.

The formula of French thrift is as simple as sunlight: Be industrious, be frugal, give and enjoy in proportion to your means, and always lay by a fifth of your income for capital. Result: A whole nation prosperous, contented and happy.—Century Magazine.

Might Have Been One.

"Miracles? Of course there are miracles," declared Horace Hammersley, who had just celebrated the forty-first anniversary of his birth.

"There may be miracles," his wife replied, "but we never see them."

"Don't we? You'd have noticed one if you had been with me today. I met a man whom I had not seen for two years, and he didn't ask me if I was not 'putting on weight.'"—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Watch in a Pearl.

Pearls on watches are commonplaces, but a watch in a pearl is surely a novelty. One has just been made by a Paris watchmaker after fifteen months of work by his best mechanics. The pearl weighed forty-five grains and was a perfect flattened sphere. Its diameter was fourteen and a half millimeters or slightly more than half an inch. The watch is eleven and a half millimeters or forty-five-one-hundredths of an inch in diameter and has a compensating balance of five-twelfths of an inch caliber. It may seem strange, but the maker says the most difficult part of the work was boring the hole in which the watch was to be inserted in the pearl. This watch mounted in a pearl cost $6,000.

PARCELS POST

Plan as Suggested by Chairman Bourne of the Senate Committee Considered Most Feasible.

The Chairman of the Senate Committee on Post offices and Post roads, Senator Bourne, is a sincere advocate of the parcels post service throughout the United States, based on detailed statistics collected by the committee respecting the system operated in twenty one other countries.

"Under the proposed rates for parcels post," said the Senator recently, "the volume of fourth class mail matter, would be gradually doubled, but even if it were trebled I am satisfied there would be no serious embarassment to the Postoffice Department. The rural delivery service is now working at not more than 25 per cent. of its carry capacity.

"In any branch of the service the right of the department to determine the character of delivery service would enable the department to regulate the extent to which the parcels post service would be patronized, and thereby prevent congestion of business."

Senator Bourne, in support of his statement as to the ability of the Postoffice Department to handle the parcels post business, says that the information regarding the systems in foreign countries shows that the parcels constitute a "very small portion of the total number of pieces mailed."

"In the United Kingdom, for instance" he says," the parcels constitute 2.3 per cent. of the total number and in Germany 2.7 per cent. In the United States he adds, only 1.1 per cent. of the total number of pieces mailed are parcels.

"A valuable guide for the enactment of a general and local parcels post law in the United States," the Senator continued, "in the specific and complet e information received b the committee from foreign countries regarding the character and operation of their parcels post system.

"Specific and complete information received from foreign countries regarding the character and operation of their parcels post systems furnishe a valuable guide for the enactment o a general and local parcels post law in this country," Senator Bourne said, in making public tables of statisitcs regarding foreign systems.

"The tables set forth the international parcels post rates, showing that a parcel may be mailed from the United States to almost any other country at 12 cents a pound. A similarly low but varying rate prevails as to parcels from foreign countries to the United States, while our domestic rate is 1 cent an ounce, or 16 cents a pound. The tables show that the domestic parcels post rates of the principal countries are very materially lower than the domestic rate on fourth class matter in the United States.

"For instance, in the United Kingdom, an eleven pound package can be sent from any postoffice to any other postoffice in Great Britain for 22 cents. In Germany the charge is 12 cents for any package up to eleven pounds in weight. The same rate prevails in Austria and a lower rate in Belgium. In Mexico, our neighboring republic, the rate varies from 6 cents for the first pound to 60 cents for an eleven pound package, while in the United States a one-pound package requires 16 cents postage, and eleven pounds of merchandise which must be separated into three packages, requires $1.76.

"For the purpose of comparison there is inserted in the tables a proposed rate for the United States of 10 cents for the first pound and 4 cents for each additional pound or 50 cents for a parcel of the maximum weight and the suggestion is made that half these rates be charged on rural routes or else made applicable to a fifty-mile radius zone extending from every postoffice."

BADEN-POWELL TO GIVE FREE LECTURES TO BOY SCOUTS

Will Attend the Second Annual Meeting of the Boy Scouts of America in New York and With Chief Scout Executive West Visit Many Thousand Scouts.

The second annual gathering of the leaders of the Boy Scouts of America and the first big review of the boy scouts themselves will begin on February 9 next. On that day Lieutenant General Sir Robert S. S. Baden-Powell, founder of the British Boy Scouts, will join the leaders of the Boy Scouts of America for a conference and soon afterward, accompanied by James E. West, Chief Scout Executive of the Boy Scouts of America, will begin a tour to review hundreds of thousands of scouts through the country. He will do several important things. He will confer with the leaders giving them the benefit of his years of experience in handling boys, he will address the parents telling them the aims of the Scout movement and what it can accomplish; he will talk to the boys face to face and watch their drills.

In connection with Baden-Powell's visit, the second annual meeting of the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America will be held in New York City February 9 and 10. The members of the National Council will gather for a discussion of the future plans of the Scout movement. At the same time there will be meetings of scout commissioners, representing the different local councils and also of scout masters who have direct charge of the boys. On February 9 there will be a banquet and reception to Baden-Powell. On Saturday, February 10, more than 5,000 Boy Scouts will gather in New York to give a demonstration of scout activities in the presence of General Baden-Powell and the leaders of the Scout movement. On the same evening the General will give an illustrated lecture on 'Scouting in Peace and War." Ernest Thompson Seton, Chief Scout, and Daniel Carter Beard, National Scout Commissioner, will take an important part in the conferences and the exhibitions in New York.

At the end of the session in New York General Baden-Powell and Chief Scout Executive West will start on a tour of the country from New York to San Francisco. They will spend from February 11 to March 13 in their tour visiting the important cities and scout centers.

eGneral Baden-Powell, under the auspices of the Boy Scouts of America, will meet face to face hundreds of thousands of boys. Arrangements are being made by which the Boy Scouts may see and hear Baden-Powell and give exhibitions in his honor. He will lecture to them, in 20 or 25 of the principal cities. Those lectures will be free to Boy Scouts and their parents, for the leaders of the Scout movement have decided that no expense shall be incurred by the scouts themselves in having an opportunity to visit with the hero of the scouts themselves in having an opportunity to visit with the hero of the British Boy Scouts and the man who has done so much for millions of boys throughout the world.

Chief Executive West is arranging for the trip of Baden-Powell and hopes to have many thousand scouts gathered from surrounding suburbs and nearby towns in every city where Baden-Powell will stop. It also will be Mr. West's first tour of the hundreds of thousands of boys in his organization.

THE WEEK

The betterment in industrial and trade conditions, signs of which have been visible to close observers for two months, has now become plain to all and is reflected by the expansion in bank clearings and railroad earnings, the big uplift in the iron and steel trade, the advance in copper, the increased activity in dry goods, the brisker demand for money and in the confidence inspired by the record-breaking cotton crop of upwards of 15,000,000 bales. There is no disposition to minimize the problems still unsolved, but business men are disposed to move ahead in spite of them, and the situation as the year draws to a close is so much more encouraging as to be the year's most conspicuous development. The holiday trade is notably active in all the large cities. This retail activity coupled with the unusually warm weather and the end of the year accounting, operates to make wholesale operations slower, but there has been no real check to the expansion in business. The improvement in iron and steel grows steadily and is accompanied with advances in prices. The outlook for the new year is exceedingly promising. In the dry goods trade the most notable development is the betterment in woolens and worsteds. Silks are also stronger. Leather is dull but prices firm.

Each week serves to emphasize the pronounced betterment in iron and steel. Operations at mills and furnaces are on an enlarged scale and several plants now idle will start again after the close of this month. The November statement of the United States Steel Corporation was particularly favorable unfilled tonnage rising above 447,000 tons, while during the present month the bookings have been even greater considerably exceeding 50,000 tons a day. Prices are strengthening slightly. Wire goods have advanced $1 per ton, wire nails now being quot-quoted at $1.55 for carload lots.

It is seasonably quiet in current trading in primary and secondary channels in dry goods, but the distinct improvement in the tone of business in woolens and worsteds affects both dress goods and men's wear. The cotton goods markets are still in the process of re-adjustment to lower raw material and buyers are inclined to cover their requirements moderately. Jobbers are buying domestic bleached cottons and staple colored goods. Miscellaneous export trade continues satisfactory especially to the Philippines and the West Indies. There is some delay in placing duplicate orders for wash fabrics and a few other lines, but the new shirting season is starting out well and jobbers feel more encouraged as to spring distribution. The foreign and domestic wool situation is extremely strong, and pronounced activity continues in the New England markets, manufacturers operating more freely in anticipation of requirements for the heavy weight season.

Footwear developed a quieter tone, jobbers limiting purchases as usual near the close of the year. Duplicate orders for seasonable goods are in small volume and some manufacturers are working on their reserve contracts to keep plants running. Values of sole leather are still maintained; upper leather, especially calfskin, is strong, and glazed kid sells readily while there is more inquiry for patent leather and specialties continue active.

The Government estimate on cotton, placing the probable harvest at 14,885,000 bales, exclusive of linters, is considered in the trade a conservative forecast. Heavy covering orders awaited the official report and for a time prices advanced, only to fall back to new low levels for the year. In wheat the declining tendency was checkd by unfavorable news from Argentina, where storms have apparently caused damage.

Liabilities of commercial failures so far reported for December amount to $5,685,020, of which $2,574,315 are in manufacturing, $2,857,074 in trading and $203,631 in other commercial lines. Failures this week numbered 346 in the United States against 283 last year, and 47 in Canada, compared with 31 a year ago.

A RAPAHANNOCK CHRISTMAS

An Incident of the Civil War, Occurring Fifty Years Ago, Which Will Never Be Forgotten by the Boys Who Were Active in the Historic Contest.

The 25th of December, 1862, did not awaken any especial emotion in my heart, as I saw its first light breaking over the waters of the Rapahannock, a few miles below Fredericksburg. The terrible battle at that city had been fought nearly a fortnight before and the dead and wounded had all been cared for. Our own army had been mostly moved across the narrow peninsula to the Potomac for better facilities in getting supplies from Washington and the seaboard, and I was one of the few of King's old division left behind to guard what stores had not been taken along with the main body on the transfer of the army to Belle Plain. I had three men at my post, each of whom held a musket and kept his eyes open two hours at a time, as his turn came, before being relieved from duty by his reluctant successor.

Shortly after sunrise the man on post at the time called me. "H'lo, Corp'r'l, what's that white rag a whirlin for t'other side of the river there? Flag o' truce?"

I answered that I would investigate and proceeded to the river bank a few hundred yards away. A young man appeared on the opposite shore with his left arm in a sling of white cotton fabric. He had evidently used the sling for his signalling, and had slipped it over his head again after the exercise.

"Yank," he shouted across the smooth water (not as wide as usual at that point), "do you know today's Christmas?"

"No," said I, "is it?" "Yaas, and I want to go across and take breakfast with you. I have got a chicken and some whiskey and cigars, and if you'll bring down some soft bread and coffee we c'n have a good spread. You must promise to send me back safe, though."

"All right," I replied; "get yourself over and I will be back directly."

Less than ten minutes later I had returned to the river side with two guards who were not on post duty, and three haversacks filled with good substantial rations. The Confederate had paddled a scow across, from whic we helped him extract a brown jug, a lot of cigars bundled up in a wall paper wrapper, and a good sized rooster which required stripping of feathers and drawing before being in condition to be placed over a fire. While this preparation was in progress the usual chaffing went merrily on, and a lively fire was built in the rear of some dwarf pines. The coffee water was set to boil in a tin pail, and each took a portion of the fowl to broil at the end of a forked stick.

During these operations we learned that our rebel friend was temporarily disabled by the passage of a minnie bullet through the fleshy part of his upper left arm, and was supposed to be in a hospital. Rambling about the vicinity he had run across the luxuries under our observation and appropriated them to himself but was doubtful about the probable consequences of taking them back to his own quarters, so had decided to take chances on an interview with us. He was an intelligent young fellow and expressed regret at being cut off from access to current literature as well as to coffee. Fortunately we were able to help him in respect to both his deprivations as a stack of late Harpers' and Atlantic's and two or three of Dickens' and Trollope's novels then just published, had been left behind by the departing troops; and we gathered them up and placed them in his scow with several quarts of ground coffee.

After a jolly breakfast and strong expressions of good will on both sides our new friend paddled back with his Christmas treasures and the rest of us returned to the commissary stores just as the wagons arrived in quest of the last of them. One of the teamsters also handed me a note from the captain of my company as follows:

Dear Theron: Oderkirk has got his muster out orders for promotion to second lieutenant. When you get back to camp you will therefore receive your warrant a orderly sergeant of the company. I am glad to say however, that you will not hold that place long, as the colonel has forwarded recommendations for the promotion of Oderkirk to first, and you to take his place as second lieutenant. Merry Christmas.

Gus Phillips.

Poor Gus. Two years later he fell with a bullet through his heart and was buried on the Virginian battlefield where he fell but the old soldier who reads this will not need to be assured of the captain's abiding place in my memory as a component part of the most satisfactory Christmas I ever saw, notwithstanding the fact that in the course of the day I was obliged to march a dozen miles in order to join my company at Belle Plain.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

Oswego, Dec. 13—The Special Committee of the Board of Supervisors, appointed to investigate the increasing of the office room in the county building reported at the session this afternoon in favor of adding another story to the building at a cost of $16,782. This would include a new heating apparatus to replace the one that has been there for sixteen years which is about gone. Made a special order for Friday.

Mr. Pierce presented the report of the committee, recommending new iron doors for the Surrogate's office at a cost of $80. Report accepted and books ordered.

Mr. Sweetland presented the report of the Supply Committee relative to the jail farm. It commended the farm superintendent, Mr. Chiler, and the guards who worked the prisoners. A detailed statement of the crops raised also accompanied the report, the value of the same being at $945.47. New barns are recommended.

Dec. 14—The Supervisors today took up the question of a tuberculosis hospital. The Board is on record as favoring one in the town of Orwell. Yesterday Edward A. Moree and a delegation from the Board went out there and looked over the two sites; the G. S. Loomis farm containing 135 acres can be had for $5,500, and the James F. Davis farm, considerably smaller, for $4,00 0

The Loomis site was the one recommended by Mr. Moree ahead of the other. With the exception of the view from the James farm the Loomis farm has all the advantages. It is only a mile and a half from Richland station on a State road with a farmhouse that Mr. Moree says is oneof the best he has ever seen and which could not be replaced today short of $7500. It is in excellent repair Mr. Moree reported, contains twenty rooms, and out of thirty-five or forty farmhouses examined by Mr. More for hospital purposes, none were the equal of the Loomis house. It could be rearranged for very little money, he said.

He discussed the water supply, said there was a spring half a mile away that could be piped and which would flow into the house by gravity The quality of the water he knew nothing about, he said, nor the amount of the flow available. It would cost approximately to put in baths, toilets and a suitable heating plant about $3,000. This would include two large verandas partially enclosed with glass

County Superintendent of Weight and Measures French, presented a report that gives an inside into some of the frauds that he has found within the past year practiced upon the consumer. Out of 644 scales tested $60 were correct and 250 were incorrect. Thirty-nine were adjusted. The report doesn't state whether the other 221 are in commission yet or what become of them but it presumed they were destroyed. Out of a total of 390 dry measures examined fifty-three were found incorrect. Out of a total 732 liquid measures 178 were incorrect. Out of twenty-six oil pumps examined only eleven or less than one half were found correct. Mr. French says he examined 150 crates, such as farmers and grocers use, and every one of them were incorrect. Out of two fruit baskets examined, the two were incorrect. In retail stores where counter tacks are still in vogue for measuring cloth, ribbons, tape, etc., he made 716 examinations and out of the total 565 were inaccurate and twenty eight were adjusted. Out of 1,269 weights examined, 127 were inaccurate and five were readjusted. There were 4,122 examinations made and 1,354 of the articles examined were inaccurate and seventy two were adjusted.

During the year he traveled 2,264 miles, 1,137 with horse and wagon and 1,127 by rail. His traveling expenses by horse were $191.09 and by rail $59.64. His expenses for the year were as follows: Paid for new apparatus, $103.37; freight and express, $6.18; postage, $3; veterinary services, $8.94; test purchases, $5.94; traveling expenses, man and horse, $191.09; travel by rail, $59.64; printing notices, $18.39; up keeping of horse and wagon, $ 204.18; horse, $200; balance of salary, $399.86. Total, $1,200.

His resources were: Salary, $1,000; expenses, $200.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

Salaries of County Officers Agreed to—Office of Deputy County Clerk Thought Unnecessary—Copyists Employed Therein Criticised for an Alleged Increase in Cost of Service—County Tax Ratio — Other Matters of Importance Presented for Adoption.

Oswego, Dec. 21.—The special committee of the Board of Supervisors, through Chairman Rounds, at their meeting on Thursday, recommended the abolishment of the office of deputy County Clerk, alleging that the County Clerk, collecting a salary of $2,000 per annum, should do the work. A farther recommendation regarding other county officers was submitted. It was that the Sheriff receive $3,000 a year, the Under-Sheriff, $1,000, Jailer and Matron, $900. That the Sheriff appoint ten deputies in various parts of the county, and that $500 be set aside to pay salaries of the same. It also recommends a custodian for the Courthouse at Pulaski at an allowance of $200 a year. Also that the county purchase the necessary food for prisoners, and that the Sheriff be directed to see that it is properly prepared and served.

Capt. Ball's estimate of the expense of the Armory was sufficient, and no bills in future were to be presented to the miscellaneous committee.

The regulation of fees for work performed in the County Clerk's office was duly considered and the committee authorized to settle with the County Clerk was instructed to investigate the alleged increase in the cost of copying performed by the copyists employed therein.

The salary of the County Superintendent at the County house was recommended increased $200 annually swelling it to $1,000.

The salaries of other employes was fixed as follows:

Assistant Superintendent $600 per year, matron $400, farmer $480, nurse $364, two cooks $5 per week each, or $520 a year, assistant matron $520 per year, fireman, eight months, $160, assistant matron $260 a year.

County Sealer of Weights and Measures is to have an increase of $100 a year under the report for expenses, making the total $200 for expenses.

The salary of the Election Commissioners is left at $600, with a yearly allowance of $400 each for personal expenses.

The report of the Committee to Settle with the County Clerk Monthly show receipts as follows: December, 1910, $644.66; January, (1911,) $947.35; February, $847.76; March, $1,180.87; April, $1,053.46; May, $912.-64; June, $574.40; July, $697.54; August, $554.63; September, $659.66; October, $865.25; November, $644.69. Total, $9,597.31. Paid for salaries, $7,610; paid for recording, $1,741.63. Total, $9,351.63. Balance credit to the county, $236.68.

The report of the committee to settle with constables and justices was submitted by Supervisor Jackson. Supervisor Buck presented the report of the committee to settle with the County Committee, and the report of F. M. Hart, who examined the books and certified to their correctness; Mr. Bough, the report of the Committee on Foreign Claims, and F. W. Gallagher, the report of the Committee to Settle with the Superintendent of Highways.

The report of the committee to settle with the County Treasurer was confronted with a supplementary report by Mr. Sweetland, who called attention to the fact that Mr. Kandt had ignored the direction of the Board as to the depositories in Pulaski, Fulton and Oswego for county money. No action was taken.

Mr. Rounds in moving the adoption of the report of the Committee on Sheriff and Jailers' accounts commended Sheriff Taft for the superb condition of the grounds at the new jail, which were kept in excellent order without expense to the county. The Sheriff received a vote of thanks for the enterprise and public spirit displayed.

The county tax ratio has been fixed at .55 on each $100 of valuation.

By Mr. Thompson: Levying $15 on Redfield to pay damages on a traction engine that went through a bridge. Adopted.

By Mr. Niles: Abolishing the county highway extending east from the west line of Amboy, a distance of a mile and a half, and designating as a new county road the stretch of highway from the West line of Parish village West along the South Branch road to the Syracuse and Watertown State road. Adopted.

ALUMINUM COMPANY GROWING

The Aluminum Specialties Company which came to Fulton about a year ago and opened its factory, has grown so rapidly that they have found it necessary to increase the capacity for output and have placed orders for twelve new pieces of machinery aggregating an expenditure of $40,000. When the company located in Fulton they employed but 30 hands and occupied one building. They are now employing 66 hands and will, when the new machinery arrives, open another building.

The stock in the company is largely held by local capitalists, Mr. J. W. Rigley being president of the Board of Directors. Flattering offers have been made the company to remove to other places but Fulton is too advantageous a point from a business standpoint, for the inducements offered by other towns to interest the company.

Manager M. L. White has made excellent headway with the work, his services being most satisfactory to all concerned, and he takes the keenest pleasure and interest in the growth of the business.

MANY FAMILIES GIVEN CHEER

Ensign Moyer of the Salvation Army was a veritable "Mrs. Santa Claus" this year, finding time in her busy life to hunt up the poor in our midst and administering to their physical needs to the farthest extent that the generosity of the local public would permit. Many a shivering urchin is warmly clad; many a thinly attired girl is comfortable and many a neglected wife or mother is looking forward to the cold weather with less dread, owing to the Ensigns' tireless efforts in their behalf.

Charitably inclined women in the various church es have sewed for hours fixing worn but wearable garments for the needy, and in the work of filling the dinner baskets for the Xmas dinner, the farmers in the immediate vicinity of Fulton had a large share.

The Misses Verna and Anita Hunter, with their automobiles, assisted in the work of collecting the garments, toys and food for the Ensign and greatly facilitated her work by so doing.

RAISED TO THIRD CLASS

Postmaster Bothwell, of Hannibal, has received notice from the Post Office Department to the effect that on and after Jan. 1, 1912, the Hannibal office will be designated as a third instead of a fourth class office. This carries a salary of $1,100 per year.

The quicker a cold is gotten rid of the less the danger from pneumonia and other serious diseases. Mr. B. W. L. Hall, of Waverly, Va., says: "I firmly believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be absolutely the best preparation on the market for colds. I have recommended it to my friends and they all agree with me." For sale by all druggists.

BANK OPENS DOORS

Fulton's First National Bank will occupy New Quarters on Saturday—Extends Invitation to Public to Visit New Home and Inspect Modern Conveniences — Is 56-years Old and Has Only had Three Cashiers.

Saturday the First National bank of Fulton will take formal possession of its new home, directly across the street from its present location. The removal to these superb and modern quarters marks a new epoch in the history of an institution which has enjoyed a phenominal growth, during the past ten years especially. The public is cordially invited by the officials of the bank to inspect the new house on Saturday afternoon and evening when every courtesy will be extended them.

The Times expected to have been able this week to give its readers good pictures of the interior and the exterior of the bank, but the plates could not be secured in time. Next week there will be something of interest for all who are interested in Fulton's growth and prosperity told in connection with the story of the bank.

The officers of the bank are: President, Thomas Hunter; vice president, L. W. Emerick; cashier, L. C. Foster; assistant cashier, H. C. Gardner; teller, Charles Hall. Directors, L. W. Emerick, Thomas Hunter, H. C. Gardner, F. A. Gage, J. R. Sullivan, Edward Quirk.

The bank is unique in that during its more than half a century of existence it has had but three cashiers.

FULTON CHAPTER ELECTS OFFICERS

F. W. Snyder, treasurer and vice president of the Victoria Paper Mills, was elected high priest of Fulton Chapter No. 167, Royal Arch Masons Monday. Other officers elected were: King, Howard Morin; scribe, J. S. Castor; captain of the host, W. N. Dunn; principal sojourner, A. M. Hurd; royal arch captain, A. W. Beadle; first veil, William C. Morgan; second veil, George Hill; third veil, H. J. Baker; secretary, George W. Gardner; treasurer, H. Morin; trustee for three years, Edward P. Cole; sentinel, B. C. Van Buren; pianist, William Pollard; chorister, Dr. B. T. Mason; chaplain, S. R. Baldwin. The officers will be installed publicy Monday evening jointly with officers of the Order of the Eastern Star.

MRS. LEE MAKES GIFT

Mrs. Albert Lindley Lee, the donor of the hospital to Fulton, on Xmas day gave to that institution a beautiful French china dinner set of 150 pieces; also 12 all wool blankets, 12 quilts, two dozen fine linen sheets, 2 dozen pillows, four dozen towels, a chest of tea, one of coffee, 100 lbs. of sugar, a case of soups and a crate of cereals.

The gift is most timely and is accepted by the city at large with grateful appreciation of the generosity of Mrs. Lee, one of the very few benefactors Fulton has known.

JAN. 1, AT POST OFFICE

Monday, Jan. 1, being a legal holiday, the Postoffice will be open for the transaction of business from 7 to 10 o'clock a. m. The city carriers will make one delivery in the morning and a collection from the boxes. The carriers' windows will not open in the evening, nor will the office be open for remainder of day after the closing hour in the morning. The holiday will also be observed by the R. D. men who will not go out on routes during that day.

CULLEN WON'T RECEIVE MUCH

Attachments aggregating considerably more than the $18,000 awarded R. J. Cullen against the Battle Island Pulp & Paper Co., have been secured by Attorneys C. E. Gulle and Mead & Stranahan for their clients, the First National Bank of Fulton, J. T. Hargrave and the Battle Island company against Mr. Cullen.

"How would you vote if you had the ballot?"

"Oh," replied Mrs. Baring-Baggers, "we haven't got quite far enough along in the matter to think about the costumes and the etiquette."—Washington Star.

CITY ADMINISTRATION CHANGES

With the closing of the week will terminate the official life of the present civic officials and the entrance of the new and untried men upon the public stage. Certain it is that if Mayor Conners and his co-workers cast a backward glance over their term of service they will find little to regret in their conduct of the city's affairs when consideration is given the depleted condition of city finances when they took office, and the general feeling of unrest and distrust that existed at the time of their taking up the reins of government.

There has not been throughout the term of incumbency of the present officials any bickering as to whether the project was fathered by a Democrat or a Republican. If it seemed best for Fulton there was not a dissenting voice in the roll call. Moderate improvements have been made; the streets have been kept fairly clean; the side walks have been given attention; paving has been done but there has been little fault found with the grades established; courtesy has prevailed throughout the different departments whenever the public has come into contact with the city fathers, and there has been a general feeling of satisfaction that the efforts have all been honest ones. Specifically there has been some dissatisfaction because sewers or pavements did not come to some locality or another but taken in its entirety the administration has been one in which every participant may take just pride.

In the installation of the water meters alone, Mayor Conners term has accomplished more in the line of justice to every man, than a dozen other administrations.

To the incoming administration the Times extends greeting and assures it of an active interest and co-operation whenever assistance is needed or honestly merited. Mayor-elect Bogan's appointments were published in last week's Times and they are proving satisfactory to a large number of our residents. Of course there is always a disappointed party but their mutterings are not so loud as the chorus of approval relative to the appointees.

FULTON DENTISTS ORGANIZE

Eight of the local dentists met on Wednesday evening in Dr. H. S. Orchard's office in Oneida street and organized a club for benefit and for social purposes. Dr. Fred L. Carey of the west side became president, and Dr. Bert Mason of Oneida street, secretary of the club. Plans for the club's work were discussed and it was decided to hold a second session in January to perfect the plans for holding clinics, etc.

Dr. Cary started that the work in Fulton was so varied as to give all dentists experience and practice and that the interchange of knowledge and the discussion of the various complex problems confronting each dentist, would be both helpful and interesting. Speakers from out-of-town places will at intervals become the guests of the club.

It is planned to hold social sessions at the conclusion of the business sessions.

ALDERMAN JOHNSON DESERVES PRAISE

Alderman H. F. Johnson of the Third Ward deserves the gratitude of every resident in his ward for his whole hearted interest in the ward and the numerous improvements he has secured for it, even upon the eve of laying down his official burden.

Alderman Johnson saw to it, and it was accomplished by effort only, that an appropriation of $1,471 was included in the budget for next year, the money to be expended in the extension of sewers and the constructing of laterals in the ward. Seventh street gets $721; Park street between Pratt and Division streets is given $400, while South Fifth street between Pratt and Division, gets $350.

It is hoped that Mr. Johnson's ungrateful constituents will not have cause to regret losing so valuable a representative from their ward, and that his successor may be as alert and successful in his term of service.

SURROGATE'S COURT

The appraisal of the estate of James D. Whitcomb, Fulton, who died in Florida last February, shows its net value to be $17,184.23. The gross was $18,127 and the expenses $992.-77. There is $15,500 real property in the estate, a 225 acre farm in Granby worth $13,000 and a house in Fulton worth $3,500.

"MEN AND RELIGION" MOVEMENT

Fultonians Active and Interested in the Work—Public Meeting for Men to Be Held Soon—Officers and Committees Selected.

A meeting of the various committees interested in the "Men and Religion" movement in this city, held an enthusiastic session in the Presbyterian church on Wednesday evening. The Rev. C. L. Peck called the meeting to order and an informal discussion relative to the best method to be employed in arousing interest and enthusiasm in the movement, was conducted. It was decided to hold an inspiration meeting preceding the convention to be held in Oswego on Feb. 7-9, and Feb. 2 was decided upon as the most opportune time for holding this mass meeting for men. A talented speaker from out of Fulton will address the meeting and will explain the expectations of benefit from the world-wide agitation in the direction of higher righteousness.

At the meeting held last week Mr. E. R. Redhead was elected chairman of the committee and Mr. William Hunter was named as vice chairman. Secretary Hartson was named as treasurer, and the Rev. G. C. Wadsworth and J. J. Morrill were named to act with the officers as an executive committee.

Standing committees from the churches were named as follows:

Presbyterian —Rev. G. W. Wellburn, A. G. Gilbert, Arvin Rice, Lewis Rice, and William Hunter.

Zion Episcopal—Rev. George C. Wadsworth, F. L. Jennings, W. R. Hamilton, W. L. Grant and Harvey Hewitt.

Baptist—Rev. Thomas Lehigh, C. W. Streeter, Fred Trask, Irving Gausha, W. H. Merriam and C. V. Hartson.

State Street Methodist—Rev. F. A. Miller, W. F. Haskins, W. H. Klein, E. R. Redhead, Ralph Volgelsang and C. E. Wilson.

First Methodist—Rev. C. L. Peck, W. A. Butts, F. J. Parkhurst, Dr. Robert Simpson and J. J. Morrill.

Congregational — Rev. Charles Olmstead, G. B. Fairman, F. J. Switzer, Z. Newell, W. E. Russell and Fred Chubb.

Free Methodist—Rev. W. E. Sitzer, John Willmer, E. Collins, A. Button, E. Harrison and John Dexter.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

The first banquet for the Boy Scouts given by the mothers, has been arranged for Tuesday evening, Jan. 2. Willis P. Morin, Assistant Scout Master, has been chosen Toast Master for the occasion.

The third Boy Scout of the First Fulton Troop to be promoted to the rank of First Class Scout is Daniel C. Hudson, of 173 W. First street. Previous to him in their order, Albert Sanford and Fenton B. Smith, have been thus honored. Daniel has been one of the most active and efficient of the Scouts, and was the first Patrol Leader of the Second or Fox Patrol. He is president of the Junior Knights, the Young Men's class of the Sunday school, taught by Mr. H. L. Paddock.

Watch night will be observed next Sunday evening beginning with the Public service which opens at 8 instead of at 7 p. m. The pastor will preach on "The Residue of My Years." At 9:15 the Watch Night program proper will begin in charge of the Epworth League in their rooms in the basement. Special features will be introduced of interest to all, and all are welcome to participate. The Week of Prayer will be observed beginning Sunday, Jan. 7, with a meeting each night during the week excepting Saturday.

CHRISTMAS RUSH AT POSTOFFICE

Substantial Increase in Receipts from Christmas Week Over Previous Years—Systematic Effort on Part of Clerks and Carriers Sufficient to Meet Every Emergency.

As an evidence of the financial growth and prosperity of our city, it is pleasing to note that during the week preceding Christmas the receipts from the sale of postage stamps at the main office alone surpassed by $300 any corresponding period in the history of the office.

The rush in the package department required herculean effort on the part of the regular force of carriers to handle—indeed, the utmost exertion of the entire force of clerks in both the main office and station was necessary to keep up with the delivery of packages and first class mail directed to local patrons. By intelligent co-operation, however, it was found possible to take care of the demand, and at the close of the eventful holiday week all packages were delivered as addressed.

The employes in the main office and west side station are deserving of the highest commendation for their keen interest and energy in meeting every requirement in the discharge of their duty to the public.

On Sunday, Dec. 24, the carriers and general delivery windows in the main office and station were open for the delivery of Christmas mail, and hundreds took advantage of the opportunity presented, expressing satisfaction to Postmaster Hughes and Assistant Postmaster Hargrave for the systematic manner in which the Christmas rush was handled.

The rural force was also obliged to work early and late to meet the extraordinary demands caused by the exactions of the holiday season.

LOWER OSWEGO FALLS GRANGE

At the regular meeting of the Lower Oswego Falls Grange an interesting program was given by the lecturer, Mrs. Frank Hallock, last Saturday evening. J. H. Stewart gave an account of his Florida trip, which is to be continued at the next meeting. Miss Ruth Anderson also gave an excellent impersonation. Miss Guthrie presided at the piano; William Hubbard was elected chorister, and S. D. Gardner, press correspondent. Haynes Snyder of Mt. Pleasant Grange was present.

At the next meeting, Saturday evening, the lecturer will include in her program a thorough discussion of the local milk situation. All members interested are requested to be present.

The annual Grange dinner will be served Jan. 6, at noon, in their rooms in Woodman's Hall. After dinner, in the afternoon, the installation of officers for 1912 will occur.

Mrs. W. H. Pollard, chaplain of the Grange, was reported quite seriously injured in an accident.

FULTON'S NEW BRIDGE

Albany.—At the request of Mayor Conners, of Fulton, Superintendent of Public Works Treman has not awarded the contract for building the State's portion of the Broadway bridge in that city that is to span the barge canaal. The lowest bid was that of R. B. Murdoch, of Crown Point, N. Y. for $39,370 as against the engineer's estimate of $45,580. Owing to certain complications the City of Fulton has not as yet been able to award a contract for its portion of the structure. The city's contract covers the construction of certain substructure work essential to the completion of the State's portion of the work. As soon as there is assurance that the city will go ahead with its portion of the work, the award of the State's portion of the contract will be made.

THE WEEK

The holiday retail trade has been very satisfactory, and in some of the cities in excess of former years, revealing noteworthy ability and willingness among consumers to spend. Wholesale operations were naturally held somewhat in check by the holiday trade and by the settlements incident to the closing of the year, but there is no indicated change in the more favorable situation in business which has been progressively manifest during the past few weeks.

Railroad earnings in the first two weeks of December increased 5.7 per cent. over last year. The textile situation also continues to improve conservatively but steadily, and with new cotton mills opening and others increasing output, the demand for raw cotton makes that market firm, notwithstanding the fact that the estimates for an unprecedentedly big estimates and that the yield will be even greater. Woolen and worsted cotton crop seem to be actually under goods are also in better demand. Hides continue steady and leather very firm. Further advance is made in copper. Dividend and interest disbursements in January will amount to over $232,000,000, a large increase over 1910, a result which is all the more notable in view of the restraints recently put upon business. The fact that these gains are made in so many important trades, under conditions not altogether auspicious for new enterprise, goes to show how easy and quick would be the recovery to full productive capacity if confidence were completely restored. Bank clearings continue favorable and during the past week gained 6.1 per cent. over 1910 and 1.2 per cent. over 1909 outside of New York, while in New York there was a gain of 4.9 over 1910, but a loss of 16.3 per cent from 1909. Export trade keeps up in large volume; and in the latest week the exports from New York were $17,294,540, an increase of $2,188,784 over 1910 and of $2,774,273 over 1909; imporats were $21,740,317, an increase over 1910, but a decrease as compare with 1909.

The bright outlook in iron and steel is enhanced by prospective large purchases of rails.

Considerable bridge work is coming out, and the Pennsylvania car order will require 24,000 tons. Producers now find it possible to establish a firmer price basis and the recent low quotations on structural material have disappeared, although tractive business is still open to concessions. Beams, channels and plates rule at $1.15 to $1.20, Pittsburgh, while wire products are maintained at last week's advance. After a marked spurt of activity, pig iron is more quiet, but values are firmer and $14.25, Valley, is practically the minimum on Bessemer, although small lots have changed hands below this figure.

While immediate business is seasonably quiet the undertone of the cotton goods market indicates slow but steady improvement in the volume of distribution. Bleached sheetings were advanced 1-8c. to 7 5-8c., and the movement of this class of goods is large. Drills for converting purposes are in steady demand and some heavy sheetings are being ordered moderately, while light sales of print cloths and convertibles are reported. Mills are generally adhering to prices based upon 4 3.16c. for 38 1-2 inch 64 x 64s, but occasional concessions are reported. Exports to miscellaneous ports continue good and some small Red Sea buying is being done, while shipments to China last week aggregated 3,400 bales. Steady improvement continues in the market for woolen and worsted goods, a good duplicate business coming in on dress goods for spring delivery in novelty fabrics, whipcords and cream goods The New England wool market is unusually active, sales this week being fully 10,000,000 pounds, and the tone is strong.

Footwear rules quiet, with few supplementary orders, many manufactures are now running under curtailed production, preparatory to inventory-taking. Jobbers find retail trade good. In the leather market occasional concessions are reported in a few descriptions, principally harness leather and shoe side upper; other kinds, such as sole leather, offal and calfskins are decidedly strong. A good part of the declines so far registered in domestic hides is in accordance with the inferior quality of hides taken off at present as compared with those slaughtered during the late summer and early autumn. Prices on domestic packer hides are about 1-2c. lower on actual sales than the top rates of a few weeks ago, but the principal decline has been in country hides, which are another 1-2c. lower than last week and fully 1 1-4c. under the top rates of late November. Latin-American dry hides are the only firm feature of the market, but River Plate wet salted hides have declined about 1-2c. and the quality of these is improving.

Firmness in cotton continues, additional support being derived from an enlarged trade demand. The Census ginning returns strengthened the belief that the Government again underestimatted the crop. Continued unfavorable advices from Argentina advanced wheat but a reaction followed. There has been no check to the steady accumulation of visible supplies, the aggregate rising to nearly 72,000,000 bushels. Western receipts of wheat this week were 3,424,241 bushels, against 4,683,270 a year ago, while exports from all ports of the United States, flour included, were 2,43,4850 bushels, as compared with 1,875,858 in 1910. Corn was irregular, but generally firmer on adverse weather west and poor country roads delaying the movement. Arrivals of corn at primary markets this week of 3,522,066 bushels contrasted with 6,543,751 last year, and Atlantic coast shipments were only 500,994 bushels against 937,570 in 1910.

Liabilities of commercial failures, so far reported for December, amount to $9,886,503, of which $4,763,173 are in manufacturing, $4,783,754 in trading and $339,576 in other commercial lines. Failures this week numbered 322 in the United States against 294 last year, and 28 in Canada compared with 30 a year ago.

Children Cry
FOR FLETCHER'S
CASTORIA

Death of the Old Year

FULL knee-deep lies the winter snow,
And the winter winds are wearily sighing:
Toll ye the church bells sad and slow,
And tread softly and speak low,
For the old year lies a-dying.

Old year, you must not die;
You came to us so readily,
You lived with us so steadily,
Old year, you shall not die.

He lieth still: he doth not move.
He will not see the dawn of day.
He hath no other life above.
He gave me a friend and a true, true love,
And the New Year will take 'em away.

Old year, you must not go;
So long as you have been with us,
Such joy as you have seen with us,
Old year, you shall not go.

He froth'd his bumpers to the brim;
A jollier year we shall not see.
But tho' his eyes are waxing dim,
And tho' his foes speak ill of him,
He was a friend to me.

Old year, you shall not die;
We did so laugh and cry with you,
I've half a mind to die with you,
Old year, if you must die.

He was full of joke and jest,
But all his merry quips are o'er.
To see him die, across the waste
His son and heir doth ride post-haste,
But he'll be dead before.

Every one for his own.
The night is starry and cold, my friend,
And the New Year blithe and bold, my friend,
Comes up to take his own.

How hard he breathes! Over the snow
I heard just now the crowing cock.
The shadows flicker to and fro:
The cricket chirps: the light burns low:
'Tis nearly twelve o'clock.

Shake hands, before you die.
Old year, we'll dearly rue for you:
What is it we can do for you?
Speak out before you die.

His face is growing sharp and thin.
Alack! our friend is gone.
Close up his eyes; tie up his chin:
Step from the corpse, and let him in
That standeth there alone,

And waiteth at the door.
There's a new foot on the floor, my friend,
And a new face at the door, my friend,
A new face at the door.

—Tennyson.

A CASE OF TRESPASS

By EDWIN L. DANFORD

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

I was crossing the big Atlantic pond on my way to London. When we were all just aboard, the stateroom doors lying open and everything higgledy piggledy, I noticed among a family whose rooms lay in the same aisle as mine a girl about twenty, pretty as a peach and demure as a Quakeress. I kept going out of and into my room for the express purpose of passing her, and every time I did so I hoped she would at least glance at me, but she didn't. The family had two rooms, both outside. One of them was occupied by a boy of sixteen and another of twelve.

The next morning I met the young lady on deck and, racked my brains for some method of scraping an acquaintance with her, but couldn't think of any way in the world to do it. There were plenty of chances, but she blocked every one of them. I didn't know a soul on the ship to introduce me, and it looked as if we should cross the ocean together without my speaking a word to her.

One day when I met her I fancied I could see the faintest suspicion of a smile on her face indicating that she knew well enough that I was trying to make her acquaintance and she was giving me all the trouble she could in doing so. That made me mad.

One night I was lying in my berth sound asleep when I was awakened by a soft hand clasping mine.

"Feel any better, Bunny?" asked a sweet voice.

I gave a grunt as much as to say "No."

"Want anything?"

I gave another negative grunt, but I didn't withdraw my hand. Another hand was laid on my forehead, a deliciously soft hand.

"You haven't any fever."

I supposed I should say something, but I uttered never a word. I knew perfectly well what had happened, but I didn't care to interrupt the proceedings. The girl, whose acquaintance I had been trying to form and who had headed me off, was forming mine with a vengeance. I had heard her mother in the next stateroom ministering to the eldest of her two boys, who seemed to be ill, and it was plain that the daughter, intending to go into see him, had got in my room instead.

"Well," she said finally, "I don't see that I can do anything for you, so I'll leave you. Good night."

She bent down and kissed me, then went out.

If I was mean enough to let her do all this I wasn't the man to let her know of her mistake—at least in any but a delicate way. I dreamed of that kiss all night and in the morning on waking saw on the floor a dainty handkerchief, evidently a woman's. Then I knew I had the game in my own hands.

But I waited. If she didn't mention the visit to her brother she supposed she had made him she would never know she had called on me instead. When she met me again she showed not the slightest consciousness of her visit. Later, while she was sitting in a steamer chair, I stepped up to her, raised my hat deferentially and, holding out the dainty bit of linen, said:

"Pardon me, but I think this is your handkerchief."

The look of surprise on her face was a sight to behold. She evidently expected me to tell her where I found it, but I bowed a second time lower than the first and walked on with my nose in the air.

The tables were turned. Knowing of my advantage, though, I afterward often passed the young lady deferentially.

I never noticed her. One day while sitting on deck she came up and took a seat not very far from me. I felt that this was the first step in a resolve to gratify her curiosity. Indeed, I suspected from her manner that she had fancied something was wrong and may have interviewed her brother. She sat near me for a long while. I was reading and did not move. Presently she arose and, coming to where I was, stood before me. I pretended to be so absorbed in my book that I did not see her. She spoke, and I stood up at once and uncovered.

"Will you kindly tell me where you found my handkerchief?" she said, red as a rose.

"To avoid wounding your sense of delicacy I should have to lie to you; therefore I beg of you to excuse me."

That only made her more determined to know, and after some persuasion I said:

"The other night you got into the wrong room."

She was not only now red as a rose, but red as a jack rose. I knew the next thing she would ask was, "Why didn't you stop me?" so to forestall her I went on:

"I will excuse the trespass if you will do me the honor to dispense with an introduction and permit me to consider myself an acquaintance."

She seemed to take the trespass part of it in earnest and thought the penalty for her blunder a very light one.

I followed her all over Europe, proposed to her in Venice, we were married in London and returned on the same ship that took us over.

She claimed to consider that I was very good to forgive her trespass, as I had called it, till after we were married, when she said my permitting her to kiss me, thinking I was her brother, was abominable.

A Healthy and Wise New Year

"Resolution No. 1—I will try to become more intelligent concerning my body," says Dr. Jean Williams in Woman's Home Companion for January, "looking with greater respect upon my physical resources and trying to realize more fully that upon them the force and success of my life largely depend.

"Resolution No. 2—I will arrange, if possible, to supply sufficient pure air for every breath I take, thus better to combat every source of disease that might attack me, to improve my chance for long life and to increase my efficiency.

"Resolution No. 3—I will be kinder to my digestive organs, avoiding all excess and not asking them to struggle with food for which they have repeatedly shown antagonism.

"Resolution No. 4—I will treat my brain and nervous system with greater consideration, and 56 hours of each week shall be devoted to sleep.

"Resolution No. 5—I will try to do in eight hours as much hard work as I should do in one day.

Resolution No. 6—I will devote at least two of the 24 hours to such exercise as I find most beneficial.

"Resolution No. 7—I will give my moral support to every effort, public or private, in behalf of the betterment of health conditions.

Shakespearean Mottoes for the New Year

Heaven grant us its peace.—Measure for Measure.

Let each man do his best.—King Henry IV.

Time is the nurse and breeder of all good.—Two Gentlemen of Verona.

Take from my mouth the wish of happy years.—King Richard II.

Time shall unfold what plaited cunning hides.—King Lear.

That it shall hold companionship in peace with honor as in war.—Coriolanus.

Be of good cheer;
They shall no more prevail than we give way to.—King Henry VIII

This lies all within the will of God,
To whom I do appeal.—King Henry V

There's rosemary and rue; these keep Seeming and savour all the winter long.—Winter Tale.

Be just and fear not:
Let all the ends thou aim'st at be thy country's Thy God's and truth's.—King Henry VIII.

Good Resolutions

We have ourselves made so many good resolutions and have watched the results of so many good resolutions of other people that it is impossible for us any longer to be sanguine. We can probably remember the time when we resolved to quit smoking, to keep a regular diary, to make careful abstracts of all the standard authors in the language, to work out a grand philosophical system which should reconcile all the conflicting views of different schools, to reform the world, and to keep our accounts accurately, and we know how small a part of these admirable schem has ever been put in practice. We have probably been less disappointed by the shortcomings of our neighbors, but in one way or other we have ceased to regard the resolution to turn over a new leaf as being identical with or even as being a probable preliminary to turning it over in practice. We feel a keen sympathy with poor Dr. Johnson, who continued for seventy years to resolve that he would be an early riser, with no nearer success at the end of that period than at the beginning. And yet, after all, we must admit that under some circumstances a good resolution may be rather useful than otherwise. A habit of making good resolutions is indeed a very dangerous thing. It has sometimes been argued that reading novels and poetry is on the whole prejudicial to the moral nature, because it leads us to be satisfied with the cultivation of our benevolent emotions without applying them to any practical purpose. On the same principle it should be dangerous to be always picturing ourselves as the possessors of every virtue under heaven without making any distinguishable progress toward the accomplishment of our wishes. Our will, it is said, becomes enervated when we acquire a habit of aspiring without carrying our aspirations to their legitimate fulfillment. And of course good resolutions are objectionable if they produce no dividend whatever. Yet it is possible for a man to improve, however rare the phenomenon may be; and if by resolving to get up an hour earlier—early rising is so pregnant a subject of good resolutions that we cannot avoid drawing our illustrations from that source— we succeed in actually rising five minutes earlier, or even in stopping our natural downward course toward rising late—we have done something.

Indeed, it must be admitted, that there is frequently something to be gained by forming good resolutions at such stated periods as the beginning of the new year; our lives run so much in grooves that it is useful occasionally to change our point of view and endeavor for a few moments to see ourselves from the outside.

It is not infrequent for a man on such an occasion to gain sudden glimpses which reveal to him his whole life in a different aspect from that to which he is accustomed. He may find out for a moment that he has been frittering away his time and talents on totally unworthy objects, and may resolve to take some plunge—into matrimony, for example, or into a different profession—which will entirely alter the whole scheme of existence.

Cases probably occur where a man discovers that he is and has been for many years a fool, and though that useful piece of knowledge is likely enough to be forgotten when he has returned to his usual routine, it is nevertheless a discovery which may leave some trace upon his career. No man is quite the same after he has distinctly said to himself; I have made an unequivocal blunder in the whole theory of my life.

This, however, refers to a conjunction of circumstances which is not likely to occur more than once or twice to any man. The normal cause of good resolutions, the determination to break off some bad habit or to raise the general tone of character, is less likely to lead to tangible results. All that can be said generally is that making good resolutions is a fine art which requires a good deal of time and attention. Our ordinary spasmodic efforts at turning over a new leaf end for the most part in nothing but disgust, but if we carefully measure what we can do, and consider what are the means really in our power, we may sometimes succeed, not in substituting good qualities for bad, but in so distributing our energies as to make our bad qualities rather less obnoxious to ourselves and our neighbors than they have hitherto been and that, it must be admitted, is far from a contemptible result.

MILLER LAW PERPLEXING

The new Miller law which give the Board of Supervisors sweeping powers in the matter of appointments contains this clause: "The power hereby invested in the Board of Supervisors shall be exclusive of any other board, body, commission, or officer, notwithstanding any general or special law."

The language of the law is capable of broad interpretation, and attorneys who have examined it say that it should be so interpreted.

It is even contended that the law gives the Board of Supervisors power to organize a County Civil Service Commission, so that they will not violate the civil service law in making appointments.

Governor Dix named a new sheriff for Rensselaer County and the Board of Supervisors at once proceeded to act under the Miller law, and named the deputies. The case has been taken to the courts and an early decision is expected. Much depends upon this decision. With regard to vesting the board with appointing powers there are some who believe that the law includes every country position excepting those that are protected by the constitution.

The Miller law is an amendment to chapter 359 in relation to the powers of the Board of Supervisors, which went into effect on June 16. The amendment is:

Section 1. Subdivision five of section 12 of chapter 16 of the laws of 1909, entitled "An act in relation to counties constituting chapter 11 of the consolidated laws," is hereby amended to read as follows:

5. Have power to fix the amount and the time or manner of payment of the salary or compensation of any county officer or employe, except a judicial officer and the mode of appointment, number and grade of the clerks, assistants or employes in any county office, notwithstanding the provisions of any general or special law fixing the amount of such salary or the time or manner of payment thereof, or providing for the mode of appointment, number or grad eof the clerks, assistants or employes in any county officer vesting in any board, body, commissioner officer, authority to fix the amount of such salary or compensation or the time or manner of payment thereof or to provide for the mode of appointment, number or grade of the clerks, assistants or employes in any county office; and the power hereby vested in the board of supervisors shall be exclusive of any other board, body, commission or officer, notwithstanding any general or special law. The salary or compensation of an officer or employe elected or appointed for a definite term shall not be increased or diminished during such term."

Sheriff-elect Stranahan has an official decision from the Attorney General to the effect that he has full power to appoint his deputies.

THAT ENROLLMENT LAW

Voters are warned to be careful about marking their enrollment blanks. A mark within one of the circles under the party emblem only is required. A ballot marked in two circles is void as is a ballot if containing any mark except that within the circle. The election commissioners have found several ballots thus marked and the ballots have been declared void.

It has been reported to the commissioners that several voters have failed to sign their names on their enrollment blanks. In order to make the ballot official and avoid possible question the voter should write his name after the word "I," making it read thus: "I, John Jones, etc." The voter should forward his ballot to the chairman of the board of inspectors of his ward or district at once.—Palladium.

A CHARMING WOMAN

Is one who is lovely in face, form, mind and temper. But its hard for a woman to be charming without health A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation and kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. But Electric Bitters always prove a godsend to women who want health, beauty and friends. They regulate stomach, liver and kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion and perfect health. DEATHS

Mrs. Sarah Wadsworth, aged 81, died on Dec. 20, at her home in Wolcott. She is survived by five sons, Contractor Daniel E., Frank and Horace of this city and John and Fred of Wolcott.

Lucretia Burrington, aged 79, and for 45 years a resident of Fulton, died on Friday at her home in Utica street. The funeral services were held from the late home on Sunday and burial was made in Mt. Adnah. The deceased is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Watson of North Tonawanda and one sister, Mrs. A. Cary.

Rome, Dec. 26.—Mrs. M. L. Rockwood, formerly Amelia Ludington, widow of Henry L. Rockwood, died Sunday evening at the home of her neice, Mrs. J. R. Calkins, No. 104 Expense street. She was born in Fulton, Oswego county, June 12, 1833. She was one of a family of twelve children, the only survivor being a brother, A. E. Ludington of Middletown.

The funeral of Mrs. Jerusha Shepard, aged 93, widow of the late Frederick Shepard who died in 1899, was held from her home near Gilberts Mills on Tuesday, death having occurred on Sunday. The services were hedld on Tuesday noon, the Rev. G. R. Foster of Greene, N. Y., formerly pastor of the Congregational church in this city, officiated and burial was made in the family plat in Mt. Adnah. The deceased had resided at Shepard's Corners, Schroeppel, for 65 years.

The Rev. Zenas Ward Osborne, for many years pastor of the Free Methodist church in this city, died at his home in Syracuse Sunday at the age of eighty-seven years. Mr. Osborne was born in Scipio, July 18, 1824, and held pastorates in many places in Central New York, retiring in 1893. He is survived by his wife, three sons and four daughters. The funeral took place from his late home at 10 a. m. Tuesday morning and the remains were buried at Fulton.

Thomas Newton, a well known resident of this city, and one of the best known knife makers in the industry in this section, died on Dec. 18, after a lingering illness. The funeral services were held from the late home in Fourth street on Thursday, the Rev C. L. Peck officiating. Interment was made in Mt. Adnah. Beside the widow, the deceased is survived by three sons of this city, and seven daughters, Mrs. Charles Mead of Fulton, Mrs. Nellie Quinn of Oswego, Mrs. Ruth Stoughtenger of Rochester, Mrs. Annie Kimpland and the Misses Nonie, Grace and Mable Newton, all of this city.

CANDIDATE FOR SENATOR

The Watertown Standard says: "It has been known for some time that Senator Brown has been asked by many North County Republicans to go back to the State Senate but not until lately, those who are on the inside say has he dropped the word that he was actually after the nomination. The Senate will not be new to him for he was there for a number of years and became an important factor.

"It is expected that in the near future Senator Cobb will announce that he is out for county judge and that soon the line up among the Republicans will be commenced. Another candidate is former District Attorney Fred G. Pitcher, while other candidates may be John B. Muzzy, Isaac R. Breen and Brayton A. Field.

With some eight years for County Judge Emerson to sit on the Supreme Court bench, the position he will occupy after January 1, looks good to all the possible candidates, as the county judge stands a good show of succeeding him when he steps down by reason of the age limit.

"Jefferson county will have one more vote than Oswego county when it comes to making the designation of a candidate under the direct primary law, Jefferson having ten votes and Oswego nine. The number of votes is arrived at by taking one for each assembly district in the county and adding one for every 1,000 Republican votes in each assembly district. Oswego has one assembly district which would be one vote, and at the last gubernatorial election cast 3,325 Republican votes. Jefferson county has two assembly districts, giving this county one more to start with although the total Republican vote in Jefferson country was less than in Oswego."

AFTER DINNER STORIES FROM SCRAP BOOK

The Prodigal Son

An itinerant preacher once preached to a cowboy audience on the "Prodigal Son." He described the foolish prodigal's extravagance and dissipation; his poverty and his husk eating with the swine in the sty; he described his return, his father's loving welcome, the rejoicing and the preparation of the fatted calf.

The preacher, during his discourse, noted a cowboy giving very close attention. He thought he had made a convert, and addressing this cowboy personally from the pulpit, said:

"My dear friend what would you have done if you had a prodigal son return home like that?"

"Me?" said the cowboy promptly, "I'd have shot the boy and raised the calf."

Sigsbee and the Burglar

It was 2 o'clock in the morning of the birthday of young Charlie Sigsbee, rushed into the admiral's room, grasped him convulsively by the shoulders and hissed into his ear:

"Wake up; wake up; there's a man in the house."

The admiral, true to his martial instincts leaped out of bed, grasped his deadly marine revolver, batted his eyes in expectancy of a bloody encounter and asked his son:

"Where is he?"

"Here he is," said Charlie, with all the effectiveness of melodrama. "I'm twenty-one today." — Popular Magazine. S. D. G.

The "pure food law" is designed by the Government to protect the public from injurious ingredients in both foods and drugs. It is beneficial both to the public and to the conscientious manufacturer. Ely's Cream Balm, a successful remedy for cold in the head, nasal catarrh, hay fever, etc., containing no injurious druge, meets fully the requirements of the new law, and that fact is promi.nently stated on every package. It contains none of the injurious drugs which are required by the law to be mentioned on the label. Hence you can use it safely.

ONE CHEAP GUY

Oswego.—Quite a lot of comment has been caused in town circles over the diamond ring case. It seems that at a recent church fair somebody announced to the clergyman that he would donate a diamond ring to be voted for. The matter was thoroughly advertised and when the contest closed the lady who won went looking for her ring. But there was no gold band with thhe sparkler so she consulted the pastor. The latter consulted the one alleged to have donated the ring. Rather than have trouble the matter was settled with $10.

TO THE RESCUE

This winter hez been hard, the worst w've had in years;
Ma's had the rheumatiz and I have friz both ears;
Our spotted cow's been dry sence way back in the fall;
It's often seemed as though we hed no chance at all;
But things are brightenin', the wolf's turned from the door,
Because our speckled hen's begun to lay once more.

We've had a fearful time in gettin' ends to meet,
My corn wa'n't any good the rust got in my wheat;
Lost a mare last June—she fell and broke her neck,
Whichever way I turned I met bad luck, by Heck.
We've never had to skimp or scratch so hard before;
But now the trouble's past—we're gettin' eggs once more.

'Twas lucky ma was brave; when things wuz goin' wrong
She never whined, but kep' a-hopin' right along;
When I was in the dumps I've often heard her say:
"It's always darkest jist before the break o' day;
Have faith, no matter how the frosty blast may roar—
The speckled hen may soon begin to lay once more."

Well, she was right, you see; we're nothin' now to dread;
The winter's nearly past and all is bright ahead;
I'm so relieved I'd like to jump and crack my heels,
And ma sings all day long to show how good she feels;
The wolf has ceased to came a-scratchin' at our door,
Because the speckled hen is layin' eggs once more.

Greeting - 1912

We extend to the people of Fulton our wishes for a happy New Year and its successful continuation, at the same time expressing our appreciation of your patronage of the year closing.

A Public Service Business, because of responsibility to the public and its stockholders, has a peculiar position, creating in its administration complications that are seldom understood by the general public. As a result misunderstandings sometimes arise although intentions are the best.

It is, and has been, our desire to furnish good service to the community in which we are located and from which alone our business is obtained. In the past, our efforts in this line have been somewhat hampered by conditions we could not control or foresee. With our new steam plant we expect to give even better service than formerly, that Fulton may be second to none in this feature. As we succeed, we share with the community in the benefits.

We invite directly criticisms or suggestions that may enable us to improve our operation or administration and increase the usefulness of this company and its business to the city of Fulton. In short, we desire to make good in our function which is to be "at your service."

NEW YEARS DAY IN THE WEST

by Francis Fentiman.

FOR nearly three days the blizzard had raged against the rude log shanty, which stood on a rising piece of ground amid a sea of dead-white snow. Through the cap of the stove-pipe, which thrust its end above the level of the roof top, it shrieked all sorts of menaces to the man and the boy who sat huddled round the fire, their feet in the oven with the idea of extracting the last particle of warmth from the rapidly diminishing embers.

Even if the blizzard was balked of its desire to wreck the shanty it was not wholly to be denied, but drove in between the ill-joined logs and bellied out the sacks and blankets which had been hung against them for protection, while the in-driven snow lay in oddly assorted mounds on the floor.

Both were reflective, the man because he realized the gravity of the situation, the boy because he had so recently left a home in the east. It was the first day of the new year, and possibly he was picturing to himself what they were doing at that identical time.

Presently the man looked up. "Did you hear that?" he said.

"No," replied the boy. "What was it—the waits?"

"Listen again," said the man, and just then above the shriek of the blizzard was heard a muffled chorus of deep bellows.

"If those cattle don't have water they'll tear the stable to pieces. They get extra thirsty feeding on straw, and it's three days since they had a drop. Why in h— that well wanted to give out I can't think."

"Yes," said the boy, "thirst's a shocking thing. Used to have one myself in days gone by. Now, if we could only do the widow's cruse of oil business we might make this lot go round," indicating a pot which stood on the stove.

"Can't you ever be serious?" protested the man. "We've got to fetch some water."

"By all means," replied the boy. "Just touch the bell for the waiter."

"Don't be a fool," retorted the man. "If you'd been in this country three years, instead of three months, you'd know what a blizzard means, and wouldn't be so mighty cheerful over it."

"Aren't you a fool to suggest fetching water?" said the boy. "Why, you got lost walking to the stable not an hour ago."

The man did not reply until the boy asked him whether he really considered his suggestion possible.

"Yes," said the man slowly, "it is—possible."

"I suppose," remarked the boy, "you are aware it will take four barrels at least, that the nearest well is old man Reid's, which is three miles away, and that you can't see six feet in front of you?"

"I know all that," said the man, "and more. I can tell you that the horses will go like the wind, and when they have had their fill of cold water there'll be no holding them while the barrels are filled. Of course the trail's obliterated, but they'll find their way like a blue streak."

"Sounds inviting," said the boy with his ridiculous laugh. "I'd offer to toss as to who goes if I had a coin, but as I haven't (more injustice), we'll draw straws."

"It's the only way," replied the man. "Those cattle are our all. If they break loose they'll be frozen stiff. The one that wins harnesses the horse, and divides the water round when the loser gets back. Is it a bargain?"

The boy cut two straws of unequal length, put them in a basin, covered it with a cloth and shook it about.

"You draw first," said he. "Long on, gets the water, short one hitches the horses."

When they came to measure the boy had drawn the long one. "My luck again," remarked he.

Without a word the man passed through the door, which the boy closed behind him, but not quickly enough to escape a cloud of snow which swirled round the room. Silently he pulled on his moccasins and wrapped himself in such outer clothes as he possessed, cursing luck generally that he had no furs.

By and by there was a tinkle of sleigh-bells outside, and the man appeared to the team ready harnessed to the hob-sled, on which four empty barrels could dimly be discerned.

"Have you put the pail and rope in?" asked the boy.

The man nodded as they solemnly shook hands, while the boy shielded his eyes with the crook of his arm and gave the horses their heads. He tried from time to time to peer into the storm, but the snow made wraiths round him and froze his eyelashes together.

How the horses got there the boy never knew, but get there they did, and whilst the icy blast probed remorselessly amongst his clothes for the flesh beneath, and poured the powdered snow down his neck.

The maddened animals charged him as he lowered the bucket into the well, and spilled the water all over him as they fought for the first drink.

It was a slow process at best, and his clothes and mittens crackled with the congealed ice as he hauled up each pail. When they had drunk their fill they quivered with the cold, and plunged to get back, but the boy bound the reins round the runners of the foremost bob. They bucked as the frozen bits galled them, causing him to spill as much as he put in the barrels, and to slither about on the rapidly forming ice, rendering a foothold almost impossible. In between times the boy rubbed his eyes and the frozen places.

It was a slow and tedious task, and he soon was fagged, because at 19 the muscles are not hardened. The horses knocked him over and the sleigh ran over his legs, but, being light, only bruised him. In his puny rage he slashed them with the pail rope, and it warmed him until one of the horses trod on the bucket and bent it flat. Foolishly he took off his mittens to straighten it, and only learned sense when he felt the sensation of many needles piercing his hands and the skin on his fingers adhered to the metal.

It was a painfully slow job; to lift a filled pail shoulder high and empty it in a barrel mounted on a sleigh requires strength, and his was fast leaving him. Moreover, the water ran up his sleeves and froze, until he was like an automatic block of ice, if such a thing can be conceived. He became such an embodiment of misery that he no longer troubled about anything, but occasionally buried his head in his arms to rest, and had only sufficient strength left when at last it was finished to put the reins behind his back and brace his feet against the hindmost barrel before returning, and in this position the water slopped over him and played its sweet will unchecked.

Where the horses went he knew not, and if they tipped the lot over again he cared not. He was past caring. With what little sense remaining him he rather hoped they would, and so end it. He believed they stopped, but couldn't be quite sure. It seemed hours after in a dream that he fancied he heard the man's voice: "My God, I thought you were never coming back," and in the same dream he heard himself saying: "Neither did I."

I knew the boy in those long years ago. I see him and it is in day dreams myself sometimes even now, especially on New Year's day, as I sit round the fireside here at home. It is incongruous that pictures should appear in the embers, but so they do, or else one's fancy paints them there. Then a coal drops out, and I wake up to the remembrance that I was once that boy.

Nell's New Year's Eve

by Temple Bailey

Was there any place where she could be really quiet?

The Snow Began to Fall.

Nell went to the door and looked out. As far as her eyes could see there was wintry whiteness and through the purple shadows of the coming night shone a few lights, like stars. Each light represented a farmhouse, and each house, like the one in which Nell was staying, was full of happy, noisy people.

And Nell was not happy, she wanted quiet. Like a hunted animal she looked this way and that for some place where she might be alone. On the crest of a hill, far up the road, stood the schoolhouse where she taught. It was closed now and dark.

"I will go there," Nell said to herself, and just then a voice behind her called: "Supper is ready."

"I don't want any," Nell said wearily. "I'm going out for a little while, Mrs. McGregor. I'll be back by ten."

The snow began to fall softly as she left the house, and by the time she reached the school it was beginning to drift against the fences. There was no fire within, but Nell lighted one, and when the warmth began to steal into the room, she drew the one big chair close to the hearth and in the peaceful loneliness gave herself up to her thoughts.

But she was not to remain in peace long. There was a sound of sleighbells without, heavy steps on the threshold, and she looked up to see the burly form of a young farmer in the doorway.

"Well, well," he said, "I saw the light and came in. Who would have dreamed that you would be here alone?"

Nell smiled wearily. "I came to be quiet."

"Then you don't want me."

"Oh, sit down," she said, somewhat ungraciously.

But he stood by the fireplace and looked down at her.

"What's the matter?" he asked abruptly.

"Nothing," faintly.

"Don't tell me that; I know better."

"If I tell you," she asked, "you mustn't give me any advice. I have had so much advice I hate it."

He sat down beside her. "Tell ahead," he said, "and I'll promise to listen like the Sphinx."

"You see, it is this way," she said; "my uncle in town is rich. He is a miserly old man, and he made me miserable when I lived with him. I'm not going to tell you about my childhood, how little love there was in it, and how I was starved spiritually and mentally, as well as physically. When I grew old enough to understand that he could give me things, and had not because he wanted to save and save, I left him and came here to teach; and now he has written to me to come back, and I don't want to go, yet he is sick and old and alone. I told Mrs. McGregor and she tells me to stay here. Then all the family talked about it and everybody advised. They meant well—but I couldn't stand it, I—I don't want to go, but I must."

"What's the Matter?" He Asked.

He started to say something, then checked himself.

"I'd like to break that promise," he said.

"No, you mustn't," she said firmly. "You've all been so good to me here, and if you," she caught her breath, "join the others in asking me to stay, it will make it so hard for me to go."

"He doesn't deserve much at your hands," the man stated.

"I know," she said wearily, "but to-morrow I begin a new year, and I don't want to begin it wrong, and I don't know the right."

"I don't believe much in saying things," the young farmer remarked, "my policy is to do them. And now, are you going to stay here in this lonely place much longer? It is snowing and it is late."

"I suppose I ought to go," she said doubtfully, "but it is so lovely here in the silence."

"Look here," he said suddenly, "don't you keep your tea things in that little cupboard? I have got to go to town, and when I come back I'll bring something for a little supper, and we can watch the old year out. Then I'll take you home in the sleigh."

"How good of you." She held out her hand to him. "You haven't bothered me with advice, and you are doing something to make me comfortable. That is just like you, Jack Norton."

He blushed a little, this big kindly man, who looked upon the little woman from the city as a being from another sphere; she was so dainty, so different from the girls in his own village.

"Are You Going Back With Me?"

Nell knew what she was doing when she told him not to ask her to stay; she had known for a long time of the question that trembled on his lips. She knew he wanted to marry her, as a woman knows who is wise in the ways of men.

She thought of the life she might lead if she married him, a life in the big farmhouse, sunshiny in summer and secure in winter. Then she thought of her life with her uncle in a dark apartment in the streets of the city. She knew that, in a way, it was a false idea of duty that would take her back. Yet she had to go, some force that was in her seemed impelling her.

The wind blew in great blasts against the little house, the snow had drifted up to the window sills, and white lines of it pointed across the window pane like ghostly fingers. Dragging footsteps came up the path. Nell listened. It was not Jack Norton; these were the steps of an old man. From the door a voice quavered:

"Are you there, Nell?"

"Uncle," she said, fearfully, "how did you come here?"

"I met a young man down the road," he said. "I wanted him to guide me to the McGregors. He told me you were here.

"You didn't answer my letter," the old man went on, when she had made him sit down.

"Are you going back with me?"

Now that she was face to face with his meanness, it seemed to Nell that she could never go with him.

"I don't know," she faltered.

"Here's a grateful girl," the old man stormed, and just then the sleighbells jingled and, in another moment Jack Norton was in the room, his arms full of bundles, his eyes beaming.

"So this is your uncle," he said. "I thought so when I directed him here. You'll stay and have supper with us, won't you, sir? We are going to see the old year out and the new year in."

"Who are you?" the old man growled.

"I?" Jack's eyes flashed from Nell's cowering figure to the grimness of the uncle. Then suddenly he took things in his own hands.

"I'm the man your niece is going to marry," he said.

"What!" the old man shouted.

"I'm the man your niece is going to marry," he said securely. He had seen the joy in Nell's face.

"But she is going home with me."

Jack shook his head. "No, she is going home with me. You can come whenever you wish, sir. The old house is big enough for twenty uncles, or if you like it better, there is a cottage at the edge of the farm where you could stay if you wished."

The old man flashed a crafty glance at him. "Would it cost me anything?" he asked.

"Nothing," said Jack.

"Then marry her," said the old uncle, "and I'll come and live in the cottage alone."

Nell's face was in her hands, and, as Jack bent over her, she whispered, "Oh, I can't let you do it!"

"I'm the Man She Is Going to Marry."

"It is the only way that you can make my New Year happy," he told her, and as she looked up into his face she knew that what he said was true.

The Chinese New Year.

"Gar-ne-fo-Toy"—Happy good luck to you, may you be prosperous, may your honorable family be prosperous and may the spirits of your ancestors rest content—is the gist of the Chinese New Year's greeting. The New Year festival begins the last of January and continues two weeks.

Happy New Year of Many Nations

NEW YEAR'S day has for for generations been the occasion of revels. It has come down to us from the old German custom of dividing the year at the close at those months when it was no longer possible to keep cattle out doors.

This was made quite a fete and in the sixth century was merged into the feast of St. Martin, November 11, on which day the opening of the New Year was celebrated.

While in Germany Martinmas and the New Year were identical, with the introduction of the Roman calendar the celebration was gradually transferred to the first of January, and with it went many of the jolly Martinmas customs.

Traces of these old New Year observances and superstitions can still be traced in the way the season is kept in different lands.

Our decorations of greens, for instance, are a relic of the old Roman superstition of presenting branches of trees for good luck in the coming year.

The giving of presents has also come to us from the Romans. They outdid even the generous Americans, for they used to ask for gifts, if not received, until one of the emperors forbade his subjects demanding gifts save on the New Year.

One of the favorite New Year's gifts after pins were invented in England, in the sixteenth century, were the rough hand-made pieces of metal that took the place of bone and wood skewers. Later pin money was substituted.

A gift that must never be omitted was an orange stuck with cloves to grace the wassail bowl. Apples, nuts and fat fowl were popular offerings of the season.

Gloves and glove money is a very old New Year custom which is still kept up in the increasing use of gloves as holiday gifts.

Even more curious are the old New Year customs. Many of these are still observed by old-fashioned people who cling to the old traditions.

The old-fashioned Englishman will formally open the outer door of his house on New Year's eve just at the approach of midnight. This is to let out the old year and usher in the new.

The Scotch make much of New Year. It is generally ushered in with a "hot pint," brewed at home and drunk by the family standing around the bowl just as midnight strikes.

After hearty greetings to the New Year, the "hot pint," with bread, cheese and cakes, is taken to the houses of the neighbors. The first to enter another's home on the first of January bestows good luck on the family for the year.

In many of the Scottish regiments even yet the ushering in of New Year is most picturesque. At five minutes before twelve the soldiers, headed by the oldest man in the regiment dressed as Father Time, march out of barracks headed by the band playing 'Auld Lang Syne."

Just at the stroke of twelve there comes a knock at the gate.

"Who goes there?" calls the sentry.

"The New Year," is the answer.

"Advance, New Year," is called back.

The gates are thrown open and the smallest drummer boy in the regiment, dressed in Highland costume, is carried in on the shoulders of the men, and marched around the barracks to the pipers' tunes. The rest of the night is spent in carousing.

SUDDEN DEATH IN MEXICO

Mexico, Dec. 15—While on her way to prayer meeting last night Mrs. Burton A. Wakefield, a well known resident of this village, was stricken with an attack of heart trouble about 7 o'clock while in front of the department store of Brown & Company and expired a short time later before Dr. F. V. Stone, who was summoned could administer medical aid.

Mrs. Wakefield was 53 years of age and was a member of the Baptist church. Surviving her besides her husband are two sons Marvin and Ralph, and one daughter Mrs. Ida Lamb.

LACKAWANNA "CUT-OFF"

Road of Anthracite to Open New Double Track Air Line Between Lake Hopatcong and Delaware Water Gap—Will Chop Eleven Miles More From the "Shortest Route"—Between New York and Buffalo—Heaviest Piece of Railroad Construction in the World.

FEATURES IN CUT-OFF LINE WORK

Double track line.
New road 28.45 miles long.
Distance shortened by little over eleven miles.
No grade crossings.
Fifteen curves as against fifty-seven on old line.
Maximum grade fifty five hundredths per cent., as against 1.14 per cent. on old route.
Some 6,000,000 pounds of dynamite, besides many thousand pounds of Judson and black powder, used.
For the three mile long Pequest fill, an extraordinary task 6,625,650 cubic yards of material were required. From surrounding farms 4,500,000 cubic yards of the total were borrowed.
Construction work on section 2 necessitated the blowing off of the entire top of a mountain.
Paulins Kill viaduct, Hainesburg, which is 1,100 feet long and 11 5feet high, is largest railroad "fill" in the world.
Only steel span along new line that over Morris Canal at Port Morris.

Christmas Eve was the date set by the Lackawanna Railroad for sending the first regular passenger trains over the new "Cut-Off" which the road has built between Lake Hopatcong, N. J., and Delaware Water Gap, Penn.

This "Cut-Off" is 28½ miles in length. It means a saving of eleven miles between New York and Buffalo.

The Lackawanna has always been the shortest route between those cities and the opening of this new road will reduce the distance by rail to 400 miles.

This however is but one element of improvement. The "Cut-Off" reduces the maximum grade of 60.2 feet per mile to 29.45 feet. It eliminates a total curvature of 1560 degrees or over four complete circles, and does away with two tunnels at Oxford Furnace and Manunka Chunk. There is on the new line but one very short tunnel which offers practically no impedient to operation.

Work was begun in the summer of 1908, after many preliminary surveys and considerable investigation of other possible routes.

It was finally decided that in proportion to the cost of construction, the maximum of efficiency in operation would be obtained by running a line directly from a point on the Delaware River (Slateford, Pa.) two miles below the Water Gap to the crest of the water shed at Lake Hopatacong. The Water Gap on the west and Lake Hopatcong on the east are the natural strategic points of the situation, the former furnishing the only possage for miles through the Blue Ridge Mountains and the latter making the post practicable connection with the present line on the east.

In order to obtain the adopted alignment and easier grades, it was necessary that the new line should depart from customary practice and should lie high up on the hills rather than on the floor of the valley and for the greater distance strike cross-country which is very rough, and, in fact, semi-mountainous. This location required exceptionally heavy cuts and fills the former totaling over 14,000,000 cubic yards, the latter nearly 15,000,000. Where it was found impossible to obtain enough material from the cuts at either end of these fills, great as they are, to build these monster embankments, the Company was obliged to purchase out right some 760 acres of farm land for "borrow pits." The earth and gravel have been scooped out to a depth of twenty feet and hauled up on the embankments, leaving in some places good sized lakes where there was formerly level ground. The deepest cut is 130 feet deep the largest is 100 deep and one mile long, mostly through the solid rock.

The largest of these fills is the one across the Pequest Valley, extending from one mile east of Andover to one mile west of Honeyville 110 feet in height and over three mile long. It is by far the largest fill in the world.

All the 73 bridges and culverts on the "Cut-Off" are of Concrete. A new record has been established in the extent to which this material has been used. Heretofore there have been few large concrete bridges used in railroad construction.

There are two great concrete viaducts at the west end of the "Cut-Off"—one, a magnificent structure across the Delaware near Slateford, Pa. This is the largest concrete bridge in the world. It is 1,450 feet in length with five arches of 150 feet span. The fact that the abutments of this bridge were excavated 61 feet below the surface of the ground to solid rock carries with it galley two on Lackawanna cut-off a reassuring sense of its safety and stability. The other large concrete bridge over Paulin's Kill is even higher and has a total length of 1,100 feet. Concrete has also served as the material out of which the stations and signal towers as well as the overhead highway crossings are constructed. There are no crossings of any character at grade.

In the construction of this "Cut-Off" the most modern methods and machinery were used. A suspended aerial cableway was employed in making the fills. By the aid of cables and towers movable bridges capable of supporting dump cars were constructed and when the work was in progress presented the astonishing spectacle of a locomotive and train of cars suspended from a cable at an elevation of 100 feet or more.

At one time ten steam shovels were at work on one fill alone—resembling work on the Panama Canal.

Five million pounds of dynamite were consumed in rending apart these hills.

During the process of construction several foreign governments sent over their representatives on tours of inspection, for, from its inception, it stood as the most notable example of modern railway construction.

That part of the Lackawanna Railroad lying east of Scranton follows a generally southeasterly course to Hoboken without any very great deviation from a direct line, except between the Delaware Water Gap and Lake Hopatcong, where a wide southerly detour is made through Washington, N. J. There was a reason for this detour. Back in the fifties when the Lacakwanna Railroad was built, primarily for the purpose of transporting coal to tide-water, the road itself extended only from Scranton to Washington and Hampton Junction, N. J., at which points respectively the traffic was transferred to the old Morris Canal, then at the height of its activity, and to the Jersey Central Railrod which carried it to the seaboard. The Lackawanna in the sixties acquired the Morris & Essex Railroad which extended from Phillipsburg, N. J., to Hoboken, crossing the Lackawanna Railroad at Washington.

The existing road had been built along the lines of least resistance and any more direct route between the Delaware Water Gap and Lake Hopatcong was, until recently, impracticable because of the expense involved and the engineering difficulties presented by the mountainous character of the intervening country. The management of the Lackawanna Railroad was, thus, for a number of years, obliged to content itself with endeavoring to straighten the line from the Delaware Water Gap to Lake Hopatcong by grade adjustments and reduction of curvature. More or less of this work was done and the road shows evidences of it today.

Finally the management decided to go into the further improvement of this part of the line on a comprehensive scale. With this end in view the Engineers made a number of surveys looking toward the elimination of all the "difficult" stretches between the Water Gap and Hopatcong, following the general line of the existing road.

When the estimates were submitted, it was found that any really thorough work along these lines would be very costly, involving the expenditure of several millions of dollars, merely to reduce grades and relieve curvature without a material shortening of the line.

In the light of these facts, the question presented itself as to whether it might not be practicable by spending somewhat more money to build a very much better line ignoring the greater part of the old route and striking out across the country.

A number of preliminary surveys were made with a view to locating a new line, among which was seriously considered a plan to leave the old line at the town of Delaware reaching it again at Waterloo. Considerable engineering work was done, but it was finally decided that this route would not answer the purpose for the principal reason that it left a severe climb from Waterloo to Hopatcong.

Other points of contact with the old line were considered, and surveys made, until finally it was decided that, in proportion to the cost of operation would be obtained by running a line in accordance with the route now built.

"OUR NEW MINISTER"

"Skeezicks," the Bowery boy, in the author's comedy of life in Hardscrabble, N. H., "Our New Minister" shortly to be seen here with the original company and the New York production o fscenery.

"Skeezicks," the breezy New York urchin that drops into Hardscrabble looking for work. The boy is about eighteen. Only by suggestion now and then does he suggest the gamin raised in New York's Bowery, this in his manner of expressing some of his words. Otherwise, he is cheery, self-reliant, witty youngster with self-confidence enough to tackle any job. He is absolutely without fear, and has no respect whatever for the treasured traditions of Hardscrabble. There is no class distinction in his lexicon. Age is not entitled to any more deference than immaturity with him. He has a youth's gift of judging things fairly accurately by intuition. To him, a wink is as good as a shout to a deaf and blind horse. His smartness is most pronounced in repartee. Without effort, he is able to strike at the very heart of a situation and in a single word bring confusion to even a scholarly foe. His lingo is profuse in slang, clean slang that gets there. He himself appears to be utterly unconscious of the fun he is ever making at the expense of this, that or the other citizen of Hardscrabble. The detective, Startle, comes in for most of Skeezicks' contempt and suffers most in an amusing way at his hands. The boy is dressed carelessly, but cleanly. The cheer of the character is further emphasized by a larkish whistle that keeps him company on his errands when he is not bandying smart sayings with the village folk. "Our New Minister" will be seen at Foster Theatre on Friday evening, December 29.

ELECTRIC SERVICE TO BE EXTENDED

Resients of Bowens Corners, Gilberts Mills, Ingalls Crossing and Granby Center are anxious that the Fulton Light, Heat & Power company extends its lines to these points, guaranteeing them splendid patronage if they will, The local company's lines are extended to Volney Center now and as it is a paying proposition it is believed that the local company will not be averse to entertaining and investigating the proposition. The service given by the local company is so excellent that their local business has increased phenomenally during the past year, and now the outlying towns are desirous of having the benefit of the subtle fluid for power and lighting purposes.

SERIOUSLY INJURED BY A HOG

Early Friday morning B. E. Crandell, who resides near Constantia Center, discovered a valuable hog out of its pen and started to drive it back. The animal attacked Mr. Crandell and but for the fact that in the struggle he was at last thrown near a gate through which he escaped, he would have been killed. Although bruised and sore from the struggle, the most serious injury was a deep cut several inches long over the left knee.

The Ingathering

By Wilbur D. Nesbit

"And the feast of ingathering at the year's end."
—Exodus xxxiv, 22.

So the year dies, and so
Into the afterglow
All the year's days go.

We count them, one by one,
Days filled with shade or sun,
Days of great tasks begun,
Days of achievement;
Days when we, weak and frail,
Felt all our courage fail,
When we, benumbed and pale,
Met our bereavement.

And far and far away
We find the year's first day—
But was it sad or gay,
Can we remember?
Slowly they die, the days,
As does some ruddy blaze—
End in a smoking haze
Or crumbling ember.

Joys—there were joys to spare;
Griefs—there were griefs to bear.
Ah, and the joys all fair
Spent on the morrows!
Joys were the clinking gold
Dropping from out our hold—
We, like to misers old,
Clung to our sorrows.

And this is stranger still,
Sorrows that worked us ill
Nor grow as sorrows will,
To things we cherish;
And out of all the year
We find that sigh and tear
As blessings now appear
And cannot perish.

So do we count the days
Down all of time's long ways
And with dim peace we gaze
On bond and fetter;
And know at last that all
Of the blind blows that fall
And the cups brimmed with gall
But make us better.

So dies the year, and so
Gently we come to know
How fair the afterglow.

If New Year's comes as late again
This year as it did last,
I don't believe I'll get to see
The end, when it goes past,
And when the new one starts to go
Across the calendar,
Last time I watched until I dreamed
I was a New Year's star.

Pa says there isn't anything
That folks can see or hear
When midnight comes and Father Time
Brings in another year.
But maybe he is fooling me.
Why do the people sing
And call it watch-night meeting, and
Why do the church bells ring?

Pa says they got the number of
The year by adding one
Each New Year's to the year before,
And when that year was done,
By adding on another, till
They piled it up to here.
It must have taken awful long
To count just once a year.

They tell me when I go to bed
The last December night,
I'll have to go without a meal
Until the next year's light.
Some people think they're awful smart,
But I know what they mean;
The next year has to be next day—
There's nothing in between.

A New Year's day's a happy time
For almost every one
It seems a sort of start of things
With nothing quite begun,
And everybody's feeling young
And spry, just like a boy,
I hope your happy New Year will
Be spilling full of joy.

TOMMY.

MARRIED

The marriage of Miss Mary Adelaid Cure of Stamford,N.Y., and Mr.Jesse Clinton Klein of Kingston, N. Y., was solemnized on Dec 25, at the home of the bride. The marriage was a strictly family affair owing to the recent death of the groom's father in this city. Mrs Klein is a popular young society woman in Stamford and Mr.Klein,who is a brother of Mr. W. H. Klein of this city,holds a responsible position with a large business house in Kingston.

LOEB TO TAKE CHARGE OF NEW YORK

William Loeb, collector of customs in the port of New York, will be in charge of the Taft campaign for the New York State delegation to the Republican National convention, and Senator Elihu Root will have charge of financing the campaign and allaying antagonism that has arisen in business circles because of the prosecutions of the trusts.

Loeb, it is said, will have no political title, but he will be in absolute charge of the campaign in New York.

It was indicated from the conferences that the President would assist Vice President Sherman to secure the Republican nomination for governor of New York. It is said the President learned from Barnes and Bannard, that there was no doubt Roosevelt had eliminated himself as a possible candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination.

Spiked.

Satan's expressive countenance wore a look of stony determination.

"We'll spike that bromide at least!" he exclaimed with evident feeling, saying which he caused to be hung over the entrance of his dominions and beside the words, "All hope abandon ye who enter here," another sign saying: "It's the heat. There's no humidity here."—Puck.

Vicious Circle.

"We're kind of irritated in our flat," said the worried looking man.

"What's the trouble?"

"Our children keep the next door neighbors awake, so they pass the time by playing the piano; that makes the pet dog next door to them bark, and that keeps the children next door awake, and there's so much noise through the building that there's no chance whatever of our children going to sleep."—Washington Star.
